Inaugural Address Delivered By Mayor D. R. Hall

Council Chamber,
Napanee, Jan. 4, 1943

To the Members of the 1943 Council:

This is the inaugural meeting of the Council for the year and to you all I extend my cordial greetings.

We have all been elected to our respective positions by acclamation, indicating, at least in part that the ratepayers have approved of the Council's conduct of the Corporation's business for the calendar year 1942. I, therefore, make special mention of your past services and earnest effort on behalf of your municipality. This effort comes daily in my regular attendance at the Council meetings and at the sessions of the several standing committees, and also in taking an active intelligent interest in all matters which pertain to the betterment of the municipality and to all our citizens. We should all strive to make our town a desirable and wholesome place in which to work and live.

The great war in which Canada is now engaged, as one of the important units of the great British Commonwealth of Nations, in close co-operation with all the United Nations is apparently reaching a crisis, but I believe it will require much further time before the aggressor nations shall have been so thoroughly beaten that we can say that the Victory has been won. Even then, will follow a long reconstruction period in which the efforts of everyone will be locally and unselfishly required to bring about that stability which will make a better world—socially and with justice to all, in which to live and in this we must all, in our humble way, actively play our part.

Reverting to the work of our own Council, I am quite sure that our financial position has progressively improved and our debenture debt has fallen to the lowest figure in many years and our tax rate is in the down grade, and I hope we will be able to materially reduce our mill rate this year.

Last year we made a good start in cleaning up our sewer difficulties that had been neglected in former years and in order that this work may be intelligently continued I recommend that a special standing committee be appointed to take care of that particular work and I recommend for that purpose that a by-law be introduced making some changes in our committees.

In respect to the Standing Committees I have found, in consultation with some of last year's chairmen, that there is a desire that the committee chairmen be changed. It appears to me that it is unwise to leave the personnel of any of the committees for a long period no matter how effectively they have performed their tasks. We all become stale if too long engaged on the same work and in addition, it is wise to have men with new outlook and varied experience to put new life into a committee's activities. I trust with this in mind you will be given your committees in a fair co-operative manner.

There does not appear to be any large undertakings for us on the horizon at present but new standing committees appear often when we least anticipate them. If they come I trust we will be able to deal with them in a proper business-like way.

My relations with you for the several years I have presided over your deliberations, has been exceedingly pleasant and you have given me the greatest support and co-operation and I trust that this year we will all continue to work together consistently, intelligently and in harmony.

Yours sincerely,
Duane Robert Hall, M.D.,
Mayor.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

The municipal elections in Toronto constitute a significant commentary on modern political trends. Two Communists and two C. C. F. candidates were elected as aldermen. The two Communists, J. B. Salsberg and Stewart Smith, have served the City before. But when the Communists were under Government ban they were out of public life. But now they are back, elected as Communists.

The two C. C. F. candidates are William Dennison who also served the City as alderman, previously, and a newcomer to civic life, Rev. John Frank, popular rector of Holy Trinity (Anglican) Church. Mr. Frank has always been interested in the welfare of society, and during the depression worked day and night for the unemployed. He now assumes civic responsibility on a C. C. F. ticket. It would have made little difference on what ticket Mr. Frank ran, he would probably have been elected, the people trust his honesty and his fearlessness when dealing with social conditions.

The significant fact about this election, however, is that it marks a definite trend, a swing to the left, as we might say. There is consternation in certain quarters, when these leftist groups entered the civic contest as groups. But the result shows that even in Toronto, the home of Conservatism, the centre of wealth and vested interests in the Province, there is a body of public opinion which is definitely dissatisfied with the present situation. The few men who have been elected to the Toronto Council may not be able to do much to alter things. They will be quite outnumbered, but it is evidence of the shape of things to come.

V

THE PRESIDENT'S OUTLOOK

President Roosevelt, in his New Year's message given at a Press Conference on January 1st, went out of his way to elaborate his view of the principles which must govern the world that is to be. Contrary to his usual practice at these Press conferences, the President permitted his extemporaneous comments on his prepared statements, to be directly quoted. The task which the President said faces the world on New Year's Day, is three-fold. (1) "To press on with the massed forces of free humanity till the present bandit assault upon civilization is completely crushed; (2), so to organize relations among nations that forces of barbarism can never again break loose; (3), to co-operate to the end that mankind may enjoy in peace and in freedom the unprecedented blessings which Divine Providence through the progress of science has put within our reach."

These are brief and easily remembered, and they lie at the very heart of a just and durable peace. There can be no question now but that The United Nations must make every effort and every sacrifice necessary to defeat, in a military way, the aggressors. It might seem almost unnecessary for the President to say that, and yet we can very easily imagine a situation arising whereby peace overtures would be made by the Axis groups, the United Nations, tired of all the cost in treasure and life, might be tempted to listen to them. We can count on it that as soon as the tide surges for or against the Nazis, there will be an effort made by them to secure a compromise peace. One of Hitler's greatest arguements, as he stirred the German people to war was, that the German army was not beaten in the First Great War. They were let down by the folk at home. Only a military victory will allow to the Germans beyond all peraventure, that war does not pay. And it will be the last ounce of military might and the last bit of productive effort of the United Nations which will ultimately be the determining factor in bringing this about. War-weary, impoverished and bleeding as we may be, there must be no let up until the victory is complete.

When the President said we must so organize society that the forces of barbarism can never again break loose, he forecasts some instrument of force in virtue of which bandit nations may be restrained. We must, of necessity, recognize that the world cannot remain static. Life is fluid. Hard and fast geographic boundaries cannot be maintained in perpetuity. Adjustments must be made, situations must be open to review. But no longer must any one of the axis or any foreign state in the world be allowed to think that they are a law unto themselves, and if they do not see what they want, they will take matters into their own hands. True the League of Nation's sought to meet just such a situation, but it failed, a new international organization must not be allowed to fail, and it will be a success if each nation is ready and willing to admit a limitation on its own sovereign powers, for the common good.

Organization for peace, that all may enjoy the benefits of Providence is an economic problem of the utmost importance. There is plenty of money, plenty of goods, plenty of food in the world for everybody to have a fair share of it. One of the greatest causes of war, and an underlying cause of this one, is the unequal distribution of this world's goods. Some nations have grown rich at the expense of others. Some have more food than they can consume, while others starve. Some have produced raw materials under almost slave conditions that others might reap rich profits. Some sort of economic equality must be established in the world that is to be, and President Roosevelt was right in saying that it. Unless we are mistaken, greatly, it will be around this third point in the President's address that the greatest battle will take place. Entrenched positions of economic preference will not be relinquished without a struggle, even after the battle of bullets is over.

But unless it is settled, and settled right, we have no guarantee against other and more devastating wars.

THANKS !

Probably the many citizens of Napanee and the surrounding country, who made contributions to the Beaver's Santa Claus Fund this year, do not expect to be specially thanked for their generosity, but we feel that, as promoters of the fund, we should express our thanks for their generosity.

The Beaver Santa Claus Fund was instituted quite a number of years ago by the late William Templeton and has been operated each year since that time. Some years there have been larger demands on the Fund and we believe that every year an honest attempt has been made to meet all the calls. Fortunately for everyone, this year, the need was less than in many years. But still there were a number of families who would have had a dreary Christmas without the gifts received from The Beaver Santa Claus Fund.

The returns from the Tag-Day totalled $69.69 and contributions of cash, reported in The Beaver, were $58.00. Besides the cash a large number of useful articles of clothing and toys were also received.

On behalf of the recipients and The Beaver Santa Claus Fund, we extend our sincere thanks. We also wish to thank Miss Josephine Leung for her continued kindness and for all the work she does throughout the year, and all others who assisted in the packing and distribution of the gifts.

GETTING ACTION

It was announced, on Monday, that the Liquor Commissioners from eight Provinces would meet on Thursday, in Toronto, to discuss shortening the hours of the sale of liquor. Premier King was to be made his statement on the liquor issue, put it up to the Provinces to shorten the hours. The present move is in line with the Prime Minister's suggestion.

It is hoped that some real change will be made that will help end the present disgraceful situation. The revelations which have been made by The Ottawa Citizen have given publicity to a condition which most people knew existed, but which was not known before the public as it ought to have been.

There is no greater deterrent to an effort to win the war than the liquor traffic. There is no greater menace to the morals, and the spirit of our people, than the same traffic. The Premier of the Dominion has made certain promises of financial assistance to the Provinces act in unison and with an eye only to public health, safety and efficiency, then will be given the gratitude of all patriotic citizens.

WHY ?

Why has Canada no one to speak with power to the future organization of Society with the necessary authority? Australia has a spokesman. So has England. Sir Stafford Cripps and Anthony Eden, Lord Beveridge and others, have some guidance as to pattern life must take after the war in the Old Land. In the United States the President has something to say. More explicitly, however, Vice-President Wallace speaks with official sanction, and outlines the pattern of the Government's plans for the world of tomorrow. Mr. Wallace follows the same general lines of the President. Mr. Wallace indicates how the plans for the rebuilding of the world are to be carried out. There must be some machinery, he says, and in brief he mentions the machinery. There must be an International Court. He suggests some sort of regional arrangement for conducting international affairs.

This is all very definite, very frank, and very statesmanlike.

While both Great Britain and the United States have their official spokesmen on these all important matters, we in Canada are quite content to go on making investigations and collecting data. To be sure we have our committees on reconstruction. Principal James, of McGill University, is the chairman of one such committee, appointed by the Government. But there is need, besides that, of some of Canada's elder statesmen to make pronouncements as clear to those made by the leaders of the other United Nations.

Canada has done a magnificent job in every branch of war service. Too little has been said about that. Political considerations have tended somewhat to belittle our nation's war effort. When this is all over, the part that Canada has played will be emphasized as its true worth. Canada has earned the right to some authoritative voice in the post-war world. Quite probably when the time comes, that voice will be heard. But Canada should be told now, what sort of a world her young men and women are dying to bring into being. The new world is not going to be brought into existence the day after the war ends. Its character is being determined now. The decisions we are making today are the ones which are determining what the new world will be like.

Someone in authority should be telling Canadian people whither bound.

In Loving Memory

MADSHAW—In memory of Maxley Bradshaw, who departed this life January 6th, 1941.

"I have lost my soul companion—
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
Oh, God what a world of sorrow
Must we, dear lonely ones bear;
A lonely home, a silent voice
And one left his vacant chair."

"He used to watch and wait for us,
Answers if we were late;
In winter by the window,
In summer by the gate;
And so I know that where he is
He's watching yet—
Watching from Heaven's window,
Leaving the heaven's gate.

Nylon Brushes Are Shipped With Guns

Nylon bristles, the same as you use to brush your teeth and smooth your hair, are now cleaning the guns being fired on land and sea.

Types and calibre of guns, from those mounted on a submarine chaser or corvette to the 25-pounders in North Africa or the monster guns on the newest battleships, are cleaned possible and when guns are shipped to fronts many thousands of miles away the replacement of gun cleaning brushes becomes a big problem. The importance of the long lasting properties of nylon monofilament bristles over those of hitherto imported natural bristles was soon realized by government and military specialists and brush makers alike.

In addition to their use on active service, brushes bristled with nylon are being used in larger numbers and for increasing duties in war plants for cleaning shells, fuses, gun barrels and parts and many widening industrial uses.

YEAR DEVELOPED NEW DUTIES FOR MANY WOMEN

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Canada's women enter 1943 with the prospect that their part in the nation's war effort will be materially increased.

The year 1942 has made history for women. It brought tears and anxiety because of the war on land and sea and in the air. But it brought achievements women would not have dreamed of a decade ago. Thousands who were never gainfully employed before thronged to factories, shipyards and business life. Thousands more went on active service in uniform. "The women of Canada in 1942 learned a new design for living."

"The women of Canada are wonderful," said Mrs. Rex Eaton, director of the women's division of National Selective Service. "They put on trousers and overalls, get their backs and hands dirty, and tackled jobs that make their hearts ache and their muscles sore. They've given up soft peacetime living. When necessary, they've given up homes. Orange, lonely new places."

On August 1st there were 155,000 Canadian women in industry. As the year ended there were many thousands more. When Selective Service appealed for women workers the response was more than enough to fill the needs in all parts of Canada. Mrs. Eaton said. Women in 1942 had changed their attitude of mind.

"Now they want to do jobs that at one time they would have shuddered in horror," Mrs. Eaton said.

IN HEAVY JOBS

Women have gone into shipyards. They work as welders, riveters, drillers and crane operators and help in launching ways to build craft from merchant ships to corvettes and destroyers. Women have gone to the woods as "lumberjills" in Ontario and Saskatchewan. In Brandon, Man., 1,000 women work in similar mills. wood-working plants and plywood factories.

From Nova Scotia to Alberta women are working in mines—anthracite coal as it comes from the bankhead, sorting nickel ore, keeping machinery oiled and in running condition. Others load and unload trucks and "plants have been established on the new generation of farms" created by wide irrigation projects. Women's willingness to do these jobs releases manpower for active service. More women have done more than that. Nearly 20,000 women have volunteered for active service in uniform.

IN THE SERVICES

In 1941 only a handful of women wore the blue of the R. C. A. F. Today there are nearly 6,000 officers and airwomen under the direction of Squadron Officer Kathleen G. Walker.

A year ago women in the Air Force did strictly women's work as cooks, clerks and waitresses. In 1942 they took over more than forty trades, cleaning and maintaining aircraft, plotting flights, making flying instruments, workers as meteorological observers, code and wireless signal operators. Thousands of men have been released by these airwomen for active flying duty.

The Canadian Women's Army Corps has a similar story to tell. Officers of the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division) when 1941 ended there were 750 women in the ranks. Today there are 8,030.

A new uniform appeared in Canada last year. In khaki-summer, in navy for trim navy uniforms of the Wrens—Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service — were seen on the streets of Ottawa, and in some seaports. Already 300 Wrens have been trained and are on active service as wardroom attendants, mess caterers, writers, stewards, clerks, stenographers, postal workers, secretaries, coders, plotters, wireless telegraphists, sick berth attendants and messengers.

Selling Butter Only With Order For Groceries Not Approved

The practice of selling butter only with an order for other groceries, adopted by some merchants in order to give protection to regular customers, etc., cannot be approved now that butter is a rationed commodity — Wartime Prices and Trade Board states.

Some weeks ago, when enquiries were received as to the propriety of such conditional sales, the Board advised its offices that in general, retailers are not permitted to make the sale of one article contingent upon the purchase of other designated items, for example, a pound of butter and a half a dozen cakes of soap. However, the general policy of the Board is to encourage stores to serve their own customers, and the practice of setting minimum orders is in many cases the only practical way of determining who is a regular customer. Accordingly, it was ruled, there was no objection to a retailer making a sale of merchandise only in short supply subject to an order for other merchandise purchased in the store.

This ruling, it is pointed out, cannot apply in the case of any goods rationed by coupon, namely, sugar, tea and coffee, and now butter.

WHAT FOODS MEAN TO YOU

Hello Homemakers! Is "nutrition" just a vague idea in your mind? Does it mean to be "in the know" — to learn the meaning of terms being used nowadays and other things you want to know about nutrition. For every-one should understand why nourishment must be taken in the proper proportions to give us energy to build and repair body tissues to protect us from infection and to regulate all body processes. Just what you eat for breakfast, lunch and dinner is changed into flesh and bones and blood. Strength and health can only come to us from the food we eat — for food is the body's only nourishment. Yes, Homemakers! This health magic comes straight from the kitchen. So it's important to choose the right kinds and right amounts of food for the family. We have all found out this when our health is not good, our work suffers, we make more mistakes and cannot accomplish as much in a day. Which would certainly please Hitler only too well.

First of all, then Homemakers, let us understand nutrition and then work out our own nutrition program. You might cut this column out and keep it handy for reference.

Nutrition: The term "nutrition" comprises all the processes concerned in the growth, maintenance, and repair of living organisms.

Dietetics: Is the application of the principles of nutrition to the feeding of different ages, under different conditions of health.

Composition of Foods: Is the six groups of constituents called nutrients — carbohydrates, fats, proteins, minerals, water and vitamins.

Classification of Nutrients: According to their function in the body (mechanical energy, building, also regulating and protecting body processes) and (2) according to their chemical composition.

Essentials of an Adequate Diet: To maintain the "normal body in a state of health a diet must contain: (1) sufficient energivalue of foods and also con to yield energy for muscular activity.

2 Sufficient protein for growth and maintenance of all body cells.

3 Sufficient minerals and vitamins for regulation of body processes.

4 An adequate supply of water for regulation of body processes.

5 Sufficient bulk in the form of vegetables and fruits for regulation of bowel action.

Protein Foods (Body Building and Repair): Lean meat, eggs, milk, cheese, whole grain, cereals, vegetables — peas and beans (fresh and dried).

Carbohydrate Foods (Supply Heat and Energy): Starches — Cereals, flour, spaghetti, potatoes, bread, dried peas and beans; Sugars — Sugar, molasses, honey, dried fruits.

Fats (Supply Heat and Energy): Meat fat, butter, cream, vegetable oils.

Foods Containing Minerals (Regulating): Milk, fresh vegetables, whole cereals, eggs, meats, fish.

Foods Containing Vitamins (Protective): Fresh vegetables, fresh fruits, outer coverings of grain; milk, eggs, liver, butter, fish.

Water: We should take five to eight glasses of water daily in addition to that contained in foods.

Improvement Follows Adoption of Butter Rationing

Ottawa — Distribution of butter in Canada is rationing up with the supply. Wartime Price Board officials said, last week.

The effect in full week of rationing the butter in most centres of shortage was described as definitely improved.

No changes are indicated either in the basis presently rationed or in additions to the list. The simple situations suggests no variation in the near future.

It is pointed out that there is considerable similarity between rationings here and in the United States. Often one country has not yet emulated here. This comment is made apropos of the unpredictability of rationing canned foods in Canada.

FOWL IS PLENTIFUL, LENDS ITSELF TO PREPARATION OF DELICIOUS DISHES

"A car in every garage and a chicken in every pot" was held up to rob so long ago as the ideal of Canadian Prosperity. The car in every garage is impossible ideal while the every pot is but the chicken for every pot is not only a possibility but has now become a patriotic ideal as supplies of this popular and versatile food are abundant. Fowl is partially plentiful and lends itself to the preparation of a great variety of delicious dishes. Toothsome pies, stews and fricasses; flavorful soups; salads, sandwiches made up from delicacies in almost endless variety can be prepared from birds whose days of usefulness as egg-layers are over. Frequent use of fowl is popular with the family and helps to stretch further supplies of other meals which are in less plentiful supply.

The Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggests the following tested recipes. Other recipes and useful tips on buying, preparation and carving of poultry are contained in the recent "Poultry Guide" and mimeographed recipes issued by this department. These may be obtained, free of charge by writing to Publicity and Extension Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

General

Directions for Cooking Fowl

Fowl require long, slow cooking in moist heat in order to make them completely tender. Simmering, braising, stewing or fricasseeing are best. Fowl is sometimes roasted by a combination of steaming and baking. In this case the stuffed bird is placed in a covered roasting pan with a small amount of liquid and slowly cooked till tender. The cover is removed during the last half hour in order to brown the bird.

Braised Chicken

One fowl, 5 to 6 pounds
Flour
Paprika
Salt and pepper
Fat
One and half cups of water

Cut up fowl in pieces for serving. Roll each piece in seasoned flour. Brown over a well heated fire. Do not crowd. Then put a casserole and arrange with paprika, salt and pepper. Add one cup cold water and cover tightly. Cook in oven of 300 deg. about 2½ hours. Add half to two hours. Remove to a hot platter and make gravy in the fat in the pan, adding liquids. Thicken liquid in the pan with a little flour — stir a little cold water in flour — then add to liquid. Season to taste. Serve gravy with chicken.

Note.

A dry-fried bolt-cup tomato puree may be used in making gravy.

One and one-half to two cups of milk may be used instead of the water used in cooking the chicken. There should be enough gravy to cover the chicken and long slow cooking is essential.

The chicken may be cooked on top of the stove over a low heat in a tightly covered pan. Allow the same time as for oven cooking.

Chicken With Dumplings

One fowl about 5 pounds, cut in pieces
One quart boiling water
One small carrot
Two stalks celery
One small onion
Salt and pepper

Put fowl in a kettle with water and seasonings. Cover and simmer till tender, two to three hours. Allow fowl to cool in stock, then remove. Skim off excess fat and strain stock. Measure and if there is less than one quart, add water to make up this amount. Mix half cup flour with one-half cup milk, blending till smooth. Gradually add two-thirds of a cup of milk and add slowly to stock over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Add fowl, cover and bring to a boil. Drop dumpling mixture by spoonful, cover kettle tightly and cook 10 to 15 minutes without removing lid.

Broiled Backs and Wings

Backs and wings of two chickens
One-quarter cup fat
One teaspoon mustard
Half-teaspoon paprika
Half-teaspoon salt
One teaspoon vinegar
Two tablespoons water
One cup soft, buttered bread crumbs

Pre grains cayenne pepper

Place pieces of fowl or chickens in baking dish. Mix fat with seasonings and spread over chicken. Cover with crumbs and bake, covered, in a moderate oven, 350 deg. for one hour. Uncover and proceed in this way but they should be simmered in water, till partially tender before baking. Serves three or four.

During a night raid in London a Midlands coalowner saw a fire in a dairy. Bomb fell on a coal dump in a back street down which he was passing.

He went to help the householders deal with it. The bomb was easily extinguished and the coal did not catch fire. Being interested in coal, he asked who was the supplier. To his mortification, he discovered that the coal which would not ignite in contact with an incendiary must have come from his own pile!

NORSE REVEAL NAZI TERROR

BRUTALITY SHOWN IN SHOOTING HOSTAGES

London, (C.P.) — New details of the cold-blooded manner in which the German occupants of Norway plan and carry out intimidation of local populations have been revealed by the Norwegian Government in London.

Norwegian officials, dealing with a state of emergency declared on Trondheim from October 6 to 12, termed it a German "recipe for terror."

Thirty - four Norwegian patriots were shot and a hundred imprisoned. The whole action was carefully and cold-bloodedly planned in all its details with the object of achieving the greatest possible intimidation of the populations," said a Government statement. "The district in which Lidice was chosen because the province had great military importance and also because it was in convenient cause to get rid of some country lads from the parish of Crane who were interested on a charge of hiding arms and ammunition."

Information reaching Norwegian sources was that the German had decided in advance that ten hostages were to be shot in Trondheim. One was in another part of the country and the Gestapo did not send for him until the day after the executions. But there had to be ten hostages, so another Norwegian, Captain Borg, was arrested and shot in his place.

Trondheim first realized something was brewing when 60 more newspapers were to be distributed. Next day between 20 and 30 leading citizens were arrested. Among them was a professor of medicine, who was ordered after the executions had taken place to attend the autopsies of the victims, which was rendered after each execution. Many of those arrested were husbands, fathers, sons, through the local mortality newspaper.

By the summer still the condemned men also heard of their own death sentences, but they were not actually told until the following morning. Then a priest was sent to them. Two hours before the execution they were allowed to write their last letters. They could not see their relatives. Only a few days ago, when Russian prisoners were executed in Germany, it was reported that they were given a last meal of pork and cabbage.

Then trucks arrived and came from the prison at Crane, were called out in their order in the morning and each man was told his name. Then he was told that he was to be executed. Those who refused to do this were beaten up. Then they were taken to the execution stations until 7.30 in the evening. Then they were allowed to go home to their families. Those who refused to do this were beaten up. Those who refused to do this were beaten up. Those who refused to do this were beaten up

Canada's Fighting Farmers

Canadian farmers today are fighting for victory as truly as are the makers of tanks, ships and planes, in support of the men of our army, navy and air force. For the farm is the food reservoir of our battling legions as well as of ours.

To help the farmer increase food production and do his maximum part in this total war, the Bank of Montreal co-operates with him in many ways, particularly by lending him money needed for seed, labour and marketing. The Bank has been supplying credit to farmers since 1817.

If you need money to improve your production of food, either for export to feed the front lines, or for domestic use, you are invited to discuss your requirements with our nearest branch manager. He will understand your problems and will treat your business as strictly confidential.

Theatre managers who had Santa Claus in their lobby to accept mail from the youngsters reported many humorous requests. One small scoffer wanted to know how the theatre Santa could be anything but a fake, considering that Superman hadn't yet rescued him from Hitler! Another asked for this for daddy, that for himself, and "for mommy a pound of butter." That's a bid who'd alive to the needs of the moment. . . Dinah Shore, the radio singer who is about to become a movie star, has one song she will never sing again. When Dinah was in college she fell in love and the song that she and her sweetheart picked out as theirs was "Stars Fell on Alabama," popular at the time. It was just a college romance and so it faded as time went by. More than a year ago her college sweetheart, in the army, wrote that he would soon have leave and visit her. She scheduled the song on a broadcast for him. Two days after word came that the boy to whom she sang had been killed at Pearl Harbour.

Hollywood's famed parade down Santa Claus Lane at holly time, an annual event for the last 12 years, was cancelled this year because of dimout restrictions. Santa Claus Lane, which is Hollywood boulevard during the ordinary part of the year, is something to see. Santa rode up and down the gorgeous(y-lit avenue in the van of floats and stars. Cassandra Mary Pickford was the first star to share Santa's sleigh and Tom Mix led the parade until he died, after which Leo Carrillo became grand marshal. Always on a pure white horse, this swashbuckler was a cowboy riding up front who waved his hat and shouted greetings to the crowd, which looked at him blankly while it cheered the other stars. The cowboy was Gene Autry, whose pictures play small towns, and many of the onlookers had never seen him on the screen.

POST-WAR PROBLEMS CALL FOR SACRIFICE, COURAGE AND SKILL

BY THE RT. HON. ANTHONY EDEN

The following address was delivered by the Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, Britain's Minister for Foreign Affairs at Albert Hall, Nottingham, on July 23rd:

It is nearly three years since Germany attacked Poland, and the British nations and France declared war against Germany in fulfillment of their pledge. It is just over two years since Dunkirk and the collapse of France, when the British Empire stood alone, almost unarmed, against the power of the greatest military machine of the modern world. Now we are again facing one of the gravest hours of the war, perhaps one of the gravest of our history.

TWO YEARS AGO OR TODAY

Two years ago we stood and faced 80,000,000 Germans and 40,000,000 Italians — together; three the population of the United Kingdom. The Nazis were convinced then they had won the war. The world seemed at their feet. It was not only our enemies who believed that for in the game was up. A great part of the civilized world who were our friends believed it, too.

We did not believe it. We did not believe it for a moment. In this small island, in our sister nations of the Commonwealth, in our territories overseas, we all knew we would come through. We did not see how or clearly. We knew not whether the road would lead us or how it would wind. We only knew that somehow, sometime, we would escape our present dangers and free ourselves and others. Today, when the whole fabric of our national life is still threatened, when only efforts on the part of each one can save us, it is well to draw inspiration from the past, to confront the formidable dangers we have to overcome.

FAITH IN OUR DESTINY

Two years ago we in the British Commonwealth had faith in our destiny. We stood; and freedom still lives. We have faith in our destiny today, and freedom will live.

What brought us through the dangers of Dunkirk? It was not great armaments: it was not a vast Maginot Line of defence; it was not that we played for safety — the thing alone, under Providence, brought us through — the spirit of the British people, a spirit which does not know when it is defeated — a spirit of great challenge, a spirit that comes to the front when we are hard pressed.

When the history of the war comes to be written we need not be afraid that we should appear as little people sheltering upon our island. Believe me, when the history of our time comes to be written, it will be clear that not only have we taken blows, but given them. It will be clear that we dared greatly and, because we dared, we have brought great help and salvation to ourselves and mankind.

Those your minds back momentarily two years, to those grim, heroic months following Dunkirk, when we were almost without arms, when only those days well. I remember one summer evening making a broadcast after broadcast to the United States, so we were starting — the Local Defence Volunteers, as they were then called. A million men rushed to join, and the Home Guard, as we know it to-day, was the result. Men and women worked day and night in factories, building new plants, forging defence works, preparing themselves against invasion which seemed then inevitable.

WHEN GRAVE RISKS WERE TAKEN

Even in those days, when we were as the height of our danger and the depth of our defencelessness, we were thinking of other things besides defence. We were not playing for safety; we were not piling up arms and equipment here, to be used here.

At that time we had a small army in Egypt, inadequately equipped. We have made it into a great army. We have come on munitions anywhere from here away from the centre of danger, to reinforce that small army.

Throughout the winter of 1940, and the spring of 1941, that army drove the Italians from Sudan, from Abyssinia, and defeated them in Libya. It annihilated for nearly half a million Italian soldiers.

How often do we recall, I wonder, that General Wavell's army, then being reinforced through the summer and autumn of 1940? That with Britain so nearly defenseless, and the danger so imminent, we were taking grave risks in striking at the enemy? We were justified.

Then we recall the autumn of 1940 and the winter of 1940 here at home. We recall how in the autumn our airmen won the Battle of Britain, how in that long, dark winter the people of Britain stood up to almost unending bombardment of the Luftwaffe. It seems a long time ago now and we are not to forget those things. But history will remember. It will remember that we were not thinking of our safety alone. We were thinking how we could strike at our enemies. While we still were short of anti-aircraft defense here, we were not piling up arms and aeroplanes in a steady stream to the Middle East. The stream was not as deep

RUSSIAN ARMIES CONTINUE ADVANCE TOWARD PORT OF ROSTOV

Great Offensive Imperils Large German Force

WEDNESDAY —

The Russians were reported advancing so swiftly in the Caucasus that it was believed the Germans were withdrawing from Rostov, the Black Sea port at the mouth of the Don. The Germans were also said to be hurriedly preparing a fleet of all available ships in the Black Sea to supply the Caucasus in the event that the Russians take Rostov.

Observers believe that there will be little or no fighting in Tunisia until late February because of the mud. In the meantime both the Allies and the Axis are sending in large forces of men and quantities of supplies.

The Japs appear to be massing a large armada of transports, supply vessels and warships in the Southern Pacific and as a result the Australians are feeling quite apprehensive.

On Monday night, big British bombers raided the Ruhr again

THURSDAY —

The Germans were reported to be getting out of the Caucasus as fast as possible, but their chance of escape was lessened as the Red armies drove south from the Don bend and west from Baku, until they were only 65 miles from Rostov. The Germans were abandoning positions which took them months to gain.

United States naval forces continually bombarded Japanese positions in the South Pacific, thereby preventing the Japs from carrying on preparations for new forays.

In the first real engagement in weeks in Northern Tunisia the British drove the Germans from a hill dominating Allied positions on the road fifteen miles west of Matruh.

Axis communications took a beating by sea and air in the Mediterranean. British subs were said to have sunk four more Axis vessels.

FRIDAY —

The Germans succeeded in recapturing positions on both sides of an important crossroads west of Mateur in Tunisia, twenty miles southwest of Bizerte.

The great city of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus, is brought within range of attack by the Russians when they captured a city 75 miles north of the port.

In several places on the Middle Don the Russians broke through desperate enemy resistance and recaptured several villages.

The United States troops have taken the Government station area at Buna, one of the biggest victories to date in the Southwest Pacific.

Allied planes in their twelfth straight day of heavy attacks on Japbases in the New Guinea area, bombed the airdrome at Lae and Gasmata, on New Britain Island.

SATURDAY —

The Germans made another advance of fifteen miles in 24 hours and were reported sixty miles from Rostov.

Ground action in North Tunisia were still hindered by bad weather. Farther south some successes were scored by French and American troops.

The Allies were said to be hampering a strip of coastal road forty miles east of Tripoli, indicating that Rommel may be preparing to abandon the position without a fight.

A Japanese convoy headed for New Guinea was given a severe beating by the Allied Air Force. Two big troopships were sunk and a third was badly damaged.

Large formations of high-flying Allied fighter planes attacked Calais during the day, following another night raid on the Ruhr district.

SUNDAY —

Remnants of a shattered Japanese troop convoy reached Lae on the north New Guinea coast, but the reinforcements were made at the cost of 133 aircraft, destroyed and three troop-laden transports sunk.

The Germans put up stiffer resistance against the Russians during the week end and the Red Army was able to advance only five miles, during the Soviet spearhead to within sixty miles of Rostov. The situation of the Germans in the Caucasus was reported to be desperate.

Deep mud still held up ground activity in Tunisia. Rommel's army is still being pounded from the air.

Krupp Iron Works, was again raided on Saturday night by 150 big British bombers. It was the fifth raid in seven nights on the Ruhr industrial area.

TUESDAY—

The Russians reported a great triple victory in the Caucasus with the capture of several cities, lying in the path of their advance on Rostov on the Gronzy oil region along the railway to Rostov.

The Fighting French were reported speeding up their drive northward from Lake Chad designed to cut off Rommel before he can reach Tunisia. Observers expressed the opinion that Rommel would not try to make a stand at Tripoli and that his aim was to get into Tunisia.

By the destruction of a bridge near Mandalay in Burma, over the Irrawaddy River, United States bombers cut Japanese communications between northern and southern Burma.

The United States Navy announced the loss of seven warships in the Pacific since October 26.

Within a month the French Fleet at Dakar will be recommissioned and ready for service with the Allies.

United States forces at Guadalcanal Island made further small gains against the Japs.

W. P AND T. B. TO PROSECUTE THIRTY IN EAST. ONTARIO

While the Supreme Court of Canada had before it the reference as to regarding the delegation to wartime administrators and controllers by the Governor-in-Council of some of the legislative authority vested in that body by Parliament under the recent Defence of Canada Act, the regional enforcement administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board held its fire as far as actual prosecutions were concerned.

Now that the Supreme Court has unanimously declared such action valid it is announced that the Board proposes to prosecute without delay more than thirty individuals in Eastern Ontario alone, arising whom charges of breach of different regulations of the Board and of consumers' hoarding under the Wartime Industries Control Board are being preferred. Regional officer Brockville region of the Prices Board, these charges relate to rentals, consumer rationing, the price of beef and other wartime regulations.

Investigation of complaints laid with the Board did not cease in this area with the reference to the Supreme Court and, with the exception of actual prosecutions, its enforcement machinery remained in active operation. As a result a considerable number of cases have been prepared and others will be brought before the courts as rapidly as possible.

ATTENTION MILK DRAWERS

It is emphasized by the regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that its recent order requiring all those who were engaged in the milk trucking business between December 1st to 26th, last to obtain specific permits to continue such operations after January 31, does not apply to horse-drawn vehicles. Only automotive vehicles are affected and farmers hauling their own milk in their own trucks are not subject to the order. However, every person, farmer or not, who makes a business of collecting milk or cream on regular routes and hauling it to points and similar places, does have to file an application for a permit before January 31, and the sooner the better. Application is to be made to the regional office of the board in Brockville.

The opinion is expressed by James Stewart, Administrator of Services of the board, that placing the milk-collecting business under a permit system will greatly simplify a proposed programme for co-ordinating milk-collecting routes and eliminating duplications. It should now be possible, he says to make a substantial saving in the use of trucks and every such saving that can be made will prolong the life of vehicles that have to continue hauling milk and cream.

Rent Raising Case Adjourned Till Monday

The case of Bruce Wagar, Napanee, charged with raising the rent of a house which he leases to Mrs. M. A. Greenaway, which was scheduled for hearing before Magistrate Garvin last Thursday, was adjourned until next Monday. The charge was laid by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and Magistrate Garvin asked to have it clarified before taking the evidence.

RED CROSS SEEKS $10,000,000 IN EARLY SPRING

A national appeal for $10,000,000 in voluntary contributions to the work of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be launched throughout the Dominion on March 1st, and through the succeeding three weeks. This was announced recently in a joint statement by Jackson Dodds, Chairman of the Central Council, and Major P. H. Gordon, Chairman of the National Executive of the Society.

"The Canadian Red Cross urgently needs a minimum of $10,000,000 to carry on its work in the mitigation of human suffering," the statement declared. "When the Society made its appeal to the people last May there was a generous response and we feel confident that the citizens of Canada, who are noted for their open-heartedness will once more rally to the support of our cause.

"The Red Cross is an international organization and under the Conventions of Geneva, is required to obtain its support by voluntary subscriptions to preserve its rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed under International Law", the statement said. "No belligerent government may finance a Red Cross Society, to do so would destroy the International status of the Society and even wipe out its immunities under fire.

"The decision to hold the national appeal in March was made with the fullest co-operation of the Dominion Government and avoid clashing with plans of the National War Finance Committee," the statement declared. "Also during March the American Red Cross will hold its national war appeal, making it a continent-wide Red Cross Month.

"One of the biggest works facing the Society during the current year is supplying food parcels for Canadian British and Allied prisoners of war in Europe and the Far East. The Society now has five packing plants in Canada, which must soon reach a weekly objective of 100,000 parcels. Of this amount the Canadian Red Cross needs 30,000 weekly for prisoners in Europe, the remainder being paid for by the British and Australian Red Cross Societies. Provision also has to be made for food, drugs and other supplies for Canadian prisoners in the Far East. Those two objectives alone will require $3,500,000 during 1943.

"During the past year hundreds of Canadian women in all parts of Canada have worked faithfully and unremittingly to supply the Red Cross with the materials that it needs to take care of the requirements of Canadian soldiers here and overseas, to look after the needs of the sick and the suffering people of Britain, and to prepare for whatever eventuality may befall Canada itself," the statement continued.

"A new phase of the Society's work has been the provision of aid and relief for the stricken peoples of the United Nations." the statement continued. "Food, clothing and drugs have been sent to Russia, China, Greece, Poland and comforts ambulances and other supplies given to the armed forces of the Allies.

"The work of the Society has never been greater," the statement continued, "and an appeal extraordinary to Canadians everywhere to prepare themselves now to answer the call and to fill the need in urgent need."

ASSAULT CASES RESULT IN FINES IN NAPANEE COURT

As the result of a fight in the Campbell House beverage room on Saturday, December 26, charges of assault were laid against Thomas Morris and his son, Henry Morris, Napanee, and Delmar Seale and his son, Harold Seale, of Selby. The cases were heard last Thursday by Magistrate Garvin in the Napanee Police Court and each of the four was ordered to pay a fine and costs totalling $20.85.

Gerald Seale and Henry, and Thomas Morris each pleaded not guilty and Delmar Seale pleaded guilty to the charge. Delmar Seale, who some months ago was convicted of assaulting Leslie Davis, was also bound over to keep the peace and be of good behaviour and to put up a bond for $100.

The fight, which occurred during the evening of December 26, apparently arose over some family troubles which caused an argument between the four men were drinking beer in the beverage room. The proprietor of the hotel, M. B. Luffman, said in his evidence that he tried to step in and quell the fight and was also called the police. Thomas and Henry Morris both showed signs of having been hurt during the fracas. The Seales apparently came out of the affair unscathed.

The hearing of the evidence caused considerable interest and the court room was filled to overflowing. H. A. McNeil, Kingston, appeared for Gerald and Delmar Seale and J. M. Simpson for Thomas and Henry Morris.

Murray Willard and Donald Turkington, two young men of Bath, were each fined $5.00 and costs of $22.75 after pleading guilty of assaulting George and Norman Laraby, of Bath. J. M. Simpson appeared for the two young men.

SPLENDID REPORT OF YEAR'S ACTIVITY AT V.O.N. ANNUAL

New President Succeeding Mrs. W. A. Ashley Not Yet Appointed

As president of the local branch of the V. O. N. in Napanee, it is my privilege to present to you the following report for the year 1942, at our Nineteenth Annual Meeting.

I hope I may be forgiven if I trespass upon material given in other reports, but I feel it is important to emphasize certain facts.

The Victorian Order of Nurses as a voluntary national health organization has been carried on in Napanee for the past nineteen years with a definite purpose— a home nursing service to be available to everyone in the community, the only condition required being that the patient must be under medical supervision. A moderate fee, based on the average cost of the visit, which is computed yearly, is charged those patients financially able to pay, but it is required in no circumstances is rejected, and no case is refused.

At the last annual meeting we had the honour of having with us our area supervisor, Miss Dawson, from the office of the Central Board, Ottawa. Miss Dawson in her report, referred to the splendid community spirit existing in the Napanee Branch. I think this was definitely proven this year, when we were given an office in the Town Hall, for our Nurse. I am very proud that we were able to acquire this office due entirely to the co-operation of the town officials and Mr. J. McPherson, who donated some of the furnishings.

I am pleased, too, that at long last our by-laws were accepted by the office of the Central Board at Ottawa, and filed last February.

In thinking of the year's work I think of our four now well-established events:

1 The Membership Drive, and the Order is thankful for increased membership.

2 The Marathon Brivide and Tea at the Golf Club, in June, when by the generous support of the community we continue to double up on our returns for 1941. In connection with this event my thanks to Dominion Stores for donating a large basket of groceries, Anstead's for a basket of fruit and the Auxiliary Group for the lamp on which we sold tickets and realized a good sum. I remember also Miss McLaughlin's Art Class, who made the fifty attractive posters.

3 Annual Tag Day, when all the local residents turn out and help with the tagging, and they are to be commended for their interest in this particularly important and essential work. We are all in accord that this is a worthy cause.

4 Annual Tea, commemorating the birthday of Victorian Order members, when the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on Miss Smellie, our Chief Superintendent, in recognition of her outstanding contribution to nursing and public health. We are all in accord that this is a worthy cause.

We had some distinguished speakers at meetings during the year. We shall not soon forget Mr. T. Franklin, president of the local branch in Belleville, who gave us such an inspiring address on "Health Improvement in the Community."

Miss Docker, our nurse, has done splendid work during the year. Not only is she a public health nurse, but also she teaches as she works. She enlists the help of the families and neighbours in the care for the patients between visits. The Nurse finds many opportunities to instil the principles of good sound mental and physical health is based.

There are many demands of war, there is need for public health services, but it is most heartening after all that the V. O. N. is more vigorous than ever. By virtue of its increasing services the V. O. N. may justly claim a place in the front line of the "Home Front."

The times are different but inspiring. They call for the best that is in us and Canada's need. In a message for 1942, Dr. Parron, Surgeon General, C. S. Public Health Service, voices this challenge:

"Important as has been the task of public health workers in the past it is of transcendent importance now in the battles to defend our freedom. Not only must we hold the lines against preventable disease in the civilian population while the armed forces and producing the essentials of war; we must also translate scientific fact into positive action for all of our people in order to raise the level of strength, endurance and morale for the work ahead. Let us have the patriotism to discard from our daily behavior contributes little to national needs, and the courage to move ahead boldly where we can add to national strength."

IDA V. ASHLEY,
President.

FISH AND GAME ASSO'N MEETING, ENTERTAINMENT

About 70 attended a meeting of the Lennox and Addington Fish and Game Association, held in the recreation rooms of The Gibbard Furniture Shops on Monday evening.

The President of the Association, F. R. Ketcheson, presided and conducted the business. The constitution and by-laws presented by the executive were approved. It was decided to form a junior club for boys of 16 years and under, for which the membership fee will be 25c.

Arrangements concerning the Junior Club were left in the hands of Herb Poole and T. S. Mood.

The matter of recommending the opening of a portion of Hay Bay for hoop nets for coarse fish, which was brought up by Game Warden H. B. McCabe, who was present, was discussed, and the decision was arrived at to endorse the recommendation to the department.

Following the business session four very interesting motion pictures, showing fishing and scenery in Jasper National Park, B.C., were thrown on the screen.

CURBS URGED ON RETAILERS

EFFORT TO CONSERVE LABOR AND SUPPLIES ASKED

OTTAWA, C.P.—The Prices Board announced last week it will not undertake regulation of the selling hours of retail stores, but urged that every effort be made by retailers to conserve labor, supplies and electric power.

The Board statement said studies had been made for months with a view to assisting retailers, who were under difficult operating conditions arising out of the War economy. Trade and other recommendations for curtailment of hours had been received.

But, "in view of widely divergent conditions no general regulation application can be drawn that would be suitable to all areas and would not involve serious hardship and difficulties in some localities and for some classes of trade and some groups of consumers," said Edgar G. Burton, administrator of retail trade.

RETAILERS CO-OPERATE

However a great deal had been accomplished by voluntary co-operation among retailers and by operation of orders restricting the use of electricity.

Mr. Burton said the board announcement was not to be taken as a direction to drop restrictions already effected, either by agreement in a trade or through municipal bylaw. The Prices Board urged intensified further action by retailers to conserve labor, supplies and electric power. The curtailment of every retail store in which hours of sale exceed 56 a week should be "carefully examined to see if a reduction of hours can be effected immediately."

Mr. Burton continued:

"There is a definite drift of labor toward war industry, and retail trade has a low priority rating for replacements. It will be found increasingly difficult to build the skilled type of employee unless the hours of retail business are more attractive.

ALL TO BENEFIT

"The type of employee now available for work in retail stores can only be attracted by reducing store hours. Added to this, there is a definite shortage of supplies in almost all lines, and reduced store hours will help to stretch out inventories and cut down 'impulse' buying.

"It is advisable, therefore, that retailers voluntarily effect savings in supplies and labor by adopting more limited hours.

"The opportunity to conserve electric power and fuel, which are becoming even more scarce, is only another reason for putting limited store hours into effect without delay.

"By following these suggestions, retailers will not only be helping themselves but rendering valuable assistance to the war effort."

Slight Damage Done By Fire At Mellow's Grocery

Fire was discovered in Mellow's Grocery Store about 8:30 on Wednesday evening, last week, but quickly put out and very little damage was caused.

Mrs. Ross Loucks, who lives in the apartment above the store smelled smoke and on investigation it was found to originate in the grocery store. It was believed that a piece of coal from the heater in the centre of the store had fallen out and had burned a hole in the floor.

SMITH TRANSPORT WENT INTO DITCH EAST OF NAPANEE

About 11:30 p.m. on Monday a Smith transport, driven east by Edson Rion, of Belleville, went into the ditch about seven miles east of Napanee. The driver, apparently dozed for a second at a point where there is a slight curve in the road, and, as a result, the transport left the road.

Considerable damage was done to the tractor, but the trailer was uninjured. Traffic Officer Morden investigated.

CAR INSURANCE RATES TOO HIGH, CONANT WARNS

Declaring that automobile insurance rates "are too high and are due for adjustment in view of the greatly decreased motor vehicle traffic and accident rate," Premier and Attorney-General Conant predicted that there will be a "substantial" decrease in rates for 1943 undertaken voluntarily by the companies.

The Provincial Department of Insurance comes under the Attorney-General's Department and Mr. Conant said both the automobile branch and the Canadian Underwriters' Association and the Independent Automobile Insurance Conference have indicated to the department that their organizations will review rates about the second week of January.

The Premier, at the same time, hinted that if the companies did not meet reasonable rates to meet changing conditions, that the Province might make rates adjustment compulsory.

SOLDIER ON LEAVE RETURNING TO DUTY KILLED AT NAPANEE

Death Caused by Fall When Trying to Board Moving Transport

Private Frederick Konig, a member of the C.O.T.C., Barrie field, whose home was at Port Colborne, Ont., was killed on Monday evening, about 8:00 o'clock, at Robin's Hill, on the outskirts of Napanee, as he was about to get a ride with a Smith transport.

The transport, driven by Karl O'Hara, of Belleville, was loaded with ten tons of freight, and had just reached the top of the hill on its way east.

The driver saw the soldier on the side of the road and was about to bring the transport to a full stop to give him a ride. Apparently Konig attempted to board the transport before it stopped and, in so doing, slipped and fell with considerable force, striking the side of his head on the pavement. The accident happened at the intersection of Bridge Road and the Hamburgh Road.

Private Konig, from information gathered from papers in his pocket, E. Jansi-son, Principal of the No. 2 Highway and the Hamburgh was returning to duty after spending a few days in Newburgh, where his wife and small daughter are now residing. He was 24 years of age.

Traffic Officer Morden and the Coroner investigated, and decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The body of Private Konig was taken to the Tremaine Funeral Home and military authorities at Kingston were advised of his death.

BIG MONEY

President Roosevelt has asked for an expenditure of $100,000,000,000 for next year during the current year. This is stated to be the largest amount ever asked in the history of the world and the year ahead of us the nations are together spending. This is an enormous sum. Indeed, it is so large that we have no means of comparison. It is too great for the average mind to grasp. We ordinary folk could understand it better if the budget was in terms of hundreds of dollars and not millions or billions. Once we get into the big figures a few million, more or less, makes little difference, for we cannot grasp it anyway.

At a recent meeting when budgets and war loans were up for discussion, one speaker recalled an incident in the life of the late George Graham. He was in the midst of a political campaign, and was making a speaking tour of his county. One of his favourite points was he himself said, was to call attention to a certain transaction of his political opponents, in virtue of which $550,000 was supposed to have been misappropriated. Mr. Graham, so the speaker said, went up and down the country telling about this awful scandal. But there was little reaction. And then, one evening, when addressing a rural audience, he made a slip of the tongue and instead of saying $50,000, he said $5,000, whereupon a lot of "oh:" and "ahs" were heard throughout the hall. Mr. Graham said he learned his lesson, for, from that time on, he talked in figures the people understood.

Few of his hearers knew anything about $30,000 and the mention of it went over their heads. But many of them had worked hard all their lives to get rid of a $5,000 mortgage, and the allegation that someone had got that much all at once, struck home.

So when we get into these astronomical figures which budgeteers, every so often stagger us with, we simply gave in an intelligent sort of way without really understanding how much it is. Even Mr. Ilsley forgets his huge totals and deducts a nice little slice from our weekly income, then we become, all of a sudden, expert mathematicians, and we can figure in a few seconds all the things that money can buy — and that's what counts with most people.

BRITISH AND AFRICA

If we are to judge by the reports coming to us from Great Britain, the organs of public opinion are becoming increasingly, restive over the situation in Africa. If these papers represent the opinion of the people, then there is some cause for anxiety over the African campaign. Since the successful fighting - like landing of the Americans and British in Africa little has been accomplished of a military character. Slight advances have been made and the Air Force has been actively engaged bombing enemy positions. But in spite of this, it is reported that the Axis has succeeded in reinforcing to a considerable degree, the corner of Tunisia which they still hold.

We are told that the weather, for a complete campaign, is unfavorable. It is a rainy season, and this prevents land operations on a large scale.

Without a knowledge of all the facts it is impossible to arrive at a fair judgment, and we may rest assured that the military experts are making their plans to finally drive the Germans and the Italians out of North Africa. But what is giving the British editors worry is not so much the military situation as the political situation. It is generally conceded by the British Press that the death of Darlan has eased the political horizon somewhat, particularly since General Giraud has taken over the command. The fact that DeGaulle and the Fighting French forces are inclined to co-operate with Giraud, indicates a certain confidence in the new French leader in North Africa. The point of friction, however, lies with the Council, of which General Giraud is the head. This Council is largely made up of men who were members of the Vichy Regime. It is hard to trust these men. To be sure they were on the spot when France fell. It is easy enough to see after the event, what ought to have been done. If these men were merely victims of circumstance and were trying to get France on her feet again, there would be no quarrel with their motives. But if they were collaborationists; if they believed that they should co-operate with Hitler, in his effort to establish some sort of Totalitarian Government in France, then it is inconceivable that they should, so soon, have changed their minds. They can, under those circumstances, best be understood as those who were seeking the main chance for themselves.

Perhaps, for the good of all concerned and for the peace and harmony of the French, as well as for a united army in Africa, it may be wise for the time being to ignore the past and the North African Council. It would be tragic in the extreme if political consideration should once more, as has so often happened, prevent the army from achieving its purpose. The United Nations accomplished an amazing task when they landed the expeditionary force in Africa. It should be allowed to finish this, unhampered by conflicting political opinions.

CHECKING THE PREMIER

A one-time popular minister of Trinity Church, Rev. C. W. DeMille, is the General Secretary of The Ontario Temperance Federation. He has lost none of the fighting qualities he possessed when a resident of Napanee. He is in an occupation now which requires he should be constantly on the alert. For not only does he have to watch the distillers, the brewers and the hotelkeepers, but he has, as well, to check up on the Government of Ontario and the Dominion Government. This is no sinecure as anyone knows who has watched the devious meanderings of the liquor traffic during the past twenty years, and the way in which it has influenced and bewildered politics.

The Prime Minister of Ontario has made a statement on the present situation. He has promised that the liquor law enforcement will be placed under a special department of police. Mr. DeMille goes to bat with the Prime Minister. He says that eighteen months ago a temperance deputation had asked for a ban on mingling of the sexes in beverage rooms, and no action had been taken. He said, as quoted by The Toronto Daily Star:

"It is striking that Mr. Conant waited to do this thing until his hand was forced by public opinion.

"He (Conant) says conditions are not so bad as some representations them. Public opinion holds that conditions are much worse than Mr. Conant represents, and the evil extends to many so-called respectable and high-class hotels. As has recently been asked in the Press, how could it be otherwise when beer authorities were granted to ex-bootleggers and thugs."

These are pretty strong words, but we know Dr. DeMille well enough to know that when he talks about authorities being granted to ex-bootleggers and thugs, that he is sure of his ground and has his evidence. We rather suspect he refers to a certain official of liquor firms whose reputation fits very well into Dr. DeMille's description.

The Prime Minister of Canada has made a personal appeal over the radio to Canadian citizens to abstain from the use of alcoholic beverages. He has asked the Provinces, in whose hands hours of sale and other regulation regarding the distribution of alcoholic beverages lie, to co-operate in cutting down the consumption in view of the increased sale of liquors. The statement of Mr. Conant is Ontario's answer to Mr. King. Needless to say, it leaves much to be desired.

THE COLLEGES AND WAR

There is consternation in certain quarters over the unusually stern measures which have been taken by the universities towards students who failed to make the grade on the Christmas examinations. This was to be expected. We have not been accustomed to having the student refused permission to proceed with his education because he failed the first term work at a university. There is something to be said on both sides of the question.

So far, at least as first year students are concerned, some leniency should be shown. A first year student is all at sea for the first semester at college. He has been accustomed to a high school or collegiate, where the reputation of the student, to a large extent, depends on the number of students he "gets through." The teacher teaches, he reviews, he examines, he drills. The result is that the student is compelled to get his work done and his homework handed in. He knows about where he stands, all the time.

At the university it all seems so different and so easy. The professor lectures; the student not accustomed to this, may enjoy it; he thinks it is all so interesting, and so easy. He may see others take notes and take a few himself. There is no one to push, no teacher to force study. It all seems so pleasant and easy. Comes examination time and the student is at sea. He finds that much more has been covered than he had dreamed of, and, in his excitement, he scarcely covers himself with glory. It usually takes a couple of semesters to get a young first-year student into the habit of self-dependence and self-discipline. It is hardly fair to deny to the right to an education to those who have missed under those circumstances.

On the other hand, there are those who should not be at university at all. We in this country, have based our educational policies on the assumption that every child who wanted to do so and could afford it, should go to college. This is a mistaken assumption. Not every child has been endowed by nature with the intellectual power to assimilate a university course. This is not to cast any reflections. There are many who would prefer to be able to write an examination on Calculus or on Homer's Odyssey, but who can become a master technician of one sort or another. The world is lacking leaders. The universities should provide them. But only those should be allowed to take the liberal arts who have the particular intellectual gifts which would entitle them to the special training which the State and private endowments make possible in the institutions of higher learning. And by the same token, no one should be deprived of that privilege because of the lack of funds. It is to the liberal arts that we must look for future leaders in Church and State, and it will be unfortunate, indeed, if they are not prepared in these days for the exacting situation which must be faced by the younger generation in the post-war world.

TRAINING FOR COMMANDOS STRENUOUS
(By Walter R. Legge)

Of all the demonstrations which the Canadian Editors saw in England, probably none was more realistic or thrilling than that given by the 3rd Canadian Division A.L.C. Training School.

It was a beautiful, warm, sunny day, when we set out in our bus in the early morning for this demonstration. One of the places through which we passed on our way was a port which before the war was the terminus of a ferry service to France. As we went through this place, the sirens gave air raid warning, but we kept on going at the raiders.

Arriving at our destination, we were shown the training of men with the qualifications as commandos. Three teams from different brigades went through the course that morning, of course which is part of the hardening training.

STRENUOUS TRAINING DEMONSTRATED

The course was very wet and heavy, having a small creek running through it, with swampy ground, and it demanded strength, stamina, and determination. The three teams went over high barricades with pack and gun, helping each other as necessary, crossed over the creek on swinging ropes, ploughed through swampy ground, crawled through tunnels in the ground, crossed over barbed wire entanglements, and went through several other equally difficult tests.

As they made their way through these obstacles, they were watched by other officers and men hurled explosives down among them. Sometimes these explosives nearly were not of sufficient power to maim the men, they were heavy enough to cause clouds of water and mud over them, and went off with very loud reports. The aim was to train the men to become oblivious to shot and shell falling among them.

As soon as each man had completed the course, he threw himself on the ground and fired his rifle at figure targets, his score being kept. This was done to be able to hit the mark even after violent exertion.

After seeing this course, there was a demonstration of 2-inch mortars, throwing both high explosive and smoke bombs against a back range distance away. Standing beside these mortars it was possible to watch the flight of these shells in their arc high in the sky until they exploded on the distant bank.

There was an interesting episode during this demonstration which was not on the programme. A rifle grenade was flying back and forth, going out of sight over the sea, and then coming back as if it were a boomerang. Each time this Spitfire came into view, the demonstration had to be halted to prevent damage to the plane.

Finally after a longer absence than usual over the sea it returned, but this time made a double roll over us before flying away home. This roll is a sign of jubilation frequently given when a pilot downs an enemy plane, and a short time later we were told that this plane had intercepted and brought down two enemy planes, one of the crew of which we were.

Newspaper reports that night said that an English plane had shot down two F.W. 190 German planes off the south coast, and that the pilot of one had bailed out and was captured.

Then followed a demonstration of the signal system of shunts, by lights, and although it was a very bright day, messages were exchanged with distant points by means of flashing lights.

The party moved on to a point on the coast where there were high white cliffs, to see a commando training party in action.

In this demonstration it was supposed that a landing party of the school had been ordered to destroy a Radio Direction Finder Station on the top of the French Coast, protected by a high cliff and lightly defended by the enemy. The time was supposed to be night.

PLAN OF ATTACK IS OUTLINED

The Royal Navy lands the troops at the foot of the cliff and the party proceeds over the beach to make the raid, making as little noise as possible. The men scale the cliff and cut their way from inland to destroy the Radio Station. One party clears the path for two weeks to the top and powers of value to our intelligence. The noise awakes the German garrison in the fortress and they draw under cover of smoke and the fire of their own men.

The first actual outline of the demonstration. First three boats which were to land the party from the sea were seen to the top of the cliff were most interesting.

Then some supposed casualties were brought down on three same places and the wounded men were interrogated on the shore. To show the detail in this manoeuvre, the men selected to act the parts of prisoners and interrogator, were both able to talk German, and carried out that part of the show in that language.

How the party makes the descent from the cliff by scaling ladders, ropes used, and the withdrawal to the boats while protected by artillery fire, was carried out in an admirable manner.

The boats put out to sea to complete the demonstration, but were called back to shore to give the editors a chance to mingle with the boys of the troop and to talk to them.

After such an interesting and thrilling show, we were very glad to have a cup of tea, and as we drank it, soon groups in animated conversation were formed on the shore. We found the commando boys strong and enthusiastic about their work.

Among the officers we were Lieut. Backell of Waterloo, Que., Lieut. J. St. Jacques, of Quebec City, Clarence Lynch of Moncton, N.B., and Henry Daley of Bathurst, N.B., George Williamson of Campbellton, N.B., and Francis Bryant of Dorchester, N.B.

LUNCH IN AN INTERESTING LOCATION

The men had prepared lunch in a cavern with delightful lunch, served in the open, on top of the cliffs, in a scene of overwhelming beauty. From this point a magnificent view of the sea, white cliffs, and green country spread itself before us. I was assigned to a table presided over by Brig. R. G. Blackader of Montreal, and also at that table was Col. V. M. Hueman, also of Montreal.

We found during the meal that the last time a lunch had been served at that spot, some Messerschmidts had come over and machine-gunned the gathering. We did not let that interfere with our lunch, and Brig. Moore, one of our party, remarked that if they came over this day, they would meet a fate of their own.

We might not have been so careless and carefree that morning, if we had known that the cliffs over which we were climbing were heavily mined, and that if we had stepped on a hidden mine, we would have been blown to pieces.

All we could think of was the wonderful demonstration we had witnessed, which showed the training the embryo Commandos go through and which can only be properly understood by seeing it in practice.

GOAL OF 140,000 SET FOR 1943 FOR ARMY CADETS

Ottawa, January 11. — With a goal of 140,000 boys for 1943 the Royal Canadian Army Cadets are swinging into stride and pushing their personnel with one of the snappiest uniforms it has ever been a boy's privilege to wear.

They will have a well-dressed military organization of which the cadets as a group will be proud" said and their friends will be proud," said Colonel C. G. M. Grier, E.D., Director.

Based on the style of the Canadian (Active) Army battle dress, the uniform has improvements that make it outstanding besides being a neat waist appearance. Instead of ribbing at the waist like the battle dress, it extends further and covers the hips. Patch pockets and a reverse-fit complete the tunic.

The field service cap is similar to that worn by their older brothers in active service, with a red wedge inserted. The cap badge is yet to be designed.

The slacks are the same as the battle dress with the exception of a red stripe at the ankle, and also of a patch pocket on the left side with a flap and button. The puttee used in the active service is now being modified and improved upon.

Emblems of the Royal Canadian Army Cadets will be the Maple Leaf, which will be worn on the upper sleeves bearing the letters R.C.A.C. just below the shoulder title. The colours of these are red, green and gold to harmonize with the colours of the maple leaf.

Proficiency chevrons will be worn on the left forearm of the jacket, to denote the progress made by the cadet in his work. A fourth class cadet will wear one stripe, a third, two stripes, a second, three stripes, a first four stripes and a Master cadet will wear four plus a special mark of distinction. Rank badges will be worn on the shoulder the same as the active Army.

Cadet officers will be indicated by red and gold cross their shoulder straps One bar, lieutenant, two bars captain, three bars, major, and four bars lieutenant-colonels.

Both winter and summer training is being prepared and taken care of. This winter many units will undergo skii-training in a similar fashion as the regular active service troops do, with a modification of training to suit their physical ability. Approximately 200 parkas will be distributed this January to each district, and the issue to be given every encouragement under competent instructors in the field training.

With a complete program carefully mapped out, the "provision is being made for the summer months when suitable summer kit of shirt, slacks and sun helmet will be issued.

From the Public to the Atlantic boys are seeking acceptance in the Army Cadets. "We are anxious to qualify rather than quantity in our ranks, but from the class of boys I have seen during my travels in Canada as if we have both," said Colonel Grier.

The cost of the uniform will be approximately $15, with the Government contributing $7.50. In order to lighten the load of the individual or the unit concerned, 24 months will be allowed to pay the balance.

Every possible encouragement to service clubs will be given to form cadet units. The Rotary Now Training Camp in Toronto, handled with assistance and support of branches of this organization as well as other service clubs throughout Dominion are viewing the idea with interest.

Provision has been made as well for R.C.A.C. detachments to be formed by Reserve Army units, and school units have been affiliated with regiments of the Reserve Army.

Work has already been done in embodying a realistic pre-military training and cadet movement with as a great emphasis on physical training, on the duties of cadets as part of the Air Raid Precaution organization and on study of applied citizenship. The syllabus is to be put into operation as much as possible.

"The decision as to the number of cadets to be trained will be left to the Districts and to the Commanding units, with the proviso that a certain minimum be covered in a given period. Other developments will include the extension of cadet camps to petitioned, the preparation of handbook, old time cadet camps for larger numbers of cadets and cadet summer.

Regular Canadian Army officers on their way not only to their own battalions but to match them in efficiency.

FUEL OIL - USERS WARNED

Ottawa. (C.P.) — The Fuel Controller Department, last week issued a warning to those who have furnaces to change over to coal for the use of fuel oil for commercial, industrial and household purposes.

The statement said:

"Our fuel oil position is such that no temporary permits for the purchase of fuel oil for furnaces will be issued after January 15th. Exceptions may be made in the case of householders in small communities who have installed furnaces to burn fuel oil for the heating of their homes and industrial buildings, and who have no alternative fuel available. But, this will be the only exception. Not only is this ground rule necessary in order to conserve supplies of fuel oil for those who have no alternative, but it is necessary in order to avoid creating a serious supply problem in the spring.

"Even if we are to consider temporary permits for the purchase of fuel oil for these purposes, it will be necessary to build up stocks of fuel oil well in advance of the coming heating season Expected to hear the unofficial name of the Victory Nickel", the new coin was made available on January 2nd under a schedule announced with the Royal Canadian Mint.

It supplanted the "Beaver nickel," a twelve-sided coin first issued six months ago.

The "Victory Nickel" incorporates in its design the "V for Victory" symbol and the Victory Torch "by way of symbolizing the sacrifice which is being made to achieve victory," in the words of the official announcement. The first 12-sided nickel bore the back of a beaver on the Englund.

Coin collectors said it appeared probable the first twelve - sided nickel would have value in the future as a curiosity, owing to the limited number which could be issued in the six months of its existence. Officials said it was possible that some Canadians never saw this 1942 coin.

Both the new coins are members of what is being called the "black-out series." The 12-sided coin makes it convenience first reported in the United Kingdom where a many-sided coin has been in existence for some years.

TWELVE-SIDED NICKEL REPLACES RECENT COIN

Ottawa (C.P.) — Finance Department officials said last week that a new has been started of a new Canadian 12-sided nickel, the second in six months.

MARLBANK

Marlbank, Jan. 8.—The first meeting of the Red Cross for the New Year was held on Thursday, January 7th, with an attendance of 23 members.

The meeting was opened by the new President, Mrs. Percy Jarmin, with the Red Cross prayer. Several matters of interest were discussed, and also a very interesting letter was read from Miss L. Herrington, of Napanee, stressing the importance of the work of the Red Cross Society, and requesting us to carry on, no matter what difficulties we may have to meet.

The following letter was read at the last meeting from a sailor who had received one of the six ditty bags sent by our Unit to the Navy.

Halifax, N.S.

Dear Benefactor:

I did not know whom to address this letter to, so I will have to make it general.

I want you to know that your gift has brought a wealth of happiness to me, and to all the sailors who received them. It was exciting for every man and resembled something of the experience we had when, as kids, we opened our Christmas stocking on the big morning of the year.

There is no doubt but that your gifts were provided with a great sacrifice on your part and much careful choosing of the good things.

Everything in the ditty bag was so wanted and needed that I am sure each of the lads bless the ones who are responsible for our good cheer. "Thanks a million".

It is a great thrill just to know that someone was thinking of me at this time. It makes me homesick when I see the word "Ontario" on the card.

I came from a place not far from Napanee and am enclosing the card that I received, so that you might know where the parcel went to.

I hope you will write, but if I never hear from you, this will perhaps let you know that we appreciate your loving gift. "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me"—Jesus!"

Yours sincerely,

CHARLES FRASER.

A slight error was made in the report of the Marlbank Red Cross concerning the cost of ditty bags sent to the sailors, which stated the cost was $18.00. It should have been $21.50.

NOTED NEGRO SCIENTIST DIES

DR. G. W. CARVER, BORN A SLAVE WON RENOWN

Tuskegee Ala. (A.P.) — Dr. George Washington Carver, the noted Negro scientist died last week, at his home at Tuskegee Institute.

Dr. Carver had been in failing health for some months and was confined to his bed for the last ten days.

Born of slave parents at Diamond Grove, Mo., he was never sure of his birth date but "were estimated that it was about 1874."

He became a member of the Tuskegee Institute faculty in 1894 and has been attached to the Negro institution ever since.

Dr. Carver was recognized as one of the outstanding scientists in the field of agricultural research. He discovered scores of uses for such lowly products as sweet potatoes, peanuts and clay. From the south's red clay and sandy loam, he developed fast pigments, cosmetics, paper, paint and many other articles.

He is buried in Tuskegee cemetery where also lies Booker T. Washington, founder and first president of the school. The body lay in state for a short time before the burial.

While Dr. Carver was best known for his contributions to southern agriculture, he also was a noted artist whose works have hung in a number of well-known galleries.

He was the humble man who passed up worldly wealth to work among the trees and the fields and the grass of God's good earth."

Associates tell of the time that a pecan blight struck Alabama and Florida trees in the 1920's. A crower came to Dr. Carver with a plea for a cure, offering a large sum of money if he would undertake research. Dr. Carver developed a cure and his price to that grower and all others was merely the postage stamp necessary to mail it.

When quite young, he and his mother were kidnapped from the Missouri farm where he was born and taken into Arkansas. Moses Carver, ransomed him with a time blooded race horse, but his mother had disappeared. Only a man with a messenger reached the kidnappers.

Carver's cherished goal was a college education and he surmounted many difficulties to attain it. He was graduated from a Minneapolis, Kas., high school, and then entered Simpson College, Iowa, where he earned his tuition by working in the college laundry. The future scientist spent the next few years at Iowa State College, accepting a faculty position there after he had attained his master's degree.

In 1894, Dr. Washington asked him to join the Tuskegee Institute staff until Dr. Carver became the school's first director of agriculture. As he grew older, he was released from his faculty duties to become the institute's consulting chemist and director of a United States agricultural experiment station.

Mr. Carver disclaimed credit for his discoveries, often saying: "The things already are there: God, through my hands, brings them to light."

But though he was reluctant to accept them, many honors were showered on his frail shoulders. Only this year he was selected by the Progressive Farmer as man of the year in service to southern agriculture." Almost 30 years ago he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts at London. And during the intervening years, institutions and and high figures in industry and science have paid him homage.

Dr. Carver made his last long journey several months ago when he went to Michigan to confer with his friend Henry Ford.

The occasion of the trip, which Dr. Carver undertook despite the wishes of his physician, was the dedication of an elaborate nutrition laboratory at Ford's Greenfield Village.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said Dr. Carver's health began to fall rapidly following his return from the two-week visit.

The scientist was disturbed by current world conditions and Dr. Patterson said his concern was believed to have hastened his death, which was attributed to a heart ailment.

In recent months, Dr. Carver used a large part of his time in seeking to develop his plan for use of native products on a world-wide scale.

JAPANESE TROOPS LANDED TO BOLSTER BURMA FRONT

London, Jan. 12. (C.P.) — The Japanese suddenly have displayed strong resistance to the defense of Burma against British troops who have advanced to within a few miles of the border of that Bay of Bengal port in Burma, and have landed several thousand troops in Indo-China to bolster the Burma front, it was reported today.

A British communique from New Delhi said the Japanese were "resisting strongly," against continued pressure of Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell's forces, and a Reuter's news agency correspondent with the troops said British patrols penetrated as far as Foul Point at the tip of the Bay's Peninsula.

This peninsula on the west side of the Mayu River appeared clear of Japanese when the enemy appeared from hiding places in the jungles and hills and attacked in force on Christmas Donbaik, where fighting is still going on, is the eastern end of the peninsula, is 15 miles or less from Akyab.

Meanwhile, Indian patrols were reported working southward near Rathedaung on the east side of the Mayu River.

A Chinese Army spokesman was quoted in dispatches from Chungking as saying that several thousand Japanese reinforcements for Burma had been landed in Indo-China. Presumably the Japanese intended to make these men overland rather than attempt the difficult and dangerous transport journey by way of Singapore and the Bay of Bengal to Rangoon.

The spokesman said that the Japanese force at Akyab was estimated at fewer than 2,000 men about a month ago.

Meanwhile Allied air forces in India and China were being increased week by week, and the British communique announced a new series of raids against the Japanese in Burma.

Plotting railway station in Central Burma was attacked and engines and rolling stock destroyed, two small Japanese steamers on the Chindwin River and near Akyab were damaged, building and railway sidings at Thaikthin, and a number of villages near Akyab, including Rathedaung and Launggnaung, were bombed.

HUNS UNCHAIN PRISONERS

SOME BRITONS AND CANADIANS FREED

London, Jan. 11 — Letters specially from some British officers taken prisoner at Dunkirk and Calais and handed to them in Germany have been mailed on Despite but Actual said they found it is practically after being handcuffed for a month. It was forgotten early today.

Germany has taken the shackles off some of the men who were handcuffed for a month. The Wehrmacht was reported that Britain's reply to Germany's action on Canadian prisoners of war was to put the men in handcuffs would come when Parliament reopened.

Britain and Canada took immediate reprisals on prisoners last December 12 after having chained Dieppe and retaliatory measure against similar German treatment of two captured Canadians at Dieppe. Too unshackling was accompanied by a statement of reciprocating all the men from handcuffs would come when Parliament reopened.

The German radio at that time also announced the Nazis' decision to rank would come later. Germany still has not given an official answer and according to them the prisoners unchanged.

CHANGES MADE IN ARMY RATION

BEEF TO ALTERNATE WITH MUTTON, PORK AND HAM

A new scale of rations for the Canadian armed forces has been approved by the Department of National Defence, according to the Department of Public Relations of Mr. Ralston applies to the army and R.C.A.F. personnel serving in Canada and Newfoundland.

According to the new scale, which maintains the variety of foods required as essential for fighting men, the beef course will alternate with mutton, pork cuts and ham. Fowl, fish or turkey will be served twice a month, and bacon will be provided three times a week.

Dietetic officers have been advised to provide in the rations, apple juice, grapefruit juice, canned tomatoes, oranges and cereals daily. Other foods which are on the "must" list are cheese the army air force ration issues are eggs, potatoes, vegetables, butter and cheese.

Dominion To Undertake Vast Plane Output — Nine Selected Types

Ottawa, Jan. 12. — Henceforth 50 per cent. of Canada's aircraft output will be modern first-line service and combat planes which will be sent abroad, the Munitions Department has announced.

Canada has produced 6,500 aircraft since July, 1940, it added, and engines are now ready to undertake a vastly expanded production program of nine selected types. On behalf of Munitions Minister Howe, the statement said each of them "is the best of its class in the world."

It added the changeover to new types will mean a substantial increase in the numbers of Canadian airplanes sent to theatres of war. Of the 6,500 planes built in the Dominion in the past 30 months, 3,000 remained in Canada to fill requirements of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. The remainder of Canada's output went to active war theatres in Britain or elsewhere.

The statement quoted Mr. Howe as saying: "Shipping space will not be needed for the four new bombers and service types can fly the Atlantic. They can be delivered to any other part of the world under their own power."

DOUBLE 1941 OUTPUT

Aircraft production in 1942 was 2½ times that of the previous year, the departmental statement continued, although the industry was expanding and changing over to heavier and more complicated machines.

"Of these, the Mosquito is regarded as the swiftest and most manoeuvrable of all bombers; the Lancaster has the biggest bomb-load capacity of all long-range aircraft; the Curtiss Hell Diver is the most powerful dive-bomber in the world; and the Catalina is unchallenged as a twin-engined ocean patrol craft.

"Of the trainer types, the Fleet and Cornell ranks as the most modern primary trainer; the Harvard is recognized as the finest single-engined advanced trainer; and the models of the Canadian Anson which will come into production during 1943 will be the most outstanding twin-engined trainers yet developed.

"Canada will also continue production of the Bolingbroke, a twin-engined medium bomber adapted for advanced training, and the Noorduyn Norseman, recognized as the most adaptable single-engined transport in the world. The Norseman is the only wholly Canadian-designed aircraft on the program."

NEVER CONTEMPLATED

The statement quoted Mr. Howe: "Our present program is at least four times larger than anything contemplated when this department was organized. It involves types of planes that were not even considered as possible Canadian undertakings years ago."

Canada's aircraft industry now has more than 75,000 workers, including more than 21,000 women. The statement predicted that there will probably be many more than 100,000 persons engaged in the industry when the production program reaches its peak.

A parallel expansion in the manufacture of airplane accessories was noted in the statement. It said the electrical and repair divisions each completed its monthly output of completed repairs on airplanes, engines and corresponding accessories.

STEEL WORKERS DEMAND HIGHER BASIC WAGE RATE

Sydney, N.S., Jan. 12 — Approximately 6,000 steelworkers on the Cape Breton island of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation plant have walked out on strike, apparently in protest against the Barlow Steel Commission report which recommended no increase in basic wage rates in the Canadian steel industry. Only maintenance men remained in the plant, where steel vital to the war effort is produced.

No formal statement was forthcoming immediately from headquarters of the United Steelworkers of America, but officials said one would be issued later today. Earlier reports charged that retaliatory measure against similar German treatment of two captured Canadians at Dieppe. Too unshackling was accompanied by a statement of reciprocating all the men from handcuffs would come when Parliament reopened.

OTTAWA BOARD MOVES TO FREE BUTTER STOCKS

CANCELS ALL CONTRACTS FOR FUTURE DELIVERIES AND TAKES CONTROL OF SHIPMENTS FROM WEST.

Ottawa, Jan. 11—The Prices Board has cancelled all contracts for future delivery of butter and taken "effective control" of all shipments from areas of surplus production in the west, it was announced today in a facilitating distribution of available butter stocks. Deputy Administrator J. G. Taggart announced today.

The contract cancellation order is "in preparation for whatever price readjustment may be necessary to cope with the present emergency," Mr. Taggart said. It will relieve holders of butter from liability under contracts for future deliveries.

Mr. Taggart said "We are most anxious that after May 1 the normal practice in respect of contracts for future delivery of butter be resumed."

Control of shipments from the west becomes effective today, after which no butter in car lots may be shipped from Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta without a permit from the Foods Administrator. These permits will be issued from regional Prices Board offices, and the procedure will enable the Board to distribute butter to areas of short supply."

V.O.N. REPORT

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT

The report for the year 1942 shows that the meetings were held, seven of these being in the Legion room and one each in the homes of Mrs. W. A. Ashley, president, and Mrs. George W. Paul. The average attendance was fifteen members and the president at all the meetings.

The special events undertaken during the year to augment V. O. N. funds were as follows: a Marathon Bridge held during the winter — onthis a Bridge and Tea at the Golf and Country Club in June, a Tag Day in September, several open meetings with a guest speaker, at which a silver collection was received.

The Napanee Branch had two visits during the year from Miss Winnifred Dawson, district supervisor.

Delegates to the annual meeting held in Toronto in May, were Mrs. W. A. Ashley, Miss K. E. Decker and Mrs. Percy Chambers.

Guest speakers at our meetings were Miss W. Dawson, supervisor, Capt. Cyril Offler, Capt. McFadyen, of the Salvation Army, and Mrs. R. Franklin president of the Belleville V. O. N. branch.

The year 1942 in every way shows one of the most successful in the history of Napanee Branch.

Respectfully submitted,
CLARE A. CHAMBERS,
Secretary.

REPORT OF
V. O. N. AUXILIARY

During the year the Auxiliary raised $10.00. $10.00 of which was made in the Bridge Marathon.

Mrs. Medd, Mrs. George Daly and Miss Gussie Bowes assisted at the Tynbood Inoculation Clinic.

The Auxiliary furnished the Baby's Comfor Room and is keeping up the supplies for the Baby Clinic to the necessary requirements.

REPORT OF
THE V. O. N. NURSE

It is again my privilege to present the report of the nursing activities for the year 1942. Though the number of patients contacted during the year remains almost the same as that of 1941 an increase of 93 visits was made. On the whole our programme remains the same, covering bedside nursing, school nursing, child welfare conference and health supervision.

Two hundred and two patients were cared for during the year. Classification of these cases under maternity, medical and surgical, and health nursing, remained almost in the same ratio but a very noticeable increase in visits was made to patients suffering from chronic illness. We have had several cases that have been under care for months. Eleven confinements, exactly the same number as last year were attended. We are sorry that more contacts are not made with the mothers planning to be confined in their own home. Generally speaking they are a splendid group of potential citizens of our country. Strong healthy citizens begin life as healthy babes. Prevention of disease and maintenance of good health is primarily in the hands of every child or our nation.

Health supervision visits into the homes increased slightly, but are still far below what is desirable. To interest, educate, consult and even help adult age much advice could be given, if time would permit more frequent visiting into the homes. Prevention of illness, the root of which is ignorance of the principles of health, the lack of knowledge and lack of resistance of an advanced condition, is so much better and so much less expensive than the treatment of illness that has developed. What suffering could be prevented if an adequate preventive programme could be inaugurated.

Under the local Board of Health, a much broader campaign for Diphtheria Toxoid Inoculation was carried on in the early months of 1942. 99 Infant and pre-school, 256 public and 72 high school children received the treatment. This was the first time that this programme had included high school children.

Collections again increased, showing a 16 per cent. increase over 1941.

The establishment of the Nurse's Office, very centrally located in the Town Hall, has proved a real help in the work.

Now for a moment let us look toward 1943 and our immediate needs:

1. I still feel that we are not doing all we could do, in the field of bedside nursing, for the sick in their own homes. Trained nursing care, under the direction of the physician, with teaching of someone in the home, should be available to anyone needing this care. The moderate cost to the family should never be a deterring factor. Nursing in duplicate the Victorian Order Nurse is available whatever the circumstances of the family, provided a need exists and the patient is under the care of a physician.

2. Close co-operation must exist between all who are working for the betterment of the citizens, to prevent worthy cases being missed, and on the other hand the duplicating of assistance to any one family.

3. Health supervision work must be increased in all fields and to all ages, there is the need. With a gradual increase in our bedside nursing visits, which come first in our programme, how is this to be done. It is a challenge to us in 1943.

"THE PUREST FORM IN WHICH TOBACCO CAN BE SMOKED"

The Late Calvin W. Arnold

Calvin W. Arnold, son of Eli Arnold and his wife, Julia Ann Dafoe, died on Friday, January 8th, at his home in Roblin, at the age of 66. He was a life-long well-known and respected citizen of Richmond Township, Ontario. "Old Roblin" in the year 1847, he united in marriage to Mary Ann Hagerty in 1867. She preceded him eight years ago, after nearly a married life. To this marriage children were born, four of whom still survive. Two girls predeceased their father, Mrs. John McGinn (Julia Ann) and Mrs. George Parlow (Ada).

He farmed until thirty-five years ago, when he retired. He enjoyed good health throughout all his days and was a hard worker. He was a man who knew and revere knew the meaning of intoxicating drink. A short time before his death his eyesight began to fail, but he retained the use of both his faculties. His illness was of short duration as he was confined to bed less than two weeks.

He was a member of the former Methodist Church and during his membership, he held various offices. His funeral service, which was largely attended, was held in the Roblin United Church and was conducted by the minister, the Rev. J. E. Crowell, who was assisted by the Rev. H. Boston, of the Roblin Holiness Movement Church. A solo was rendered by Mr. Ward Wartman. The remains were placed in the vault at Napanee, until the spring, when they will be removed to the Roblin cemetery for interment. The pallbearers were Messrs. John Schantz, Orrin Carey and John Kimmett, Thomas and James Redmond, and Spencer Boyd.

The immediate relatives left to mourn are two sons and three daughters—Percy at Rolsindale and Calgary; Orrin at Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. Walter N. of Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. Walter Holder, of Roblin, with whom he resided until his death; Mrs. W. J. Ramsay, of Kingston, and Mrs. K. L. Wesse, of Ottawa.

Word was received recently by friends in Napanee of the death at Atlantic City, N.J., of Edward H. Curlette of Ventnor, N.J., a former resident of Napanee and Adolphustown, who was well known to many people in this district. Mr. Curlette's death occurred on Monday, December 21st.

Mr. Curlette had lived in the United States for many years and was engaged in the stock brokerage business. He was a frequent visitor to the county.

He was predeceased by his wife, but leaves one daughter and two sons, also five in the United States.

The Late Miss Rosa Lee

Following a long illness, the death occurred on Thursday evening, January 7th, at the Campbell Nursing Home, Napanee, of Miss Rosa Lee. Miss Lee had been in failing health for some time and in October she removed to the nursing home where she remained until her death.

Miss Lee and her brother, the late Miss Cannie Lee, came to Napanee over fifty years ago and for many years carried on a dressmaking business at their home on Bridge Street.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lee and was born in Ernestown Township near Wilton.

During all the years she resided in Napanee she was a member of Grace United Church. Miss Lee was the last surviving member of her family, with the exception of one brother, Fred Lee, also residing in Peterborough. Her sister, Miss Cannie, died in 1939 and her brother Damon Lee of Nanaimo, B.C., in 1941.

Rev. C. D. Daniels, Rev. A. C. McCallum, M.A., Mackenzie and Mr. F. J. Cottell, all of Napanee, and Rev. Dr. Bolenius, Presbyterian Church, Tamworth, officiated on Tuesday.

A Correction

In the account of the death of Terence Quaile, included in last week's issue of "The Beaver" we reported in error that his death was caused by a broken neck, the result of a fall down stairs. We should have said that the cause of death was a conclusion of the brain.

22nd Lt. A. A. Bty., R.C.A.
Dear Mrs. Loaver:

I'm trying to catch up on a job I've been neglecting a bit. I've cried, I've laughed, I've written to another. Now I'm getting ahead on all of them except yours. It seems to go on and on. So many things cropping up to interfere with it.

We all know your son as Paul, a gentleman, and a soldier. He's become that by the result of a multitude of experiences he's called on to perform in the service.

Paul is one of my best drivers, and one of my best soldiers. I say that because I've said only the same thing with different words to everyone else throughout the years of my association with him. He's modesty personified, and he's never said a word about himself. I believe he is quite quiet and happy, and he certainly is content on any time I've spoken with him. I'm sure you've all the time. I've spoken with him. I'm sure you've all the time. I've spoken with him. I'm sure you've all the time.

OFFICER WRITES MOTHER OF SOLDIER

Mrs. Frank Leaver, Sharpe Corners, has received the following letter from Lieut. D. H. Frick, a brother officer of Lieut. Owen Leaver, member of the 32nd L. A. A. Battery, Canadian Army Overseas:

32nd L. A. A. Bty., R.C.A.
C/O L. A. A. Bty., R.C.A.
Canadian Army Overseas.
December 31st, 1942.

Dear Mrs. Leaver:

I cannot let this year slip on a bit without writing you a few lines to tell you how much we miss Owen in this battery. He was a great favorite with all ranks and a good friend to me personally. I am sure you will know your son as a fine character, so let them know how much we miss him.

We've nothing startling to report. We've been settling down, and as we've been settling down we've had some pretty rotten weather.

Some of our new boys are finding it pretty cold, but they're standing it well. Some of our old-timers are still grousing about the cold, but I think they're secretly proud of it. Personally, I believe we're a little cool to mind much, and we're getting used to it. I'm sure that by the time we get back to Canada we'll be quite hardened to the cold, and will be able to stand it with the best of them.

We all have some leave coming to us, and I'm hoping to get mine around Christmas next year. I'll spend it with my family, and I'm sure that all who have some leave will be hoping for another Christmas at home. I'll spend it with my family, and I'm sure that all who have some leave will be hoping for another Christmas at home. I'll spend it with my family, and I'm sure that all who have some leave will be hoping for another Christmas at home.

Well, Mrs. Leaver, I must close. Thanking you again on behalf of all the boys, and wishing you and your family a very happy New Year.

Sincerely yours,
D. H. FRICK.

RED CROSS NEWS

Mrs. George Moller and Mrs. George Cook were hostesses at the Red Cross rooms on Saturday afternoon and evening when a splendid number of the ladies were present. Much more work is needed, so the Executive would like to remind the Convener of the number of workers she will be able to count on. We are in need of more knitters, and also more workers for the sewing. Will those who have not yet handed in their reports please do so at once, as we would like to send as much as possible of the latest supply to the Provincial Warehouse next week.

Everyone will realize the importance of this work and volunteers will be gladly welcomed Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday afternoons. This work is organized in groups of cutters, inserters, pressers and examiners to do the stitching. In this manner mass production is possible. If you can spare a few hours each week please come down and register. This is vital work and only the workers can get it done.

It has been decided to hold the annual meeting of the Napanee Red Cross in the rooms at 2:00 o'clock, Tuesday evening, January 19th, 1943. The meeting is open to everyone and a special invitation is extended to all.

On Saturday, January 16th, draw-tins will be made for the holders of lottery tickets for the overnight case and credit note for $4.00 on a $5.00 voucher slip. Tickets may still be bought on these items.

The blood donors' clinic will be held on Friday, January 29th.

Four old quilts are needed to be used as padding for the tables at the clinic. The quilts may be given in at the Red Cross rooms any time this week.

The following is a letter received by Miss Bryers from the recipient of one of the ditty bags which she sent through the Red Cross at Christmas:

Sherburne, N.S.

Dear Miss Bryers:

A few days ago a considerable number of ditty bags were distributed here at this base. The contents were in most cases, essential and very acceptable articles. I know that I was very pleased with mine. It is then, but natural, to feel and try to express my appreciation to the lady whose kindness made the gift possible. It is a fine thing to do. There you show your desire to help unselfishly those who have left their homes and comforts. So I thank you, not only for my ditty bag, but adding to my faith in our people.

I feel that I should have been able to thank you in person, but my base is here, my home is in B.C., and Napanee is not close enough to visit. But one never knows in war time, so I shall remember, and, in the meantime I hope that my good wishes will help you to carry on.

Sincerely yours,
E. ROSEBOOM,
R.C.A.F., R.C.N.R.

In future any letters received regarding the ditty bags will not be published, but will be posted on the Bulletin Board as the Red Cross rooms.

BRITAIN YIELDS SPECIAL RIGHTS IN CHINA

The Foreign Office announced on Tuesday that Britain's treaty has been signed under which British extraterritorial rights in China will be ended.

The treaty is effective immediately.

A similar treaty has been signed between China and the United States. It was announced simultaneously at Washington.

The Foreign Office spokesman said a similar treaty on behalf of the Government of India has been initialled by the Secretary of the India Office.

The Dominions are making their own arrangements but have informed us of complete agreement with our action," the spokesman said.

It is announced some months ago that the Canadian, the Britain and the United States had agreed to the abolition of extra-territorial rights in China.

TREATY INITIALED

Sir Horace Seymour, Ambassador, and H. F. Richardson of the India Agency initialled the treaty on behalf of Britain and India. T. V. Soong, Chinese Foreign Minister, represented China.

It was announced that the treaty contains provisions for the abolition of extra-territorial rights in China and renounces all claims to such rights in China which Britain or India may have had before the present war.

The treaty is the outcome of negotiations which began before the war. Negotiations were resumed after the fall of Singapore.

The treaty will be ratified as soon as possible after the necessary formalities have been completed.

Mr. Eden, Foreign Secretary, and Mr. Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister, were present when the treaty was signed.

ONTARIO FORMS LIQUOR SQUAD

DUTY TO "ADEQUATELY" ENFORCE CONTROL ACT

Toronto, Jan. 11. — The formation of a provincial police liquor squad for the adequate enforcement of the Liquor Control Act and Regulations in Ontario was announced this last night by Premier Gordon D. Conant, K.C., Provincial Secretary-General.

The squad will be under the command of Inspector Phillip Widder of the Ontario Provincial Police, now in charge of No. 1 District at Windsor, who has been promoted to the position of staff inspector.

Members of the squad will be trained in liquor control law and enforcement by qualified officers under the direction of W. B. Common, K.C., of the Attorney-General's Department.

He also will act as counsel for the squad.

Mr. Conant said: "It will be the duty of the liquor squad to enforce the Liquor Control Act and Regulations in all municipalities which have not passed by-laws to undertake the enforcement, and to supplement the work of municipal police in all other municipalities."

The liquor squad will not function as "Gestapo agents, stool-pigeons or spotters," said the Premier and there will be no persecution."

Mr. Conant said that Liquor Commissioner A. St. Clair Gordon "has very properly stated that 'there is nothing in the act or regulations which imposes any obligation on the part of Liquor Control Board to act as part of Liquor Control Board to act as a law enforcement body.' Their functions are purely administrative and the present board is most efficient in this direction."

EL SALVADOR
SMALLEST OF ALLIED NATIONS

Smallest country in size on the American continents — "small and sweet in things of value" — El Salvador is a land of only 10,000 square miles with a population of 1,811,000 people, most of whom earn their living from the soil. Almost all the land slopes from the Pacific to the tropical sea.

Although El Salvador is a volcanic land — two mountain ranges march the full length of the country — the landscape itself is soft and gentle. Gentle plateaus and valleys lie between the ranges, among them the Lempa River, largest and richest river flowing into the Pacific between Mexico and Cape Horn.

Perhaps more than any other country, El Salvador has been a democratic nation. Reasons for its excellent coffee: It is the world's fourth producer of coffee. Although 80 to 90 per cent. of its export trade is in coffee, El Salvador has recently been attempting to diversify its agricultural products.

It produces sugar cane, grains and "balsom of Peru," an essential healing ointment obtained from a species of tall, flowering trees which grow nowhere in the world but in a section of El Salvador called the "Balsom Coast." An important product during wartime is henequen, used for the manufacture of sacks and ropes and as a substitute for hemp.

Coffee made El Salvador a prosperous and united nation. It was not until the last quarter of the 19th century that farseeing planters began to appreciate the vast possibilities of growing coffee in El Salvador. Although many of the plantations were at low altitude, they were near the coast, thus making transportation costs relatively cheap.

El Salvador's population is more than ninety per cent Indian — mixed Indian and white blood. Unlike the Guatemalan Indian, who lives an isolated life in his own village, has his own primitive economy, and his own Maya dialect, the Salvadorean Indian has been assimilated into the national life. He may be poor and have only a small patch of land, but he is conscious of his nationality, and is likely to work in one of the towns.

El Salvador has a healthy tradition of political democracy. One of its greatest heroes is Father José Simeon Canas whose fervent plea for the abolition of slavery before the Constituent Assembly of the Central American Federation in 1823 still stands as a landmark in Salvadoran and Central American history.

Sick man, Father Canas rose before the Assembly to say: "I come with feeble steps, but even were I at death's door, from death's door would I come to propose to you a measure on behalf of helpless human beings . . .

I beseech you, before you do anything else, to proclaim in to-day's session the emancipation of our brothers in slavery . . . we all know that our brothers have been violently deprived of the inestimable gift of liberty, that they groan in servitude, sighing for a kindly hand to break the bonds of slavery . . . The entire nation has been declared free; so should be the individuals who compose it."

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

MAKING SURE OF YOUR MINERALS AND VITAMINS

Hello Homemakers! The Nutrition campaign is under way. Once again we discuss minerals and vitamins. Why? First of all, because 85 per cent. of the women at the last Red Cross meeting we attended requested it, and, secondly, because recent surveys show that: Canadians are not getting sufficient: (1) Calcium; (2) Vitamin B1; (3) Iron; (4) Vitamin A; (5) Protein; (6) Vitamin C. This campaign is largely through lack of knowledge of food values — and seldom through lack of money. Nutrition experts have found that most of us don't get enough vitamins and minerals because we don't know how to spend our food dollars.

Vitamins help build up bone and assist the work of every cell in the body. The "hard-to-get" minerals are calcium and iron. Calcium is necessary not only for building strong bones and teeth but for the proper functioning of the nervous system, proper beating of the heart, control of the muscles and enrichment of the blood. You can make sure of your calcium quota by including in your daily diet one pint of milk per adult and one quart of milk per child. Milk products such as cottage cheese may be used for part of your quota.

Iron makes red blood cells and carries oxygen to the cells of every organ and tissue. Minor disturbances — even slight inflections — those lots of iron shut in spite of its importance, iron cannot be stored in the body and the amounts obtained from foods are very small. To make sure of your iron ration, be canned sure to use much the green leafy vegetables and luckily they are cheap — as well as fruits, whole grain bread and cereals.

Vitamin-rich foods build up resistance to disease, promote growth and keep the body functioning smoothly. Vitamins cannot be hoarded in the body so again we urge you to get your vitamin-rich foods daily. Check up especially on your Vitamins A, B1 and C. Vitamin A is found abundantly in cod liver oil, butter, milk, liver, eggs and the green and yellow vegetables. For your Vitamin B1, the richest source is brewer's yeast while chief food source is found in the whole grain cereals. Other good sources are: fresh peas, fresh lima beans, navy beans, spinach, carrots, pork, eggs and milk. Vitamin C (known as Ascorbic Acid) is found especially in oranges, lemons and limes, as well as in tomato juice and potatoes. Potatoes are a good source because of the amounts in which they are eaten.

Be sure to check up on the "hard-to-get" vitamins and minerals and see that you and your family are getting your daily quota. Later on we will have something to say about the other vitamins, such as Vitamin D and Vitamin B 2.

TAKE A TIP:

Health League Canada Advises Canadians To Eat More Liver

The consumption of liver in Canada is still so low that it should be Canada's official food, as we are universally advised. These rules are to be followed: Three liver meals at least once a week. All these are rich-in sources of vitamin A, vitamin B and pork liver both have a higher nutritive value than calves liver. Liver is one of the cheapest foods, too.

Dr. Bigelow says a small portion, less than 3½ ounces, of beef liver provides, in addition to its readily assimilated iron, adequate amounts of minerals and vitamins.

Vitamin A — more than a day's needs.

Thiamin or Vitamin B — about one-half your day's needs.

Riboflavin or Vitamin B2 — approximately a day's needs.

Iron — about one half of a day's needs.

Vitamin A gives protection against night blindness and increases resistance to infection. Thiamin is necessary for carbohydrate metabolism and adequate morale, too little riboflavin leads to sores at the corners of the mouth and inflamation of the cornea of the eyes, and too little iron to anaemia from which a large proportion of Canadian women suffer. Liver may be on the expensive side but looked at from the money's worth point of view it is a good investment.

If you can take your liver straight, here are two appetizing recipes:

Liver in Casserole

Pour boiling water over liver, let it stand for five minutes. Remove skin and any membranes. Dip liver in seasoned flour, and brown in hot greased frying pan. Add a little water and simmer for 10 minutes. Put alternate layers of liver and sliced onion in a greased casserole. Add liquid from the meat and cover and bake for 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

Revised Liver

Have liver sliced half-inch thick. Melt fat in frying pan when hot put in liver and brown on both sides.

Add a small quantity of water, cover, cook below boiling point for twenty minutes. Season with salt and pepper. If onions are desired, slice thinly and cook with liver. Thicken any remaining liquid to make gravy.

If your family has to have it disguised, try this method:

Liver Loaf

One pound beef or pork liver
Two cups bread crumbs
One medium onion
Quarter-cup tomato juice or vegetable juice
One teaspoon salt.

Put liver through the meat grinder. Add bread crumbs, onion, tomato and salt. Put in greased baking dish and bake in pan containing warm water. Bake slowly for thirty to forty minutes.

EXPERTS SUGGEST OTHER FATS CAN TAKE THE PLACE OF BUTTER

How the half-pound ration of butter for each person per week can be met with greatest satisfaction is the problem for the housewife during wartime housekeeping. The Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has compiled proposals which the Public Consumer Branch of the Toronto Civilian Committee is making do with the new ration.

Butter is formerly used in baking cakes, cookies and other tasty foods. Other fats can be substituted for butter in these recipes for cakes, puddings and such which call for only a small amount of butter.

Do not use butter in frying. Fats, lard, vegetable shortening and other greases are excellent for this purpose. Instead of frying in deep fat, a pan of hot fat is used. Only enough fat to cover the bottom of the pan is needed. Fat should be hot before putting in meat, fish or vegetables. Turn food once during cooking to brown other side.

Greased cheese on vegetables also will take the place of butter. Add a little milk to cheese to make it more spreadable. Cheese is also a good substitute for butter on toast.

A timely leaflet "Saving and Using Fats in the Home" is available, free of charge, from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

There are many ways of saving butter at the dinner table. Have individual servings, either as butter balls or squares are served. Butter balls are made by removing the butter from the refrigerator a short time before use so that it will be of good consistency for spreading. This applies particularly to making sandwiches. Allow a quarter of an ounce of butter per sandwich.

If the crisp toast is the cut of the day, sandwiches this should be done before buttering. In making a toast sandwich, spread the butter on one side of the bread with the butter and the other slice with filling.

For breakfast time less butter can be used if butter and honey are mixed before spreading on toast.

40,000,000 Lbs. Honey Expected This Year

ARMY DEMANDS HEAVY

Ottawa (C.P.) — Canadian bees with luck will produce a record during 1943, hauling home enough 1-to 20,000th-pound loads of honey to make a total of more than 40,000,000 pounds to sweeten the nation's diet, the Dominion Agriculture Department spokesmen said that if the weather smiles the bees will achieve a target for the year comparing with 22,205,900 pounds in 1941 when the honey regions often were "grounded" by unfavorable conditions and with about 38,000,000 pounds in 1938, the previous record year.

C. B. Goodgrum, Dominion apiarist said the Dominion's honey-producing plant is in good condition to meet new demands. Sugar rationing and military demands for honey and beeswax have encouraged enlarged production.

WANT 1,750,000 MORE HOGS, 1943

Of all meat animals the largest increase in production for 1943 is hoped for in hogs. The national objective was set at the Dominion-Provincial Conference held in Ottawa, December 7 to 9, at eight millions, an increase of one and three-quarter millions, or 28 per cent. over 1942. This large increase is made necessary mainly by the request of the British Ministry of Food for increasing supplies of bacon and pork products and the rapidly increasing demands of civilian and military needs in Canada.

As far as feed is concerned the objective is well within the range of Canadian supply. The limit to increased production will lie to some extent in the supply of labour and material for pens and shelter. Hogs represent one of the best methods of marketing the record grain crop of 1942.

Estimates by the Provincial representatives at the Conference as to the numbers of each province were all greater than those of 1942, except New Brunswick, which was unchanged. In Saskatchewan the increase was expected to be 150 per cent of the 1942 production, the greatest estimated increase of any of the provinces. Other provinces expected from increases of 10 to 34 per cent.

WHAT AMERICANS OWE ENGLAND

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY
American Economist and Author

New York — It has recently become fashionable in England to say that England owes nothing to anyone. "She is standing on her own feet," she is saying, "she is paying for everything she is getting from the United States." She is proud of the fact that the United States is not financing any of the British war effort. She is proud, in her official speech, to the glorious fact that she is not receiving one penny from the United States under the Lend-Lease Act which is the basis of the British Empire. We must remember the truth that it was America that saved England from defeat in the world war. It was England that saved Soviet Russia. It was Soviet Russia that saved China. Not Soviet Russia, not China, not Soviet Russia — but the United States. It has saved England time and time again. It has saved lifeblood, as any one who has ever lived in Asia understands, in the Middle East, in Burma, in India, in the Netherlands East Indies in which Holland's investments were as valuable to the British Islands in the South Seas—those are England's vital possessions. And to them must be added the huge investments in China trade, in shipping, in manufacturing, insurance, banking, etc. And on them and on the trade based on them England has lived directly or indirectly for nearly half the population of the world.

And what happened in the case of the movement for Soviet Russia to be present in India for the first time in history? Not to be the central problem in the successful in separating India from the British Empire, the trade of India just with the Middle East, trade with India, Iran, Egypt, Palestine and the Middle East would disappear forever. It is England that stands to pay the price in this war, no matter who wins or loses.

And some of our progressive and imaginative friends ask our people to show more gratitude finally and generously to England. If there is one country to whom Americans should be grateful, not for special favors, but for the fact that it is England that has saved the British Islands in the world war, it is England that has saved the United States in this war.

"SURE ... I'M STILL INTERESTED IN TELEPHONES!"

"In case you don't recognize me, I'm Bill Smith, the man who installed your telephone. That's a long time ago — but I'm still mighty interested in telephones. You see, I know how important they are when you have to get things done in a hurry. And that goes double in wartime. The men over here know you'll keep those lines clear for the Big Job."

LONG distance lines—especially those to war centres—are heavily loaded. Since further extension of facilities is ruled out by material shortages, it's up to every telephone user to see that war messages get first call.

So please follow the suggestions shown at the right. And above all, make only essential calls on those routes which you know by experience to be congested by war business—and be brief.

CLEAR TELEPHONE LINES FOR URGENT WAR CALLS

On Active Service — Giving Wings to Words

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP

On Local Calls

1. Be brief . . . clear the line for the next call.
2. Consult your directory before you call "Information". It avoids unnecessary calls.
3. Urge your family — especially its younger members — to avoid unnecessary calls.
4. Be a "good neighbour" to the family which shares your party line.

On Long Distance Calls

1. Avoid all unnecessary calls.
2. Where possible, use off-peak hours: before 9 A.M.; 12 noon - 2 P.M.; 5-7 P.M.; after 8.30 P.M.
3. Plan your conversation before you lift the receiver — you'll save time and expense.
4. Call by number whenever you can.

These things may look trifling, but when multiplied by millions of calls, they are decisive.

MEN STILL TOPS IN TALL TALES

Burlenton, Wis., Dec. 29. — Women may be making strides with men in war production but they can't hold a candle to the 1942 male output in the annual contest of the Burlington Liars' club to choose a world's champion liar.

Take it from club president Orla C. Hulett, it's still a man's world here at this palladium of whoppers.

"Women may be tops in some phases of the current war," he conceded, "but they haven't stepped up production for us. His appraisal was based on a preliminary survey of thousands of entries, already in hand to be judged for the entrenchment of New Year's day, a new champion to succeed R. C. Pease of Antioch, Ill.

Hulett was a little disappointed, too, that none of the WACES and WAVES, whose function is to release men to fight from military and civilian administrative posts, had volunteered an entry in the Liars' contest. He still was hopeful, though, that they would rise to their opportunity to pinch hit for the scores of men who have been prevented from fulfilling in foreign fields.

To demonstrate the ability of females in competition, Hulett cited a couple of entries on hand for the 1942 judging.

Mrs. L. H. Lamb, Weathersford, Tex., told how a fire snowstorm in her home started it created in impromptu blackout.

"The flakes were so big," she said, "that as each one fell it blacked out a street light which normally makes it as bright as day in our bedroom."

"Yellow-Tops" Don't Last

Dorothy Mae Pelbach, Route 2, Genoa, Wis., took a rap at the Japanese with a play of symbolism in her entry to show the durability of the white race.

She said that the Burlington Liars' Club responded to a Red Cross roll call by contributing its collection of "turtle" knit socks for the soldiers.

"Now there were yarns from the white, brown and yellow people," she said. "The wool of the socks were knit in yellow and the rest was finished off in either brown or white. The yellow ones were not in a hurry — but the whites had so much backbone that it took several months before they even got shiny."

The current champion won with a tall tale about the sea serpent land of the Umadilla where a bottle of hair tonic poured into a stream made the fish are anxious to get a shave that fish are anxious to get a shave. Cross and his competitors made it more than easy even to get the setting — up a barber pole on the bank with a copy of the Police Gazette. All they had to do was stand beside the barber pole and yell, "Next!"

THE BOMBED ISLE IS BEGINNING TO SMILE AGAIN

BY HARRY CROCKETT
Associated Press Staff Reporter

Valetta—Gallant Malta, the citadel of the world's most concentrated bombing, is beginning to smile again.

Peering from ghastly windows, the thin, gaunt faces of residents who have endured the island's siege with smiles at thanksgiving.

Aside from the skimmed unlightening of food rations, the appearance of islanders have not perhaps the worst — food problem of the world. Rich and poor alike have fared the same. Malta's great breakwater, Grand Harbour, have been decimated by Axis bombers and-strafers. Transportation was rendered almost impossible, but Malta has carried on.

People live in any portion of a building that is left standing. No building on the island has been spared either a direct hit or a near miss which caused damage. Thus it seemed strange to hear such music coming from what appeared to be a pile of rubble and the scrambled lines of one block of flats. All Maltese buildings are made. I found a tea dance in progress.

The Maltese girls and others of Great Britain's and Italian empire were dancing happily with army men. The girls were comparatively well dressed and had a fine appearance despite the lack of stockings and cosmetics. These dances are comparatively recent innovations and now even some early-evening affairs are being held despite the blackout. There is nothing to eat or drink unless brought by the guests.

Contemplating one of these dances and expressing wonder, I had it explained to me by a British old lady who apparently was of British origin. She was shabby and virtually shoeless but there was a smile on her wrinkled lips. Spitfire planes were roaring overhead in this scene near the harbor.

"There's what did it," she informed me without solicitation. "There's what scared the Jerrys and Ities right out of here and we're amongst away. We ain't had a raid to amount to anything for two months, but there's plenty of people living in them caves. Their houses were blowed up, you know."

Then, pointing at the harbor where merchantmen and warships lay at anchor, she added, "and them's going to keep us going, too. Sicily is only miles away and they knocked us smartly when we first arrived, but not anymore. Maybe they'll try again, but they'll get what's coming to them."

Just then an air raid siren sounded. Noticing my inclination to seek shelter, a Maltese airman said calmly, "don't worry about that, sir. It's only the morning reconnaissance plane. We don't pay any attention to it. He comes over for a look and, believe me, he must feel sick at what he sees these days."

"Carefully Planned"

The destruction of a single bridge might ordinarily appear to be no more than an isolated incident. This attack, however, was delivered at so vulnerable a point and ties in so well with the strategy resulting from the Allied invasion of North Africa, that it is obvious that it resulted from careful planning and is part of a program designed to strike telling blows which will contribute to the general effort of the United Nations.

There is only one north-south railway line between the important port of Salonika and the Greek capital of Athens. This line has become of tremendous importance since the invasion of North Africa. Greece is one of the countries the Nazis now have in the inner-circle position to protect against possible Allied attack from across the Mediterranean, and as a result the Nazis are fortifying the Greek coast, particularly of the vital Salonika region.

The Athens-Salonika railroad was being used to capacity to carry materials to this region for these fortifications.

The blowing-up of the bridge cuts the line. The particular bridge chosen was one which is approached on both sides by high, rocky terrain. There is no possibility of repairing the line except by rebuilding the bridge, which requires a particularly ticklish bit of engineering work. A bridge not nearly so difficult to replace was blown up by the retreating Greeks at the time of the invasion, and it took six months for the Germans to put up a new one. It will take three months at least to repair this one. Meanwhile, the Germans must use their transport for vulnerable-point materials, either by a difficult winding mountain road, or by sea—and Greek submarines are operating in the Bay of Athens and are getting in their licks.

Red Organized in Crete

Tress to be realizing of constant rebellion against oppression, Crete is the second of Greece where guerrilla action continues unabated. The guerrillas of Crete are no unorganized bands of mountaineers. They are a regular army. 13,000 strong based in the inaccessible reaches of the lofty White Mountains, and commanded by a regular officer, General Manoli Bandakis. Around his troops are about 1,000 British soldiers who weren't able to get away quickly enough during the evacuation of the island, and therefore took to the mountains and joined the Greeks.

The 13,000 men under Mandakis' command who strike regularly by night against the German garrisons on the coast, are only a nucleus for the full force which would be available to aid any future Allied invasion of the island. Practically the entire population of Crete — and that means women as well as men — is ready to join the fighting, and whenever the time is ripe, the guerrilla army will be joined by the Cretans en masse.

The Germans know that, and have tried by terrorism to cow the people and instill in them too great a fear to make them utilizable by the guerrillas. Mass executions, which do not spare women, children or old men, have answered the guerrilla attacks. The victims being first compelled to dig their own graves. The Germans have also razed a number of villages, but the result has been to stiffen resistance rather than to break it. Among the settlements destroyed was Boulgarelli, in the northern part of the island, which was burned by the Germans, as it was the site of an important battle in the Greek War of Independence of 1824, and is considered as a national shrine, the destruction of Boulgarelli has aroused particular anger. It has become the Lidice of Greece, and the air is filled with cries for revenge renewed and strengthened resistance.

During the business period the president of the W. M. S., Mrs. R. C. Craig, conducted the installation service for the new officers. The program, which was a Christmas one, was in charge of Mrs. C. F. Denyes and a delightful hour was spent. The 23rd Psalm was read and divided in parts in an explanatory manner; reading by Mrs. H. M. Reid; a poem by Mrs. Jas. Robson; a poem by Mrs. C. Reid; "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was read by Mrs. Denyes, and a hymn and prayer brought this third annual meeting to a close.

Owing to blustery weather and the bad roads, the first meeting of the New Year was not a full one, but an excellent program was given. The devotional part opened with a hymn and prayer, followed by the scripture reading, and the president gave a fine reading on the New Year.

The parsonage board, Mesdames S. M. Reid, H. G. Denyes and William Robson was chosen for 1943, also the press reporter, Mrs. E.W. Wright. The group system which has been so satisfactory in the past year, is to be discussed at the next meeting and the roll call to be a famous man in the Old Testament, and what importance is attached to his name.

A very interesting motto, "Being busy is the keystone to Happiness," was given by Mrs. Hagerman, and a short but interesting program was given by Mrs. H. M. Reid, who quoted from a speech by King George VI on an Empire broadcast, followed by a hymn, prayer by the convener and Psalm 46 was read by Mrs. E. M. Reid. A reading was given by Mrs. Reid and one by Mrs. Jas. Robson, after which the meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction.

A delightful social half-hour followed.

NEW ALARMS COME FROM STOCKHOLM

BY WAVERLEY ROOT

It would certainly not seem likely to the casual observer that Germany is in any position, today, to consider carrying the war into any of the few countries which still remain neutral. Yet the news from Stockholm appears that that country is seriously alarmed by the unfavorable future developments.

Sweden is about to call up reservists for refresher training periods of a month in which the number in training will be held in that country for more than a year will be undertaken. This is a step unanimously taken by the Swedish Parliament. The communique announcing this decision says that "though the reasons for the present are far from Sweden's borders, developments have clearly shown that sudden changes are possible."

This follows one of the rare pronouncements of General Olof Thorell, Sweden's commander-in-chief, made in a public speech, in which he said: "We must not relax, we must maintain and strengthen our preparedness. Next winter does not decide any risks for Sweden."

This development indicates a reversal of Swedish policy which had been based on the belief that the danger period in Scandinavia was over, and had been for reduction of the number of men kept under arms both because of the expense involved and because of the need for manpower in industry. There must therefore have been certain reasons behind Stockholm's decision to increase its military effort once more. What could they have been?

PRESS HAMMERS AT SWEDEN

One explanation could be that Sweden has taken alarm at the increase of anti-Swedish articles in the German press. The usual Nazi argumentation is being made that Sweden is "un-neutral," which to the German mind is synonymous with "pro-German." The attacks which German papers have been making on their Swedish colleagues are too general and too much alike to be spontaneous productions of the individual publications — even if German newspapers were in the habit of originality in their campaigns themselves instead of taking their inspiration from the Propaganda Ministry. The Frankfurter Zeitung attacks the "anti-German press tendency" in Sweden and concludes that if the Swedish Government regrets these "press excesses" it is nevertheless unable to suppress them, a situation which "will lead to consequences which the Swedish Government has an interest in trying to avoid." This seems to be a heavily veiled hint that Germany might base an attack on Sweden on the ground that the Swedish Government has become unable to control the country.

The Hamburger Fremdenblatt takes the Swedish Government to task for "not enlightening the nation about the danger from its hereditary Russian enemy," to which the Social Democrat Vastgota-Demokraten answers plainly: "The pressure the Swedes have felt from the South was even stronger than that from the east."

Hitler's own paper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, calls the Swedish papers "a European scandal," and says that "Stockholm does not realize its duty" in failing to stop what it calls the unneutral attitude of the Swedish press.

PRESS ACCUSED

This sounds more ominous in the light of the statement made by Dr. Schmidt of the Wilhemstrasse, when he concluded an accusation that the Swedish press was allowing itself to be influenced by foreign propaganda with these words:

"A great nation like Germany cannot in the long run tolerate the carrying on of anti-German propaganda under the cloak of neutrality. If the press has not sufficient good sense to observe genuine neutrality, then the authorities concerned must call their papers to account. Bismarck's saying that the nation must pay for the window panes broken by its press applies in this instance. Germany must forbid meddling in her affairs."

This might seem to provide sufficient reason in itself for Swedish apprehension; but there are perhaps other factors also which account for Swedish consciousness of future danger and preparations to meet it. For instance:

1. In the latest commercial treaty made with Germany, Sweden has once more remained firm on the principle of "no credit." This could rouse German anger, and suggest that the conquest of Sweden would make it possible to seize Swedish resources without payment.

2. With the Allied invasion of North Africa, the possibility for a separate peace with Finland has once again seemed to increase, and it is believed that negotiations along this line have been resumed, with pressure on Helsinki increased by implied threat in the return of the American Minister to Washington for instructions." As Swedes took a leading role in earlier discussions concerning a possible separate peace, and incurred German displeasure for so doing, they may be involved again. That would account for the new anti-Swedish blasts in Germany.

3. Now that American troops are engaged in theatres of operation which bring them in contact with the Germans, it may be that Sweden envisages the possibility of another Allied invasion, this time in Norway or northern Finland, in which case Germany's answer might be to overrun Sweden as her answer to the invasion of North Africa was to overrun unoccupied France.

HER BEST GUARANTEE

Sweden's best guarantee of being let alone, aside from that provided by her military preparations, seems to be the advantage for the Nazis of keeping some countries neutral for possible refuge in case of defeat. In this connection it is interesting to note that Goering has quietly purchased an estate at Nacka, near Stockholm.

Is that destined to be his hour?

AXIS SATELLITES SEE THEIR WOES MULTIPLYING

BY GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

Once more the reports of sagging morale, war weariness and growing unrest in the satellite members of Hitler's Europe are multiplying.

From Switzerland and Sweden those windows through which the outside world can peer dimly, at developments within the new dark continent, come stories of incipient revolt in Rumania and of Hungary's anxieties over the future of the war. Even one radio describes unusual measures to bolster the spirit of the people of Finland, living in the presence of her unwillingness to be considered in the category of Germany's satellites.

We would be wise to scan these reports warily. Anything that encourages to complacency and overconfidence or tends to dull the keen edge of our resolve to carry on straight from Dr. Goebbels' prescription book, the Allied world swallowed a lot of that medicine last winter and if it did no great harm it was no contribution to Allied victory.

However, even if we take the news from inside Europe with all due skepticism, there can be little doubt the plight of those states, including Italy, which make or lose verisimilitude by Yugoslavia and Greece.

Tragic as was the fate of those two small kingdoms there remains to them at least hope of a victory that will restore their freedom. Such hope is dying in countries like Rumania and Hungary. If we can believe only a fraction of the news from those lands.

Take the case of Rumania. Probably the fear of Germany's apparently all-conquering might was as important as greed among the motives that prompted Rumania to join the Axis. That fear that convinced the Hitler's invincibility and little remains, neither Bessarabia nor Bucovina nor any other of the spoils the Nazi Fuehrer promised.

None of Hitler's allies has better reason to question the promise of an Axis triumph. Not even the Italians of Africa have paid the terrible price for their German alliance that has been exacted from the Rumanians in Russia. Rumania's contribution to the "crusade against Bolshevism" has been larger than that of any of the other satellites. It is estimated that she sent at least thirty divisions, the flower and the greater part of her army, into the drive cross the Ukraine to the Volga. Now it appears that at least half of these have been routed or trapped and the others savagely punished.

Moscow's triumphant recapitulation last week of the Stalingrad campaign listed Rumanian losses: Eight divisions routed in the fighting northwest and southwest of Stalingrad; two more caught with 20 German divisions in the great trap west of Stalingrad and two routed in the Don region and four more south of Stalingrad, a total of sixteen divisions.

Moreover Rumania still fears that Hungary, emboldened by the melting away of the Rumanian army in Russia, will resume her efforts to recover all Transylvania.

This is the background against which we read Swiss reports of a new Iron Guard plot to overthrow Marshal Antonescu's Nazi regime, of thousands of arrests and scores of executions, of widespread suffering, defeatism and demands for peace. Some of the details may be distorted but the general picture of an unhappy, hopeless people cannot be far wrong.

When the German power began to break up in 1918 it was the satellite states that went first. Turkey, Bulgaria and finally Austria. That will of course does not always follow the pattern of the last and it is dangerous to base predictions on 1918. Moreover, neither Rumania nor any of the others has dropped out yet, much as they might like to and it is certain that Hitler, who knows his 1918 history as well as any man, has taken steps to prevent defections on to minimize their effects if they must come. But he cannot be happy over the state of morale in Italy, Rumania and the rest.

A Mugful Of Water

A British Tank Officer just returned from fighting with the Eighth Army in the battle of Alamein, described over the BEC shortwave the technique of making the most of the limited water available in the desert.

Although his unit never approached getting short of water in the desert, all precautions were taken and washing water was considered a crime.

"You take two mugs," the officer explained, "one empty and one full of water, pour a small quantity from the full to the empty one, and there is the tooth water. Then you take an empty cigarette tin, into which each member of the tank crew pours a little of his by now boiled water. This is for the communal washing of razors. Then, with the remainder of the water, we wash and lather our faces.

"The water in the main mug is now nicely softened by the shaving and can then be used to rinse the mug. This is really difficult to wash all over with the remaining water in the mug, so we wash upwards today, water downwards tomorrow.

"When we become temporarily stationary, and supplies are more plentiful, we allow ourselves a mug of water and we have a bonfire consisting of petrol tins. The bottom of a four-gallon petrol tin is half filling it with water and suspending it over the fire. After we have had our wash we pour the soapy water into a petrol tin, and in two hours we have an astonishing quantity of clear water, in which to wash the following day, and so on.

"So in reality we have to indulge in only a small amount of water, and that is the same old mug."

GRACE UNITED CHURCH SERIOUSLY DAMAGED BY FIRE LAST FRIDAY

Loss Estimated at $25,000 Most Damage Done in Front Part of Church

About $25,000 damage was done to Grace United Church, Napanee, by fire, which broke out in the basement of the church last Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock. The fire was discovered by the caretaker, George Barrager, in the furnace room, under the Bridge Street entrance to the church and it very quickly spread through the front part of the building. Firemen worked for over two hours before the fire was under control, and at times, it seemed as if the whole church would be completely destroyed. The fire was confined to the front part of the building, but heat, water and smoke did a great deal of damage to the whole of the interior of the structure. The finish on the seats and woodwork in the auditorium and basement was blistered and coffee was burned badly. Considerable plaster fell from the ceiling and walls, and water soaked the carpet and dripped through the floor of the auditorium to the basement Sunday school room. The intense heat and stream of water from the fire hose melted solder in the organ pipes, which fell out of the pipes, and some of the pipes fell into the tower and a large hole was burned in the floor ing of the front vestibule. Several stained glass windows were broken when firemen had to make their way through them, to fight the fire.

When the fire was at its worst, smoke issued from the apertures in the tower and between the brick work and the roof, making it appear as if the whole structure was ablaze.

The chairs in the basement choir-gowns and books in the pulpit were damaged and other pews were removed. A piano in the basement was badly damaged and another piano was also probably damaged by water and steam.

A fire was built in the hot air furnace about four o'clock and when the caretaker returned half an hour later he discovered a blaze in the ceiling above one of the pipes, which apparently had become overheated.

The Board of Trinity United Church met on Saturday morning and offered the congregation of Grace Church the use of Trinity Church for church services and other meetings. Mr. Frank Miley, manager of the Granada Theatre, made a similar offer. At a meeting of the Grace Church Board, held Saturday morning, the offer of Trinity Church was accepted and last Sunday union services were held in Trinity Church. In the morning, Rev. G. M. Chidley, minister of Trinity Church, rendered the service and the choir and organist of Trinity Church led in the music. In the evening the Rev. C. E. McLellan was in charge and the organist and choir of Trinity Church again led the singing.

The Sunday Schools of the two churches met in different places and Trinity Church at the same time after holding an opening service, together.

Services next Sunday will again be held in Trinity Church.

Mr. McLellan expressed his appreciation and that of the congregation of Grace Church for the generous offer of the use of the Grace Church. He thanked Mr. Frank Miley for the offer of the use of the Granada Theatre for Sunday services and Mr. Jack Bell, manager of the Bridge Street Furniture Store, for the use of the recreation room of the Board Furniture Store for week day meetings. Mr. McLellan read a letter from Dean Leisy, expressing personal sympathy and the regret of the congregation of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church at the damage by the fire to Grace Church.

At a meeting of the Church Board after the Sunday evening service a motion was passed expressing thanks to the Napanee Fire Department for preventing the complete destruction of the church.

Grace Church celebrated its 100th anniversary last fall. The present building was erected about 1870 by C. D. McLellan who had been pastor for about three years. After the afternoon tea by W. A. S. Church held a special service commemorating the 90th anniversary of the founding of the congregation and in Trinity Church.

EXTENSION OF RATION PLAN INDICATED

Saskatoon, C.P. — Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan Minister of Agriculture and foods administrator for the Prices Board, said the whole trend of events in Canada and the United States strongly suggested that in the next few months a number of food products not now rationed would be rationed.

Speaking to a joint gathering of all provincial agricultural societies meeting in Saskatoon, Mr. Taggart said that in the next year the rationing of food on this continent would be the rule and the exception.

"Canada," he said, "must redirect its production programme to bring it into line with present needs in such a way as to utilize existing facilities and supplies of labor and to plan for a minimum of dislocation and loss at the end of the war."

BUTTER IS MOVED TO AID IN DISTRIBUTION

In conformity with the policy of the foods administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, of endeavoring to secure the widest possible distribution of stocks of creamery butter so that sufficient supplies may be available to meet rationing requirements during the winter months, it is announced by Hubert M. Higgins, regional foods officer of the Board, that so far six carloads of western butter have been moved to the Eastern Ontario area with arrangements being made to move three additional carloads.

Of the six carloads that have been delivered, two have arrived at Belleville for distribution in that city and its district, two at Perth, one at Kingston and one at Brockville. The three additional carloads are destined respectively for Pembroke, Renfrew and Kemptville.

In addition, butter has been moved throughout the region from Brockville to Kemptville, from Perth to Smiths Falls, from Perth to Pembroke and from Carleton Place to Renfrew in order to meet immediate requirements in those centres.

The counties in the Lower Ottawa region as well as Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry have been so far fairly well supplied from local sources as well as from the City of Montreal. It is found that more butter is needed there arrangements will be made to supply it as far as practicable. Mr. Higgins said.

MAGISTRATE CONVICTS NAPANEE RESIDENT RAISING RENT ON HOUSE

Bruce Wagar Fined $15 and Costs

Bruce Wagar, Napanee, was ordered to pay a fine of $15.00 and the costs of the court when he was convicted in the police court in Napanee on Monday, by Magistrate Garvin, of raising the rent on a house he owns in excess of the maximum rental fixed for such housing accommodation by the Maximum Rentals Regulations. The charge was laid by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board after a complaint had been registered by Mrs. M. A. Greenaway, Mr. Wagar's tenant. G. F. Smith acted for the Department of Justice and J. M. Simpson was counsel for Mr. Wagar.

The charge laid by the Board was as follows: "That Bruce Wagar did unlawfully, between April and November, 1942, both inclusive, charge, demand, receive or collect for real property consisting of housing accommodation, situated on Dairy Avenue, Napanee, a rental in excess of the maximum rental fixed for such housing accommodation by the Maximum Rentals Regulations."

The increase in rental was from $18 to $25, when the case first came before Magistrate Garvin, ten days ago, he decided to postpone it and asked Mr. Smith to endeavour to have the wording of the charge changed so as to avoid the multiplicity of charges and demand, receive or collect. Mr. Smith, on Monday, reported the department of Justice declined to make the change and the case was heard under the original charge.

Mrs. Greenaway, in her evidence, stated she rented the house, which is situated on Dairy Ave., just across from the C. N. R. station, on April 1st. She said she interviewed Mr. Wagar and he quoted her a rental of $20.00 per month for the house. She came to the next day and stated that Mr. Wagar then asked $25 rent. She agreed to pay $25, which was paid after moving in she. She said that one of the neighbors told her she was paying $7.00 more per month than the previous tenant. When she spoke to Mr. Wagar about it, he replied that the previous tenant had been a permanent boarder and Mr. Wagar told her she could vacate the house if she wished. She then stated that Mr. Wagar agreed to put in toilet conveniences and Mrs. Greenaway stated that he asked her to continue to pay the $25.00 rent per month and to deduct receipts from him for only $18.00 per month. Mrs. Greenaway refused to agree to this arrangement and said she continued to pay the $25 monthly rental until the end of August. Mr. Bergin then tendered Mr. Wagar a cheque for $18.00, which he refused to accept.

Questioned by Mr. Simpson, Mrs. Greenaway stated that she told Mr. Wagar she would move the house on September 30. When the month was up she asked to be allowed to stay another month. She received a letter from Mr. Simpson asking her to vacate the house but she remained until the end of October. Actually she did not leave the house until a November 2nd and kept the key a few days longer, which made her liable to pay $25.00 per month for the month of November.

On Mr. Simpson's reckoning, Mrs. Greenaway paid $150 rent plus the $18 which was not accepted by Mr. Wagar, for the eight months she actually occupied the house. The amount she paid was only $43 more than if the rental of the house had been $18 per month.

Mr. Wagar, in his evidence, said that Mrs. Greenaway called him, by 'phone from Kingston, about the end of March, at which time he offered her the house for $25.00 per month which she was willing to pay with-out even seeing the place. She paid one month's rent of $25.00 and the next month told Mr. Wagar she could not pay $25.00 per month because of the rental regulations, but if a toilet were put in the house she would pay $25.00 without hesitation. Mr. Wagar said his previous tenant had paid $18.00 in the winter months and $20.00 in the summer months.

Mr. Wagar said he had increased the rent in ignorance of the Rental Regulations and he also swore that he never made any attempt to get Mrs. Greenaway to accept receipts for $18.00 per month while paying $25.00 per month rent.

D. W. Mason, an investigator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board stated the complaint against Mr. Wagar had been laid by Mrs. Greenaway. He said he contacted Mr. Wagar, whom he found very co-operative. Mr. Wagar, Mr. Mason said, told him the rental had been raised because he was ignorant of the order freezing rents.

The Magistrate in giving his verdict said he could not accept Mr. Simpson's figuring of the rent paid by Mrs. Greenaway as being only $6 more than if the monthly rental had been $18.00. Actually, he said, the rent was $25.00 per month and it had been raised from the $18.00 rent charged before the basic period. In view of all the circumstances the Magistrate said he would impose a small fine on Mr. Wagar.

Seriously ill since last June, Arthur Thomas Frink tenderly known as Thomas Frink, passed away on the morning of January 17th at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Frink, Dundas Street Napanee, early Tuesday morning.

He was well known throughout the district because of his connection with local orchestras which played for many entertainments during the past several years. Two years ago he enlisted as a bandsman with the statement of Vimy Barracks, Kingston, until he was taken ill in February of last year and was confined in the Isolation Hospital. Christmas leave he was brought home and since then his condition steadily worsened.

Besides his father and mother he leaves an older brother, Jay Frink, Napanee, and two sisters, Miss Myra and Miss Hazel.

His funeral is being conducted by the Tierney Funeral Home on Wednesday, at two o'clock. Rev. C. E. McLellan, minister of Grace United Church, will conduct the service and will be placed in Riverside Cemetery Vault to await burial at a later date. All across Europe, discouraged, beaten, starved, maltreated, subjugated peoples will take heart at the news that the great German Army is not invincible. Perhaps as important as the ground lost, and the military reverses which have been suffered by the Germans, is this loss of face, this loss of prestige. The military reverses, while not conclusive, have been significant, Russia has won back much of the territory which the Germans won last year, and for the time at least, and in all probability for a long time to come, Hitler has been denied access to the oil fields of the Caucasus which his army needed so badly.

In the African theatre, Montgomery is again on the march, and Rommel is retreating.
Just what the outcome of this may be it is hard to say. The plan of the United Nations seems to be to force Rommel to Tunisia, and there to make a combined drive from the East, West and South, against the Axis, expelling them ultimately from the whole of Africa.

This plan has not worked out as smoothly as was intended. Whether it was due to rain Tunisia, or whether is was due to the poli-mix-up, evidence accumulates that the ere psychologically unprepared for the thouands of incendiaries and block-busters which were showered on the capital this week, and which have been systematically showered on other centres throughout the winter.

In "The Last Train From Berlin", the writer, Howard K. Smith, the last foreign correspondent to leave Germany before the United States declared war, says that the bombardment of Berlin is one of the best ways to end the war, because of the effect it has on German morale.

Both from the East and from the West, as well as from the South, the Axis is feeling the growing military power of the United Nations. The winter lull to which they looked forward as a time for reforming their lines, building up reserves and making their plans, has not come. Instead there is confidence and basis for the rumor lies we have not reading the rumor know. Looking from the le-lines, it would appear that a straw man is ng set up for the fun of knocking him down.

Why would the Mackenzie King Government think it wise to go to the country at this juncture, when they still have three years to rn. The reason advanced is that Mr. King eing a politician wishes to steal a march on he Progressive Conservative Party, and get n extension of power before the Party, under he new leadership, has time to get organized.
t must not be denied that Mr. King is an stute politician. He beat Mr. Hepburn and Mr. to the line in the last election. They were getting nicely prepared for a "King Must election, when Mr. King went to the ntry and was returned with a huge maj-
y.

But, on that to base an argument that King is preparing to go to the country, is far-fetched. After all, while Mr. King

Mr. King knows more about the present of the United...tions than anyone in Canada — or should know. — He knows as he intimated in his recent radio address, that Canada's hour is approaching. That this year will see more of Canada's men in action than ever before. To bring on an election under the conditions, would be to divide the national inerest, that united action as essential in days of struggle, as to undermine the plans, the sacrifice, and the preparation which has been going on for three years.

That is simply unthinkable, and while we do not think it wise to change horses while crossing the stream, yet we are convinced Mr.
King would be courting political disaster, should he attempt a Dominion election, either now or in the near future. Mr. King may very well consider he has a mandate to continue through the duration. The public should not be asked now, as to who will represent Canada at the peace-table. That can be dealt with when we are through with the war.

V

GRACE CHURCH FIRE

The fire in Grace Church, so deeply regretted by the whole community and the whole church connection, is bound to make vocal supgestions which, up to the present, have been uttered only in whispers. It is whispered on occasion, that one United Church in Napanee is all that is necessary to minister to the United Church members and adherents in the town.
In support of this, falling revenues are pointed to, dwindling congregations are cited. One church, it is whispered, could hold all the people who now attend both United Churches.

So much on the one side. But that sort of reasoning fails to take into account a lot of other factors. Churches, like nations, develop certain characteristics and certain personalities. They minister to definite constituencies.
Grace and Trinity have each their own long and ednued history; each has made a vital contribution to the life of the town and community over a period of several generations. During that time they have each developed strong and deep abiding loyalties on the part of their congregation, and of the members and adherents who once belonged to the churches but are now scattered throughout the length and breadth of the country.

Each church has its own constituency, for many years quite clearly and definitely marked. To be sure, of late the line of demarkation has become less and less well defined. That is not all gain. Indeed, it is more of a loss than otherwise. This is not to admit that different constituencies exist. As a matter of fact people are not much different to-day than they were two or three generations ago, and any attempt to press them all through one religious mold, is to negative that variety of religious experience which is the strength of the church.
The solution of the church problem, as it faces many of our small towns, is not fewer churches, but better filled ones.

Our sister town, Picton, in Prince Edward County, faced this issue some years ago. Two United Churches were brought together, and one of the buildings sold to another religious group. In a short time the church which had been closed was opened, with many who had left it, back in the old pew, under new denominational affiliation.

Grace Church has suffered heavy loss. But never lacking in vision, in loyalty and energy, its leaders and members will not shrink from whatever burden the future lays upon them.

V

POWER POLITICS

As much as we dislike to admit it, yet the experience of the present and immediately past situation in many areas of life, forces the conclusion that the only instrument that achieves anything, is power. This conclusion has been reinforced during the past week by the attitude of the coal miners. For two years the steel workers have been trying to discuss their grievances. Their every attempt was frustrated.
But now that they are united and have shown their power, the Government at once listens, arranges a conference and agrees to meet the workers. This is a rather serious matter, more serious than appears on the surface. If the Government refuses to negotiate with any group until that group exercises its power, the result undoubtedly will be that other resources will have to be settled in the same manner.

This is not to be taken as an endorsation of the strike. We are in the throes of a life and death struggle, and nothing should be allowed to interfere with that. Two wrongs do not make a right. But if the Government, by the terrible situation which has arisen in French Africa. There the Vichyites are still in control and are fighting to maintain their grip on the directive forces of the France of tomorrow. By the same logic we have here in Canada, those who are struggling to control the new world, so far as it affects our country.
Whether it is to be one group or another or a combination of groups, the future will tell. In this our architects of the new prefer, that they are willing to consult with only those who have the power to compel a hearing. It bodes ill for the future.

CHINA "FREE" AFTER HUNDRED YEARS

BY GUENTHER STEIN

Special Correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Chungking, China — To Chinese in this all over the country, January 11 was one of the most important days in the country's modern history.

The simple ceremony in the Chinese Foreign Office in Chungking where the Anglo - Chinese treaty abolishing extrality and other special British rights in China was signed only a few hours before the parallel Sino-American treaty to be completed in Washington, scarcely reflected the importance which a solution of the old unequal treaties has in Chinese patriotic sentiment.

The atmosphere in the ashen conference room was cordial and businesslike and it would be an exaggeration to say that it gave the impression of the final stage of a hundred years of passionate struggle. Not often shook China to her very foundations.

The Chinese, of course, had taken the event as a foregone conclusion since the United States and British announced their intention to abrogate extrality and related rights last October 10. Moreover real equality between China and her present allies has grown so steadily in recent years in the moral sense and in many practical aspects that the outward spell of the treaties has long since lost of its ugly and provocative appearance to many.

DEMAND FOR ABOLITION

Yet until January 11 the Chinese had never ceased to remember and preach against the unequal treaties for the demand for their complete abolition has been by far the most powerful point of the Chinese national agitation.

Still on the morning of January 11 as on every Monday morning since the establishment of the national government of China every one of the Governments organizations in the country held their solemn "Sun Yat-sen memorial meetings" in which the last will of the late leader featuring his demand for the abolition of the "unequal treaties" was being read.

And it was only quite recently when the negotiations with Britain and America were already drawing to a close that the Government newspaper, Central Daily News, wrote: "From 1842 until now the Chinese people have been suffering under the tyrannical rule of the various foreign powers. The unequal treaties made the Chinese the slaves of the mighty. Foreign nations can be free, why not China?"

INTERNAL WEAKNESS SEEN

But a new tendency has become even stronger during three months — China's will to substantiate treaty equality with her allies by real national equality in internal strength. A view which one of the leaders of the Chinese reform movement during the closing years of the last century was the first to propound in his famous pamphlet entitled "Learn," namely, that China's internal weakness was at least partly responsible for all foreign aggression, a view that was not always popular because it took away from the urgency of action in the field of foreign policy. It has come more and more into the foreground.

The leading Chinese newspaper Ta Kung Pao, gave the lead when it wrote: "We have always worried over the war guilt in Japan's treaties of her aggressive moves against China. This view is not unreasonable but the question must be asked of ourselves what made Japan direct her attacks against China? Partial responsibility rests indeed with China herself, for the aggression arose from China's own weakness. If lasting peace is desired China must be made strong enough so that no country will dare to violate her.

STRESS ON OUR EFFORTS

"The proper use of an international security system is mental only to a certain extent although it can never be completely reliable. It is our hope not only that our Allies will give China assistance in her national reconstruction after the war but that our people will be aware of the necessity to make their own efforts strong through their own efforts."

The importance which China now attaches to a joint international regime closely interrelated with a firm interim policy is perhaps indicated to a certain extent in the announcement today that H. H. Kung, former Vice - Minister of Foreign Affairs, had been appointed Adviser to the Ministry succeeding Shao Li-tze. Mr. Kung was the principal delegate of the Chinese Government.

This has actually become the center of discussion in the last few days of circles in China, and the line of whatever criticism of internal affairs is permitted to be put in public. And this example is the outstanding recent instance of the latitude being added about the extent of Allied assistance that may be expected in the immediate after-war period. Also, in the grim capital struggle that China will have to face for years to come, whether the new world-orientation does or not.

PAST HISTORY SCANNED

Many of the foreigners in Chungking who have lived through the first formative years of the Chinese Republic are inclined to see in the present situation many reminders of the past. Even when the British and French governments, under pressure on China had at last given there to an atmosphere of more cordiality and sympathy, tensions and when Japan had just been "opened" by the American warships, the British plenipotentiary, Lord Elgin, made a pathetic statement addressing the commercial community in the young city of Shanghai.

He was applauded for his "honorable efforts for the extension of civilization and commerce." The Elgin apology who often to this day vate diary expressed deep embarrassment at the treatment he himself had to give China retorted "humiliated and by methods not always agreed to by us have taken down the barriers behind which these two ancient nations sought to defend themselves from the aggressions of our own conscience nor the judgment of mankind will acquit us if when we are asked to what use we have turned our opportunities we can only point to the silver in our pockets from among the ruins we have found or made."

U. S. DESTROYER TAKES ON WHOLE JAP FLEET IN BATTLE

Dorland, Jan. 16 — Filled roads seem to be the regular order this winter. The storm last Monday caught many motorists before they could reach home. A few got through by shovelling, others were drawn by horses, and some did not get through until the next day.

Some of those attending the meeting of the U. F. W. A. Cheese Company on Thursday afternoon had difficulty on the return trip. Mr. C. W. Richman, of Napanee, to have his own pictures in the evening, the meeting was cancelled owing to further conditions.

The annual meeting of the U. F. W. Butter and Cheese Company was held in the Municipal Hall on Thursday and well attended. Battery Injury Results Unless Fully Charged

During the winter months many farmers who are lucky enough to own a car as well as a truck, put up the "family chariot" and rely on the farm truck to go back and forth from town. By doing this they save gasoline and rubber which will be needed next spring and summer.

Consumer Information Service points out that all batteries in such cars standing idle will slowly discharge. If this is allowed to go on, in time serious injury to the batteries will result, and they will be no longer of any use.

It is not practical to keep a battery charged by running the car engines from time to time. The battery should be removed from the car and kept charged on an auxiliary charger, so that it is ready for use when needed.

A battery standing idle should be brought to a fully charged state every thirty days.

ROLLICKING RIBOFLAVIN

Riboflavin is one of those magic words we hear so much these days, whenever the question of proper nutrition is discussed. This vitamin is given to part of the vitamin B complex and is present in milk, eggs, meat especially liver and green leaf vegetables.

Pails an interesting vitamin in that the more you take, the more good it does. Most vitamins are needed in certain amounts by the body and any great excess is probably not made use of. Miss Doris Berry, Nutritionist, Ontario Dental College, explains Dr. Sherman, leading United States authority, as saying that the more riboflavin one takes, the higher the level of general health will be and the longer people will live. He says that the prime of life is extended and the signs of old age appear later if an optimum amount or riboflavin is taken, and there is a "feeling of well-being and buoyant good health," which is not the same as average good health.

A low level of riboflavin will cause the opposite, earlier signs of old age, shorter prime of life, a lower level of general health and, if prolonged, will cause a definite disease known by the formidable name of Ariboflavinosis. This is characterized by a weakening of the eyes, cracks at the mouth corners, digestive disturbances and poor skin condition. These conditions are very common, especially among office workers who drink too little milk.

Without milk it is difficult to get the optimum amount of riboflavin. The average requirement for adults is about 2.2 mgm, though large amounts will contribute towards better health.

RETAIL TRADE

In spite of rationing, reduced stocks and other restrictions, retail trade in Canada showed no decline in 1942. On the contrary, the adjusted index of retail sales in Canada for October was 151.8 (1935-39 equals 100) compared with 152.2 in September and 138.1 in October 1941. In the first ten months of this year, the level of trade was 15 per cent higher than in the same months of the previous year. Statistics of trade in the last two months of 1942 reflecting Christmas purchasing, are not yet available but reports from all centres in Canada indicate an increase of at least 10 per cent. over that of the preceding season. Furthermore it is reported that only shortages of goods prevented a more substantial gain.

While it is true that these indexes of retail trade are based on dollar value, and, therefore, do not reflect actual changes in volume the increase in retail prices during the past year has been relatively minor and a comparison with sales in October 1941, the base period of the price ceiling, may be interesting. The October index was 14 per cent lower that of October 1941 while the general index of retail prices rose only slightly more than two per cent during the year. The greatest increase was shown by the clothing and confectionery stores, while sales in drug stores, fine jewellery and shoe stores were shown by furniture and hardware stores, while sales by radio and electrical stores showed a drop of nine per cent. In view of the restrictions on sugar, chocolate, fruit and other products entering into the manufacture of candy, an increase of 28 per cent over October 1941 seems unusually large. It should be remembered, however, that October was the heavy period of purchases for Christmas shipments overseas and candy was an important constituent of every box.

These indexes, prepared to indicate the movements of business in the country do not, of course, reflect local changes. Many new restrictions, particularly those on travel, have undoubtedly had a notable effect on the distribution of retail trade in various communities, but the statistics do not indicate in detail the changes. Reports received from branches of this bank in all parts of the country indicate that a decentralization is taking place in retail trade, but that the movement has been concealed by an increase in the total value of retail trade in practically all centres of population.

For example, difficulties in transportation, gas rationing and the suspension of special excursions on the railways have tended to decrease the volume of shopping done in the cities and towns, while the ban on the use of pleasure motor cars has tended to encourage trade in the larger centres. On the other hand the shift from the medium-size urban community to the smaller town or village has not been so pronounced. There are a number of reasons for this. In the first place, the people of Canada are now on the whole enjoying a substantial increase in income and are not seriously affected by income taxes and with relatively their gasoline ration is more than sufficient for their ordinary requirements. In other parts of the country direct sale of many farm products to the consumer is a long-established practice and farmers have continued to regard market day as their shopping day and the market town has continued to be their shopping centre. Although the number of local markets is not, of course, so widespread in the Prairie Provinces, little change in rural shopping habits is reported. The farmers still go to town. It is reported from various sections of the Prairie Provinces that many farmers are meeting the situation by clubbing together to buy certain supplies for their trip. In general the tendency during 1942 would appear to have been to the benefit of the small city or market town. Local residents have been absorbing at home while farmers have continued to shop at their customary centres. Little or no gain is reported so far by isolated stores or those in village communities.

This survey covers the year 1942. It existed in 1942. More severe gasoline rationing, the impediments in travel, the near-total rubber tires and, to some extent, a disinclination to renew automobiles in view of wartime circumstances, may see a further decentralization of trade in 1943. In any year, a movement away from the smaller cities and market towns back to the corner store.

From all communities in Canada comes the report that the increase in the retail sales has been accompanied by a reduction in retailers' inventories, which cannot be fully replaced until after the end of the war. Merchants have been reluctant to dispose of their last remaining stocks and in many communities sales of clothing and shoe supply have been limited to customers' immediate needs. In addition to the reduction in inventories, the stocks on hand are reported to be largely assorted with misses of certain lines and deficiencies of others.

It may be said that the dealer of staple lines of merchandise has benefited from these changes. Specialties and luxury goods, which came the first to be cut and many special lines have already disappeared. Jewellery and other luxuries have also been affected by the heavy tax imposed in the last budget and it has been reported throughout Canada that there is an increased buying this year of useful Christmas presents, rather than knacks, gadgets and ornamental goods many of which in former years came from Germany and Japan, are no longer in supply or demand and much of the Christmas buying this year is reported to be wearing apparel and where procurable, the last remaining items of electrical equipment for house furnishings.

UNREST RISES IN RUMANIA

London, (B.U.P.) — Disaffection in Rumania is so serious that Germany may have to take it over as a fully occupied country, advices from the continent said, last week.

It was reported that Hungary, alarmed by Rumania's state, warned that its entire army out of Russia.

Rumanians were reported increasingly angry over their heavy losses in Russia. Stockholm reports said Rumanians charged that their best troops were being sacrificed by the Germans to protect their retreat.

It was generally reported that the German Minister to Rumania had warned Adolf Hitler that the Rumanian situation was dangerous and that the army, special German secret police agents and SS troops were sent there from Czechoslovakia. Hitler's personal and several Rumanian reserve divisions had been mobilized to protect Hitler's order and the Gestapo had arrested the Bishop of Transylvania, a chief Rumanian pastor, as leader of an anti-German campaign.

Armed bands were reported active in some parts of the country, all anti-German but not necessarily pro-Allied.

RECENT PLOT STAGED

There were increasing indications that an alleged revolt plot in Rumania had been connected so that men inside the Germans and Hitly incidentally against the pro - German Rumanian Government might be disposed of.

A British United Press Stockholm dispatch said the Rumanian Legation there mempiained that the German official news agency has spread "grossly biased" reports of the alleged plot.

Hungarian army casualties between last August and January 1st, Stockholm reported, were 2,256 killed, 9,617 wounded and 2,422 missing.

Madrid heard reports that the Italian Ministry of War had issued drastic decrees designed to get some 200,000 Italian soldiers back into the army. These men after getting leaves managed to have them extended, it was said and many army units were depleted.

Under the new orders, it was reported, soldiers would get a maximum of one month's leave a year except in the case of men over 40 who were agriculturists and men who were needed as physicians or chemists.

ITALY LISTS CASUALTIES

Italian casualty figures for December : The first day Italy suffered 2,920 wounded and 2,666 missing. Of the remaining 1,260 Navy men who probably were killed.

In North Africa, Italy lost 492 killed, 1,927 wounded and 269 missing, according to the figures.

Coguadron troops in Greece and Yugoslavia suffered 1,272 wounded and 15 missing.

Italian dead in Russia were 236 killed, 767 wounded and 81 missing.

Navy casualties, in addition to medical corps losses, were 521 wounded.

Italian Air Force listed 65 killed, 87 wounded and 205 missing.

It was said that 103 army and militia men were killed and 85 wounded "on Italian territory," presumably in air raids.

SOVIET DOCTORS WORK MIRACLES

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York, (AP) — Of Russia's $ 5,000 per day battle cost, the Russian War Relief, Inc., says 2,000,000 are back in the war, 70 per cent. as fighting soldiers.

With this announcement the budget war agency for the relief of the war's modern miracles.

On the 2,000-mile front, in all the way, only 1.5 per cent of the Russian wounded have died. That is slightly higher than the remarkable recovery rate at Pearl Harbor, 96 out of each 100. The report says the Russian wounded are being bolstered all wounded. The 5,100,000-losses figure is based on a Soviet communique of last September 1st, which put the recovered wounded have passed the 2,000,000 mark.

STARTED 20 YEARS AGO

This Russian miracle started twenty years ago. Then Russia had only 29,000 physicians. By 1940 she had 160,000. That wasn't enough for the war. Accordingly the Russians stepped up their doctor graduation rate from 12,000 yearly to 42,000 in six-teen months.

Ahead of the Germans they moved medical colleges, women, nurses and buildings, back beyond the Urals. One of the country's oldest, Kharkov Medical Institute, moved faculty and students on freight cars and third-class coaches, with cadavers of books and laboratory equipment.

Three days later the classes resumed in Saratov, on the Volga, 1,000 miles away.

To the doctors they added nearly 500,000 feldschers, doctors with less training than M.D.'s. Half of these feldschers were women. Their duties are in the front lines, alongside soldiers under fire.

The feldscher story is an epic and one of the three main causes of the low rate of fatalities in the Urals.

No. 1 saving is by use of sulfa drugs which delays the onset of infection.

No. 2, but equally important, is transfusion, both by liquid plasma and preserved blood.

The third great life saver is getting the wounded out during the so-called golden hours, the first six after they are hit.

The Russian method is the job of the 500,000 feldschers. These medical attendants carry shovels, transfusion, first aid.

They crawl, men and women, to the wounded as the men fall.

This Year

Put Your Brooder to Work Earlier than Ever Before !

To serve best and profit most from this year's urgent call for more eggs and more poultry meat, start good chicks earlier than ever before. Put your brooder to work a week or even 2 weeks ahead of your usual time ! That will give you more time to look after them properly before the spring rush ..... more time to grow and develop them into heavy, lore Fall ..... and give you bigger, better birds, layers of more even demand in autumn, and supplies known, more eggs and more profit in winter and November.

Order What You Need EARLY

Be "forehanded". The days are gone when you could walk into a store with a list and walk out again with all the goods you wanted. Check your equipment. If you need anything — repairs, replacements, even a handful of nails—order them now. Make a systematic job of it, for if you overlook anything you can't count on making it good at the last minute. That's also true of feed, fuel, and chicks — good chicks. Order in advance. And while you're about it, make sure they're good chicks. It's a waste time, work, feed — and hope on second-rate. Don't order too many or too few. Overcrowding is disastrous, and chicks grow fast. This is more room every day in order more than expected and common sense tell that you can raise that you want to raise more your brooding equipment handle at least the number brood extra early, and other in the Spring.

THE CHINESE STILL LAUGH A LOT

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Chungking — China's wartime capital is one of the highest-priced cities of the world and as such reflects from the rest of the country a cost of living which is staggering.

Chungking presents some exceptions of course, because it has an ancient provincial city which had metropolitan conditions suddenly thrust upon it. This old town, which clings precariously to the precipitous sides of the mountain that lards it every time the Yangtze and Chialing rivers, never was intended as the first city of the country.

Scarcity of accommodations and lack of suitable transportation facilities have forced some prices up. Still rental-wise here give a fair gauge of the country's difficulties.

Life isn't easy in China these days, though it should be said that even the richest food, during many districts in Hunan province where there has been a drought.

Wages of labor have increased enormously as the cost of living has greatly, generally speaking, risen. Many business men are keeping pace with the rise. But the poor white - collar worker, as usual, is suffering heavily. Salaries haven't moved up with the cost of living.

ON THE FIRING LINE

Chungking doesn't escape because it is the capital. On the contrary, it is, so to speak, on the firing line. Because of the lack of raw materials, it is likely that the plaster in your room is falling off and holes in the roof may let the rain pour plumbing. If you have plumbing may not work.

The lack of transportation also has had a scarcity in many things and cost of wheat China has much. Rice is one of these. Chungking Government offices and public places like restaurants are considered to have times, but the winter weather is raw and cold.

Charcoal is as precious as molten pearls and many cars are few and far between.

Let it be known, like cafes are shared with all who may be in the room. That is typical throughout Chungking.

With all this, the Chinese laugh a lot and it's real. Adversity may dampen their spirits temporarily but it can't long keep away laughter. For the Chinese even can extract humor from hard hardship.

Almost anything that comes to their mills is grist, and he is one of the best jokers I've met. For instance, they still get a smile out of the story about Marco Polo. He was one of several visitors of the parts he visited long ago and he left behind orders about a record of what he saw.

It seems Marco became annoyed at repeated questions about his wealth and the traveller was telling how much whereupon Marco flashed his ring. "Behold the source of what I claim pleases!"

I'm glad I came to China if for nothing else but to see these people laugh. Having experienced their incorrigible spirit, I have no fears whatever that the Japanese can beat them. You can't defeat a people who have such a pronounced sense of humor as the Chinese.

ARMY CASUALTY TOTAL AT 7,243

Ottawa (CP) — Canadian Army casualties from the beginning of the war to last December 25 totalled 7,243. It is announced officially by the Defence Department.

An official tabulation showed the total included 1,915 deaths due to enemy action.

A summary of casualties follows:

Fatal casualties, enemy action	715
Deaths, all other causes, overseas	720
Deaths, all causes, in Canada	480
Missing	3
Prisoners of war, including interned	2570
Wounded, not - fatal, enemy action	737
A considerable number of casualties

A considerable number of casualties from December 25 on the Dieppe operation are not included in the tabulation.

Two Main Actions

The official statement did not break down the casualties to show the numbers which were those in the main actions in which Canadian troops have taken part so far—the defence of Hong Kong in December 1941, and the attack on Dieppe last August 19, but it is understood that heavy casualty lists.

Almost all the casualties in prisoners, killed and wounded occurred in those two actions, with Dieppe accounting for most of those killed in action.

An unofficial tabulation made from published casualty lists of the Dieppe losses shows 515 killed, 570 wounded, 2,050 missing and 1,903 prisoners.

Since the official statement may include men who have been reported in the Department as casualties but whose names, for one reason or another, have not yet appeared in official lists, and since the most recent lists are not included, discrepancies between the unofficial count and the official tabulation were to be expected.

70th List

To date 165 men have been reported killed at Hong Kong and some 1,600 are known to be prisoners, 87 are listed as missing and 17 as having died of wounds. A number of others have not so far been listed officially. The total Hong Kong force was 1,965 officers and men.

70TH LIST

The Canadian (Active) Army list last week issued the 70th casualty list of the war containing names of two men killed in action and two missing, all three involved in the Hong Kong engagement.

Mr. Burdette was predeceased by his wife, formerly Flora Hooper, about three years ago. He leaves four sisters, Miss Georgia Burdette, formerly of California, who has resided with her brother since the death of Mrs. Burdette; Mrs. Fred Burne, Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Helma Gandier, Pasadena, California, and Mrs. F. E. McWhirter, Tacaffe, N.J.

GREAT PART OF SPOILS IN RUSSIA BEING ABANDONED

BY GLENN BABB

Associated Press Staff Writer

The German Command apparently is preparing the German people for the abandonment of the great part of the spoils of last summer's campaign in Russia. Goebbels' propaganda machine is admitting that the situation in the east is serious; an eminent military analyst warns that Germany can stalemate in numbers and the fact that this winter's Russian offensive is not going to be nearly so concentrated than in 1941-42. Meanwhile, the main aspects of the Soviet-German strategy are becoming apparent.

There is no longer any serious doubt that a general retreat is under way in the Caucasus. The speed of the Red Army's advance north-east from Maukop and Nalchik suggests that most of the fighting consists of rearguard actions, to permit a reasonably orderly withdrawal. The Germans may claim with some justification that they are shortening their lines according to plan, but the plan is not that of which Hitler boasted last September when he saw Grozny oil fields almost in his grasp.

It has been forged on the Nazi Command by the slashing blows of Zhukov's columns further north.

While her all the Caucasus is to be given up will depend largely on the military skill from Britain and North America, around the tip of Africa through the Indian Ocean and Iran, it would not be surprising to learn that tanks from the western democracies are rumbling with the Kuban Cossacks as they ride triumphantly back into their homeland or that Anglo-American planes are being used for such raids as that yesterday on a German air base near Krasnodar.

There is no denying that German resistance is stiffening in the sectors where the threat to Rostov must be held back if the whole Nazi army in the Caucasus is not to be trapped.

ABOUT MEAT ALTERNATIVES

Hello Homemakers! News of the beef shortage — and possible rationing — calls for more than merely an extra helping of vegetables at meals. Wise homemakers will plan alternative foods to do the job that meat does — "stick to your ribs," as the men say.

At meat, you really get four food values: (1) protein for building up and repairing body tissues, (2) iron for red blood cells and carrying oxygen, (3) fat for heat and energy, and (4) B vitamins for good appetite and nerves. As you know, different foods have different food values and some foods have more than one B vitamin values similar to those contained in meat. The following is a list of meat alternatives: poultry, fish, eggs, cheese (which contains small amounts of fat), dried peas, beans, green vegetables and potatoes. And don't forget the meat "extras" — liver, heart, kidney, tripe and brain — so exceptionally rich in minerals and, therefore no substitutes for them.

After your busy day's work, an old favourite recipe easily prepared and satisfyingly flavoursome will help you keep spirits and good repair. We suggest eggs; omelette, scrambled, poached, deviled, scalloped, curried, frizassed, etc.; cheese; fondue, omelette, souffle, macaroni; fish, cakes, croquettes, creamed, deviled, fried, baked, etc.

One important tip to remember in the cookery of alternatives such as cheese, eggs and fish — use short cooking periods and low temperatures.

Why? Cheese is already a cooked product and the protein in eggs and fish is often toughened by high temperatures.

RECIPES

Rice Ravioli

One tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, one cup milk, half-pound cheese, diced, one cup cooked rice, half cup of chopped celery.

Make a sauce from butter, flour, salt, mustard, pepper and milk. Turn element off. Add cheese and stir until it is melted and mixture is smooth. Add rice and celery. Serve in toast cases or on slices of crisp toast.

Crispy Fish Cakes

One and one-half cups salt, cod, shredded, three cups potatoes diced, three onions sliced, one and one-half tablespoons baking fat, one-fifth teaspoon pepper, one egg well beaten.

Cook codfish in cold water for half an hour. Drain. Put fish, potatoes, and onions in saucepan, cover with boiling water and cook until potatoes are tender (about 10 min.) Pour off the water and shake saucepan over heat to fluff potatoes. Mash thoroughly, add baking fat, pepper and egg. Beat until light and fluffy and shape mixture into flat cakes. Brown on both sides in hot fat. Serves six.

Carrots with Lima Beans

One cup dried Lima beans, one cup raw carrot strips, two tablespoons chopped onions, three tablespoons baking fat, three tablespoons milk.

Soak Lima beans overnight; drain. Cook in boiling salted water until tender. Saute onion in butter until delicately browned. Add carefully Lima beans, carrots and milk, mixing lightly. Season to taste. Serve hot.

TAKE A TIP:

1 The use of extension cords with your household electrical appliances is quite efficiency. If too many appliances are attached to one plug or outlet, you may be the danger of overloading the circuit and blowing a fuse.

2 Clean your old playing cards with-out leaving sticky surface by using a small amount of spirits of camphor on a cloth and rubbing dry with a soft cloth. The men in uniform would appreciate any extra packs you may have.

The QUESTION POX

Family Responds To New Dishes When Frosty Days Come

Frosty winter days sharpen appetites and the family responds with distinction to the dishes that bring variety to cold-weather menus. Dependable and economical, they are more in order with winter meals and the limited recipes from the kitchens of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture will prove welcome suggestions. They are patriotic, for they call for the use of those Canadian cereals which are in such abundance this year. Moreover, the daily use of cereals is stressed in Canada's Official Food Rules, and these cereal desserts offer another way of working this important group of foods into the day's meals.

Oatmeal Prune Pudding

One cup cooking rolled oats, one Half-teaspoon baking soda, Quarter-teaspoon salt, Quarter-teaspoon cinnamon Half-pound prunes, uncooked and cut fine, Two eggs, well beaten One-third cup molasses Two-thirds cup water One and half tablespoons lemon juice

Mix rolled oats, soda, salt cinnamon and prunes. Combine the eggs, molasses, water and lemon juice and add to the dry ingredients. Pour into a greased mould, cover and steam for three hours. The prunes may be replaced by figs.

Serves eight.

Barley Pudding

One-third cup uncooked barley Four cups boiling water One-quarter teaspoon salt Two eggs One and half cups of milk Quarter-cup sugar Half-teaspoon vanilla

Cook barley in the rapidly boiling salted water for about forty minutes, or until tender and practically all the water has been absorbed. Make a custard of beaten egg yolks, sugar and milk. Add cooked barley and cook in the top of a double boiler until the custard mixture coats a silver spoon. Add vanilla and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Serve hot or cold with applesauce or jelly.

Serves six.

Farina Fig Pudding

One-third cup farina One and half cups hot milk One teaspoon salt Two tablespoons butter One-third cup molasses Half-teaspoon ginger Quarter-teaspoon cinnamon One cup chopped figs or raisins Two eggs

Add farina and salt slowly to hot milk and cook till thick, stirring constantly. Cook in double boiler for thirty minutes. Add butter, molasses spices, beaten egg yolks, and figs or raisins. If using figs, cut some finely and leave some about the size of raisins. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased baking dish and place in a pan of hot water. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot with top milk or any desired sauce. This pudding may be reheated by steaming over hot water.

RECIPES FOR DRIED BEANS

In using dried beans, it must always be borne in mind that they must be soaked in water overnight before they are ready to cook. This preparation will have to start the day before the meal is to be served. The following recipes offer interesting ways of preparing palatable dishes from these healthful foods.

Black Bean Soup

One pound dried black beans, Two quarts water, Two quarts cold stock (beef bouillon cubes may be used), Half-teaspoon soda, One tablespoon salt Quarter-teaspoon pepper Celery tops, diced or fresh Two carrots, Two small onions

Wash the beans and soak overnight in water to cover. In the morning drain and add remaining ingredients, cut the carrots and onions in small pieces. Cook slowly about three hours. Put through a sieve, reheat and serve with a thin slice of lemon floating on each cup.

Lima Beans With Bacon

One and one-half cups dried Lima beans, One onion, Quarter-cup minced onion Half-teaspoon salt One cup diced celery Two tablespoons chopped green pepper One cup tomato pulp Half-cup water Two tablespoons melted butter or margarine One-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Soak beans in cold water to cover for eight hours. Drain, cover with boiling water, add onion and salt, and simmer slowly until tender, but not mushy. Drain again, and add other ingredients, combining thoroughly and place in greased baking dish. Cover with fine bread crumbs and cover these lay strips of bacon. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg.) for about one-half hour. Four generous servings.

Lima Beans With Mushrooms

Two cups dried lima beans Half-teaspoon salt Two tablespoons butter or margarine One tablespoons flour Half-cup chicken stock Half-cup rich milk Salt Paprika.

Cover beans with cold water and soak overnight. Drain and simmer in boiling salted water until tender but not too soft. Drain again. Saute the mushrooms in butter or margarine. Remove from pan and add to drippings one tablespoon butter or margarine. When melted stir in flour and continue stirring until well blended. Then add slowly the chicken stock and milk. To this mixture add the beans and mushrooms, salt and paprika. Heat again and serve. Serves six.

Both of these lima bean mixtures make excellent stuffing for green peppers.

Baked Beans With Maple Sugar

Two cups yellow-eye beans Half-pound bacon, unsliced One-half cup maple sugar Four cups boiling water Two teaspoons salt Half-teaspoon pepper One medium onion

Soak beans overnight. Drain, add more water and boil slowly, using one-half teaspoon soda for each quart of water, until skins crack. Drain again. Place peeled onion in bottom of bean pot, add beans and season with salt and pepper, scored in squares on top. Over all pour the boiling water. Cover and bake in a slow oven (250 deg.) for eight hours, adding water as necessary. Uncover during last hour of baking. Most delicious.

Sheets Will Wear Longer If Given Careful Attention

Consumer Information Service offers seven ways to make sheets last longer:

1. Beds should be made properly. Edges smoothed under the mattress. Then sheets wear than bunched-under edges.

2 Sheets should not be yanked off the bed but should be loosened all around the edges first.

3 Mattress pad should be used between sheet and mattress.

4 Sheet should be pressed every other time used, putting bottom to top to distribute wear.

5 Bare springs should be covered with heavy cloth so that when sheets are tucked under the mattress the springs will not cause abrasive action against sheets.

6 Sheets should be washed as soon as possible after use this and avoid pressure on the sheet caused by keeping the life of sheets.

7 Sheets or pillow cases should never be used for laundry bags.

Brass, Copper Urgently Needed To Help War Manufacture

Brass and copper scrap must be had as these two metals are urgently needed to help manufacture vital war equipment. In and around every home in the towns and cities of Canada, and on the farms, there is plenty of scrap can be found. It is needed up to every Canadian to start a little systematic collection of these items from some of this scrap.

For instance, no small an article as a burnt out light bulb, contains no only copper and brass but also for war purposes. The copper and brass from a thousand of these old bulbs will provide enough of these metals for fifty complete rifles.

Articles which should be turned into Salvage depots when they are no longer of any use include copper hot bottles, under faucets, taps and valves, curtain rods, and countless other articles.

Consumer Service points out, however, that any usable articles should not be turned in as scrap. Such articles have to be replaced by new articles and the manufacturers of these articles have been urged to do so.

Plumbing and bathroom equipment in which copper and brass is used, is urged to report such intention, before it is done to ensure, possible be replaced. All of the screwed pipes should be replaced to prevent their frowing and annually during the cold winter months.

If there is a copper water heater in use, it should be replaced by a steel one as unobtainable so as to check up on possible breakages with the use in the meantime.

The use of strong cleaning powders on copper utensils should be discouraged when cleaning fixtures. All fixtures should be repaired promptly.

Some 22,000 Women In British Postal Service

London, (CP) — Permission with the full approval of the Postmaster-General, girls are common sight in any London or country district. There are 14,000 women employed on collecting and delivering letters and another 8,000 sub-postmistresses, which is quite apart from the women working for the G.P.O. as telegraphists, counter clerks and telephonists.

The postwomen on their rounds on collection or delivery in navy blue uniforms. It has led pipping around the collar and sleeves and the top men wear their hats turned-up Australian hats turned up on one side, or their peaked cap, with navy blue slacks or skirt, whichever they prefer.

Working the city and business areas means heavy collections so the women go round with a horsean or motor-van, though in suburban districts a sack is sufficient. Sizes are limited, every fortnight and the early shift works from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. It depends on the load of work as to the number of shifts there are in a day. There are no night shifts. Other jobs are collections or deliveries so there are no night shifts. Other jobs are carried on through a 24-hour day and the girls have to take their turn at each different shift.

Many of the women and girls, at a big sorting depot visited, some of whom were young, some not so young but all fine, robust, others frail looking, have homes to look after as well as their postoffice work.

NEW UNIFORMS, FOR R.C.A.F. WOMEN

The Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) has a new uniform for the New Year — planned and executed with the aid of Canada's foremost designers. And it offers pointers in wartime chic, practicality, and fabric thrift, to every well-dressed woman.

Color, material, and insignia are essentially unchanged. Their proud identity with the Air Force has not been altered. But from head to heel the uniform has been streamlined — smartly, sensibly.

Outwardly different from last year's model is the cap — a clinging, deep-vizored dream. Its crown affords the many folds of the original, subtracting material as its adds flattery. The tunic, outwardly, is much the same as the old one, but a slimmer line is achieved by doing away with the deeply pleated pockets. False pockets at the top and patch pockets below are the new idea. The belt is detachable for simpler adjustment to various waistlengths, and the back is smoothly tailored in one piece.

The skirt, with six flat gores instead of a kick pleat for fullness, has more yards of blue wool for Canada; but its hem — still the regulation 16 inches from the ground — allows for a swinging stride.

Only to greatcoats has been added — a detail fought by a half-dozen Pochets are cut with small lines and flare to make the style not only trim but more comfortable. The model will be worn to the ground.

"Albatross" insignia, different, The new woman's shoulder straps, chosen to stand out. What the uniform welcome most is the blue lightness of it, carried on the left crossing from the tie to the heart and so round to compensate for the pockets.

The new summer uniform is identical in style except that it will be made of a light crash material.

HOLLYWOOD and HERE

By TAP REVES

Jap prisoners taken by the Americans in the Pacific are mentioned. Some of them are reported to be very funny. One group recently gave some questions and answers that are amusing and interesting. One asked if they had ever seen Joe Louis, and about the battles of American crime fighters and, no doubt, demanded to see a lawyer. But the question that stunned the Yankees came from the Jap who asked, "You have picture of Lana Turner?" . . . Edgar Snowden, the famed producer, is writing the biography of his brother, who was his partner, for many years and recently passed away. It will be called "My Brother Archie." Edgar Snowden says, great names in the theatrical world years ago, hail from Toronto.

In order to make "Corvettes in Action" Director Richard Rosson, his actors and camera crew made five real crossings on Corvettes. At sea from eight to eleven days at a time, they crossed with convoys and joined the destroyer escort in action. Each was insured by the studio with Lloyd's of London for $30,000. The third trip two vessels were torpedoed and during the five days but ten ships were lost—and they subs all the way each time. They shot 75,000 feet of film, 2,100 of which was censored by Ottawa. One torpedo missed Rosson's ship by 40 feet. "Corvettes in Action" will be a real tribute to the Canadian Navy.

Lionel Stander, the coarse-faced, rough-voiced comedian, will return to pictures to play a serious role in "Unconquered" . . . Return of the busiest girls in the United States is Madeleine Carroll, wife of the busiest actor, Sterling Hayden, is in the United States Army. Miss Carroll, temporarily retired from films, has a desk job with the United Seamen's Service, which helps merchant marine sailors. She was outraged by the way the merchant marine men are ignored when praise is handed out, in spite of the constant danger and hardships they go through to supplies to soldiers and civilians. The merchant mariners don't even allowed into hotels until recently, while servicemen were partied everywhere, so Madeleine vowed to do all she could to make it different. She lost her sister during a bombardment by her native England.

Orson Welles will act again opposite Joan Fontaine in "Jane Eyre," the English classic. Money doesn't seem to enter into it, but Welles can't earn more than $25,000 per year for himself under the new American wage-freezing law. Hollywood's got something like $15,000 for the job . . . Hollywood's soldier, as a tall Scotch-Irish veteran named Ted Dreyer who play soldiers in the Army, and he's the fellow who trains the extras who play soldiers in the films of armies of the various nations. His first job as a Hollywood drillmaster was in 1930 for "All Quiet." Having been a soldier, he knew his stuff. After he gets through with his present picture he rejoins the real army.

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA
74TH ANNUAL MEETING

W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, urges st war planning on basis of free enterprise — urges stem likely to appeal to self-reliant young Canadians.

G. Dobson, Vice-President and General Manager, reorts assets over $1,291,000,000. —— Liquid position redingly strong. —— War adds heavily to routine
ities of banks.

"There are plenty of hard-headed people in Canada who, for instance, have money in the bank; there are more than five million depositors and more than $3,300 million. Your bank alone has substantially one million deposit accounts. There are more than three million Canadians who own Victory Bonds. War Savings Certificates or other government obligations. There are more than four million individuals holders of life insurance policies in Canada. These are the people who, alert to their own well-being, will tell the politicians and agitators what schemes are acceptable in the mode of life which, with all the faults it possesses, has produced these savings and these bulwarks of personal and family security. These are the people who must be considered by those who seek to influence the course of events."

Mr. Wilson readily acknowledged that the system of free enterprise under which the whole economic system and our institutions of government were the results of evolution and expressed the conviction, that some of the changes which had been brought about by the war would remain. "There must and will be progress, particularly in the realm of maximum employment and freedom from want. The ordinary people of the world will look to some agency at the war's close to avert mass unemployment. No previous plea for pensions, nor all the social security measures devised by Governments will be effective without a solution of the employment problem," he said.

COLLECTION OF TAXES

Referring to the present method of collecting personal income taxes, Mr. Wilson expressed the opinion that during the present eight months' lag in payments created a most serious difficulty so far as the individual taxpayer was concerned and could not be in the best interests of the country. He pointed out that at present the taxpayer was in arrears eight months in some of his payments and that this extra tax liability could, under certain circumstances, become a very serious burden. He felt that a cancellation of taxes for the eight months involved would not necessarily result in any diminution of revenue to the State. It would only become necessary to retain the higher scale of taxation for a somewhat longer period, and at all times the Government would often be collecting its taxes from current earnings and not on earnings of the preceding year. Mr. Wilson hoped that the Government would respond favourably to the many representations that were being made to it on this subject.

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

In presenting the financial statement, Mr. Sydney G. Dobson, Vice-President and General Manager said that the present high tempo of business activity due to war was clearly reflected in the bank's balance sheet and that under a number of headings record levels had been attained. Despite steady expansion in the bank's business, profits had been reduced, due in part to relatively low yields on the bank's heavy investments in government bonds and to increased taxes.

WILSON'S CROSSING

Wilson's Crossing, Jan. 16.—It was a great shock to the community when we learned of the death of one of our near neighbors, the late Mrs. Nathan Wagar, who passed away suddenly on Christmas night at the home of Mr. Arnold King. Mrs. Wagar had been spending the day in company with her husband and son and wife, with whom she had been a sufferer from high blood pressure and nerve trouble for years, but had been well as usual previous to her sudden passing on Christmas night. Much sympathy is extended to her family and friends. She leaves to mourn, her husband, three sons, Norman, Nate and Stanley, also two daughters, Mrs. Kirk Thompson, of Kingston, and Mrs. Stanley Jackson, of Enterprise, also several grandchildren.

The stork visited the home of Mr. Stanley Wagar on Friday, leaving a bouncing baby boy. Congratulations.

Mr. Thomas Breen and Master Vincent Breen left on Saturday for Toronto, where Vincent will under go hospital treatment for the removal of a head, which he inhaled several weeks ago and which lodged in his lung. All hope this will be successful.

Mr. Billy McGraw is visiting at Mr. T. Breen's.

Miss Dorothy Wiese, of Centreville, spent the week end at Mr. Wm. Potter's.

Misses R. Putter and Geo. Fenwick spent Thursday in Kingston, receiving treatments on their eyes.

Mrs. A. Moran and children are spending a few days at Mr. J. Finn's.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Fenwick spent Sunday at Oscar Fenwick's.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Switzer spent Sunday at Mr. R. Potter's.

Because of the decrease in net income the bank had found it necessary to reduce the dividend rate of 8 per cent. to 6 per cent. In this connection Mr. Dobson noted that during the past twenty-five years shareholders had had their dividends reduced more drastically than this to meet lesser years of business and that on the basis of today's dividend, the return is only 3.27 per cent. on the average cost of the shares to the public over a period of years.

"Total assets are now $1,291,615,946. This is the largest figure in the history of the bank and one which has carried the year of $216,496,185." said Mr. Dobson. "Our liquid position is naturally very strong. Our liquid assets of $906 440 239 . representing 73.44 per cent of our total liability to the public.

Mr. Dobson also noted that deposits totalling $1,181,217,192 had increased by over $225,900,000. Of the total $928,038,000 were in Canada.

COMMERCIAL LOANS

Commercial Loans in Canada expanded during the year $13,360,555 and are now $255,148,000. Included in this amount are temporary loans of $42,971,183 to assist producers of Victory Bonds. As there was but a small total of such loans current at the end of the previous year it will be seen that ordinary commercial loans are considerably less than they were a year ago. Considering the tremendous expansion in business generally throughout Canada, the situation is anomalous, but the explanation is that the increased production is not being met with war work. This is either financed directly by Governments or bought on short or at any rate with very moderate assistance. There is no doubt that period in the history of this bank—and I may say a similar situation applies to the banks when the ratio of commercial loans to deposits has been so low. The outlook in this respect is not encouraging as unfortunately the tendency appears to be for the Government to extend its policy of directly financing industry beyond the war work."

The General Manager reported that the bank had further strengthened its position in conformity with the government's war time manpower, the bank has closed 39 offices. This, he said, did not mean lessening of business the bank but rather a consolidation. It did, however, represent a considerable inconvenience to some of the bank's customers but he felt that they would appreciate that the exigencies of war necessitated such steps.

MANY OF STAFF IN UNIFORM

During the war period our staff in Canada has increased from 5,165 to 6,049. the new members being almost all young women. Our male staff is now reduced to 28 per cent. of the total and it is not uncommon to find that at a branch with 15 to 20 employees there are only 4 or 5 men. I cannot speak too highly of the manner in which these new members of our staff, many without any previous business experience, have carried on their duties often under difficult conditions. Routine work has increased as a result of war activity. The handling of Victory Loan applications and the registration of coupons alone entail a great deal of additional work and the volume of cheques in circulation has grown considerably. Many of the young women recently engaged are called upon to assume responsibilities which under normal conditions would be performed by experienced men. This means that the senior officers, in addition to looking after their own duties, must devote much time to supervision and training.

"We are proud of the contribution made by our staff to the armed services. Since the outbreak of war we have granted leave of absence for military service to 1,076 men. Of this number, 12 are reported from Canadian branches, and this is equivalent to well over half of the male staff entered for 45 years of age at the outbreak of war. I am sure I am voicing the feeling of the shareholders when I say that we wish a safe return to these men who are serving their country so patriotically.

"Unhappily there have been casualties. Thirty-four of our young men, whose names are recorded in the printed proceedings of this meeting, have given their lives in the service of Canada. These names are held in honour, and we pay tribute to their memory."

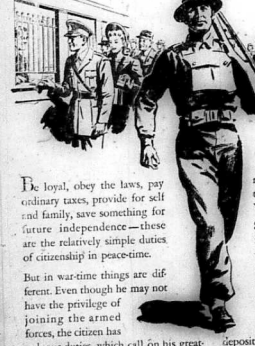
HOLD HIGH THE TORCH OF FREEDOM

WAR-TIME DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP



Be loyal, obey the laws, pay ordinary taxes, provide for self and family, save something for future independence — these are the relatively simple duties of citizenship in peace-time.

But in war-time things are different. Even though he may not have the privilege of joining the armed forces, the citizen has arduous duties, which call on his greatest resources of character, industry and financial means. Added to the normal requirements are the obligations of extraordinary taxes, Victory Bonds and war charities.

So great are the financial duties imposed by war that the citizen must resort to unusual, drastic, systematic, determined saving to meet them.

The Bank of Montreal offers you the service of a Special Savings Account, in which you can deposit every pay-day, or other income date, the right proportionate amount to cover your war obligations when due.

BATH

Bath, Jan. 16 — The storm on Thursday night of this past week which nearly tied up traffic for other places, did not seem so severe in these parts. The plow came through early and our roads are in splendid condition for either teaming or motors. The local mail boats have not missed any time so far, and have been on time, as usual.

Another of our local boys has joined the King's forces. Graham Thompson left Bat Wednesday for Ottawa to report for duty. This is the fourth son of Mr. Elizabeth Thompson and the late John Thompson, to enlist. Mrs. Thompson has lived in the village since promising with her parents from England many years ago. They settled in Bath with their little family. Mr. Thompson was a son of the Thompsons who formerly owned and operated the Bay View House. Bath is very proud of her lads who have gone forth to meet the call to action at this time. And in the first Great War many of our boys went over and came back. Our best wishes and congratulations are extended to Mrs. Thompson, and we sincerely hope and pray for her lads, William, George, Albert and Graham, that they may come back in her safety.

The A. Y. P. A. met at the home of the Secretary, Alice Miller. After the opening exercises, conducted by the Rector, Rev. L. G. O. Walker, a short program followed, which consisted of a contest, arranged by Eric Feegel, and one arranged by Jessie Cooper. This was followed by an impromptu debate by Miss Ellis and Eric Feegel against the Misses M. Black and D. Burns. The subject was "That the car was better for carry and our roads are in splendid condition for either teaming or motors." The local mail boats have not missed any time so far, and have been on time, as usual.

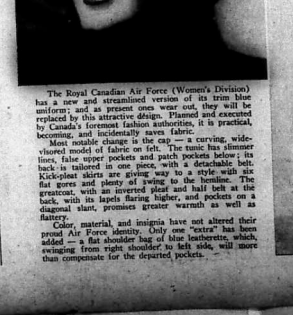
R.C.A.F. Women Get New Uniform



The Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) has a new and streamlined version of its trim blue uniform; and as present ones wear out, they will be replaced by this attractive design. Planned and executed by Canada's foremost fashion authorities, it is practical, becoming, and incidentally saves fabric.

Most notable change is the cap — a curving, wide-visored model of fabric on felt. The tunic has slimmer lines, false upper pockets and patch pockets below; its back is tailored in one piece, with a detachable belt. Kick-pleat skirts are giving way to a style with six flat gores and plenty of swing to the hemline. The greatcoat, with an inverted pleat and half belt at the back, with its lapels flaring higher, and pockets on a diagonal slant, promises greater warmth as well as flattery.

Color, material, and insignia have not altered their proud Air Force identity. Only one "extra" has been added — a flat shoulder bag of blue leatherette, which, swinging from right shoulder to left side, will more than compensate for the departed pockets.

MILITARY TEAM OF KINGSTON BEATS NAPANEE ALL-STARS

Hockey fans were treated to a wide open exhibition game last Thursday when a military team from Kingston defeated Napanee All-Stars 12 to 6.

Included in the visitors' line-up were several players formerly of professional standing and particularly in the limelight was Gus Geisebrecht, the former Detroit N. H. L. player and for line duties he had Glen Hrydson, formerly of Chicago Black Hawks and "Joe" Cailin, a Kingston boy who made the grade in the American League. Norman "Red" Acker, former Pittsburg goaler, played his regular position and although not "wearing down" he showed the fans some of the agility required by big league goalies.

Also with the Kingston team was Dom Walls, a former Napanee boy, now with the Provost Corps, who first learned to stand on skates at the local rink. He helped himself to a pair of goals.

Regan, Woods and Culhane were the best line for Napanee. Regan continues for half his team's goals.

The game was clean throughout, with an absence of any bodying and the Army forwards mostly seemed content to let their own defence break up the Napanee rushes rather than engage in any close back-checking.

The fans got their big chance to yell when Regan lifted the puzzled goal to make it six all early in the last period, but the visitors soon regained the lead when Geisebrecht got parked directly in front of the net for Cailin's perfect pass.

The visitors led the first two periods 3-1 and 6-3. Leary, Woods, Barr and Vanvolkenburg were the best of goal scorers for Napanee.

Kingston players outweighed the locals considerably but did not use this advantage but relied on their speed and puck-carrying hold the play.

Major Ed Watts, former Napanee Chief of Police and now Assistant-Deputy Provost Marshall, M.D. No. 3, was in charge of the Kingston team.

The teams lined-up as follows:—

Kingston: Goal, McAtee; defence, Mortimer; Nicholson; forwards, Brydson, Geisebrecht, Catlin; subs. McNaught, Duke, Jean Armstrong.

Napanee — Goal, Perry; defence, Leary, Thompson; forwards, Regan, Woods, Culhane; subs. Vanvolkenburg, Holmes, Maracle, Barrett; subs. Warriner.

Referee — Buttler.

ROMMELL'S FORCES DRIVEN INTO TUNISIA BY BRITISH 8TH ARMY

Good Reports Come From All Parts of Allied Advances

WEDNESDAY —

On Tuesday morning the left wing of the British Eighth Army was within thirty miles of Tripoli, and the right wing was about eighty miles away from the port. It was considered possible that Rommel would not try to hold Tripoli; but would try to keep on going until he joined up with the other German forces in Tunisia.

Some sharp fighting was carried on in Tunisia, where enemy tanks and infantry smashed at the French in an area about 45 miles southeast of Tunis. Some ground was lost by the Allies at first but was later regained.

In six days, Russian forces advancing on Kharkov took 52,000 German prisoners. Kharkov was reported in grave danger of falling into the Russians' hands. The Soviet were only 70 miles from the city. Four main Russian armies continued to press in on Rostov.

• • •

Australian and United States infantrymen took the last two important Japanese positions on the Papuan Peninsula in New Guinea and the surviving Japs were said to be cornered in three small pockets.

THURSDAY —

The south arm of the Russian offensive aimed at Kharkov, the great steel city of the Ukraine, advanced seventeen miles on Wednesday and was within 15 miles southeast of the city. The northern arm was still eighty miles away. In two months the Russians have smashed or partly destroyed 89 Axis divisions, nearly 1-third of the German-Satellite total of 500,000 men. The Russian Caucasus armies were reported only fifty miles from Armavir on the approaches to the Nazi-held Maikop oil fields.

Fighting French forces driving north from the Lake Chad district, joined with the British Eighth Army, adding still another threat to Tripoli.

During the first three days of the week, 14 Axis ships were sunk in the Mediterranean, bringing the total sunk since January 1st, to 22.

In five days of jungle fighting, United States troops killed 1,032 Japanese in Guadalcanal.

The German air force, at a cost of 14 planes, bombed a school and killed between 60 and 80 children. Fifteen Nazi planes were shot down.

FRIDAY—

The Russians made a further advance of fifty miles into the Ukraine. Their southern arm was 115 miles from Kharkov and the northern arm was 79 miles east of the Donetz city. Killing of 4 million Germans and capture of 200,000 more was announced by the chairman of the Moscow Soviet.

The prospects of Rommel being able to join the Axis forces in Tunisia with anything resembling an effective force were reported to be steadily diminishing. The British Eighth Army, which has been pursuing Rommel were reported closing in on Tripoli. A second column of Fighting French from Lake Chad joined with the French in Algeria.

Allied forces in the South Atlantic sank five Axis subs in the past month.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers raided France and Belgium on Thursday, without loss.

The British Navy scored an important victory in the Battle of the Mediterranean supply lines by sinking 4 enemy ships in two days of running action.

SATURDAY—

Tripoli, the last of the Italian Empire cities in Africa, fell into the hands of the British on Friday and the main remnants of Marshal Rommel's Afrika Corps were believed to have escaped into Tunisia.

Allied aircraft was reported lashing at twin tank-led German columns heading south-eastward in Tunisia in an attempt to capture an important mountain range from the French troops. British tanks and infantry moved in to support the French.

The Russian Army, in a swift advance on Friday, captured the German air base of Salsk, 100 miles southeast of Rostov. Russian troops also took important cities in the Donetz Basin, and on the Don River.

Large numbers of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. and United States planes carried out extensive raids over Northern France and Belgium on Friday.

MONDAY —

The British Eighth Army occupied Tripoli on Saturday and crossed the border into Tunisia after the fleeing Rommel and his army which is reported to be reduced to a probable 40,000 men.

In a big aerial battle over Bizerte the Axis lost 19 of their large fighter planes and 16 others were damaged. Not a single Allied plane was lost.

Along the whole Russian front during the week-end the Russian Army continued to meet with great successes.

With the surrender of a small Japanese force fighting came to an end in Papua, on Saturday.

Lorient, Germany's chief submarine base on the Bay of Biscay, was heavily bombarded from the air, day and night, during the week end.

During Saturday night another smashing blow was delivered by the R. A. F. on Western Germany.

THURSDAY—

The Russians continued their successful drives and advanced another 25 miles in the Caucasus. Russian forces have reached the plains of southern Rostov Province and there is now no natural barrier between them and the city of Rostov.

In the past two months the Russians have disorganized a million and a half Germans and have taken 200,000 prisoners and 13,000 guns.

Rommel is reported to have succeeded in getting the remnants of his force behind the Mareth Line in Tunisia. But his position there is considered very insecure as he is open to attack from the east and west.

Fighting French troops, operating west of Tripoli, were reported only fifty miles from the coast.

United States forces during the week-end made important gains on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons.

The people of Marseilles in France were reported to be resisting German occupation and many of them were barricading themselves in their homes and firing upon the Germans.

The United Nations were reported in diplomatic circles to have agreed on a formula for some kind of Supreme Council to direct and unify efforts to win the war in 1943.

Lieut. Bruce Irvine Takes Part In London Air Defence

Somewhere in England. (C.P.) A Canadian anti-aircraft battery was praised last week for its part in the aerial defence of London just Sunday when it tossed four tons of high explosive shells a minute at German raiders.

It is the only Canadian heavy anti-aircraft battery in the London defence area. The unit was praised by the general officer commanding the anti-aircraft command, Sir Frederick Pile, who messaged: "Keep up the good work, Canada."

The Canadians were not credited with destruction of enemy planes but they were confident that at least two raiders they engaged did not return to their bases.

The commander of the Canadians, Major F. B. Zink of Dartmouth, N. S., was singled out in Sir Frederick's message. He had supervised the operations personally, going from post to post. At the fire control point Lieut. B. S. Irvine, of Alexandria, Ont., giving orders and shouting encouragement to the gun crews, "Pump 'em up."

Lieut. C. G. Peterson of Cobourg, Ont., carried out his duties of tactical control officer as calmly as if he was attempting a routine drill.

Lieut. Irvine enlisted in Napanee where he had been residing for some time. He was originally a member of the 47th Field Battery (R.P.) in Napanee.

ANNUAL MEETING LENNOX FAIR ASS'N

At the annual meeting of the Lennox Agricultural Society held last Thursday afternoon, the Treasurer, Geo. E. Walters, reported that the fair had a small cash balance on the operating expenses for 1942.

The election of officers was conducted and the same officers were re-elected for the year 1943, namely:

Hon. President—Jas. deC. Hepburn, M.L.A.

President—Russell Long.

1st Vice-President—L. H. McCaul.

2nd Vice-Pres.— W. A. Miller.

Sec.-Treasurer—Geo. E. Walters.

The 1942 directors were also re-elected for 1943.

CHURCHILL AND ROOSEVELT MEET IN NORTH AFRICA

For ten days Prime Minister Churchill, of Great Britain, and President F. D. Roosevelt, of the United States, conferred secretly at Casablanca, in Northern Africa, and agreed on war plans for 1943, which are designed to bring about the absolute surrender of Germany, Italy and Japan.

With Churchill and Roosevelt were practically the entire war staffs of both countries.

One of the greatest results of the conference, aside from the signing of plans for the 1943 campaign, was the meeting of General Giraud, the French High Commissioner of Africa, and General de Gaulle, the leader of the Fighting French, and the subsequent agreement of the two French leaders to forget all differences and pool all resources to fight the Axis to a finish.

Premier Stalin, of Russia, was invited to attend the meeting, but was unable to leave the active leadership of his troops during their great winter offensives against the Germans.

The two leaders agreed that maximum material aid to Russia and China will be continued.

48 Local People Give Blood Donations

Napanee's new Blood Donors' Clinic in the basement of the Masonic Temple, was opened on Wednesday, January 20th. 48 Citizens of the town and district gave blood — 40 of them made donations for the first time.

The mobile unit of the Kingston Red Cross was in attendance with:

Dr. A. T. Mackie and six nurses in charge. Dr. J. J. Hanna, Napanee, and several of the Napanee doctors assisted.

Mrs. Lloyd Cowle was in charge of the Nursing Department and assisting her were the following nurses: Mrs. Victor Cowling, Mrs. W. P. Asselstine, Mrs. Carl Wagner, Miss Laura Vine, Mrs. George Bartlett, Mrs. Whiteley, Mrs. George Miller and Miss Georgie Daly.

The registration committee was Miss Lenore Herrington and Mrs. George Nicol.

Mrs. Frank Mills, Mrs. A. B. Medd and Mrs. Gordon Macpherson were in charge of the tipping of the blood. Miss Eileen Fox was at the receiving desk and Mrs. G. H. Challies was convener of the refreshment committee.

Mr. Russell Hunter, president of the Lions Club is the chairman and Mrs. J. D. Mayhew, president of the Rotary Club, is secretary.

Among the donors last week were a number of employees of The Gilbard Furniture Shops, the Acme Dairy and the Napanee Iron Works. Mervyn Parks was the first of the 48 donors to give blood, last week.

It is the wish of the committee in charge to use as many donors as possible, from Napanee, during the winter, while roads in the rural districts are bad, and use rural donors as much as possible when weather and road conditions are more favorable. It is the hope of the committee that, when fully organized, many more citizens of the County will volunteer.

EMPLOYER MUST REPORT NUMBER OF EMPLOYEES

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Reports from 130,000 Canadian employers showing the number of their employees, grouped by age classes, sex and married status will provide information necessary for the planning and direction of Canada's man-power program, Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, said this week-end.

Forms now are being mailed to the employers to be completed and returned not later than February 6th. Every employer is expected to report even if he does not receive a blank form in the general mail delivery.

The Department of Labor considers these questionnaires essential to obtain a census of population, Mr. MacNamara said. The scope of the reports asked for has been carefully considered.

"While not imposing a heavy burden on employers the reports will form a good deal of information now needed on a National Selective Service plan and administer Canada's man-power program."

Employers are being asked to estimate the number of employees they expect to have on their payrolls as of April 30. Other information provided for in the reports will permit the classification of employers according to their trade or industry. Farmers and domestic and hotel-service servants are the only employers exempt from reporting.

Returns will be made to the local Selective Service offices and a separate employment and selective service record, division of the Labor Department will permit an analysis of the local offices have reported to Ottawa.

GOOD REPORTS GIVEN AT ANNUAL MEETINGS NAPANEE CHURCHES

Trinity United Church St. Mary Magdalene's Hold Meetings of Congregations

Members of the congregation of Trinity United Church heard encouraging reports from all departments of the church at the annual congregational meeting, held in the dining hall of the church, last Friday evening, following a pot-luck supper served by the social committee of the Women's Association. Rev. G. M. Chidley, the minister, presided over the business meeting, which was attended by a large number of the members of the congregation.

Reviews of the activities of all the organizations were given by the various officers and the recounting of the work done and meetings held, as well as the financial reports, indicated that the year 1942 had been one of considerable progress.

Mr. E. J. Orvill, secretary of the session, gave an outline of the church services and reported the numbers who had taken communion at the quarterly services. He also reported the church membership at the end of the year was 406, a decrease of four during the year. The minister conducted eleven funerals and performed eleven marriages in 1942.

D. B. Wilson, who has been treasurer for seventeen years, presented the financial statement for the offices and board which showed a very satisfactory improvement in the church finances. The year 1942 was started with a bank overdraft of $356 and was ended with a cash balance on hand of $21. Contributions through the weekly offering envelopes were considerably better and the results of the thankoffering appeal were also a decided gain over the year previous.

Mr. Wilson also reported for the missionary and maintenance fund, to which 10 per cent. more contributions were made than in 1941. In addition the church members donated $525 toward the payment of the deficit in the United Church of Canada in 1941, the members of the congregation paid $366 toward the same fund.

Miss Barbara Caldwell gave an interesting review of the work of the Young People's Union, which during the year had some splendid meetings.

Mrs. J. D. Mayhew told of the work done by the Sunday school class of which Miss L. Gardner is the teacher. The class of young women meets twice each month for sewing and during the year completed a large number of useful garments, part of which were given to the I. O. D. E. and part to the Red Cross.

Miss May Hawley, secretary of the W. A., reported that the society had 43 life members and 42 annual members. The W. M. S. sent to the Branch $133 more than its allocation, or a total of $769.

Mrs. Charles McConnell read the review of the work of the Mission Circle, a small group of young women who held regular monthly meetings at members' homes and carried on a course of study in missions. The Mission Band, the younger group of missionary workers in the church, also had an excellent year as indicated by the very interesting account of meetings and activities, which was rendered by the secretary, read by Janey Wilson, the secretary.

Mrs. T. M. Asselstine, secretary of the Women's Association, gave a comprehensive report of the year's work of the society and Mrs. W. A. Ashley, the treasurer, presented the financial report.

The reports for the Sunday School were given by the treasurer, E. R. LeeLaven, and the secretary, E. R. Weiss; for the Ready Helpers' Class by Mrs. R. H. Paul; for the choir, by E. B. Weiss, and for the Benevolent Fund, by C. L. Graham.

Miss May Stawley, the convener of the Soldiers' Gift Fund, told of the gifts sent at intervals from the church to the members of the congregation in the armed forces, and read a number of letters of thanks for boxes received by the men overseas and in Canada. At Christmas, 91 boxes were sent overseas from the church and in addition 50x were sent to all those who are still in Canada.

Following the reports, Rev. G. M. W. G. Cowle and E. C. Hogarth expressed the appreciation of the congregation to Mr. and Mrs. Chidley, for their devotion to the work of the church in the past year, and extended to Mr. Chidley an invitation to remain as minister for the next year, which was endorsed by a unanimous vote of the members present.

Mrs. C. I. Mayhew, the recording steward, presented the recommendations from the Official Board that the boards remain the same as last year with Mrs. Russell Hunter be added and that Russell Hunter be added to the Board of Stewards, which was endorsed by the congregation.

Mrs. C. I. Mayhew, in very graceful words, paid a tribute to the efficiency of the women's organizations who have come and go year after year giving splendid service. Mrs. F. H. Henderson, president of the W. A. for nine years, Mrs. George Reid, secretary of the W. A. for six years, Mrs. W. A. Ashley, one year treasurer of the W. A. and one year president of the Mission Circle, Mrs. W. P. Asselstine, two years President of the W. M. S. and Mrs. T. S. Moore, three years president of the W. M. S. and W. A. were all mentioned in appreciation. Mrs. Wilson's motion of appreciation was seconded by Mrs. G. H. Switzer.

Before the meeting closed, Mr. J. E. Robinson spoke of the fire which recently damaged Grace United Church and moved that the recording steward be instructed to write a letter expressing the sympathy of the congregation of Trinity Church to the people of Grace Church. Mr. Robinson's motion was seconded by Mr. D. B. Wilson, and was carried by the meeting.

Reports given at the annual Vestry Meeting of St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church, on Monday evening indicated that all departments of the church had experienced a very successful year during 1942. Every group in the church, carried on a great many activities and all finished the year with a balance on hand.

Constant inspection of waste containers to see that nothing usable is thrown out is part of the routine of every Army Sergeant Cook these days. Bones and waste fats are scrupulously saved for salvage value is channelled to separate receptacles for pickup by a salvage truck. ALL BUT WILLIE !

"Everybody is out of step but our Willie!" our Willie, in this instance, being the Province of Ontario. The British Empire, for example is out of step, for in Ontario the hours during which it is legal to purchase liquor are longer than anywhere else in the British Empire. And now, the Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King and eight Provincial Premiers, are out of step because they are in favor of curtailing the amount of liquor sold and of shortening the hours of sale, while Mr. Hepburn says that the only mistake is that there are not enough outlets, and consequently there is congestion. And now, more serious still, "the Toronto Globe and Mail" is out of step, for even though it is noted as a temperance enthusiast, it is decidedly worked up over the liquor situation in Toronto, and reads Mr. Hepburn a rather sharp lesson. Yes, everybody's out of step but our Willie !

TEN YEARS AGO

Ten years ago on Saturday, January 30th, Hitler came to power as Chancellor of the German Reich. What a decade it has been!! For six years Hitler got ready for war. At first this was not appparent to the outside world, either that, or we refused to believe what we saw. The movement of National Socialism seemed in its initial stages, to have some humanitarian interests at heart. Young men who had been out of work were formed into workers' brigades. They were drilled with shovels, and went out to labor, glad of the oportunity of a job. The girls were sent out to work on farms. Soon, the whole nation which had been in the throes of a depression, became a hive of industry. The people were overjoyed—life held out, again, some hope.

Then as the movement gained momentum Hitler began his ruthless purge of all opposition to his policies. The Socialists, the Communists, the Trade Unionists, were forcibly eliminated. Swiftly, the Jews and then other religious and international organizations were oppressed, their leaders thrown into concentration camps or liquidated. The systematic purge of all opposition was soon completed. And the way was paved for the attempted conquest of the world.

The rest of the world scarcely believed all the treats of this strange man. Appeasemeit, appeasement, was the policy, and then one day they were prodded wide awake by the sound of marching men, the roar of guns and the drone of aeroplanes. One after one, the European nations succumbed. Only England stood in Hitler's way, and for a year, standing alone, beat off al his attacks. The story is different now.

Every year, Hitler has celebrated the anniversary of his assumption of office by a great demonstration. There were parades, showing the great power of the Third Reich; there were guns and tanks and aeroplanes, and representatives of all the branches of the armed forces. Then Hitler made his speech. This was the high water mark of the day's festivities. He gloried in his achievements, he threatened his enemies with extinction. He denounced with hysterical fanaticism those who were foolish enough to oppose him, and he had some mighty achievements to his credit. To these he could point as proof that his former promises had been fulfilled — and on these he based his hopes for the future.

What will Hitler do on Saturday ? Will there be the customary parades ? Will the Sportsplatz be filled to overflowing with expectant, anxious people, waiting with bated breath for a review of achievements and an account of new worlds conquered ? We trow not.

It will be a dark day for the German people. If there is no celebration, the significance of the omission will not be lost. If there is one, Hitler will have to admit defeats in many areas. The German people, unused to defeats, will wonder. Memories of the First Great War will find little comfort either in the memory of 1917 and the hope for 1943. It will be interesting to see how Hitler meets the challenge of Saturday, January 30th, the tenth anniversary of his coming to power.

THE RUSSIAN WAR RELIEF

If ever there was a cause that needed our financial support ,it is the Russian Relief Fund. In spite of the war, in spite of heavy taxation and innumerable demands for money, we Canadians are infinitely better off than most people. There is plenty of money in the banks which represents the accumulated savings of the people.

There should be no misgivings now on the part that Russia has played and is playing in the present titanic struggle. Undoubtedly, she has borne the brunt of the German attack these past two years. It is idle to speculate as to what would have happened in this war if something else had happened. The fact is that Russia has faced the common enemy with courage, skill, devotion and energy. Their armies backed up in order, burning everything as they went, when they had to bow to superior force. But they have shown remarkable recuperative power. When Hitler thought they were done for, they struck hard and fast, causing great consternation and terrific losses of material and men to the German forces.

Let us not be deceived by the stories of German losses. They have been great, beyond all imagining. And yet the Russians could not have done what has been done without paying a heavy price. Their losses have been mounting, day by day.

The United Nations have rendered every possible aid to these gallant Russian people. But the Governments cannot do everything. The people of Canada should welcome the opportunity to contribute to the Aid to Russia Fund. That they do welcome it is shown by the response to the appeal for money which has now reached the million dollar mark. More is needed — more money, more clothing. Let everybody share in this privilege by helping those whose sacrifices have helped so materially to preserve our safety.

THE STEEL STRIKE

At the time of writing it is not settled that the men in the steel plants will go back to wrok. The probability is that they will do so. For their leaders have accepted the offer made by the Government and have urged the men to do likewise. But the men will have to finally speak through the ballot. The men get almost everything they asked for. This seems a recognition of the justice of their claim.

There are some things to be learned from this strike. One is the growing strength of labor. The time has gone by when labor organizations can be ignored or by-passed. Management and Labor will increasingly have to recognize that they are partners to production. Unions, freely chosen by the workers, must be accorded recognition, and collective bargaining become the orderly method of wage and working conditions adjustments.

The Government must, sooner or later, heed the demand for a wider representation in its boards and executives of the representatives of labor. In the Canadian Congress Journal for December, there are nineteen pages of closely printed type, rating changes in the war executive personnel. The paper is the official organ of The Trades and Labor Congress, the right wing of Canadian Labor. The editor points out that less than ten per cent. of those represent Labor. He says: "..In Britain, Labor has equal representation on all boards. In the United States Labor has been accorded adequate representation. This principle applies in all Allied countries who are fighting for Democracy, with one exception — Canada." This situation will, sooner or later, have to be faced in this country, too. Much of the unrest in Canada would have been avoided had the practice prevailing in the United States and in Great Britain, been followed.

It is unfortunate that, in the midst of war, a resort to force was necessary. We are not approving it, but it is little short of tragedy that it was allowed to be applied. Force is a last threat and can usually be avoided, provided there is good will on both sides of a dispute.

The men lost considerable time and money, but if they have succeeded in winning their case they will not think the money, ill-spent.

It is to be hoped that, in the future, the Government will so treat with Labor as to make these resorts to force, with consequent loss of money to the workers, to the management and to the country, unnecessary.

EDEN REVEALS POST-WAR PLAN

ECONOMIC CO-OPERATION COMMONS TOLD

London, (C.P.) — Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons the British Government intends actively supporting programme of post-war economic co-operation in consultation with Soviet Russia, the United States and the other United Nations and said considerable progress had been made in preparatory work.

Asked by a member whether this meant there was no truth to a rumor that the British Government and the U.S.S.R. are at loggerheads, Eden replied:

"I think I can reassure him completely on that point."

Eden made no reply to question concerning the appointment of Marcel Peyrouton as Governor-General of Algeria and North African politics generally.

URGE PRISONERS BE FREED

The Foreign Secretary assured the House that both Britain and the United States lost no opportunities to impress upon the French authorities that all North African prisoners held because of sympathy do the Allied cause, should be released speedily.

He said he felt that the Vatican joined in the Allied Nations' condemnation of Axis atrocities against the Jews in the reper that Pope Pius XII in his Christmas Eve broadcast condemned persecutions generally. He made no reply when asked if there was a chance to obtain from the Vatican something more specific on Jewish persecution.

STATUS BEING PROBED

Eden said many North African political prisoners have been released, and a mixed commission set up under the joint chairmanship of the British and United States Consuls-General in Algiers is investigating all these whose status is not clear. Releases are being made as fast as possible, he said.

Members of the International Brigade and other Spanish Republicans are among those to be given speedy consideration by the commission, he added.

The Foreign Secretary said United States authorities reported at the end of December that all French nationals detained for having helped the Allied cause had been ordered freed and the commission would verify that these orders were executed.

He declared that as far as was known no persons were imprisoned merely because they were Jews.

SWEDEN FEARS GERMAN BLOW

NATION WARNED

London, (U.P.) — Sweden, evidently guarding against a possible German lightning invasion as the result of Russia's victories on the Leningrad front, took emergency action recently by mining its defence.

General O. G. Thoernell, Commander - in - chief of the Swedish armed forces, issued a special order that in event of a lightning attack local commanders must act on their own initiative, even without orders from their superiors to defend the country.

He warned the nation, as had Premier Per Albin Hansson, that enemy agents were likely to spread false reports in a fifth column operation accompanying an invasion.

"Any reports that orders have been given to cease fire will be false," Gen. Thoernell announced.

DENIES COUNTRY THREATENED

Premier Hanson, told Parliament that the country was not threatened now and that he did not feel it would be. But, he added, he thought it wise to warn Parliament; and the public against false orders to cease resistance to an invasion.

Again accepting any cease-fire order and added:

"Remember, the Government's intention is to resist to the utmost extent of its power."

Collapse of Germany's siege of Leningrad had brought the war nearer Sweden as it had underlined the bankruptcy of German offensive policy against Russia.

SNOW HALTS WORK

Heavy snowfalls in the Balkans, especially in Rumania where railroads were paralyzed by snow drifts in some areas are slowing the defense work, Ankara reports.

Advices from the continent disclosed that the great "virine", rounded up in the Marseilles area of Southern France was really a slave labor drive for German war industry.

It was said the Vichy Government had been forced to extend its military code to include civilians who will now be tried as soldiers if they mutilate themselves to avoid slave service.

Many expert workers have cut off two fingers of their right hands so they could plead incapacity to handle tools and thus avoid being sent to Germany to work in war industry against the Allies.

News reached Spain that the Germans had forbidden the Italian Government Ministry of Information to publish stories regarding the attitude of the Russian people and the British Russian communiques. Dispatches from Switzerland and Sweden on the Russian front likewise were banned.

British sources reported that of 200,000 men Hitler sent to the Russian front from 110,000 had been wounded, killed or made prisoner. Of these, it was said, 20,000 had been killed or captured and 30,000 wounded since the Russians started their Voronezh offensive, recently.

Berne, Switzerland, reported from the Italian frontier that typhoid fever had broken out in Northern Italy and Swiss border authorities were taking precautions against the entry into Switzerland of infected persons.

Berlin dispatches to Stockholm said German propaganda authorities were now talking of ceaseless Russian pounding of the "fortress culture" or Stalingrad but said the Germans, 270,000 strong of 22 trapped divisions, were fighting heroically.

GERMANS BEING PREPARED

Stockholm took this to mean that Germans were being prepared to accept the annihilation of an army that had numbered upwards of 220,000 men, because Berlin familiarized Germans with "defeat" here again in the old days Germany used to describe great Russian armies trapped in "cauldrons" and annihilated. Stockholm said that Berlin admitted that the trapped Germans were under fire from all sides.

Though Berlin did not admit the fall of Schlusselburg, on the fortress east of Leningrad, German reports said the area was being hard pressed "from both sides".

British military observers saw in the fall of Schlusselburg and the consequent freeing of Leningrad from its siege a promising for the future of a giant supply base, with important arms factories which could feed and supply the northern front.

The freeing of the city gives the Red Army more freedom of operation in the Baltic when the Gulf of Finland thaws.

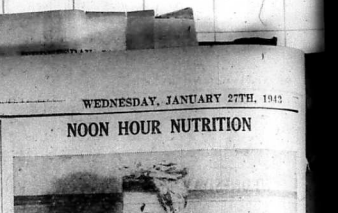
Distinctive Badges

The Canadian Parachute Corps wears distinctive uniform badges. The upper illustration shows the cap badge combines the flying aspect of the service as represented by the wings, the jumping as represented by the parachute and the maple leaves identifying the corps with Canada. The centre illustration of a collar badge shows the paratrooper's head with unsheathed Sturgey opening from a cloud. "Ex Coelis" meaning "Out of Heaven" conveys the suggestion that paratroopers drop from the clouds behind enemy lines and use their highly-specialized fighting ability to full advantage. The uniform buttons illustrate a maple leaf suspended from a parachute, partially surrounded by the word "Canada." — Canadian Army Photo.

NOON HOUR NUTRITION



"Thumbs down on the kind of lunch I used to eat," says Miss [illegible] works in one of Canada's largest munitions making plants. She studied Canada's Official Food Rules and knows that a lonely sitting of a chocolate bar and a bottle of pop is not good enough for work is exacting and tiring but since she has been choosing a noon lunch that is "good" by the standards set up by Nutrition Services, she finds that she makes fewer mistakes and is less tired at the end of the day. A "good" lunch is one that contains milk, a protein food such as meat, fish, eggs, cheese or baked beans, and a fresh fruit or vegetable.

ARMY DISCHARGES 70,000 MEN

OTTAWA ANSWERS COMPLAINTS ON BENEFITS

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Of more than 70,000 persons who have been discharged from the armed forces since the beginning of the war, only 113 were drawing out-of-work benefits on January 1st, Pensions Department spokesman said Friday.

They made their comment on the removal of York township council in Toronto, urging "a more farsighted policy" for members of the armed forces returning to civilian life before the war ends.

In a letter being sent Hon. J. L. Ralston, Defence Minister, the council described as "utterly inadequate" the maximum allowance of $19 weekly paid by the rehabilitation branch to discharged veterans pending their gainful employment.

Pensions officials said the benefits had been set at $9 and $13 a week for single and married veterans respectively, to conform with the scale of out-of-work benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act. The figures were close to the top of that scale.

This rate of benefits has met the situation up to the present time, as men are only on benefits for a short period until they are absorbed in war work," a spokesman said.

"In fact, out of more than 70,000 who have been discharged from the forces since they became involved in the war, only 113 were drawing out-of-work benefits throughout the Dominion at the beginning of this month. The big problem is finding jobs.

The benefits have served their purpose satisfactorily up to the present, but, as to the adequacy of the rates for the future, no doubt there is a matter that will be subject to review from time to time by the department and committees of Parliament in the light of the cost of living and other important factors."

Pensions officials also [illegible] ten a contention in the council letter that the separation allowances payable to the wife or dependents of "drafted" men for members of the armed forces returning to civilian life before the war ends.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JANUARY 31ST, 1943

Lesson Text: John 6: 8-14, 59-55

"JESUS, THE BREAD OF LIFE"

It had been a busy day in the life of Jesus. He and His disciples were off on one of their numerous tours of missionary pilgrimages. Hundreds of people had been attracted by Jesus' ministry of healing preaching and teaching. On this occasion, it is said that there were five thousand present besides women and children. When meal time came there was insufficient food to go round. So Jesus took what food was available and used it to meet the hunger of the people.

The miraculous part of this lesson cannot be duplicated by us. Whatever took place, we cannot tell. The hungry were satisfied through the ministry of Jesus. That is all we know and all that is necessary to know. But, if the account of the feeding is to help us in our twentieth century, there are to be noted some similarities between us and the crowd to which Jesus ministered on the Galilean hillside.

In the first place there are hungry people in the world to-day. Half the people in the world go to bed hungry every night. It is said that fifty million Chinese never have enough to eat from the day they are born until they die, and that is probably true to some degree of peoples in India and other parts of the world. We, on this continent, have never known a shortage of food. It is true that now, with our efforts to feed the forces overseas, and with the losses of freighters on the high seas mounting, we are coming to appreciate food in a way we never have done before. Many people are thanking God for food who have not been in the habit of "saying grace" before meat.

How did Jesus proceed ? The method was a simple one—by sharing what was available with those who did not have food. That is something we need to emphasize. Apart, altogether from the miraculous aspect of Jesus' feeding the hungry, His method is the one which His followers can still adopt. Sharing our plenty with other people's needs is the only way in which the physical satisfaction of others can be met. On the contrary—it is said to-day—we have had to economy around the theory of holding all we can for ourselves and sharing with others only if the others have the money with which to pay and thereby make the rich nations richer still at the expense of those least able to pay. Tariffs and trade barriers have prevented the unfortunate close of goods from those who have desired to trade who have little or nothing to [illegible] is no wonder there is poverty and want.

Then there is what religion calls "spiritual hunger." We should be told at that word "spiritual," simply means the inner life of man that is distinct from that which is different from all creation, that which makes him a man, with a love of beauty, love of goodness, a love of truth. There is in man a hunger after the best that can be had being one with God. This is a spiritual hunger. Often people do not realize they know they are unsatisfied and they seek satisfaction in many ways. A recent commentator says this: "It is tragic, this hunger which people have. A great number of people do not know what they want. They are trying to satisfy eternal hunger with material things and it simply cannot be done. The only way is to find deep spirit of unrest in our world be met is the way it was met by Jesus Christ, and feed spiritual hunger as Jesus fed physical hunger—the God of all grace."

[illegible] tions of the world. It does not have to have a happy Christian world until we see to it that we are willing to share with those who have not. Sharing would have practical results in the [illegible] of the five thousand in Galilee.

There is another way in which this lesson may be approached and that is from the point of view of the universal hunger which is in a lot of all. There are many causes for this hunger. Men are hungry for [illegible] Recently, when a committee failed to see what could be done to make a lot of the soldier on his civilian life more interesting a proposal was being discussed. A member of the committee was present and when he was asked what he thought of it. They knew they are unsatisfied and they seek satisfaction in many ways. A recent commentator says this: "It is tragic, this hunger which people have. A great number of people do not know what they want. They are trying to satisfy eternal hunger with material things and it simply cannot be done. The only way is to find deep spirit of unrest in our world be met is the way it was met by Jesus Christ, and feed spiritual hunger as Jesus fed physical hunger—the God of all grace."

RECLAIMED TIRES TO BE RATIONED OUT TO SELECT LIST

Ottawa. — The Munitions Department announced that beginning next month a "limited number" of tires now being manufactured in Canada, under a new process, from reclaimed rubber will be rationed to a selected list of vehicle owners who are not permitted under the tire-rationing regulations to buy new tires made from crude.

The release of these reclaim-rubber tires will not help the average private motorist. Since Mar. 1942, some 800,000 vehicle owners have been denied tires of any kind.

The ordinary motorist will have to wait until the war is over before any type of rubber, whether crude, reclaim or synthetic, can be released to make his tires," said the rubber controller, Alan H. Williamson, in the departmental statement.

Permits to buy the new reclaim tires will be issued only to certain vehicles in Class "B" of the tire-rationing scheme. Each tire-rationing representative—there are 120 in Canada—will be given a quota for his area.

Priority Rating

From this quota he will allot reclaim tires for the following types of vehicles, listed in descending order of priority:

1. Passenger cars owned by phalanx employees who drive their fellow employees to and from work under the wartime industrial transit plan.

-V- WARNING ISSUED TO SAVE GLASS JARS

Remarking that many a housewife has profited during the winter from home-made jams and preserves made up with the aid of sugar-saving pectin available last summer, Mrs. J. V. Harcourt, secretary of the Ontario Regional Advisory Committee, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, now urges housewives to make their 1943 jam to give serious consideration to next season's preserving and jam making. Every effort, however, should be careful to save every type of glass jar in their possession.

This advice is given because there is every expectation of a large fruit and jam container being in short supply when the home canning and preserving season arrives, and also expired that wax taken from jars of preserves should be carefully saved and, if possible, be offered to obtain, and rubber rings, of course, will be hard to replace.

Mrs. Harcourt added that there is no possibility of extra sugar being allowed for any purpose before the official canning season, which runs from June 1 to October 31. Every effort is being made to have sufficient sugar available for that purpose and plans are already being discussed for the distribution methods which will be followed. These may not be identical with those adopted in last year, but announcement regarding them will be made in plenty of time for householders to proceed with their usual canning and preserving.

NEW RATION BOOKS ISSUED LAST HALF OF FEBRUARY

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Canadians probably will receive their new issue of ration books, replacing those expiring March 6, during the last half of February and the first week in March.

Methods of distribution will be discussed at a Dominion conference January 23 and 24, to be attended by officials of the Prices Board ration administration and regional and local rationing offices from Canada, Newfoundland and the Bahamas. L. B. Unwin, rationing administrator, Howard L. Ross, rationing officer at Montreal, other senior officials of the national ration administration will attend.

Prices Board spokesmen said that while the present ration books were distributed chiefly through the mail a different method may be used for the new issue.

Similar conferences have been held in Calgary on western rationing affairs. These were attended by a special local ration officers of Northern Ontario, and the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia.

Officials said they anticipate the new ration books will be similar in appearance to those now in use, with ration coupons for sugar, tea and coffee and butter. Spares probably will be included as in the first ration-book issue, to be used if extension of consumer rationing becomes necessary.

LONDON TO CAIRO BY TRAIN

When the Axis is destroyed it will be found that the two great capitals, London and Cairo, have several feet gone by an unbroken railway, of which the last link, between Beirut and Tripoli (Syria), has just been completed through the determined efforts of British enterprise.

This engineering feat carried out by an Australian railway contractor and maintenance group, was officially completed on the Sunday before Christmas when General Sir Harold Alexander, Commander-in-Chief of Middle East forces, himself drove the train which flew his own flags from Beirut to the famous Dog River headland. After inspecting the Australian Guard of Honor, he hammered a silver spike into the permanent way and unveiled a commemorative tablet.

Construction of the line took only twelve months to complete and overcame many difficult engineering problems. At the beginning, a large amount of work had to be done by hand, with the aid of native labour, in carving earth and stones, owing to the lack of machinery, but later plenty of machinery was obtained. Altogether, a total of 12,000 people have been employed, including engineers, skilled craftsmen, and unskilled labour.

Bridges ranging from twenty to 300 feet in length have been built over the many rivers that traverse the path of the railway. To cut the Chekka viaduct a special company was sent from South Africa. At Mafamelhein, on the headland, 35,000 cubic yards of limestone rock had to be excavated and at Nahr el Kelb a cut a gap of 75 feet had to be made.

This headland, known as Dog River mowed to be the greatest obstacle in the construction of the railway. In past times, invading armies were often checked by its natural properties and upon its rock are memorials carved by many conquerors during a back as far as the days of ancient Assyria. But, in addition to its present strategic importance this new memorial, which now takes its place among these records of past wars, commemorates the constructive and untiring British efforts which have not only joined the two continents but have laid the foundations of a new period of progress and prosperity for the countries in the Levant.

PROPOSED MEDICAL REFORM IN GREAT BRITAIN

According to an article by Charles Hill, M.B., Deputy-Secretary of the British Medical Association, received from the British Ministry of Information by the Health League of Canada, British doctors are prepared to say that considerable could be made in the present medical services in Great Britain. In an article entitled the first Report of the Doctors' Plan-ning Commission, recently published in the British Medical Journal, a group of carefully controlled, co - operative medical experts declare that the nation's health services, say the British doctors, should by hook or by crook be made and kept in the family doctor as the normal medical attendant and guardian. The first essential is not hospital service, they declare, but personal service, such as the patient receives at a family doctor who has the continuous care of the health of the family in his charge. They want group medical practice rather than individual medical practice.

The two great hospital services of Great Britain, say the doctors, should be brought into one unified system, embodying the great traditions and high standards of service, and the voluntary hospital and backed by the enormous resources of the State. They want the extension of National Health Insurance to wives and children, and to the families of the ambit nine-tenths of the people of Britain. They argue that National Health Insurance has saved the rest of thirty years and has proved itself immune, efficient, and capable of development.

Most interesting proposal contained in the Report, according to Dr. Hill, is that there should be set up a new central governmental authority concerned only with health and adequately advised on medical matters. This new authority would be assisted by a Medical Advisory Committee. There would be regional and local authorities; large and rich enough to administer in their areas a complete hospital service, and also advised by Medical Committees. In every district, except in large towns, it is postulated the focus of medical practice would be the health centre, At each centre a group of doctors, backed by auxiliaries of all kinds, dispensers, nurses, etc., would provide the whole personal service. This centre would be the first line of defence against disease, and for the whole population. Here the doctors would do their work for the vast majority of the people, finally. The patients would be free to consult the doctor of their choice and the doctors free to select the patients of their choice.

Under this scheme the medical inspection of school children, the examination of expectant mothers, immunization against diphtheria and other diseases, etc. would all be undertaken at the health centre. There would be special clinics for tuberculosis, venereal disease, rheumatism, and for nutritional deficiency. Doctors would no longer buy and sell practices, as at present, and the medical practice would be appointed to a National Service and posted to a local authority. It is argued that what the on the basis of a part-time salary plus an annual variable in proportion to the number of persons or families who choose to be treated by him.

The medical affairs of the centre would be in the hands of the doctors themselves, subject to the general administrative control of the local authority. It is argued that what the doctors would lose in personal freedom they would gain in freedom to do better work, unhampered by the financial and other burdens of private practice.

Pay Increases For Canadian Soldiers Effective This Month

Most Canadian names will be affected by the increases in pay for rank and file soldiers and the new scale of allowances and cost-of-living bonus for dependents of men in the Army and Air Force, which will go into effect this month, according to an announcement by the Department of National Defence.

The basic pay of a private, being the highest paid Army in the World and the average Canadian to whom the Army belongs is placed because the troops are rated as the best-organized fighting unit in existence.

The pay increases are contingent upon the proficiency and good conduct of the men. Any Canuck in the Army will continue to receive $1.30 a day as a private in the Army but at the end of four months efficient service and good conduct he will be given an increase in pay of 10 cents a day. If at the end of six months he appears to be a willing, well-trained soldier and still of good conduct, then he will get another increase, raising his pay to $1.50 a day. And this money does not go to the soldier, however. He will, under the new assignment of pay, continuing 1st February, send his wife $23 a month instead of $20 if he is a private or an N.C.O. below the rank of Sergeant, and earning more than $1.40 per day. His wife and family will receive increased allowances in their own right, also. They will receive a cost-of-living bonus and in addition dependents may earn up to $40 a month instead of $30 without affecting the allowances affected.

Changes in the regulations affecting dependents' allowances provide that dependents' allowance may now be paid for children of all ranks up to a maximum of six. Previously, however, officers and warrant officers class 1 could not claim dependents' allowance for more than two children and ranks below warrant officer class 1 could claim an allowance for not more than four children. The scale of dependents' allowance for children has also been increased. The rate of $12.00 per month for each of the first two children remains the same. For the third child the allowance is now $10.00 a month instead of $9.00, and for the fourth child $8.00 instead of $6.00. The eight dollar rate also applies to the fifth and sixth child. The increases in pay and allowances will date from 1st January.

A further concession provided by the recent changes permits the award of a Dependents' Allowance on behalf of an officer or soldier in respect of a mother or father, who qualifies under the regulations, in addition to a wife and up to six children. Previously a mother or father could not receive an allowance if the officer or soldier was otherwise claiming for three dependents.

RECLAIMED TIRES TO BE RATIONED OUT TO SELECT LIST

Ottawa. — The Munitions Department announced later beginning next month a "limited number" of tires now being manufactured in Canada, under a new process from reclaim rubber will be rationed to a selected list of vehicle owners who are not permitted under the tire-rationing regulations to buy new tires made from crude.

The release of these reclaim-rubber tires will not help the average private motorist. Since May, 1942, some 800,000 vehicle owners have been denied tires of any kind.

The ordinary motorists will have to wait until the war is over before any type of rubber, whether crude, reclaim or synthetic, can be released to make his tires," said the rubber controller, Alan H. Williamson, in the departmental statement.

Permits to buy the new reclaim tires will be issued only to certain vehicles in Class "B" of the tire rationing categories. Each tire-rationing representative—there are 120 in Canada—will be given a quota for his area.

Priority Rating

From this quota he will allot reclaim tires for the following types of vehicles, listed in descending order of priority:

1. Passenger cars owned by plant employees who drive their fellow employees to and from work under the wartime industrial transport plan;

2. Taxis and "drive-yourself" cars registered with the Transit Controller;

3. Cars owned by mail carriers under contract with the Post Office Department;

4. Cars owned by farmers who transport their produce and supplies and do not own a truck;

5. Other Class "B" vehicles in the order of their local importance as determined by the representative, in consultation with the rubber control.

Doctors Unaffected

Doctors, visiting nurses, fire and police departments, and the other highly-essential users in Class "A" will remain the only vehicles entitled to purchase, by permit, from what the Department said is a "dwindling supply" of new, crude rubber tires, made before the tire-manufacture ban went into effect December 12, 1941.

WARNING ISSUED TO SAVE GLASS JARS

Remarking that many a household has profited during the winter from home-made jams and preserves, and up with the extra sugar rations made available last summer, Mrs. A. J. Harcourt, chairman of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, now suggests that housewives should begin to give serious consideration to next season's requirements and that, in particular, they should be careful to save every type of glass jar in their possession.

This advice is given because there is every expectation of both glass and tin containers being in short supply when the time comes for preserving season arrives. It is also urged that wax taken from jars of preserves should be carefully saved, lest it, too, be difficult to obtain, and rubber rings, of course, will be hard to replace.

Mrs. Harcourt added that there is no possibility of extra sugar being allowed for any purpose before the official canning season, which runs from June 1 to October 31. Every effort is being made to have sufficient sugar available for that purpose and plans are already being discussed for the distribution methods which will be followed. These may not be identical with those adopted last year, but announcement regarding them will be made in plenty of time for housekeepers to proceed with their usual canning and preserving.

NEW RATION BOOKS ISSUED LAST HALF OF FEBRUARY

Ottawa. (C.P.) — Canadians probably will receive their new issue of ration books, replacing those expiring March 31, during the last half of February and the first week in March.

Methods of distribution will be discussed at a Montreal conference January 23 and 24, to be attended by officials of the Prices Board ration administration and regional and local rationing officers from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes, L. B. Unwin, rationing administrator, Howard L. Ross, supervisor of rationing, and other senior officials of the Prices Board, will attend.

LONDON TO CAIRO BY TRAIN

When the Axis is destroyed it will be found that the two great capitals, London and Cairo are at least been joined by an unbroken railway, of which the last link, between Haifa and Tripoli (Syria), has just been completed, through the determined efforts of British enterprise.

This engineering feat carried out by Australian railway construction and maintenance groups, was officially completed on Christmas Eve, when General Sir Harold Alexander, Commander-in-Chief of Middle East forces, himself drove the train (which flew his own flag) from Beirut to the famous Port Biver headland. After inspecting the Australian Guard of Honor, he hammered a silver spike into the permanent way and unveiled a commemorative tablet.

Construction of the line took only twelve months to complete and overcame many difficult engineering problems. At the beginning, a large amount of work had to be done by hand, with the aid of native baskets for carrying earth and stones, owing to the lack of machinery, but later necessary machinery was obtained. Altogether, a total of 12,000 people have been employed, including engineers, skilled craftsmen, and unskilled laborers.

Bridges ranging from twenty to 300 feet in length have been built over the many rivers that crossed the path of the railway. The Nahr el Chelka tunnel a special company was sent from South Africa. At Mile 57, near Haifa, a headland 2,000 feet high of limestone rock had to be excavated and at Nahr el Kelb itself a cut of 70 feet had to be made.

This headland, known as Doc Biver proved to be the greatest obstacle in the construction of the railway. In past times invaders armies were often checked by the rugged promontory and upon its rock are memorials carved by many conquerors dating back as far as the days of ancient Assyria. But in addition to its personal historical importance this new memorial, which now takes its place among these records of past wars, commemorates the constructive and untiring British efforts which have not only joined the two continents but have laid the foundations of a new period of peace and prosperity for the countries in the Levant.

PROPOSED MEDICAL REFORM IN GREAT BRITAIN

According to an article by Charles Hill, M.D., Deputy Secretary of the British Medical Association, published in the British Ministry of Information by the Health League of Canada, British doctors are progressing that far-reaching changes be made in the present medical services in Great Britain. The article quoting the first Report of the Doctors' Plan-ning Committee, which was published in 1941, says that it is urged that an era of centrally controlled, co-operative medical service be ushered in.

The nation's health services, say the British doctors, should be based upon the family and upon the family doctor as the normal medical adviser and guardian of health. The first essential is not hospital service, they declare, but general service, such as can be rendered by a family doctor who has the continuous care of the family and the confidence in his charge. They want group medical practice rather than individual medical practice.

The two great hospital services of Great Britain, say the doctors, should be assimilated into one unified system, subject to central conditions and high standards of service of the voluntary hospital and backed by the authority and finance of the state. They also urge the extension of National Health Insurance to the treatment, so as to bring within its sphere nine-tenths of the people of Britain. Under the present National Health Insurance has stood the test of thirty years and has proved itself sound, efficient and capable of development.

This interesting proposal contained in the Report, according to Dr. Hill, is that there should be created a new governmental authority concerned only with health and adequately equipped to meet all matters.

This new authority would be assisted by a Medical Advisory Committee which would be established in new local authorities, large and rich enough to administer in their areas comple.e health services, and also advised by Medical Committees. In country districts where the most sparsely populated the focus of medical practice would be the health centre. Here would be the entire a group of doctors, backed by auxiliaries of all kinds, dispensers, nurses and midwives, to provide a general medical service. This centre would be the first line of defence against disease, open to the whole population. Here the doctors would do all their work, the vast majority of the community. The patients would be free to consult the doctor of their choice, instead of the doctors free to select the patients of their choice.

Under this scheme the medical inspection of school children, the examination of expectant mothers, immunization against diphtheria and other diseases, etc. would all be undertaken at the health centre. There would be special clinics for tuberculosis, venereal diseases, maternance and mental deficiency. Doctors would no longer have to sell practices and newcomers to medical practice would be appointed to a National Service and posted to the local health centre. They would be paid on the basis of a part-time salary plus an annual variable in proportion to the number of persons or families who choose to be treated by them.

The medical affairs of the centre would be in the hands of the doctors themselves, subject to the general administrative control of the local authority. It is argued that what the doctors would lose in personal freedom they would gain in freedom to do better work, untrammelled by the financial and other burdens of private practice.

Pay Increases For Canadian Soldiers Effective This Month

Most Canadian homes will be offered by the insurance plan of the private soldiers and by the new scale of allowances and responsibilities of dependents of men in the Navy, Army and Air Force, which will go into effect this month, according to an announcement by the Department of National Defence.

Rounds is generally listed as having the highest paid Army in the World and the average private serving in the Army belowis is pleased because the troops are rated as the best-organized fighting unit in existence.

The pay increases are contingent upon the proficiency and good conduct of the men. Jack Canuck in the Army will continue to receive $1.30 a day as a private in the Army but at the end of four months' efficient service and good conduct he will be given an increase 4n pay of 10 cents a day. It at the end of six months he appears to be a willing, well-trained soldier and still of good conduct, then he will get another ten-cent raise in pay so that from then on he will be paid $1.50 a day. All of this money does not go to the soldier, however. He will, under the new arrangement, receive starting 1st February, send his wife $23 a month instead of $20 if he is a private or an N.C.O. below the rank of Sergeant, and earning more than $1.00 per day. His wife and family will receive increased allowances in their own right, also. They will receive a day-a-day bonus and in addition dependents may earn up to $40 a month instead of $30 without having their allowances affected.

Changes in the regulations affecting dependents' allowances provide that dependents' allowance may now be paid for children of all ranks up to a maximum of six. Previously, however, officers and warrant officers class I could not claim dependents' allowance for more than two children and ranks below warrant officer class I could claim an allowance for not more than four children. The scale of dependents' allowance for children has also been increased. The rate of $12.00 per month for each of the first two children remains the same. For the third child the allowance is now $10.00 as against $9.00, and for the fourth child $8.00 instead of $6.00. The eight dollar rate also applies to the fifth and sixth child. The increases in pay and allowances will date from 1st January.

A further concession provided by the recent changes permits the award of a Dependents' Allowance on behalf of an officer or soldier in respect of a mother or father, who qualifies under the regulations, in addition to a wife and up to six children. Previously a mother or father could not receive an allowance if the officer or soldier was also claiming for three dependents.

DAVIS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Wesley Davis, who passed away January 30, 1940.

"Broken is the family circle,
Our dear one has passed away;
Passed from earth and earthly darkness,
Into a bright and perfect day.
But we all must strive to languish
O'er the grave of him we love—
Strive to be prepared to meet him
In the better world above.
"Thy will be done", seems hard to say
When one we love has passed away;
Some day, perhaps, we'll understand
When we meet again in that better land."
Ever remembered by his

MEDICAL ASSO. BACKS HEALTH INSURANCE

Ottawa, (C.P.) — The Canadian Medical Association has approved "the adoption of the principle of health insurance" but reserves the right to refrain from supporting any health insurance measure which would not meet the needs of the people or would fail to raise the standard of medical services given to the sick, it was announced last week.

The decision was made at a meeting in Ottawa of the Medical Association's General Council, was made public at a press conference by Dr. A. E. Archer of Lemont, Alta., the association president.

The association, said Dr. Archer, has been studying health insurance for many years, but today's announcement was the first time it has expressed approval or approving the principle.

ADOPTED UNANIMOUSLY

The resolution was adopted unanimously by the Medical Association at a meeting of its general council in Ottawa, Dr. Archer said.

The resolution, which was read to the conference, was in part as follows:

"1. The Canadian Medical Association approves the principle of the extension of health insurance.

"2. The Canadian Medical Association favors a plan of health insurance which will secure the distribution of medical service of the highest standard of health services, prevention and curative, if such a plan is to fully reach to the insured and to all the people of Canada, and "The Canadian Medical Association is hostile to such plans for the securing of such medical services," the preamble to the resolution said.

A prepared statement issued by Dr. Archer described the resolution as "in conformity with the long-established policy of the association to keep its members abreast of the latest developments in medicine and to study and accept whatever methods or methods of care would best serve the needs of the people."

RIGHT RESERVED

"In adopting this resolution, it is said, "the medical profession reserves the right to refrain from supporting any health insurance measure which would not meet the needs of the people, particularly those of limited income, or which would lower even more, raise the standard of quality of the services rendered to the sick."

"This resolution does not imply the support of 'state medicine', a health system differing from insurance practice."

Dr. Archer was supported at his press conference by Dr. Harvey Agnew of Toronto, Association secretary, and H. E. Mitchener, of Montreal, editor of the Canadian Medical Association Journal. Both emphasized that by adopting the health insurance resolution the association was not "in any way" opposed to private practice.

"The Canadian Medical Association," he said, "by this resolution would only support a plan which included the principle of private practice and the principle of preventative medicine and, in addition, would maintain the standards through the ranks."

The association would not approve any form of medical system, under which doctors would be civil servants, Dr. Archer said, because it would provide the same benefits in a different way leaving doctors more free to treat and advise patients free to act on their own initiative.

The association would depend on a "high standard of service to the general public" in any insurance scheme.

Dr. Archer said the association is "fully aware" of the limitations of Canadian health services under present conditions. The situation has been "greatly aggravated" by the war, he said. Some 1,050 Canadian doctors now are in the armed forces, 1,700 serving in Canada.

PLAN NOW TO PAINT SANE AS P.S.

JOINT ACTION NEEDED IN TWO COUNTRIES

Ottawa — When the rationing of beef comes to Canada, distribution will come under the control of several inescapable conditions and facts, according to official information.

Primarily, it will be due to the fact that the quality of civilian sacrifice on this continent. That is to say that beef will be rationed so that it does not have pooled their resources of production and consumption. Canadian people cannot much the same restriction as those to which United States people will be subject.

As to the underlying causes, they go beyond the tremendous consumption of beef in the armed forces at home and abroad. United States beef is going to North Africa and Britain and to whatever Allies need it. Canada will not be affected, Ottawa officials said, by the fact that the United States "lease-lend" organization has made supply for civilian requirements.

FOLLOW UNITED STATES

Consequently, on the principle of equality, it followed that if the ordinary consumers on the other side of the line are affected, those in Canada will be. It is not due so much to any shortage of beef here as to prevent hoarding and marketing or other purely domestic conditions but "as the Canadian part of the war effort."

"But, nothing about it is at all definite," said Controller J. C. Taggart today. "I have said till I am sick of it that the United States will carry out their plans for rationing which are now tentative as well be up to us to do something on the same line on the equality principle, but nothing really has been decided about it. No plan has been worked out and cannot be for some time."

DIFFICULTIES CITED

Difficulties in the way of rationing beef are peculiar. Sugar is sugar and coffee is coffee, pretty much of them amount to the same standard, but there are all kinds of "cuts" in beef. When rationing comes, it will be necessary to get them all down to one book. It probably will include coupons based on the varying value of the beef. There would be so many coupons entitling the holder to the choice sirloin or porterhouses, tapering down to the cuts that come out of the neck or the odd pound of ribs.

The situation in the United States in view of their enormous commitments to the Allies, is such that rationing would be in effect now, but for the difficulty of devising a system adequate to it.

Large hatcheries, and also large and small farms, furnish statements showing that hens fed on "Miracle" Hatching Mash (or home mash made with "Miracle" Hatching Mash Supplement) for a month before eggs are incubated give a remarkable percentage of hatch—often from 75 to 85% of eggs set. This large increase over results of usual feeds means more chicks per dollar of feed and hatching cost. You can get these results if you use

1,500 Miles Long— The World's Grimmest Highway

BY JOHN REILLY

Reaching westward across the desert for 1,500 miles from Alexandria, Egypt, to the present battle line in Tripolitania is the grimmest highway in the world.

For more than two years it has been fought over by the forces of the United Nations and their Axis enemies. Although it passes through endless deserts and wreckage, it also has a certain stark beauty.

It is known only as the coast road. The road itself has a bed of crushed stone and is surfaced with macadam for most of its length. Its surface is splotched with patched shell holes and pitted with smaller holes from which land mines have been lifted.

In traversing this road by truck from Alexandria to the frontier this correspondent made a check on the roadside markers. There was one every 10 or 44 miles during which our truck was never out of sight of a destroyed vehicle. There was also to be seen dotting the desert in the distance on either side of the road.

For long stretches this highway, with its memories of battle, passes within sight of the azure peacefulness of the Mediterranean. Then for stretches of 744 miles during which our truck was never out of sight of a destroyed vehicle. There was also to be seen dotting the desert in the distance on either side of the road.

For long stretches this highway, with its memories of battle, passes within sight of the azure peacefulness of the Mediterranean. Then for stretches of 744 miles during which our truck was never out of sight of a destroyed vehicle. There was also to be seen dotting the desert in the distance on either side of the road.

Sometimes it wanders in gentle curves through rolling country. Sometimes it goes through fortuous passes, like a great watchspring on a mountainside. Occasionally it turns to the sea to visit some harbor choked with the rusting hulks of half-sunken ships.

Strung along this road are the remains of small towns and cities with names which have become familiar to us through the radio broadcasts. There is Bushing, for instance. It is impossible to tell what Bushing once looked like for now it is only a small heap of stones and rubble. There is Sidi Barrani, a cluster of roofless white houses dotting sun across the desert with broken panes.

MILE AFTER MILE OF DEBRIS

There is battered Tobruk, where the ruins of the harbor could not see the circular bomb holes between the water. Then there is Derna, with its stores and bomby traps, and Benghazi, where no building is without a hole. There are many others, but they all have the same demolished appearance. The road touches them all and moves on toward the west.

Although the road-side is littered with debris, a remarkable job has been done in much cleaning up the British salvage units have done. They have removed most of their own vehicles and the burned and shell-torn ones have been stripped of everything which could be used by the vehicles which there are many. But there is still mile after mile of wicked wreckage. The debris of many ammunition dumps, helmets, pieces of torn clothing, bandages, gasoline tins and shreds of other articles.

For example, within one stretch of ten miles long and extends it in detail.

Fourteen rains have turned the brown of the desert to green. Lavender desert lilies are in bloom and tough little blossoms tint the landscape for miles. Among them are patches of small grass and flowers hugging their sandy beds.

Near the road is an occasional minefield, surrounded by a warning fence of barbed wire. In some fields the enemy will go too much of a hurry to bury the mines and these deadly objects are merely scattered by on the surface, with the like blooming among them.

"QUIET IN PEACE"

If one stands with the sun at his back and looks out across the desert, it glitters with brilliant flashes of reflections from thousands of discarded cartridges. As one stood along the stretch of road in question there was a wicker armchair standing on the desert floor. Perhaps its owner had left a comfortable seat for hurried departure.

The salvage units had left road signs along the route encouraging the troops to save salvage material. One sign read: "Don't spoil the beauty of the desert. Pick up odds and ends." For miles around this sign the desert was littered with the usual debris.

At intervals along this stretch of road there are cemeteries with rows of wooden crosses projecting from sandy graves. Sometimes the graves are decorated with designs made from pebbles. Usually a German or Italian helmet rests at the foot of each cross and sometimes a propeller blade marks the grave of a pilot.

British crosses bear the letters "R.I.P."

In addition to the cemeteries, there are lonely graves beside shelled vehicles or burned-out tanks.

There are many segments of the road which have the same appearance as this stretch, but as it extends westward the road passes through changing scenes. As it wanders through Cyrenaica (Eastern Libya), it skirts Mussolini's Libyan colonization area. Here the country is hilly and the road dips down into green valleys dotted now with the deserted homes of the colonists. The houses are white and the fields about them are covered with the fresh green of young oats. There is an occasional haystack, but everything movable has been taken away.

Leaving the green fields of the Benghazi region, the road plunges into an area of incredibly flat desert. There there is little green; only the gray tufts of camel thorn scattered among the sand and rocks.

On and on this ribbon of rock and tar reaches until it plunges directly into the battle. 4

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

MAKING SOUPS THE BACKBONE OF YOUR MEAL!

Hello Homemakers! Why is it that before winters is so soon when the family gathers around the table they like bowls of soup are steaming. In the aroma and the chimneys of steam from each guy bowl? And there will be more exclamations — if your soup is really good. How satisfying how delicious soups can be savoured with the simple seasonings every homemaker can keep on her pantry shelf. Serving hearty and wholesome soups often during the snappy cold weather will benefit the health of your family — and your budget. So let's plan soups as a main course — easy and satisfying meal.

The water in which vegetables are cooked left over vegetables, scraps of meat, meat or gravy, left-over macaroni — these should never, under any circumstances be wasted. Keep them in jar in your electric refrigerator overnight.

Here is a good foundation for many nutritious soups use two pounds of neck of mutton or shin of veal. Have your butcher saw the bones into small pieces. Cut up the meat and brown half of it along with a diced onion in a little fat. This gives better flavour and colour to the stock soup. Brown remaining meat and bones in cold water about an hour. Then bring quickly to a boil, using "High" heat, but turn back to "Simmer" at this point to simmer for about two hours. An hour before removing from heat add vegetables and seasonings. Bring to the table filled with diced carrot, turnip, onion and celery; a sprig of parsley, bay leaf and thyme, and peppercorns. When done, skim off fat and drain. The possibilities of using this basic soup foundation are manifold. Add macaroni, noodles, rice, barley, beans, peas, lentils or other vegetables.

A Nutri-thrifty menu suggestion is a hearty bowl of soup accompanied by cheese biscuits or rolls a dish of fruit for dessert and milk as the beverage. Here are some delicious recipes of the tasty cream soups given on, low:

RECIPES

Curried Onion and Rice Soup

Two tablespoons baking fat, two tablespoons finely chopped onion, salt, two tablespoons flour, three-quarters teaspoon curry powder, one-third cup cooked rice, three and one-half cups milk, two teaspoons pepper.

Add onion and salt-teaspoon of curry powder to fat and cook slowly. Add flour, curry powder, salt, pepper and milk. Add milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Season with salt and pepper. Six servings.

Cream of Cabbage And Lentil Soup

Three-quarters cup dried lentils, One-quarter pound salt pork, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups finely shredded cabbage, one tablespoon baking fat, three and one-half cups milk, a few grains pepper.

Soak the lentils overnight in cold water. Drain, add the diced salt pork and two and one-half cups fresh water. Cover and cook until tender, adding more water if necessary. Add the salt rear the end of the cooking time. Drain and boil down the liquid to about one-half. Press lentils and liquid through a sieve. Cook the cabbage in the baking fat on electric element turned low. Add the milk, pepper, lentils and lentil liquid. Add more salt if desired. Reheat. Six servings.

Clear Tomato Soup

One quart, brown soup stock, two and one-half cups tomatoes, one teaspoon pepper corns, one small bay leaf, three cloves, three parsley sprigs, four tablespoons of baking fat, two sprigs or parsley, one-quarter cup each onion, carrot, celery, raw ham diced, salt, pepper.

Cook onion, carrot, celery and ham in baking fat five minutes. Add tomatoes, peppercorns, bay leaf, cloves, parsley, cover and cook slowly one hour on small electric element. Strain carefully and boil down and season with salt and pepper. Three cups may be used for pulled soup or for salad.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. N. C. asks: "Is it all right to make sauerkraut at this time of year? If so, what kind is necessary and how long should it stand before using it?"

Answer: Yes. Use one pound of pure salt (no iodine) for 40 lbs. of cabbage. Be sure cabbage is dry when cut. Shred and pack in crock and cover with salt and pepper. Weight down with an enamel or heavy porcelain plate. Keep weighted down with a heavy stone or several flat irons. Add cabbage leaves like grape-vine leaves to cover as a seal and let stand for one month before using.

BUTTER RATION

Canada's butter ration for the next four-week period has been cut one-third to maintain the butter supply during the season of low production, it was announced today by the Prices Board announced last Thursday.

Instead of three pounds of butter each Canadian will be entitled to buy only two pounds during the period of February. The board indicated that a further reduction will be recorded if possible, in March.

It was announced unofficially that the saving in butter accomplished during the next six weeks will be about 8,000,000 pounds.

The reduction is accomplished by eliminating one of the six "Spare" butter ration coupons which were to be used up to the end of February.

The Prices Board statement said:

"By extending the expiry dates of the other coupons, and by giving notice at this time, the Board said it hoped consumers would avoid any hoarding to the extent of stretching the two-pound butter allowance over the six weeks period.

FIVE AND ONE-THIRD OUNCES ALLOWED WEEKLY

"The net result of such an arrangement will be to reduce each individual's consumption by two and two-thirds ounces per week for the temporary period.

"The normal butter ration is eight ounces a week for each person. A reduction of two and two-thirds ounces means that this figure is contracted to five and one-third ounces.

"Stocks of butter on January 1st of this year," the board said, "were about equal to one month's consumption.

"With production at its lowest level of the year during January and February, it has been decided, after consultation with the distributive trade, that the necessary conservation should be effected immediately, and if possible by reduction only during the month of February."

The brown "Spare C" coupons 5 and 6, which became valid Jan. 18, will not expire until February 28, and coupon 7, becoming valid on February 1st will not expire, until February 28; and coupon 9, valid on March 1st, will expire March 14th.

"Spare C" coupons 10 and 11, from the present books, will not be used.

DISTRIBUTION DELAYED

"The task of distributing a perishable commodity like butter to thousands of retailers and millions of consumers is, in normal times, a complicated one, the board's statement said, "but under conditions of even minimum working stocks after the excessive sales which preceded the rationing plan.

"One to two weeks' butter supply longer be accepted.

BUTTER RACKET REPORTED

Ottawa, (C.P.) — The Prices Board is asking retailers to report any persons or establishments that have in their possession butter obtained in excess of their normal supply, it was announced today by Donald Gordon, chairman of the board.

Mr. Gordon stated the board has been informed that there is a racket in butter and that persons have been obtaining supplies in excess of their normal requirements.

Retailers are asked to report any such cases to the nearest local Prices Board office.

ALL MEAT LIKELY TO BE RATIONED

Ottawa. — Not beef alone, but pork, lamb, and veal will be included in the proposed meat rationing system if it is necessary to speak up in arms. So says Canada's food controller today in all animal meats but to buy beef would require the surrender of more "points" or coupons than to buy veal or lamb. That is how it works in Great Britain.

An improvement of the beef situation is looked for at the end of this month. There is always a lull at this season and the weather this year has been peculiarly unfavorable for shipments.

The beef industry it is clearly established is due to abnormal demand by the army and disrupted shipping by the farm. Whatever may be the essential cause of the latter-day shortage, the consumer prices is one—the average weekly slaughterings in November and December, a place of being from 20,000 to 25,000 head were only from 12,000 to 15,000.

Beans, ham and corn pork sausages are, of course, in the same meat situation as all meat animals. This is due to the per cent of fodder-grain, hay, pressed and cake into Wiltshire sides going overseas. And this is likely to keep on.

Unless we are to slip up in our contract with the United Kingdom Ministry of Food for shipments of slight, J. G. Taggart, chief of the marketing and trade, Prices Board, calls for 45,000,000 tonnes which means 12,000,000 pounds a week for lot of his meat.

JAP SHIPPING WHITTLED DOWN

BY MURRAY ROSE

New York, A.P. — Chinese steamships are a dominant factor in the Japanese war effort and Japan has extended control of these vessels from Asia's seaboard to the Netherlands East Indies, it was revealed today by Lauchlin Currie, administrative assistant to President Roosevelt.

With these conquests appraised even more than the Japanese have control of 3,000,000 tons of shipping, Currie said, Japan's total shipping is now more than 6,000,000 tons, or more than it had before the war.

Currie said Japan's seizure of the Netherlands East Indies gave her control of 1,500,000 tons of shipping, and that Japanese are forcing a certain proportion of Asia's seaboard to work for them.

War... and the Telephone

War has created an unprecedented demand for telephones. At the same time, it has diverted large quantities of telephone materials and equipment to war purposes—both in our factories and our armed forces.

The result is that it is no longer possible to satisfy all civilian demand for new installations. Even when new telephones must be installed, the choice of instruments and services is limited.

As a telephone user, you can help to safeguard telephone service in the interests of Canada's war effort by carefully observing these wartime telephone tactics:—

- BE SURE you have the right number, consult the directory.
- SPEAK DISTINCTLY, directly into the mouthpiece.
- ANSWER PROMPTLY when the bell rings.
- BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
- USE OFF-PEAK hours for Long Distance calls, before 9 a.m., 12 noon–2 p.m., 5-7 p.m., after 8.30 p.m.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

BIG CONTINGENT SAFE OVERSEAS

CROSSING UNEVENTFUL

BY ALAN RANDAL

A British Port, (C.P.) — Thousands of new reinforcements for the Canadian Army, Navy and the R.C.A.F. including some who distinguished themselves in rescuing civilians from the wreck of a train at Almonte, Ont., Dec. 17, have arrived in the United Kingdom and been dispersed to their reception areas.

With them came a considerable number of airmen graduates of the Combined Training Operation who will complete their conditioning in Britain before being sent into action.

The Canadians, who left an East Coast Canadian Port on a frosty December morning arrived in cheerful spirits after a crossing described as uneventful and unhampered by the enemy.

PRESENT FOR HITLER

Before they left, their conducting officer, Lt.-Col. R. S. Timmis, D.S. O., of Toronto, described them as "a kind of delayed Christmas present for Hitler."

Artillery and R.C.A.S.C. personnel from a Manitoba centre were involved in the Almonte wreck in which 36 civilians were killed when a troop train plowed into a standing Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train standing at the Almonte station platform.

Singled out for special praise for conduct in the wreck rescue work was Pte. R. R. Whitta of Kenora, Ont., who was described by his lieutenant, Lieut. Bibbey of Saskatoon, as "wonderful."

Privates J. A. Bragg of Edmonton, Christensen of Carstairs, Alta., and J. MacFarlane of Winnipeg, also received the praise of their officers for their initiative in helping the injured civilians and the staff of the hospital train which took them to Ottawa. None of the military personnel was killed or injured.

MAKE EIGHTEEN CROSSINGS

Two members of the troopships constituting draft H.S.M. J. Copeland of Toronto and Sergt. Gerald Lalonde of Cornwall, Ont., completed their eighteenth Atlantic crossing in a year all of them made without a hindrance by the enemy, Copeland said.

Among the draft were men from the army — fighting units, ordnance and forestry troops as well as officers and ratings of the Royal Canadian Navy returning from leave in Canada to be attached to Canadian or Royal Navy ships or to Canadian Naval Headquarters, in the United Kingdom.

The draft represented Army Training Centres from Sydney, N.S. to Debert, N.S. and included men for the infantry, artillery engineers, armored corps, service corps, medical, dental ordnance and forestry groups.

NO 18-YEAR-OLDS TO BE CALLED IN NEAR FUTURE

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Arthur MacNaughton, director of National Selective Service, announced last week that no early downward extension of the age classes liable for compulsory military service is contemplated by his branch.

"It has been decided not to call 18-year-olds at this time." Mr. MacNamara told the Canadian Press.

Recently 19-year-olds were made subject to the call-up and now are being drafted into the army. Since 18-year-olds are subject to call in the United States and since plans for the Canadian army during 1943 have not yet been stated, there has been considerable speculation over the possibility of calling Canadians of the 18-year class.

NO MARKED EXTENSION

The last extension of the call-up made men married prior to July 15, 1940, who are between the ages of 19 and 25 liable to the call. As it was not anticipated that many men under 25 would be found who had been married before the summer of 1940— all married men since then had previously been considered single for call-up purposes—this was not believed an extension which would widen the field to any marked extent.

As the call-up regulations now stand: all single men and widowed, divorced or legally separated men without children between 19 and 40 are liable to call as well as the small class of married men under 25.

Meanwhile the Selective Service branch is attempting to complete the call-up of all men who were single in July, 1940, between the ages of 19 and 40 who have not yet been called.

Under a recent proclamation all such men are required to report by filling in special forms available at local offices of Selective Service and at post offices.

RE-REGISTRATION BY FEBRUARY 1ST

This procedure, which amounts to a re-registration of all men liable for call but not yet called, is to be completed by February 1st. It is expected to bring to the attention of the authorities any men who have been inadvertently overlooked and, taken together with arrangements by which employers are required to obtain evidence of conformance with military call-up regulations from their employees, is expected to make possible a more effective check-up on wilful evaders of compulsory service.

STRATHCONA MISSION BAND

The January meeting of Strathcona Mission Band was held in the school Friday afternoon, January 8, with the vice-president, Malcolm Finlay, as chairman. The meeting opened by singing a hymn and repeating the members' purpose. Vanda Baker recited a poem "The Little New Year." Ten membership fees were received.

During the worship period, the theme song was taught. Douglas Hoare read the scripture lesson, Luke 19: 1-9 and the Litany was read. Readings, the "Tools Twins" by Lois Friff and "Men or Mules" by Ross Bovee, vice-president.

The worship service theme, "Reaching every person with Christian Teaching," was given and the meeting opened with a hymn. Psalm 27 was read and scripture passage responsively and scripture passage recitative to the theme were read by Mesdames Wilson, Bovee and Pinkus. Prayers were offered by several members for the advancement of Christian education in our homes, churches and communities.

During the business period the minutes were read and approved.

Mrs. Floyd Finlay's invitation for the next meeting was accepted. Mrs. Bovee to prepare the program. Six members paid annual members fees. The offering of $6.25 was dedicated by Mrs. Herrington.

Mesdames Wilson and Finlay sang a duet. The study book which dealt with industrial growth and its effect on world conditions was presented by Rev. Herrington in a most clear and interesting manner.

The meeting closed with the benediction. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Lucille and Miss Lois Paul. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Herrington for her hospitality.

NEWBURGH W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Joseph Paul opened her home for the January meeting of the Newburgh W.C.T.U. The devotional period was in charge of the president, Mrs. Geo. Finlay, and opened with a hymn Psalm 91 was read. The topic "Home as the World" arose to be courageous and hopeful in the dark days.

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

On Tuesday, January 19, the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church met in the lecture room for the first meeting of the year. A number of members were absent on account of the severe cold, but the meeting was a very enthusiastic one. The president, Mrs. Geo. Switzer, occupied the chair.

The first part of the program was a summing up of the work of 1942. Excellent reports were given by the superintendents of the various departments and surely no branch of the work has been neglected. Each treasurer's report was particularly gratifying, showing a substantial increase in givings for 1942. This increase is partly due to the envelope system having been adopted by Mrs. Gorkill, who is superintendent of Christian Stewardship and Finance.

Fitting tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. Walker of the Dominion Board, who passed away in December.

Miss L. Gandier had charge of the worship service and the theme of her talk was most appropriate for the first meeting of the year. She spoke of the hope and enthusiasm with which we begin the year, then of the hope that each day, each week, each month was also a beginning and we should never our resolve at each beginning. She referred to the poem "The Gate of the Year" by Louise Haskins, which our King recited in a broadcast to his people and uttered the fact that we should with a King who could recite that poem as his faith and must pray which to be thankful.

A prayer for peace brought the meeting to a close.

News Comes From B. B. C.

Concerning the underground organizations with which she worked for two years before her escape, Miss Reed said that twelve newspapers with untold thousands of readers are circulated each day with the news gathered from the British Broadcasting Company's previous night's broadcast.

Miss Reed, who is thirty-five, tall and blue eyed, and who speaks with an Oxford accent acquired while a student at Oxford University, said that ninety-nine per cent of all Norwegians are strongly anti-Nazi and that the Quislings are easily spotted and detested by both their fellow countrymen and the Nazis.

She said, "the less food, the less fuel, the less room they get the more they are thrown out of their houses, the stronger the Norwegian people become." She pointed out that the greatest work the women are doing in Norway is urging their husbands to take part in the Underground Movement.

"And they know what that means," she added. "It means a breaking up of home life, and almost certain imprisonment, or flight within six months, because rarely do Underground workers last more than six months. Frequently the wives and family of Underground workers are seized and their property confiscated."

She said that the Norwegian people daily devise new ways to show their contempt for the Nazis, and that whenever possible combine the colors of the Norwegian flag in their costumes.

NAVY WARNED 1943 CRUCIAL

FIRST LORD OUTLINES FLEET'S ASSIGNMENT

BIG NAZI BID EXPECTED

Northern British Base, (B.U.P.)— The First Lord of the Admiralty, Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, has warned the men of the Royal Navy that 1943 will be a crucial year with Britain facing the "greatest attacks on our sea communications" in history, it was revealed, last week.

He said the Royal Navy's task in 1943 was threefold:

1 "We must assure Britain of an indispensable minimum of imports of food, raw material and munitions."

2 "Our Russian Allies have been doing us a great service by killing Huns by the thousands and we must do our level best to see that they have the weapons to go on killing them."

3 "We have to play our part with our American Allies in carrying the war to the enemy, who throughout the war has had the immense tactical advantage of interior lines of communications."

The commanding officer of one battleship told the visitor.

"If the First Lord and the Admiralty can entice the enemy into waters where we can get at them, we have a last throw in the battle of the seas," he said. "The enemy is now using new U-boats in larger packs and with new tactics.

"The U-boats now are even more concentrated than before. They are now lying, not in single packs, but if I may use a military expression, in echelons of packs.

"It is the mercy of God and your devotion to duty that have brought us through so far. There will be a great challenge to our sea power in 1943, but I look with confidence, because of your service and your great record, to coming successfully through."

"I am quite sure that you will render a great and successful account of yourselves. God willing, we will win such a victory that this menace to our way of life shall not recur within the lifetime of our children or our children's children."

Mr. Alexander spoke to the massed ship's company after visiting four destroyers, including two Polish ships. He stood on a pom-pom gun platform while the men perched on guns, ventilators, cranes, ladders, bridges and masts.

Many of his audience had just returned from the New Year's Eve battle in the Arctic Ocean, in which British warships sank a destroyer and crippled a cruiser in beating off an assault by a strong German naval force on a Russia-bound co

USIC IN SCHOOLS UBJECT OF ADDRESS T H. & S. MEETING

Talk on Important bject Given by Public School Inspector

K. O. Birkin, Inspector of Schools, addressed the members of the Home and School Association at the regular meeting held Wednesday afternoon at the Ward School, on the subject, "Music in the Schools."

T. J. Hunt, the president, presided and reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. Fred Knox, and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Hunter. Miss Marguerite Way, the membership committee, then reported that 400 copies of the programme had been distributed among the parents of the children. Mrs. T. S. oMore opened the meeting and introduced Mr. Birkin, the guest speaker. Mr. Birkin's address, according to the programme was given by demonstration was given by Dexsmith's pupils, who sang "Big" and "The Clock Song".

Mr. Birkin, in his address, stated that the accepted aim of education is to train the pupil for life." This aim in view he illustrated by short music plays in this training and in life itself.

He said: "In one minute music echoes of any successions or combinations of sounds which are pleasing to the ear. That is, the 'song' of a bird is music, and so are the tones of an Aeolian harp when the wind passes as it sweeps over the tightly stretched strings. In a stricter sense, however, music is an art—the purest of the arts; careful study is necessary for its mastery and enjoyment."

He then said, to be successful in music, someone has said, is the result of 1 per cent. food, and 99 per cent. then made.

Continuing, he said: "I have lived fifty years and I suppose I've given my whole life to music, but I have had all my life." But his attitude proves nothing. I don't believe without music, but that is no reason why I should not have been far more successful in life if its influence had been developed.

To illustrate this, Mr. Birkin said: "I am the greater part of time I have spent in music—the material to me is not the struggle for a certain livelihood and these elements are sadly needed which can be attained in the mind alone by which can find the mind always and things and make clear the ability of a larger life clear from the faint of wordliness, nothing can more perfectly than good music.

Addison wrote of music that: "It wings it with sublime desires, fills it to beyond its sphere, and lifts it high in the history of the world had been an important factor," outlined the history of music from the time.

Relating this to Music in the schools, Mr. Birkin said: "Thus it would seem that the place to give musical training for life should be the schools, and through a revival of the history of music we have led to better understand its use and its achievements, which we substantiate the promise that we should occupy an important place on every school time-table."

Mr. Birkin stressed the importance of carefully planned training at an early age. He said, "that in the grades is our school system. Music has an important place in the Education of the Adolescent." He said: "The aim of music teaching should be rather the cultivation of a taste than the acquirement of a proficiency; it should lay the foundation for intelligent enjoyment in after life."

The most important part of school music is, of course, singing. Whatever music activities may have to be omitted, no child should miss the joy, the stimulation and the development by joining with his voice in song.

In addition, however, to this choral singing there should be regular lessons in sight singing during which children learn not only to sing songs but also to understand and more fully the notation of music to the end that they may eventually to sing at sight, independently, at sight.

Following Mr. Birkin read "Music in School Work, Expert Finds," by Phyllis Patri."

R. H. Douglas, on behalf of the association, moved a vote of thanks.

LOCAL BOARD WILL DISTRIBUTE NEW RATION BOOKS

When the original consumer rationing cards were issued last spring, thousands of volunteers, chiefly women, worked intensively at a large number of centres throughout the Dominion to make certain that they would be in the hands of those entitled to them when rationing was introduced.

Another call has now been issued by the Local Ration Boards for similar volunteers to attend the distributing centres when consumers will obtain the new ration coupon books between February 19 and March 1.

Under the altered system which will govern this distribution of ration books they will not be mailed to consumers. Instead, distributing centres will be established in all places possessing a population of 500 or more. Consumers are asked to bring their ration books with them when they call at one of these distributing centres and the responsibility of the volunteers, working under a distributing chief in charge of each centre, will be to examine the books so presented and in the case new ones in exchange for the consumer right then be given to the consumer right on the spot and he will not be obliged to wait for his new book to reach him by mail.

The number of staffs of the distributing centres will vary under their own Local Ration Boards, which were set up a few weeks ago and many of these organizations are now in operation. Many of the people who are engaged in enrolling volunteers are willing to render service in that capacity but it is hoped that there will be a ready response to this appeal so that the work of distributing the new ration books may be carried out both efficiently and efficiently. It is pointed out that the larger the number of volunteers, the less will be the time required of them. Hours will vary according to local conditions and it is not anticipated that the demands made upon the volunteers will be so onerous as to interfere with their work during the summer, when books for the entire population had to be prepared in a much shorter space of time. Placing the distributing centres and within a short space of time Placing the distributing centres and within a short space of time Placing the distributing centres in existence instead of only will provide for the requirements made upon the volunteers who will also have the satisfaction of knowing that they are definitely performing a work of national service.

Chairman Attends National Convention Blood Donors, Toronto

Mr. Russell Hunter, chairman of the Blood Donors' Committee of the Napanee Red Cross, spent a few days last week in Toronto, where he attended the National Blood Donors' Convention. About 100 chairmen of similar committees from coast to coast in Canada attended the convention, which was held at the National Headquarters of the Red Cross on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr Hunter brought back specimens of the serum and will be pleased to pass on to any organization or individual interested the information and facts he gained.

Mr. Hunter stated that at least 12,000 donations per week are needed from Canada. Only half of this amount is being given at the present time.

U. S. ANTHRACITE EMBARGO LIFTED

Ottawa, (CP.) — The Prices Board announced officially Saturday in a statement issued on behalf of Hugh Stewart, that, with resumption of work by miners in the United States anthracite field, the temporary embargo on anthracite shipments to Canada has been lifted.

Officials of the coal administration said, however, that it will be "some little time" before dealers can expect regular shipments, since many of the United States anthracite mines are "weeks behind" on their orders.

Chief of Police T. B. Moore, chairman of the local committee for the Chinese Relief Fund, has authorized "The Napanee Beaver" to receive contributions for the Fund. China has been at war with Japan for over five years and is the first of the United Nations to resist the Axis nations. The suffering of the Chinese people and the losses sustained by them cannot be imagined, yet China continues to stand up, without any hint of quitting, under the superior power of the Japanese war machine.

The money subscribed by Canadians to the Chinese Relief Fund increases a great deal, because of time in reaching China, because of the exchange rate, so that even a small contribution will be of great value.

The following list shows some of the things which varying amounts subscribed in Canada will do in China:

$ 1 will buy ether for 15 operations.

If making payment to the Fund by cheque, make cheque payable to The Chinese Relief Fund.

CANADIANS CHASE ROMMEL

These two Canadian airmen were among the fighting fliers of the United Nations who helped light the fire that exploded Hitler's pipe-dream. They were part of a bomber crew which flew with the air forces keeping Rommel's Afrika Corps in frantic retreat. Advance Canadian personnel have arrived in North Africa for special training. The National Film Board's latest film in the CANADA CARRIES ON series, "FLYING FIRES ON AXIS EUROPE," gives a full report of the North Africa operations and the desert after Rommel's fleeing army. Importance of the move to United Nations' offensive, in its relationship to the struggle on the Russian front is dramatically presented.

Miss Marguerite Way, the membership committee, then reported that 400 copies of the programme had been distributed among the parents of the children. Mrs. T. S. oMore opened the meeting and introduced Mr. Birkin, the guest speaker. Mr. Birkin's address, according to the programme was given by demonstration was given by Dexsmith's pupils, who sang "Big" and "The Clock Song".

Mr. Birkin, in his address, stated that the accepted aim of education is to train the pupil for life." This aim in view he illustrated by short music plays in this training and in life itself.

He said: "In one minute music echoes of any successions or combinations of sounds which are pleasing to the ear. That is, the 'song' of a bird is music, and so are the tones of an Aeolian harp when the wind passes as it sweeps over the tightly stretched strings. In a stricter sense, however, music is an art—the purest of the arts; careful study is necessary for its mastery and enjoyment."

He then said, to be successful in music, someone has said, is the result of 1 per cent. food, and 99 per cent. then made.

Continuing, he said: "I have lived fifty years and I suppose I've given my whole life to music, but I have had all my life." But his attitude proves nothing. I don't believe without music, but that is no reason why I should not have been far more successful in life if its influence had been developed.

To illustrate this, Mr. Birkin said: "I am the greater part of time I have spent in music—the material to me is not the struggle for a certain livelihood and these elements are sadly needed which can be attained in the mind alone by which can find the mind always and things and make clear the ability of a larger life clear from the faint of wordliness, nothing can more perfectly than good music.

Addison wrote of music that: "It wings it with sublime desires, fills it to beyond its sphere, and lifts it high in the history of the world had been an important factor," outlined the history of music from the time.

Relating this to Music in the schools, Mr. Birkin said: "Thus it would seem that the place to give musical training for life should be the schools, and through a revival of the history of music we have led to better understand its use and its achievements, which we substantiate the promise that we should occupy an important place on every school time-table."

Mr. Birkin stressed the importance of carefully planned training at an early age. He said, "that in the grades is our school system. Music has an important place in the Education of the Adolescent." He said: "The aim of music teaching should be rather the cultivation of a taste than the acquirement of a proficiency; it should lay the foundation for intelligent enjoyment in after life."

The most important part of school music is, of course, singing. Whatever music activities may have to be omitted, no child should miss the joy, the stimulation and the development by joining with his voice in song.

In addition, however, to this choral singing there should be regular lessons in sight singing during which children learn not only to sing songs but also to understand and more fully the notation of music to the end that they may eventually to sing at sight, independently, at sight.

Following Mr. Birkin read "Music in School Work, Expert Finds," by Phyllis Patri."

R. H. Douglas, on behalf of the association, moved a vote of thanks.

LOCAL BOARD WILL DISTRIBUTE NEW RATION BOOKS

When the original consumer rationing cards were issued last spring, thousands of volunteers, chiefly women, worked intensively at a large number of centres throughout the Dominion to make certain that they would be in the hands of those entitled to them when rationing was introduced.

Another call has now been issued by the Local Ration Boards for similar volunteers to attend the distributing centres when consumers will obtain the new ration coupon books between February 19 and March 1.

Under the altered system which will govern this distribution of ration books they will not be mailed to consumers. Instead, distributing centres will be established in all places possessing a population of 500 or more. Consumers are asked to bring their ration books with them when they call at one of these distributing centres and the responsibility of the volunteers, working under a distributing chief in charge of each centre, will be to examine the books so presented and in the case new ones in exchange for the consumer right then be given to the consumer right on the spot and he will not be obliged to wait for his new book to reach him by mail.

The number of staffs of the distributing centres will vary under their own Local Ration Boards, which were set up a few weeks ago and many of these organizations are now in operation. Many of the people who are engaged in enrolling volunteers are willing to render service in that capacity but it is hoped that there will be a ready response to this appeal so that the work of distributing the new ration books may be carried out both efficiently and efficiently. It is pointed out that the larger the number of volunteers, the less will be the time required of them. Hours will vary according to local conditions and it is not anticipated that the demands made upon the volunteers will be so onerous as to interfere with their work during the summer, when books for the entire population had to be prepared in a much shorter space of time Placing the distributing centres and within a short space of time Placing the distributing centres in existence instead of only will provide for the requirements made upon the volunteers who will also have the satisfaction of knowing that they are definitely performing a work of national service.

Chairman Attends National Convention Blood Donors, Toronto

Mr. Russell Hunter, chairman of the Blood Donors' Committee of the Napanee Red Cross, spent a few days last week in Toronto, where he attended the National Blood Donors' Convention. About 100 chairmen of similar committees from coast to coast in Canada attended the convention, which was held at the National Headquarters of the Red Cross on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr Hunter brought back specimens of the serum and will be pleased to pass on to any organization or individual interested the information and facts he gained.

Mr. Hunter stated that at least 12,000 donations per week are needed from Canada. Only half of this amount is being given at the present time.

U. S. ANTHRACITE EMBARGO LIFTED

Ottawa, (CP.) — The Prices Board announced officially Saturday in a statement issued on behalf of Hugh Stewart, that, with resumption of work by miners in the United States anthracite field, the temporary embargo on anthracite shipments to Canada has been lifted.

Officials of the coal administration said, however, that it will be "some little time" before dealers can expect regular shipments, since many of the United States anthracite mines are "weeks behind" on their orders.

China has been at war with Japan for over five years and is the first of the United Nations to resist the Axis nations. The suffering of the Chinese people and the losses sustained by them cannot be imagined, yet China continues to stand up, without any hint of quitting, under the superior power of the Japanese war machine.

The money subscribed by Canadians to the Chinese Relief Fund increases a great deal, because of time in reaching China, because of the exchange rate, so that even a small contribution will be of great value.

The following list shows some of the things which varying amounts subscribed in Canada will do in China:

If making payment to the Fund by cheque, make cheque payable to The Chinese Relief Fund.

WAR OF MOVEMENT

More than once attention has been called to the difference between this war as a war of movement, and the first World War, which was a war of more or less fixed positions. It is a war of rapid movement the loss of territory by one side or the other, does not necessarily spell defeat. This was amply demonstrated in Libya when the British and the German armies moved rapidly. First the Afrika Corps chasing the Eighth Army and then the Eighth Army chasing Rommel. So long as the armies are kept intact the victory or defeat is undecided. Of course, there is a great effect for good on the army advancing and on the nation at home, and a corresponding loss of morale on the other side, and that must not be overlooked. In Libya, while as yet Rommel's army has not been defeated yet it is badly decimated and as a shadow of its former self is no able to strike back with its former strength. The final test has still to come. It will not be an easy task for the United Nations. But the Germans will now have to fight in Libya on two fronts, and that makes all the difference.

In Russia, if loss of land by the Germans was the only consideration, the situation would, for them, not be so serious. They gave up territory last winter, and Russia broke up a great dead during the last summer. But now, more than the loss of territory is the issue. It looks as though the Russians are embarked on a campaign to destroy the German Army. Stalingrad is perhaps the beginning of that. It is doubtful if, in all history, there has been a more heroic stand than that made at Stalingrad. It is also true that the Russian strategy in cutting off over 300,000 German and Rumanian soldiers from the main army and gradually destroying them, is a major victory for Russia. If those magnificent fighting forces are able to surround other German armies and repeat what has been done at Stalingrad, they will have registered a major defeat on Germany.

It is hoped that the Russians have the strength and the reserve to go on. We wonder at the way in which they have kept up so long. There has been no rest for weeks — day and night they have been at it. The real test of their strength will come when they reach Kharkov and Rostov. These are absolutely essential to Germany. The Germans will have seen to it that they are well fortified. Should the Russians be strong enough to wrest them from the enemy, they will have inflicted a staggering blow on the much vaunted German war machine. In the meantime, they are destroying and capturing so many men and so much material, that the morale of the German armies must be all but shattered.

CONVICTIONS

Newspaper readers must have been impressed lately, by the advertisements which have been sponsored by the liquor interests, and which have been so generally distributed, even in Ontario, where liquor advertising is illegal. The advertisements which were either a tirade against the so-called prohibitionists or else a condemnation of the Federal policy of mild restriction, must have had Provincial Government approval, otherwise they could not have been published. Probably the Government justified its action on a technicality, as to what constitutes advertising. At any rate there was no question as to who paid for the advertisements.

We have consistently opposed the sale of liquor for beverage purposes. Our worst fears expressed when we opposed the so - called "government control" have been more than realized. In our own town, the situation has gone steadily from bad to worse. As now operating the beverage rooms are a distinct menace to the moral health of the community, and, inasmuch as they appeal to both sexes, are worse than the old bar-rooms.

It has always been the policy of this paper that there should be no inconsistency between its editorial and advertising columns. For that reason we declined to publish these advertisements, sponsored by the liquor interests. We are not taking any credit to ourselves for this, merely wish our readers to know that there are newspapers willing to stand by their convictions, even if doing so means loss of revenue.

The good name of Napanee and the moral well-being of our youth is our deepest concern.

ON SATURDAY

The Tenth Anniversary of the rise of Hitler to power, was a big surprise for his deputies and the people of Berlin. For the second time, Hitler was absent from the celebration. His message was read by Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels. The main address was given by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering. He was the man who, a few years ago, assured the German people that Berlin would never be bombed. There was a poetic justice in the fact that the R. A. F. kept Goering from giving his speech for over an hour. A group of the fast mosquitoes made the first daylight raid over Berlin, just at the time scheduled for the address. The programme was disturbed a little, when buildings were hit and all the people had to run for shelter. Certainly the United Nations are not lacking in a sense of the dramatic.

The bombing, however, was not the only serious thing about the day's proceedings. The speeches were not so encouraging as the German people might have expected. Gone were the flamboyant boasts that Germany was the most perfect in the world. Instead, Goering tried to impress the people with the courage and the fighting qualities of the German soldier. It was a dirge-like occasion.

The Fuehrer contented himself with trying to frighten the people with the old Bolshevik bogey. It is marvellous how often that can be trotted out to serve as a rallying point and a sort of uniting slogan. For years we were accustomed to it being used in this country. In Germany, the threat is held over the heads of the people that, if they should be defeated the Communists will come into Berlin and make their lives miserable. This appeal will work for a while, but if the German people ever hear of the "unconditional surrender" pronouncement from Casablanca, they will have a new fear, not only the Communists, but the Armies of Democracies. But perhaps they won't hear of this—not right away. Then the Fuehrer's proclamation may serve to stiffen morale for a while, anyway.

Altogether, it was not such a happy holiday as the Germans were accustomed to, and the next anniversary will be still different.

V

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

The Speech from the Throne, read by the Governor - General at the opening of Parliament last Thursday, contained a program for the future which is most heartening. "Every effort," said the speech, "must be made to insure, after the close of hostilities, the establishment, in useful and remunerative employment, of the men and women in our armed forces and war industries." Legislation will be introduced to reconstitute the select committee on reconstruction and re-establishment, appointed at the last session.

"It is in the general interest," the Governor - General continued, "that freedom from fear and from want should be assured to all. A nationwide plan which would provide insurance against the inevitable consequences of major economic and social hazards, is essential if this objective is to be attained."

The principle for post-war planning is now. There will come a day when the bugles sound "cease fire." Then the single purpose of defeating the enemy will be removed, and tensions will undoubtedly assert themselves. It is not, but the sudden change, production for war will be reduced to a minimum. Hundreds of thousands will be unemployed, pending the turnover to a peace-time economy. On top of that the men from the various services will have to be absorbed into the peace-time economy. All this makes it imperative that there be a well thought-out clear-cut program ready to be put into operation the moment hostilities cease.

Even the most optimistic would be compelled to admit that, some time must elapse between the close of hostilities and absorption of all the war workers and men of the services into full peace production. In that interval they must be given security. Fear from want must be removed.

The Speech from the Throne indicated that much had already been done by the Federal Government in establishing "annuities, unemployment insurance and pensions for the aged, the blind and for disabled soldiers, and through the financial assistance rendered for accidents, sickness, and hospitalization, widows and mothers' allowances, and maternity benefits. There is, however, no approach to a nation-wide plan of social security."

If the Government opportunely attacks these problems, taking care of the immediate situation, following the war and adopting a long-term policy of social security for all, it will go far towards preventing a recurrence of the tragic situation of the "thirties."

REPORT ON CASABLANCA

Casablanca, (U.P.) — The following is the text of the communique issued January 24th at the joint press conference of President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill, and not released until Tuesday night.

The President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain have been in conference near Casablanca since January 14. They were accompanied by the combined chiefs of staff of the two countries, namely, for the United States:

Gen. George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army; Admiral E. J. King, Commander-in-Chief of the U.S. Navy; Lieut.-Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding U.S. Army Air Forces and, for Great Britain:

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord; Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, Chief of the Imperial General Staff; Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, Chief of the Air Staff.

They were assisted by:

Lieut.-Gen. R. B. Somervell, commanding general, services of supply U.S. Army; Field Marshal Sir John Dill, head of the British joint staff mission in Washington; Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of combined operations; Lieut.-Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, chief of staff officer to the Minister of Defence, together with his number of staff officers from both countries.

They have received visits from Mr. Murphy (Robert Murphy, the President's Minister to North Africa), and Mr. MacMillan (Harold Macmillan, British Minister to Allied headquarters); from General Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied expeditionary force in North Africa; from Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham, naval commander of the Allied expeditionary force in North Africa; from Gen. Mark W. Clark, U.S. Army, and from Major-General Lyman Lemnitzer, Sir Harold Alexander, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder and Lieut.-Gen. Carl Spaatz, U. S. Air Army.

The President was accompanied by Mr. Harry Hopkins and was joined by Mr. Averill Harriman. With the Prime Minister was Lord Leathers, Minister of War Transport.

For ten days the combined staffs were in constant session, meeting two or three times a day and recording progress at intervals to the President and Prime Minister.

The entire field of the war was reviewed in every theatre throughout the world and all resources were marshalled for more intense prosecution of the war by land, sea and air. Nothing like this prolonged daily liaison between two Allies has ever taken place before.

Complete agreement was reached between the leaders of the two countries and their respective staffs upon the war plans and enterprises to be undertaken during the campaign of 1943 against Germany, Italy and Japan with a view to drawing the utmost advantage from the markedly favorable turn of events at the close of 1942.

Premier Stalin was cordially invited to meet the President and the Prime Minister in which case the conference would have been held much farther to the east. He was however, unable to leave Russia at this time on account of the great offensive which he himself as commander in chief is directing.

The President and Prime Minister received the full fruits of the enormous search of the war which Russia is successfully bearing along her whole front, and their prime object has been to draw as much of that search as possible off the Russian armies by engaging the enemy as heavily as possible at the best selected points.

Premier Stalin has been fully informed of the military proposals.

The President and Prime Minister have been in communication with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. They have apprised him of the measures which they are undertaking to assist him in China's magnificent and unrelaxing struggle for the common cause.

The occasion of the meeting between the President and the Prime Minister made it opportune to invite General Giraud to confer with the combined chiefs of staff and to arrange for a meeting between him and General de Gaulle.

The two generals have been in close consultation.

The President, Prime Minister and the combined staffs having completed their plans for the offensive campaign of 1943 have now separated in order to put them into active and concerted execution.

Germany and Italy Prepare for Post-War Years, – Win or Lose

Hardly a ripple has been aroused by the announcement, broadcast from Berlin, that Germany and Japan on one hand, and Italy and Japan on the other, have signed pacts of economic co-operation. — Although Germany thought it important enough to put the text of the identical agreements on the air

Probably most observers thought it neither new nor remarkable that Italy in a war should co-operate economically.

It is also true that inspection of the text does not reveal any very startling provisions.

But it is a peculiarity of diplomatic documents which register only mutual commitments that their real importance is in the unwritten understandings as to how they are to be used. And this one carries in itself an indication of what its secret meaning is. That meaning is both new and of tremendous importance. The text contains four articles, of which the last is only the usual formal paragraph on its duration; fixed to coincide with that of the tripartite pact. The three principal clauses state that the signatories will "promote and develop in every respect and with all means an exchange of economic performances" — whatever that many mean — "mutually assist each other in the supply of raw materials and the establishment of installations and will carry out close technical co-operation," (2) "will closely co-operate financially," and (3) "will remain in close contact in order to make their co-operation for carrying out their economic policy more useful and more effective. The ... governments will for this purpose keep the economic relationship between the two countries under permanent observation by special delegates."

This all seems vague enough except for the single definite promise of the establishment of permanent delegations to supervise economic and financial co-operation. What actual aim and purpose remains undefined. But in the paragraph we find a clue to the real meaning of this agreement.

It states that the signatories have decided to enter into economic co-operation still closer in order to supply each other mutually with the requisite economic strength in this war for the construction of a New Order in Europe and a Greater East Asia, and in order to carry out after a victorious termination of the war, each in his own economic sphere a comprehensive constructive plan." — Dr. Otto Dietrich's German broadcast on the welfare and prospects of peace.

The important part of this document is the statement that the agreement for economic co-operation between the Axis powers during the war is to be carried over into peace. The intention of the word "victorious" is obvious. No one could be publicly be admitted that any other termination to the war is possible. And certainly, understand it, pressed to the limit of its resources, Germany is in no position to make peace which exacts from her no reason whatever.

Hence this post-war agreement is actually one for continued economic co-operation after the Axis powers defeat. It is perfectly in the pattern of the Axis New Order in Europe which this column has already outlined.

Remember that Germany is completely self - sufficient in food and raw materials for a continental empire of 250,000,000 people. Add to that the industrial territory of Belgium and Northern France, and the resources of the Balkan states, and Germany envisages as part of her permanent possession of continental empire and political power a total population of 350,000,000 people, a population sufficient to provide the military armies of a world war, and sufficient to supply all the needs of industry and commerce.

Germany envisages as part of her permanent possession of continental empire and political power a total population of 350,000,000 people, a population sufficient to provide the military armies of a world war, and sufficient to supply all the needs of industry and commerce.

This column has already pointed out that the power in North Africa is that of the German staff officer. Behind the front of the Vichy-French Army under the French flag, German officers are installed in every unit, prepared to cooperate with Germans to secure industrial economic collaboration. Behind the front of the Italian Army, Italian officers are already advanced to the other zones.

HOLLYWOOD and HERE

By TAP KEYES

Lew Ayres, Dr. Gillespie's assistant, who was poison to everyone when he revealed his pacifism, has come into his own again among the men who were supposed to dislike him most, the soldiers. You'll remember that Ayres, when he got his draft call, announced that his personal principles wouldn't permit him to kill but that he was willing to risk death anywhere with an ambulance unit or some other non-combatant service. Recently the army saw it his way and he now lectures to hospital equipment men. He is very popular with his soldier pupils. His studio, which took him off the roll when the clamor broke out, has reinstated him and he'll take his place with other returned stars when the war is won.

The physical growth of movie children would amaze professors. Take Gloria Jean. In 1939 her studio launched the young singer as a 10-year-old wonder. Last week she was cast for a more mature role, it being announced at the same time that Gloria Jean was now 16. The studio allowed her to be her age three months ago. . . . Hollywood films are mostly identified with major, minor and independent studios. Lately, however, new groups of film makers have arisen as a result of refugee actors coming on the scene with time on their hands and new ideas in their minds. Recently a group made "The Captain of Kosperkich," which will be shown shortly, and now along comes "The Hangman," a story of Lidice. These things should bring freshness to the screen. . . .

Motion picture houses are heavy sufferers in the current wave of juvenile crime. Much of it is vandalism. Teen-aged terrorists take tearing seats, marking walls, throwing things through the air, removing anything detachable and making life miserable generally for manager and patron. Patrons can perform a service by telling the manager the moment they see some of the juvenile hoodlums at their tricks. The war has had an upsetting effect on youngsters. . . . Rosalind Russell, who was to play Sister Kenny in the film story of the Australian healer's life, will wait until her (Russell's) baby is born. . . . Adolphe Menjou, still a pulse-palpitator to the girls, has been in pictures for 30 years.

Roy Rogers, the film cowboy, may find himself without that famed moniker—if a court action is successful. His real name is Leonard Slye. A few years ago another actor with the same name to films only. Now the first Roy Rogers wants $500,000 damages because the cowboy has been making personal appearances under the flag. . . . After hearing Dinah Shore sing a soldier song over the radio, Bucko Clayton sent her a wire: "Oh, Lady, If You Could Only Cook." Bucko became a chocolate cake that Dinah whipped up all by herself. . . . Michael Curtiz, who directed "Casablanca," is well-known for his tangled verbiage. Explaining a scene to the actors, he called for the "slow throbbing music of the local tom-thumbs."

The death of Buck Jones, famed cowboy star, who lost his life in the Boston fire, was the tragic climax to a crescendo of pep. Buck had been on a good-will tour of the USA. In New York he was feted by the Friars. Banquets in his honor were held everywhere. A great party was arranged for him to mark the end of his tour. The end of his tour, as scheduled, was—Boston. . . . Chilly Willies, who revel in the horror routines, are in for a special when Bela Lugosi emerges soon as "The Ape Man." . . . The Dionne Quintuplets may make a tour of the USA for war charities. . . . "Phantom of the Opera," the old-time thriller, will be remade and Jon Hall may get the role.

ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE GROWING

The Royal Canadian Air Force has grown from a one-year strength of 4,000 men to over 100,000.

Functions of the R.C.A.F. are:

(1) Operation of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, which turns out aircrews for the Royal Air Force, Royal Australian Air Force, the Royal New Zealand Air Force as well as the Royal Canadian Air Force. Over 83,000 graduate members of the R.C.A.F. are engaged in this task.

(2) The air defense of Canada.

(3) Co-operation with the British navy in the convoy protection.

(4) Fighting overseas with the Royal Air Force.

A majority of R.C.A.F. personnel overseas is serving with R.A.F. squadrons. R.A.F. units in every part of the world contain Canadian personnel.

Twenty - five R.C.A.F. squadrons are serving in the United Kingdom and elsewhere with the Royal Air Force. Twenty squadrons are under Canadian command and strategically coordinated with the R.A.F.

An R.C.A.F. bomber group has been formed in Britain and is staffed by senior R.C.A.F. officers. An R.C.A.F. fighting fighter squadron is stationed in Ceylon and a fighter squadron is serving in the Middle East.

Canadian airmen have served or are serving with the R.A.F. in Greece, in Russia, Burma, India, Egypt, Libya, Malta, South Africa, Iceland, Bermuda, Iran, Iraq, Syria, Java, Madagascar, France, Norway and at sea with the Fleet Air Arm.

Canadian squadrons and R.C.A.F. personnel have participated in all the major raids on Germany and German-occupied territory. More than 1,000 Canadian bomber part, in the 1,000-plane raid on Cologne, or one-sixth of the flying personnel involved.

Canada sent a squadron overseas which fought in the Battle of Britain. In addition, there was an "all-Canadian" fighter squadron of the R.A.F. which fought in the air battle.

More than 2,000 Canadians were part of the aerial armada which played such an important part in the defeat of the Axis forces in Egypt and Libya.

Headquarters of an Army Co-operation Wing of the R.C.A.F. has been set up at Canadian Army Headquarters in England.

Canadians of Army Co-operation squadrons have gained particular fame from their prowess as "engine busters." One such squadron "shot up" seven locomotives in one day in November, to make a total of twenty-four engines in three weeks.

The Air Board and Air Force in England exchange personnel for periods of training, in order that each branch of the service will be familiar with the operation of the other.

CHURCH TO MARK C. G. I. T. WEEK FEBRUARY 7 - 14

QUEEN ELIZABETH APPROVES THE C.G.I.T. UNIFORM

There are forty thousand Canadian Girls in Training and during the week February 7th to 14th, we are to hear about this programme for teen-age girls begun twenty - eight years ago within the Protestant churches of the Dominion. The girls wear a uniform the chief part of which is the middy with the original in the Navy. It is worn with dark skirt, tie and sweater. During the visit of their Majesties to Canada, Queen Elizabeth commented several times upon the uniformed girls.

During C.G.I.T. Week which follows National Boys' Week and was first inaugurated by the Joint Boys' and Girls' Sunday in many churches, emphasis is to be given opportunity to learn of this method of Christian Education through Camping as a church service, Parents' or Family Night, Mother and Daughter Banquet or Father and Son banquet for boys groups. The theme for the week is "Turn You and Take Your Journey."

WHAT IS C. G. I. T.?

The ideal C. G. I. T. group is the Sunday School class meeting in the midweek. The purpose is the development in Christian character through vital connection with the whole life of the church. Midweek programmes include worship, business, project, activity, games and singing, with each fellowship as the church service, Parents' or Family Night, Mother and Daughter Banquet or Father and Son banquet for boys groups. The theme for the week is "Turn You and Take Your Journey."

WHAT IS C. G. I. T.?

The ideal C. G. I. T. group is the Sunday School class meeting in the midweek. The purpose is the development in Christian character through vital connection with the whole life of the church. Midweek programmes include worship, business, project, activity, games and all overnight is given through the important factors. The success of a group is judged by growth—knowledge, skills, attitudes, Christian citizenship, relationships in daily living.

Provincial Girls' Work Boards, their secretaries and denominational secretaries direct the planning of programmes and other work. Nationally oversight is given through the National Girls' Work Board of the Religious Education Council of Canada by means of publications and the work of the National Girls Work Secretary, Miss Muriel Jacobs. Provincial camps are promoted during the summer months and 5,000 girls attended C. G. I. T. camps in 1942.

In Ontario, C. G. I. T. Week in February is Weekly Finance Week when contributions are made in support of the Girls' Work Board.

In Loving Memory

ARNOLD — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Morley O. Lake, who passed away January 31, 1942.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near.
And only those who have loved him can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you Morley,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts, concealed.

Dearly loved and sadly missed by MOTHER, DAD,
Brother WILFRED
and Sister-in-law, HELEN.

SEXSMITH — In loving memory of a husband and father, Edmond Sexsmith, who passed away February 5th, 1942.

There is a sad but sweet remembrance.
There is a memory fond and true,
There is a token of affection for you,
A husband and father ...
And a heartache still, for you.
Lovingly remembered by his WIFE and DAUGHTER

SOLMES — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Robert Jones Solmes, who passed away on February 6th, 1941.

The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep
His memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by

REMEMBER THE GREEKS

You have read many horror stories coming out of this war.
Everyone has: Rotterdam, Hong Kong, Lidice; — the annals are full of them. Stories of horror and heroism. The heroism of mothers dying to protect their children and the horror of babies maimed and slaughtered by indiscriminate bombing. Yet there is one story that we, in the press of more momentous events, seem to have forgotten. It is the story of the children of Greece.

Remember their gallant fight against odds that would have daunted a less valiant people? They are paying now for the fight they put up against invasion. Since the days of Herod, no nation has paid a higher penalty. There is no story more tragic than that of a brave man who has to stand helplessly by whilst his children starve.

In the Red Cross magazine, the Revue Internationale, some small part of the ghastly story can be read. The text of this magazine is in French ,but no knowledge of any language is needed to get the full import of the pictures it contains. There are a graphic illustration of Dr. Goebbels' boast that the whole of Europe will starve before Germany feels the pinch.

One picture portrays three children standing against a wall in a Greek town. Just that and no more. These children have small boys and a girl, emaciated until their knees stand out like gnarled knots on their pitiful legs; — until their dark eyes lay blankly piteously, from cavernous sockets. Starved until no amount of clothes could keep the chill out of their thin bodies.

They are the orphans of the storm that we have helped in making, and the appeal of their wordless little bodies is one that no civilized country could reject. Are they to die because their fathers fought in our battle?

Whatever the outcome of this war, no terms arranged in 1944 or 1945 will help the Greek children who have survived by then. It is not revenge or reparations they want, — only food.

Into the offices of the Red Cross Society come appeals from Greece that are heartrending in their very brevity. Over and over again they ask "send us bread." The Canadian Government is sending 10,000 tons of wheat monthly to the stricken nation, and the Red Cross has agreed to ship 10,000 food parcels as a gift from the Canadian people. It is up to the people of Canada to see that the Red Cross is able to do so.

THE CHILDREN OF GREECE ARE ASKING FOR BREAD. SHALL WE OFFER THEM A STONE?

Again, the days of the year are realized in the fall, September, October, November. Earlier-started, winter-tried chicks have time to get their growth and development which fall size and full egg size, by the time pullets are climbing, even though protein feeds, for starting and growing, are going to be scarce. You can raise your chicks on less of these high priced items if you start them earlier and give yourself time to grow them more slowly.

Don't overfeed your chicks. Order just the number you can handle. It will cost just them in the long run, and you'll be able to obtain more growing room for your chicks. KING WISHES CHURCHILL LUCK

London, (B.U.P.) — Prime Minister Churchill had lunch with the King at Buckingham Palace just before he left for Africa, and the King shook his hand, wished him good luck and gave him a personal message for President Roosevelt.

He flew to Casablanca in the same converted Liberator bomber of the Ferry Command and with the same pilot and crew that took him to Russia and Moscow last August.

In the plane with him were W. Averell Harriman, lend-lease administrator; Sir Charles Wilson, president of the Royal College of Physicians; Sir Charles Portal, chief of the British Air Staff; J. M. Martin and T. L. Rowan, Mr. Churchill's private secretaries, and Commander C. R. Thompson, his personal assistant.

Mr. Churchill spent some hours in his bunk on the flight deck of the Liberator, but frequently visited the KKnockpit. The Liberator had been modified to add to its comfort. The weather was good to Casablanca.

Mr. Churchill left the evening of January 12, and his plane made a perfect landing at Casablanca shortly after sunrise. He was welcomed by a few American and British officers, and a second plane of British delegates flew landed and Mr. Churchill walked over and welcomed them. The American Chiefs of Staff arrived 30 minutes earlier than the remainder of the British party, which followed within an hour.

Mr. Churchill motored from the airport to a small resort hotel near Casablanca where naval stewards and cooks had been installed and Royal Marines were on guard. United States Army arrangements for the hotel and a dozen villas were so admirable that Mr. Churchill was quickly settled and ready to begin work.

President Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins arrived the second day after Mr. Churchill.

"ONE STEP" MEALS SAVE TIME AND ENERGY

Hello homemakers — Tackling a job cheerfully makes is easier, doesn't it? Now that you want to reduce it? Now that you want to reduce kitchen time to a minimum, your meal-getting will be simpler if you make good use of your well-cooker or Dutch oven. A friend tells us when she has put her whole meal into her well-cooker, she feels so good she does a one-step all around the kitchen. She is free for war work or anything else.

Yes, it's easy and it's economical. Just make sure your meals are "nutrition-checked" and the family is well fed right because the food will be cooked right. Here's the correct use of the witches for the well-cooker: (1) "High" for browning meats, bringing foods to the steaming point and baking, (2) "Medium" for sterilizing, and (3) "Low" for maintaining the steaming point after steam appears at vent, for soup cooking, for cooking dried vegetables and fruits.

NUTRI-THRIFT MEALS

Savoury Baked Beans, (Moulded Beet Salad), Steamed Apple Pudding
Vegetable Soup, (Grater Carrot Salad), Bread Pudding

Lenton Style Lamb Steamed Potatoes, (Grated Cabbage and Horseradish), Carrot Pudding

Meat Balls and Brown Potatoes, (Grated Turnip Salad), Prune Pudding

Spaghetti with Tomatoes, (Celery and Apple Salad), Bread Pudding

Puddings are steamed above the "one step" meal.

Frozen foods are prepared and chilled in electric refrigerator.

All menus may include whole wheat rolls or biscuits or "Canada approved" bread and milk for the beverage.

RECIPES

Spaghetti and Tomatoes

Three cups spaghetti (uncooked) five cups canned tomatoes, one and one-half cups diced cheese, one — eighth teaspoon cayenne, half-teaspoon salt.

Combine ingredients and place in the well-cooker of electric range. Cook on high until steam comes actively from the vent, about thirty minutes. Allow to continue cooking for one hour on Low. Total cooking time one and one-half hours. Amount—about six to eight servings.

Meat Balls

One pound hamburger, half-cup cooked rice, one medium sized onion (chopped fine), one medium green pepper (chopped fine), one egg, one-quarter cup milk, salt.

Combine ingredients and shape into balls. Place in the well-cooker of electric range. Brown well. Add two cups of stewed tomatoes. Cover. Cook on high for approximately twenty minutes or until steam comes from vent. Continue cooking on Low for approximately one hour.

Prune Pudding

Two cups dry bread crumbs, one cup milk, three-quarters cup sugar, one cup chopped prunes (or dried apples), one — quarter cup melted butter, two eggs beaten, salt.

Add bread crumbs to hot milk and set aside to cool. When cool add all other ingredients and pour into a greased baking dish. Bake approximately one hour in 350 deg. oven or steam about one hour in well-cooker or electric range.

TAKE A TIP:

1 Heat rolls or muffins in the top of your double-boiler and save time and electricity.

This method freshens the product.

2 When we make a chocolate cake or cookies, we stir a little of the sugar from the fourth cup in the pan in which we have melted the chocolate. The sugar slithers up all the rest of the chocolate and saves just that much.

3 You can make twice as much meringue if you add a teaspoon of water for each white while you are beating it. Lemon juice instead of water gives an unusual flavour.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. B. asks: "Do you grind liver before or after parboiling for liver loaf? Please send recipe."

Ans.

Liver Loaf

One and one-half pounds pork liver (ground after parboiling), half-pound ground beef (extra fat), one cup hot water, three-quarters cup bread or cracker crumbs, one egg beaten, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon sage, one onion minced.

Mix or chop liver and fat in frying pan and add onion, liver and beef. Brown thoroughly. Pour hot water over crumbs and mix all ingredients together. Shape into loaf and bake in a greased pan for 25 minutes in electric oven at 350 deg. Halves of prunes or potatoes may be baked in the same pan.

Good News From The Egg Front – Supply Plentiful – Price Lower

There's good news on the egg front these days, for this popular and most versatile food is plentiful again and eggs are lower in price than they have been for several months.

Canada's Official Food Rules say that every one needs at least three or four eggs a week.

There is one rule that applies to the cooking of eggs and all dishes in which eggs are a prominent ingredient and that is — avoid the use of high temperatures. High temperatures toughen the egg white, making it less easy to digest and they give the entire dish a rubbery texture such as watery scrambled eggs, curdled custards and soggy-crusted sponge cakes that do not rise as they should.

From Canada's Kitchens in the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture come these tested recipes for use in dishes:

EGGS IN NOODLES

Two cups medium or fine noodles (uncooked)
Five cups boiling salted water
Two tablespoons fat
Two tablespoons flour
One cup milk
Half-teaspoon salt
One-quarter cup chopped green pepper
Two tablespoons grated cheese
Salt and pepper to taste
Four eggs

Cook noodles in boiling salted water, drain. Make white sauce of fat, flour, milk and seasonings. Add green pepper and grated cheese and stir over low water until cheese is melted. Add to noodles and mix well. Pour into a greased baking dish make four depressions in the mixture and break an egg in each depression. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake at 375 deg. F. for 10 to 15 minutes, or until egg is set. Serves four.

POTATO OMELETTE

Half-cup milk
One cup mashed potatoes
One teaspoon onion juice
Half-teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Four eggs, separated

Mix milk with potatoes add onion and seasoning. Mix in beaten egg yolks, add and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a hot greased pan and cook slowly until puffed and brown on the bottom. Place in hot broiler for a few minutes to brown the top. Serves 4-5.

EGGS SOVIET

Three-quarters cup water
One cup condensed tomato soup
One cup dry bread crumbs
One cup cooked peas or string beans
One teaspoon grated onion
One-quarter teaspoon salt, dash of pepper
Half-cup grated cheese
Four eggs

Mix water and soup. Add crumbs, vegetables, salt, pepper and cheese. Pour into a greased baking dish and break four eggs into depressions in the sauce. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 deg. F. until the eggs are set. Serve sprinkled with grated cheese. Serves four.

Old Fashioned Beans Make B-Vitamin Meal For Canadian Families

Baked beans and brown bread!

The very mention of them brings memories of camping trips, of picnic suppers, of Saturday night specials stampeding in after an afternoon's skating or tobogganing, of lavish ride parties which always ended up with a bean supper, of hungry men in the open air.

In many homes the bean pot has been put on the top shelf in recent years. Why not get it out and surprise the family with a favourite dish come night?

Knowledge of the difference existing between super foods makes in the health and well-being of individuals is resulting in more thought being given to the planning of meals that include the essential foods, listed in Canada's Official Food Rules. There are minerals and B vitamins lurking in the contents of the bean pot says Nutrition Services. Beans are a protein food and when milk is used in the same meal a satisfactory alternative for meat results.

Where there is no wood range has given way to the gas or electric oven a pickle cooker of even the furnace may be called into service for baking beans. In many furnaces the heat on the inside of the oven door is wide enough to hold a bean pot quite comfortably.

Concerted Drive For Fat Salvage Gains Impetus

Homes in towns, villages, and in the country are responding splendidly to the Government's concerted drive for salvage of waste fats and bones for which retail meat dealers have opened their shops as collection depots, according to preliminary reports coming in to National Salvage headquarters.

Farmers who kill animals for their own use are asked to save all waste fats and bones from these and dispose of them through retail meat dealers or other local salvage agencies. The former will pay four to four and a half cents a pound for rendered fats including suet and tallow, and one cent a pound for scrap fat. Voluntary salvage agencies turn the money obtained over to war charities.

Home soap-making is also encouraged and should be "out" till the war is over since fats are urgently needed for their by-products, chiefly glycerine, so vital to war industries, according to National Salvage authorities.

V

Tired Businessman Subject For Nutrition

Probably the tired business man wouldn't be so tired if he ate the right foods; according to nutritionists.

"To do a good job, nerves must be steady, eyesight good muscles tone up and the body functions as well as it can when it gets the right vitamins and minerals. Vitamins and minerals must be absorbed into the system. This means including milk, fruits, vegetables and fruits in the diet," according to Dr. L. B. Pett, who asked what advice he would give Canada's business men in 1943.

Dr. Pett is the Director of Nutrition and National Health in charge of the government's sponsored Canadian Nutrition Program which has been launched for Canada as a whole to bring Canadians get the most value out of available wartime food supplies.

Proper attention to diet on always — at all life, says the doctor, but it has been proved that fatigue and many illnesses can be avoided if the right attention is given to diet.

Dr. Pett's advice in brief is: Choose meals with a variety of foods. Include milk, vegetables, fruits, cereals, meat or fish. Don't eat too much sugar, fat or starch. Drink plenty of water. Eat slowly, chew your food well. Get enough sleep and rest. Avoid worry and exercise regularly.

DRIED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

In those days when inevitable shortages occur in certain of our basic foods, we should not overlook the possible substitution of dried fruits and vegetables as a means of balancing our daily diet. Most of us tend to forget that they exist, but they have a definite role to play, especially in wartime.

Dried fruits include the lowly prune, dried apricots, raisins, figs and dates. Peas, lentils, Lima and Navy beans comprise the better known dried vegetables.

These dried foods cannot be considered in any sense good sources of the all - important vitamin C. However, they are of generally fairly rich in iron and copper, and the vegetables have a high protein value. Dried apricots, particularly, have a high percentage of copper, which health authorities assert is useful in adjusting the human system to the assimilation of the iron which they also contain.

Prunes and apricots can be very tastefully prepared in desserts, and figs, dates and raisins can be used in puddings or cooked just as they are.

Because of their high sodium value Lima beans can very well substitute for a meat dish, which, in these times of meat rationing is decidedly useful. Baked in a casserole and covered with tomato sauce, they are a very tasty dish.

Dried peas of course are well known in the form of split peas and need no introduction. They must be soaked in water in order to make them soft enough to use.

Lentils or split peas are an excellent substitute in soups and stews lending a pleasant flavor all their own that is very appetizing.

All of these dried fruits and vegetables are available in cans or packages at your grocer's. Why not add them to your next shopping list?

BOMBING GERMANY

The natural pleasure that comes from knowing that the capital of Nazidom has had a taste of its own medicine should not obscure the importance of "The Big City" as a strategic and industrial target. Not only should it distract attention from the series of nine raids on "Happy Valley" while by the R.A.F. within the first fourteen days of January. The R.A.F. raids on Berlin and on the Ruhr are related in a close strategic plan of offensive.

Berlin, because of the long distance that must be travelled over enemy territory exposed to enemy attacks upon it do not damage German industry in its primary aspect, but only as its later stages. Hence Berlin has been bombed less frequently than the Ruhr and several other targets. For the Ruhr is the centre of the German iron and steel industry, and the results in damaging the German war effort, have received more attention by the R.A.F. Nevertheless the raids on Berlin were decidedly more "spectacular" propaganda raids. The essential difference between the Ruhr and the Berlin area is the fact that the former constitutes a huge concentration of what is known as "primary" transforming industry — raw materials into products, which are then sent to secondary and manufacturing industries, whereas the latter is the centre of the more complete manufacture of finished products resulting from main line industries to retail provision supplies. It is true that Deutsche Industrie and Berlin have valuable and diversified industries in the West and Brandenburg suburbs of the German capital, but in general it is the important industries in the Berlin area — the complicated engineering industries which are peculiarly vulnerable to bombing attack. Hence the significance of the Berlin raids.

Canadians Given Insight British Food Situation Rationed Supplies List

To be transported suddenly from Canada to wartime Britain would bring home to the Canadian consumer how very much better off he is in regard to the amount and variety of food he is able to obtain, food experts believe. Other members of the United Nations are struggling to keep healthy and fighting fit on what the average Canadian would regard as shockingly small ration of food.

When Canadians grouse about the reduction in the butter ration, and the lack of other familiar commodities, they should remember the following list of rations at present obtainable in Great Britain:

Meat — 1s 2d (28c) worth for adults per week.

Meat — 7d (14c) worth for children per week.

Butter and Margarine — 6 oz. (only 2 ozs. may be butter) per week.

Cooking Fats — 2 ozs. per week.

Bacon and Ham—4 ozs per week.

Sugar — 8 ozs per week.

Tea — 2 ozs. per week.

Jam — ½ pound per week.

Cheese — 4 oz. per week.

Eggs — 1 shell egg per month for adults.

Canned Foods — 1 pound (approximately) per month.

REGISTRATION DATE IS EXTENDED FOR SINGLE MEN

Labor Minister Mitchell on Monday announced extension to March 1 of the period for registration of single men in age groups subject to military call-up who have not yet received notice to report for medical examination.

There may register at Employment and Selective Service Offices, or at Mobilization Board Offices or Post Offices. Mr. M. L. Perry is manager of the local Selective Service Office which is located in the Napanee Post Office.

Only single men who have not received notices to report for medical examination under the military call-up, and who were born in 1902 and the following years up to and including 1923, must report. Mr. Perry said Monday, pointing out that men who did receive their notices, and who are to be medically examined by personal physicians, are not now required to report.

To clear up further any confusion about the exact definition of the men who must report by February 1st, Mr. Perry stated: "The term 'single man' includes any man who was unmarried at July 15, 1940, whether he has since been married, or not; also any man who was a widower, or was legally separated or divorced at July 15, 1940, and who had no dependent children at that time, or who, if he had been at that time, or who, if he had a dependent child at July 15th, 1940, has had no dependent children. It further includes all men who have become widowers, or were legally separated or divorced, since July 15, 1940, and who have no dependent children or dependent children. Any of these men who did not previously receive notice to report for medical examination, must register on March 1st."

Many men at present in the Armed Forces did not receive notices to register, since this registration has been by single men, four men have reported at the local Employment Office who stated and six men have also reported through the local Post Office.

V

LESSENS ACTS OF SABOTAGE

Increased fear of sabotage of industrial plants lends special interest to new protective devices which promise to be actuated by practically the whole beam of light from a source as small as 700 feet away. The usual photoelectric cell will operate only over a fraction of this distance.

An alarm sounds if the light beam is interrupted. Yet another mechanical watchman, whose nature is not disclosed, operates by reflected light, sounding the long lines of wire fence protecting munitions plants and relays these to a certain point. Location and character of the source can be determined in this manner.

tasks no less important to our safety than those of war.

GREAT VOLUNTEER ARMY

Housewives have filled up the ranks of the great volunteer army which is doing heroic duties in the home and in war groups, have helped to keep up morale and health of the nation at a high standard.

These volunteer workers have been responsible in improving standards of nutrition, supporting salvage campaigns, assisting in making surveys of housing accommodation in congested areas, helping to overcome difficulties by diminishing meals and pools, fattening, etc.

Women have also undertaken heavier burdens because of war. They work in the fields to provide food and in munitions plants. They do the organizing, shoring of large industries and through thousands of voluntary rural groups contribute greatly to the nation-wide activity of voluntary effort.

Voluntary war organizations rely for support of thousands of women in the city and in business as well as on the farm.

The Canadian Red Cross has about 750,000 women working in various capacities. Since the beginning of the war they have contributed 25,000,000 articles of clothing and comforts, representing 125,000,000 woman-hours. They work in blood donor clinics, packing food parcels for prisoners of war, and in numerous other capacities.

THE CANADIAN RED CROSS

The Canadian Red Cross Corps has enrolled 5,500 women in the Transport Service, the Nursing Auxiliary, the C.W.A.C. Administration section, the Food Administration section, and a few in the University sections.

The St. John Ambulance Association has given awards to 650,000 men and women during the 47 years it has functioned in Canada, and more than 274,000 of these have been given during the beginning of 1939. More than half the awards made in the last three years have been to women.

To an important degree the shortage of manpower in clerical, stenographic, bookkeeping and other office positions have been met by the return of married women into business life. Many have been recalled by war-expanded departments of government.

There is still a reservoir of womanpower not yet tapped. To determine what this reserve is National Selective Service in September, 1942, conducted a registration of women between 20 to 24 years of age, who were not previously registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

POOL OF WOMANPOWER

There were 258,583 women registered during the survey. Of these 58,-635 declared they were willing to do full-time essential war work, and about 222,000 indicated they would be available for part-time work.

Many of these women have subsequently been called up for an interview by National Elective Service. Many have obtained jobs and others have reported they have obtained employment in essential work after the registration date.

NAMES OF MEN ENLISTED FOR ACTIVE SERVICE FROM NAPANEE AND THE SURROUNDING DISTRICT

It is the wish of "The Beaver" to secure and print a list of all men in the Town of Napanee and the County who enlist in the army raised in Canada. Friends of men who have already enlisted can assist in compiling this list by sending to "The Beaver" names and the units to which they are attached.

Late Easter Date

The calendars of 1943 reveal the interesting fact that Easter Sunday will be April 25th, the latest it may possibly be observed. It is equally of interest that 1943 is the only year in the 20th century when it will occur on this date.

The date of Easter is governed by the phases of the moon, and may fall between or on the dates of March 22 and April 25.

Your HYDRO
Answers the Challenge!
WARTIME POWER DEVELOPMENTS IN ONTARIO
● To meet the power needs of Ontario's war industries your Hydro has increased the supply of electricity in the last four years by over 760,000 h.p.
This has made a tremendous contribution to the war effort, providing our highly electrified factories in Ontario with the necessary power to produce great quantities of weapons for our fighting forces.
The development of new power sources is continuing—in the wilds of Northern Ontario a huge diversion program, that will reverse the natural flow of water, is nearing completion. In other parts of the Province additional projects are nearing the final stages of construction.
The splendid co-operation of the citizens of Ontario in conserving electricity during the recent months has contributed greatly to our war effort and is thankfully acknowledged. The shortage of power, however, is still critical and the need for conservation continues.
Still more power is needed to produce still greater supplies of war weapons and materials. When the victory is won, then some power will be available to contribute to peacetime progress in our industrial, commercial and home life.
INCREASE IN POWER FROM MOST RECENT DEVELOPMENTS
1. Plant nearing completion to provide 65,000 h.p.
2. Mid-Ontario plant supplying 10,000 h.p.
3. Hundreds of miles of new Transmission Line.
4. Rapid progress on new diversion program.
5. 54,000 h.p. plant input production last summer.
6. 230,000-volt Transformer Station to distribute power.

LETTERS FROM NICKEY

THE STORY OF LIFE IN THE C.W.A.C.

"Letters From Nickey" are written by a talented young Canadian who recently joined the C.W.A.C. to do her bit in helping to put a speedy finish to Hitler and his mob. Her letters to her civilian pal, "Babs," are delightfully refreshing and contain the kind of humour that everyone needs in these trying times.

Dear Babs:—

Perhaps you should brace yourself. While you have been thinking of me as jogging along in my snug little rut, I have been up and doing—literally. Things have been happening—catalysmic things!

You know that I have long had a yen for the dashing, khaki uniform of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Well, one afternoon, not long ago, looking at my desk, I had a brainstorm and I said to myself, "My good woman, what are you doing here in this musty, fusty office?" So I whipped up, forthwith, an account of my qualifications, and dispatched it to the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Office at Headquarters.

Think, Babs, this Corps has been formed for the purpose of service with the Canadian armed forces—and it doesn't that stir your blood? It means that Canadian women have their chance of proving that they are made of that same stuff as those wonderful British girls.

There I go, and I know how lofty sentiments bother you, but just the same, my reticent friend, I suspect you have a few of your own, or what are you doing, filling and packing bales for bombed-out civilians, when you would rather be skiing?

For the next few days the most important man in my life was the postman, and sure 'nuff, he finally brought me the O.H.M.S. envelope that I was looking for. Opening it was like taking a dive off the high tower, but praises be, the water is fine. There was a cordial letter from the Recruiting Officer, thanking me for my inquiry and enclosing forms to be completed and returned, together with three letters of recommendation from solid citizens. I was taking no chances, so I made sure of still-older references, and as for my ability—I claimed brazenly that I could do anything—secretary, bunny nurser, canteen steward, driver, etc. If I had thought that it would help my case any, I would also have added as a sideline, producing rabbits out of hats. That ought to be useful in army circles, don't you think?

My glowing inventory must have been convincing to others, besides myself for I have been notified when I am to appear for my medical and in the meantime have gone through a somewhat detailed business known as "Securitation." It's quite a moment signing that first enlistment application. I wonder how men, feel about signing away their civilian rights. I know that my heart was banging against my ribs like a regiment mixer. Call me an excitable Cecil, if you like.

The whole show is so very interesting. I saw girls of twenty-one and twenty-two with pips on their shoulders and a bewildering mass of gold detail at their fingertips and I felt something very like awe.

This hitching my wagon to the star of a nation-wide movement has a very exhilarating effect—it makes me a little crazy. As I was coming out of headquarters, after an interview at the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Office, the car belonging to the District Officer Commanding, pennant flying, drew up at the door, and the D.O.C. himself, stepped out. Babs, I had to restrain an impulse to rush up to him and shake his hand and say, "Sir, I am in on this, too."

Misplaced enthusiasm, I suppose you might call it, but don't worry my friends, I will continue to padlock my impulses. Nobody is going to lock me up as a crackpot with this big adventure just around the corner but I must let off a little steam or burst. You know how it is—every time you see that Airmail of yours, you have to let off a few firecrackers—well, I am in love with the whole darn Army and I could use a dozen fire-crackers.

I am expecting you to write at once and tell me what you think about it all, or better still, catch the next train down. Darn it, I don't know "good works" for once.—Who knows—I may be shipped off to the Far East and you will never see me again for years, so why don't you come? I would love to see you.

Affectionately,

NICKEY.

TELLS EXPERIENCES AS WAR PRISONER IN NORTH AFRICA

Mrs. N. F. Sexsmith, R.R. 6, Napanee, has requested that the following article taken from a recent copy of "The Whig-Standard" be copied by "The Napanee Beaver." The article concerns the experiences of her brother, Michael Ahearn, who is known as Mike Ahearn by his friends, who left Napanee some years ago to join the merchant marine and was taken prisoner of war in Casablanca, where President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill met, recently.

"Captured at sea by French sailors acting under German orders three times wounded in German air attacks at sea, after a gruelling two and a half years as a prisoner of war in Morocco, Michael J. (Mike) Ahearn is safely back in Kingston, his native city by birth. Ahearn is an American by birth.

"An American Merchant Marine at Halifax on February 15, 1940, and went to sea with the Norwegian steamship, 'Ringul.' He little realized at that time what lay before him. Many of his experiences he was unable to tell in the interests of security but he modestly described one occasion when he was wounded by enemy aircraft which attacked his ship.

"German planes strafed the ship in the Atlantic on the first mate. I went out to pick up the mate from the deck and was struck by three bullets," recounted Ahearn. "Those bullets caused me to spend 27 days in hospital aboard ship.

"This, however, was only the beginning of the sailor's adventures for on June 29, 1940, his ship was captured by French marines sailing on a destroyer. A French crew under a French captain took over complete control of the ship and her original crew were regarded by the French as prisoners.

TAKEN TO MOROCCO

"The 'Ringuld' and her original crew were taken to the Moroccan port of Casablanca where her engines were disabled to prevent the escape of the crew with her. For nine months, Ahearn and his mates stayed on board ship closely guarded by armed French marines, first at Casablanca and later at Safli, 100 miles to the south. During this time the prisoners' rations were supplied mainly from the stores of food aboard the 'Ringuld' and were far better quality than they were to get later.

"Finally they were taken off the ship and remained under police guard at the port for about ten days when they were informed that they were to be taken to Casablanca. Instead of going to this port they were forced to a prison camp out in the Sahara Desert at a place called Oued Zem. There they were put to work building a railroad at this camp but Ahearn said that they were not overworked and were allowed a siesta during the burning afternoons. He did complain of the diet which consisted mainly of potato peeling soup and bread and water. At this camp seventeen Norwegians died.

WOUNDED AGAIN

"The impending several months at Colomb Bechar. Mr. Ahearn was moved to Bettier where he worked but fought against Gen. Franco in Spain, later he joined the Foreign Legion and had been sent by German authorities to work in the desert. His next prison camp was at Oud Zem which in English means land's end. The heat here was oppressive as in all desert camps, said Mr. Ahearn.

"At all camps we were guarded by armed Arabs and Senegalese soldiers who were working for the German Commission," and Mr. Ahearn said Casablanca was full of them at the time he was there. Even all the French that he met were strongly pro-Nazi.

PAPERS ARRIVE

While being held prisoner at Oud Zem Ahearn received a telegram from the American consul there telling him that papers proving his American citizenship had arrived from the United States. Up to this time he had had no such papers. He went to Casablanca and left for the United States in a convoy of several American ships. Of these not all reached New York harbor safely, said Mr. Ahearn 'and our ship picked up 48 survivors at sea.'

"Asked for his general impression of his past two years' experiences, he replied, 'It was no picnic.' At present he is enjoying a month's well earned vacation and is staying with relatives in Napanee. His brother, Mr. Russell Ahearn, is also in the United States Merchant Marine as soon as his vacation is completed."

Cigarettes were sent at Easter time, and boxes, at Christmas time, to the boys in the three from this district. BUSY BEE WAR SORKERS OF VIOLET

The Busy Bee War Workers of Violet held a delightful pot luck supper and bingo party at the hospitable home of Mrs. Wm. Close on Wednesday evening, January 26th, with a large attendance of members and friends, and a very sizable amount was netted for war work.

The door prize was won by Mr. Ernest Stevens, of Wilton, and the lucky number, which also was donated, was won by Mrs. Hervey Smith.

A beautiful supper, quite within the bounds of war requirements was served by the members of the group.

This small organization of rural women of this community has done an excellent piece of work since the group's inception two years ago, and just recently the following contributions have been made to the various war needs, viz.: $50.00 to the "Mobile Kitchens for Britain"; $50.00 to the Navy; $25.00 to the Russian Relief Fund; $25.00 to the Salvation Army. Also three complete layettes are ready to be sent immediately. Quilts, knitted things, too, are ready to be sent. Three hundred cigarettes have been sent to every boy from this community now overseas, and in the next few weeks boxes will be packed for these neighborhood boys.

VICTORIA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Owing to blocked roads the attendance at the regular meeting of Victoria Women's Institute was rather small. The meeting was held in the form of a pot luck supper and Mrs. H. Edzar was the charming hostess. In the absence of the president, the first vice-president took charge of the opening exercises. The ode was sung and the creed repeated in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The roll call was responded to by a Name for My Country Home. The minutes of the quiz contest directed by Miss D. Kinsmith was much enjoyed. A contest conducted by Miss Vera M. Parliament was won by Mrs. McCracken. Mrs. Edzar gave a paper on Effects of the War in Europe. Miss Carrie Bush conducted a contest and Mrs. Edzar won a very dainty prize. A very delicious warm supper was then served by a very pleasant evening, and after the singing of the National Anthem, the guests dispersed, thanking their hostess for an enjoyable evening.

SILLSVILLE W. A.

On January 26th, about fifteen willing war workers of Sillsville Women's Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Rod Sharpe, and partook of a pot luck dinner at the noon hour, which was enjoyed very much.

The afternoon was spent in war work. The group quilted one quilt and made several aprons from goods given for this purpose. The aprons will be sold to anyone who wishes them.

There was $6.45 made from the euchre which was held in the hall on the 21st of January. The meeting closed after counting over the sewing color at the meetings and at the homes of members.

A NEW NOTE

A new and heartening note was struck by Hon. John Bracken, the new Leader of The Progressive-Conservative Party. He was addressing the annual banquet of The Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association, in the Prince Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday night. Over 2,000 people were present to hear the new leader give his first address since he was elected to his new high position.

Gone from his address were the old party shibboleths with which we have grown weary. His was a frank, straight-forward statement of principles and policies, in the best sense of the word, like pronouncement. Mr. Bracken faced the social and economic conditions of our country. He did not evade issues. He looked clear-eyed into the future, and told us unequivocally where we are, what we are there for the people of the world. He had some things which were necessary to say. But they were not unpleasant reading. But they were necessary to be said. He is a man of courage. He has no fear of the future before him. He is not afraid to look at things as they are, and to tell us what he thinks about them. We like a man who has the courage of his convictions, and who is not afraid to express them. We like a man who is not afraid to look at things as they are, and to tell us what he thinks about them. We like a man who is not afraid to look at things as they are, and to tell us what he thinks about them.

Mr. Bracken dealt with the fact that we are fighting for the preservation of democracy. He thought that the people of Canada should be told what they are fighting for. He thought that the people of Canada should be told what they are fighting for. He thought that the people of Canada should be told what they are fighting for.

A NEW NOTE

A new and heartening note was struck by Hon. John Bracken, the new Leader of the Progressive-Conservative Party. He was addressing the annual banquet of The Holstein-Friesian Breeders Association, in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday last. About 2,000 people were present to hear the new leader give his first address since he was elected to his new high position.

Gone from his address were the old party platitudes with which we have grown weary. His was a frank, straight-forward statement like proncouncement. Mr. Bracken faced the social and economic conditions of our country. He did not evade them. He looked clear-eyed into the future, and told in unvarnished language what he saw there for the peoples of the world. He said some things which do not make pleasant reading. But they were necessary to be said. He said, for example, that in the days after the war it must be necessary to have some kind of controls. Well that is something we need not think about. We in this country have been accustomed to a degree of freedom which is unprecedented in the history of the world. We have enjoyed and used well. And the suggestion of the future withdrawal of some of the freedoms we have enjoyed will not make pleasant reading. But it will become a necessity. If we are to "win the peace" as we have won the war, there will have to be controls. Mr. Bracken will have to tell the truth about the matter. He will have to tell the truth about the cost of the war, and the cost of the peace and the cost will be paid largely in the form of taxation.

Mr. Bracken dealt with the farmer. He pointed out the need for the farmer to produce to the limit of his capacity. He pointed out the importance of the agriculture industry in relation to the general economy of the country. He called upon the people to support the Government to secure the objectives for which the farmers suffer. He pled for a plan which the farmers could follow.

With a definite national aim and a definite objective, said Mr. Bracken, in effect, there is nothing, said Mr. Bracken, that the nation cannot do in peace that it does in war.

The leader of the Conservatives maintained that in the past the nation had been mobilized by appeals to fear and class prejudices. National unity as essential as it is, can be achieved, Mr. Bracken pointed out, only by breaking down these class distinctions and making the whole nation realize they are Canadians and not simply members of a section or a class. One of the most helpful features of the address and one of the most promising, was the speaker's declaration that he had only one message for the people of Canada, and not one for the farmers, another for the workers and another for the owners.

Mr. Bracken laid great stress on the family and suggested that there must be, in the future, greater health measures, greater security, and greater conservation of our human resources.

In the international field, Mr. Bracken said that the winning of the peace involved, among others, three things:

1 The setting up of an effective system of international, collective security.

2 The creation of an international police force.

3 The restoration of international trade.

The speaker showed himself well aware of the underlying struggles at stake in the present conflict. "We are living," he said "in most critical days. We will either win this war or the human race will be in dark again in a long period not unlike the present. If we win, we shall leave the way free for modern society to accomplish such an era of potential peace, plenty and progress, as the world has never before known."

This speech deserves careful study by every class in the community. It rises above party. It strikes a note we have been hoping to hear. Mr. Bracken, by his address, has put new hope in the hearts of many who were beginning to despair of political leadership.

IN NORTH AFRICA

We are still witnessing confusion and political division in North Africa. This may, in part, be responsible for the delayed action by the United Nations against the Axis armies in Tunisia. DeGaulle and Giraud are at one on the military objectives. They are firmly convinced that the Germans must be defeated, and made to withdraw from France. But they are poles apart politically. DeGaulle has no faith in the men of Vichy. He would not trust them. He believes that Democracy must be re-established in France, and that the French people must again govern themselves in a democratic way. Giraud, on the other hand, is head of the War Council in Africa and has associated with him men who maintain that the totalitarian form of government is the only one which can be effective in France.

Between these two points of view we have no right to decide. Certainly our faith is in the democratic way of life; we believe that government should be by the people, of the people and for the people. Ultimately, we believe the people must rule. No group, no preferred class can, in the final analysis, assume to themselves the right to govern others perpetually.

But it must be confessed that Democracy as it functioned in France, never measured up to what it might have been and what it ought to have been. It was [illegible] public [illegible] Democracy in France, or of government in France, or of [illegible] ness may be come, as a result of the failure of Democracy, but we do not change our ways, fail to take an interest in politics, and to assume some responsibility for the conduct of the nation's business.

It may be that France will have to go under some form of interim government after the war, until the people are ready to assume their responsibility and take their place as a self-governing democracy. What may have become of the Axis factors in the Administrations of the Atlantic Charter has not been made clear to us. But it is certain that such they are, and that they will be dealt with. Meanwhile, the leaders of the United Nations are opposing the Axis Powers are doing their best to [illegible] that which they are opposing, and to establish democracy. It would seem the wisest course to follow, meeting all possible needs as they arise, and at the same time preserving, as far as possible, the right of the people to decide for themselves the question as to the form which their government shall take.

"DON'T PAT OUR BACKS"

Maurice Hindus, who is a well-known writer on Russian affairs, and who has been quoted often in recent years, made an appearance before the Canadian Club in Toronto, on Monday last, and had a few words to say about Russia and Russians. Americans were inclined, he said, to come on the back, but remember the part they were playing.

This is something that needs to be said. We are praising Russia, and rightly so. We are proud of her successes, and rightly so. The great military victory is a glorious one, and stands as one of the greatest achievements in history, and greater, even than the victory is the power of continued resistance which the Red Army has shown after long and terrible struggles. They have followed with this same unyielding spirit that the German High Command has been hard put to it to find an endeavour to exterminate them. Time after time, right spot after spot, the Russians have shown that it is hard to escape the conviction that a military defeat of gigantic proportions is in store for the Germans, in Russia.

But we are not to forget, while realizing the numbers and great courage of the Russian soldiers, and the part they are playing, that victories cannot be achieved without paying the price. Doubt not but that the Russian people are suffering terribly. Maurice Hindus says that the Russian losses have been about 10,000 men every day. We have no means of verifying these figures, but, assuming they are approximately correct, [illegible] there are many [illegible] lation of citizens of [illegible]

This is the one side, [illegible] France and the most poignant. But the [illegible] have been destroyed, their farms laid waste, the [illegible] their hands on which they [illegible] themselves. have been shattered [illegible] possessions and in human life, is staggering.

Russia is paying the price for the safety and the protection of her great experiment. We, in the Western World, straining at every nerve to prepare for the offensive that will come, something like equal terms, must be the enemy our confidence in our Russian Allies, never lose our confidence in our Russian Allies, nor fail to appreciate what price victory has exacted from them.

ALLIED WAR PLAN SETTLED

PACIFIC COUNCIL TOLD OF CASABLANKA UNITY

Washington, (B.U.P.) — Members of the Pacific War Council reported last week, after a White House conference that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill had "pretty well settled" the question of where to strike against the Axis in Europe, this year.

The President gave the council a report on the progress of his meeting a general review of his Casablanca conferences with Mr. Churchill and, as far as military expediency would permit, apparently gave the members a line of things to come.

Describing the President's review, Walter Nash, New Zealand Minister, said the President and Mr. Churchill had discussed "the likely campaigns" to be undertaken "during the present year."

Mr. Nash said "it was pretty well settled" between the President and Mr. Churchill whether to strike Europe first in the Mediterranean area or at some spot along the European Atlantic coast which he described as extending "from the top of Norway to the Bay of Biscay."

Mr. Nash said the council also discussed the possibility of calling a meeting of United Nations representatives but reached no definite decision.

Asked to, measure the president's degree of optimism over the progress of the war, Nash said "The President was more optimistic than he has been."

Another optimistic note was struck in the meeting, Nash said, when members discussed how "The Prime minister is worried about not over what Germany is going to do, but what is going to happen to them (the Firms) if they are on the wrong side."

Nash said the President disclosed that he and Churchill had discussed "ways and means" to make an attack," but they had no intention of letting anyone know.

He was asked whether the possible locales included one further between the Mediterranean or the Atlantic area. He replied "one or both."

Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao Ming said the Casablanca conferences had "included a plan for the Pacific," and described what he heard in the conference, as "very encouraging."

Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, said the President told of "Programs for everywhere."

Leighton McCarthy, the Canadian minister, said the council received "Definite assurances that plans are made" and that the President "surveyed the possibilities for an attack."

Food for War

PRESERVED, PACKED AND SHIPPED

Farmers, fishermen and the United Nations, were in vain to supply food to the United Nations, were it not for the added labour of those who prepare, preserve, pack and ship the food.

Thousands of Canadian men and women are doing a most necessary job of converting live and raw products to usable, transportable food for millions of fighting men and civilians overseas. In estimating the value of various tasks in the total war effort, much credit should be given to the workers in the canning, dehydration, curing, packing, refrigerating and shipping industries.

AVOID LOSSES ON YOUNG PIGS

Every runt in a litter, or one that dies young, represents a real loss of money. If young pigs are started on "Miracle" Hog Starter, runts will quickly achieve normal size, and the mortality will be lessened. Then, at the proper time if they are changed over to "Miracle" Hog Grower they will develop strong frames and fine flesh—faster. It pays in fewer losses and quicker marketing—better grading, too—to feed these feeds.

Magistrate's Court

On Monday afternoon, in the Magistrate's Court, presided over by Magistrate Wilson Kingston, Mrs. Beatrice Shetler of the Township of Richmond was charged with theft of money stated in a public place and assaulting Night Constable Cook while the latter was arresting her on the above charge.

Shetler pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $10.00 and costs on the intoxication charge and costs on the count on the assault charge.

In the evidence taken it appeared that Shetler and Constable Cook were, to some extent and while at the Grand Cafe, he had become friendly and were seen to be seated, him to leave. He refused and Constable Cook called the constable to expel the young man to get out and Shetler started in the door. He then turned quickly and rushed at Mr. Cook, knocking him down. Constable Cook grappled with Shetler and headed for the Police Station. Shetler went quietly until they reached John Street, when he suddenly ripped away from the officer causing him to fall on the ice. He then apologized to Mr. Cook and helped him up and went to the Police Station without further trouble.

Mrs. Shetler, mother of the accused appeared on his behalf and asked the Magistrate for leniency. She stated that he had been discharged from the army after having served one year overseas, that he was sent home and discharged on account of a nervous disability. She stated that he was still taking treatment for his condition, at Ottawa.

The Magistrate placed Shetler on suspended sentence for one year on the assault charge, plus one year on the theft charge.

Fred Hayes, who has appeared before the presiding magistrate on several occasions, for traffic violations, charges in the city and also on theft, was charged with breaking a headlight lamp and stealing a bulb to put in his car which he was driving while the license was suspended. He pleaded guilty to both charges. The Crown Attorney read his previous record and the accused was asked how long he had been out of custody. He stated about a month. He was sentenced to one month on the theft charge and two months on driving without his license.

A boy of fourteen also appeared before the Magistrate on several charges of breaking, entering and theft to which he pleaded guilty. The court was cleared and the case was heard. After the evidence was taken the Magistrate placed the boy under the supervision of the Chief of Police until March 1st. —V—

"HEARTLESS PIECE OF BUSINESS"

Toronto, Feb. 4. (CP.) The Ontario Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall on Wednesday last awarded Eli Harper of Gananoque, Ont., $5 damages against John Abramoski and Sons Limited, of Kingston, Ont., for illegal seizure of furniture. Evidence showed the furniture was seized from Harper's Gananoque home while he was away to his military unit and after his wife had become ill and was in hospital.

"It's a heartless piece of business but there is the Abramoski firm must have legal rights," said Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher. "Here was the husband in the army, his wife in hospital, Chief Justice Robertson of Hughes and the bailiff in possession of the furniture."

The couple had been in arrears of $10 and a $25 payment was due on the furniture when it was seized.

The Court of Appeal reversed the findings of the trial judge.

INCOME TAX RISE HINTED

Ottawa, Feb. 4 — The question being asked on Parliament Hill is: Will income taxes be increased in the forthcoming budget ?

Hon. Alphonse Fournier started it all in Montreal when he was quoted as saying that greater armed forces and increased production mean increased disbursements. Then he added: "We must be willing to pay higher taxes if we want this efficiency maintained."

While in war-time everything must be subject to the exigencies of unforseen circumstances, all the intimations have been that taxes would not go up in the next fiscal year considering the altitude of the last jump.

A similar construction was also placed upon certain authoritative statements in the last Victory Loan campaign.

In the nine months of the fiscal year to the end of December, national revenue totalled $1,630,000,000. The grand total of expenditures in the same period was $3,063,000,000. That included the billion dollar credit gift to Great Britain and $1,643,000,000 for the war otherwise. January revenue was proportionate. January expenditures somewhat less.

Just what the war appropriation for the next fiscal year will be has been figured out, but the air part of it alone is placed at nearly a billion. That, of course, is all apart from the Army and the Navy and the financing of the allocation board, the channel of distribution for Canadian war production. —V—

MEAT RATION PLAN STUDIED

Ottawa — Along meat being rationed in Canada there is no doubt and by "meat" is meant beef, pork and pork products, lamb, mutton and veal. The uncertainty is as to just when this will come about. Probably it will be in March.

Officials are in the process of working out a rationing formula sufficiently simple and elastic to cover different kinds and qualities of cereals and to allow for seasonal variations in supply. There will be a "point" system — so many points for those cuts, so many for cuts that are tougher and so many for other cuts such as chuck, or the pork or organs of animals.

The new set of books this month are likely to provide spare coupons till a regular meat ration book is printed. This formula is said to present some difficulty.

KEEP CARDS IN RATION BOOKS UNTIL ADVISED

Having mistaken or mis-read the advance notices relating to the distribution of the new ration books which is to take form before the end of the month, some consumers have begun to send to ration offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board the reference cards which they have detached from inside the back cover of Ration Book No. 1.

These cards specifically state that they are not to be used until the holder has been advised to do so. No such advice has been given. Instead, the consumer who now detaches the card from his book and forwards it to his ration office is in danger of missing out as far as the No. 2 book is concerned or having its delivery to him unnecessarily delayed.

The card is to be kept within the ration book until the moment the latter is presented for replacement at one of the distributing centres that are being set up under the auspices of Local Ration Boards. It will then be detached by a representative of the Board and thus form a record of the replacement that has been negotiated. No. 1 books will be returned to their holders minus the cards.

DON'T remove the cards from inside the back cover of ration books. Don't send them to ration offices or anywhere else. Allow them to remain where they are until the time arrives for the issue of the new books and then present them with the books." Officials the Rationing Administration which adds that if these rules are not followed considerable confusion and unnecessary difficulty may easily arise.

Britain Cleaning Up Labor Supply

Great Britain's remaining labor reserves are being subjected to a mopping up process with the major raid on unoccupied classes in less essential industries.

Childless wives up to 45 have been ordered to part-time work and only women over 40 are able to take jobs where they like. All men 18 to 65 and women 18 to 60 have been compelled to notify their labor exchanges when they accept a job. Of the 500,000 part - time workers at the end of 1942 are reached by voluntary methods and this is expected to be doubled quickly by compulsion.

WEDDING BELLS

WIGHTMAN - HERRINGTON

Newburgh United church parsonage was the scene of a very interesting wedding on Saturday, February 6 at two o'clock, when Emmeline Harrington, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Herrington, Newburgh, became the bride of Robert Norton Wightman, son of Mr. Robert Wightman, and the late Mrs. Wightman, of Toronto. Rev. Herrington, father of the bride, officiated.

The living-room was tastefully arranged with gay spring flowers. The ceremony was performed against a background of evergreen and tall white tapers in a silver candelabra.

The bride's ensemble of gold crepe made an attractive background for her two-piece dress of satin in blue. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Fred Porter of Toronto, played the wedding marches and appropriate wedding music during the signing of the register.

After the bride and groom had received their guests at the wedding breakfast was served in the dining room. The table was pleasantly arranged with the wedding cake and white candles in silver holders. Bowls of pink and mauve sweet peas and yellow nar-cissus completed the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Wightman are spending their honeymoon in Toronto. Mrs. Wightman is a graduate of the Napanee R.C.A.F. Equipter. For travelling Mrs. Wightman wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The wedding gifts were numerous and beautiful, showing the many friends and admirers of the bride and groom. Among the gifts received were a number of cheques.

Mr. and Mrs. Wightman will reside in Toronto.

The Salvation Army Start Campaign To 'Recruit' Young People

Toronto, February 8. — All divisional commanders, corps officers and young people's officers of the Salvation Army in Canada will open plans on a drive to "recruit" young people into the service of Christian living during the month of February, it was announced at Territorial Headquarters by Commissioner Benjamin Orames, recently.

"Toward a better world" is the theme for February, and every boy and girl, every young man and young woman in the world is given a great opportunity and confronted with a special challenge — that is, to do their part in making the world a better place for all in which to live.

"Those who have 'blazed the trail' must soon pass on, and because it will take so long to right the wrongs inflicted on the civilization of today, these old warriors are not likely to see the full blaze of light which we must burst on the new earth with its scientific and mechanical discoveries," the commissioner declared.

"Youth will, we all hope, live to see all torn, women and children properly educated, clothed, fed and housed, and given time for recreation and worship," he said, adding "so let us all decide to do our share of the building, and remember that this building, in order to stand, must be built upon the example and precepts of Jesus Christ, for He alone is the hope for a 'New Heaven and

COFFEE RATION REDUCED IN U. S.

Washington, (A.P.) — The Office of Price Administration has reduced the next coffee ration from one pound every five weeks to one pound every six weeks.

To Canada one ounce of tea or four ounces of coffee a week a person may be purchased. Rationing coupons may be used for either tea or coffee, but both cannot be purchased for the one person in one week.)

The O. P. A. said reduced coffee inventories in the hands of wholesalers and retailers made necessary the reduction in the next ration.

The agency said an increase in military requirements for shipping, and the need for maintaining imports in strategic war materials were in part responsible for the reduced inventories for the next ration period.

However," the O. P. A. said, "Steps are now being taken to, overcome a maladministration on domestic stocks due to a cut in imports, with a view to relieving shortages in certain areas."

VALENTINE BUFFET LUNCH

Hello Homemakers! St. Valentine drops this way on Sunday this year — a nice day for dinner at his own week-end leave for many in uniform. Don't forget that home is a treasured place to those on active service and those from distant places are eager to learn whether we do things like their folks. So do invite them to your home if you can. How about an afternoon buffet luncheon? For late risers and church goers of us — it's easier. Planned beforehand, it will not take time to prepare and there will be more time for visiting. The family, too, will like some Valentine Day atmosphere.

So with hearts for shape and red for colour, show you can contrive a festive effect without expense. At one end the table stands the platter, arranging the silver in rows on each side of them; put your tray of cups and saucers at the other end. Food for the main course is placed near the plates, and the dessert dishes and some coffee cups, one side; one the other side, beside the cup rolls or the bread. When it's time for food — everyone gaily helps himself. You'd wind up by saying — "Well, it was a Valentine party, wasn't it?"

TAKE A TIP :

1 The appetizer will be tomato juice with a dash of lemon and onion in it and just for to - day serve a few canapes with each — spread crackers with pimento cheese and pickled onion slices.

2 Glorify the main course—kidney bean casserole with a bowl of crisp green tossed together with tart dressing. A new idea is to make up a cottage for each guest with small lace doily, stick in match-like pieces of carrot, bods of radishes, florets of cauliflower, slivers of turnip and sprigs of parsley. Perfume with salt before placing on a plate or wooden tray.

3 The dessert theme is cherry tarts, using spice pastry for the crust and a pink cake. While marble cake served with cherry-flavoured sauce.

4 Your home - canned fruit juices must be reed out with charged water to substitute for a rationed beverage.

RECIPES
Marble Cake

Two cups all-purpose flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, half-teaspoon salt, one-third cup shortening, half-cup sugar, half-cup corn syrup, two eggs, half-cup milk, two teaspoons cocoa, one half - teaspoon lemon extract.

Sift flour, measure; add baking powder and salt; sift again. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, beat until light and fluffy; add flavouring. Add syrup gradually and mix thoroughly; blend in well-beaten yolks. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk and flavouring, beating after each addition. Fold in stiffly beaten whites; divide batter. Add red colour to one part. Put batters in greased pan by spoonfuls. Bake in electric oven at 350 deg. for forty minutes.

Victory Frosting

One egg white, half-cup corn syrup, two tablespoons sugar, one-quarter teaspoon cream of tartar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, and one and-half teaspoons of vanilla.

Combine egg white, corn syrup, sugar, cream of tartar and salt in top part of double boiler. Mix thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat constantly until mixture holds a peak (about 7 minutes). Remove from heat; beat until cool and thick enough to spread. Makes enough frosting for top and filling of two eight-inch layers.

Apple Cup Salad

Core the apples. Scoop out pulp to make apple cups. Fill a bowl with cold water and as each apple cup is made put the cup in the water. Dice enough celery to equal one-half apple pulp. Mix celery and apple pulp with one cup cottage cheese or cream cheese. Blend with salad dressing. Dry apple cups and fill with mixture. Serve on crisp beds of lettuce.

QUESTION BOX

Mrs. G. G. asks: "Is it possible to make the Butter Spread with only whole milk instead of evaporated milk?"

Answer: Yes, soften the one pound butter and gradually beat in one pint whole milk and one-third teaspoon salt. It will take longer to beat.

Mrs. M. M. asks: "What can you do with "picked" beets?"

Answer: Soak in cold water over night. Shred on a grater and cook with enough water merely to cover.

OATMEAL IN A NEW ROLE

Wartime shortages and restrictions did fair to give oatmeal the place it really deserves in the Canadian diet. This humble cereal is always highly recommended by nutritionists for its valuable content of iron and it is by no means the least important in this category and it should become a staple food in every Canadian home. It can be used in many ways and should not be thought of solely as a breakfast cereal. On meal porridge every day may get monotonous, but there is no shortage of oatmeal in this country

Good things

ARE SOMETIMES HARD TO BUY

The popularity of Neilson's Chocolate Bars plus wartime rationing makes it difficult at times for you to buy your favorite Neilson Bar.

Please don't blame the dealer as he is doing his best and you will be helping him if you choose any of the other Neilson Bars he has for you.

Neilson's Chocolate Bars are energy builders, made with the highest quality ingredients.

NAMES OF MEN ENLISTED FOR ACTIVE SERVICE FROM NAPANEE AND THE SURROUNDING DISTRICT

It is the wish of "The Beaver" to secure and print a list of all men in the Town of Napanee and the County who enlist in the army navy and air forces of Canada. Friends of men who have already enlisted can assist in compiling this list by sending to "The Beaver" names and the units to which they are attached.

TRINITY W. A.

On February 2nd the Women's Association of Trinity Church met in the primary room with the president, Mrs. H. L. Miller in the chair. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by the National Anthem, with Mrs. Frank Mills at the piano. The devotional was in charge of Mrs. M. Charles, who read a chapter from the Bible and also gave a very inspiring message to those present.

Business was conducted as usual with reports from the various committees.

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer in unison.

GRACE CHURCH W. M. S.

Miss Mata Mellon, president of the Women's Missionary Society of Grace United Church, presided for the monthly meeting held in the Sunday School room on Thursday afternoon with a special attendance. Mrs. Sidney Phippen, secretary of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Anglican Church, sent a letter expressing the regrets of the auxiliary in the very loss sustained by Grace Church in the present time. Through a letter from G. F. Scott, the Women's Missionary Society has left a legacy of $100 to the late Miss Rose Lee. The members were Mrs. O. W. Conway and Mrs. Jack Murray, and the former gave a most capable report.

The programme was in charge of the group, which is convened by Mrs. F. B. Elliott. Mrs. James Stalley took the devotional period which was based on "Economic Security." Mrs. McLellan took charge of the study book, which was very interesting. Those assisting were Mrs. W. J. Winter, Mrs. Gordon Gilbert, Mrs. J. Crisp, Mrs. Medcalfe, Mrs. R. E. Sanier, Mrs. F. L. Hooper and Mrs. Clarence Reid. Mrs. Winter contributed answers to questions.

Mrs. Clarence Reid gave a piano solo and the guest speaker, Rev. Dr. Brown, was introduced by Rev. F. M. McLellan. Dr. Brown, who has been a missionary in West China, and who is a son-in-law of the late Bog of Quinte Winter School, held in Napanee for a time, gave a most interesting talk on his work in China.

The meeting was brought to a close by Rev. C. D. McLellan.

Cheese Box Ceiling Has Been Increased

In view of representations made by manufacturers that the cost of both labor and material has increased, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has raised the ceiling price of cheese boxes sold in Ontario and Quebec from 35 to 40 cents. The change, it is emphasized, will in no way affect the domestic price of cheese. The order authorizing this increase also broadens the original definition of a cheese box by adding that such boxes may be made of materials approved by the inspection and grades branch of the Department of Agriculture.

TAMWORTH

Report of W. I.

Tamworth, Feb. 2 — The Institute meeting on January was held at the home of Mrs. George Millman, with an attendance of 11, including members and visitors. Five new members were enrolled.

The President conducted the usual routine of business. The motto was given by Mrs. S. Gilmour, the title of which was "Our Country is that Spot to which Our Heart is Bound". By calling several incidents of women's activities at the present war, especially those of the Chinese women, those present felt their part in this great a gift if one's country's freedom is at stake. Several bits of poetry portrayed love of country, i.e., "Tipperary in Spring".

The ladies were then asked to join in singing several selections, where-in love for different boundlands was expressed i.e. "Land of Hope and Glory", "Home on the Range", etc. In conclusion Mrs. Mitchell, who was pianist for the evening, played "Waltzing Matilda", as a tribute to Australia.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Seaton, was welcomed by the President and asked for her address. Mrs. Seaton gave us a very interesting account of the life of "Bobby Burns". Amalgamany of the things she told us was how unappreciated Burns was during his life owing largely, to the snobbery of the rich of his time. He was poor, but very honorable. To-day he is so honored that a true Scotsman may be forgiven for resenting his wife's birthday, but never if he forgets the birthday of Bobby Burns.

At the conclusion of this address the members sang "Auld Lang Syne".

Mrs. Nelson Martin and Mrs. Clarence Milligan each gave readings relating to agriculture.

As a fitting climax, Mrs. Milligan turned the radio on and we heard of the Churchill - Roosevelt African meeting.

The hostess and her committee served a delicious lunch.

C. G. I. T. Group

Early in January a C. G. I. T. Group was organized in Tamworth, said group to be known as the R. F. A. (Ready for Anything).

Officers as follows:
Leader—Mrs. Seaton.
President—Miss M. Gilmore.
Sec.-Treas.—Valorie Allison.
Pianist—M. Gilmore.

On January 27th this group held a very successful crokinole party in the R. F. building. Gerald McLaughlin, R.C.A.F., won the prize. Lunch was served.

Y. P. U.

Y. P. U. met in the R. E. building on Monday night. Miss P. Pearl conducted the devotions and business. It was decided to ask the young players from Stirlerlie to present their play in Tamworth Town Hall in the near future.

Arrangements were made to hold a Valentine party next week.

Mrs. Seaton had the topic, and her subject was "Stocktaking".

Games and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" closed the meeting.

W. A. Meeting

Maybe the groundhog stayed inside on Tuesday, "Candlemas Day", but the members of the W. A. did not. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Frosie, and was largely attended. The President, Mrs. Huffman, presided. Mrs. Seaton had charge of the worship service. Hymns and Psalm 86 were followed by Mrs. Seaton speaking on "The Ministry of Song". She said: (1) People from the earliest times have expressed their moods through song; (2) More people are won for the Kingdom through song than by preaching; (3) Missionaries always tell us how heartily the heathen respond to song. The members then sang "I Will Sing of My Redeemer".

Roll call was answered by each member giving her favorite hymn. Ten dollars was voted to the M. & M. Fund.

It was decided to hold an apron shower at the April meeting.

The Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

The hostess and her committee served a delicious lunch.

SCOUT VARIETY SHOW

LOCAL SCOUTS ASSIST FELLOW SCOUTS ABROAD

The First Napanee Troop of the Boy Scouts Association is presenting a Variety Show at the Collegiate School auditorium on Tuesday night the 23rd of February, at 8:00 p.m.

The programme will consist of several one-act plays, musical numbers, skits and displays of scouting activities. Parents, friends of scouting and the general public are invited to attend. Posters are being prepared by many members of the troop and will be displayed in town. A competition is being run for the most attractive posters displayed by the Scouts. Programme sheets are being designed and printed.

The week of February 21st is National Scout Week and the program being presented here by the Napanee troop is one of a number of special scouting activities being presented throughout Canada that week.

The proceeds of the concert will be used to further the interest of Scouting in Napanee and to assist the "China-Up" fund of the Boy Scouts of Canada used to help fellow-Scouts in England and to assist in the reorganization of Scouting in the occupied countries after the War.

A strange invention has originated in the United States.

It is a walking listening-in apparatus which anyone can carry on his head like an upturned helmet or a saucer. The saucer is connected with a dispatch-case, easily carried in the hand, which contains an amplifier. The pedestrian thus equipped is a walking listener-in.

NOT NECESSARY TO PERSONALLY APPLY FOR RATION BOOKS

Because ration books are valuable and cannot always be entrusted to children with safety, the ration administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has ruled that children under the age of 16 years will not be allowed to pick up No. 2 ration books when they are distributed at an early date. Those below 16 must have a "sponsor" or some responsible person take delivery of the books for them.

Any adult presenting his old ration book with a properly filled-in card at a distributing centre is, however, entitled to receive a new ration book in exchange. His old book will be returned to him but the card will be retained. It is not necessary that the holder of a ration book should himself present it for replacement. This may be done by any responsible member of his household but the holder himself must fill in the card or, in the case of a child, it may be done by his "sponsor."

Of interest in rural areas is the further ruling that it will be quite in order for an individual to present his neighbour's books in addition to those belonging to his own household. The individual receiving the books is then to become responsible for their delivery to their owners.

Mr and Mrs. R. L. Miller received word recently of the marriage on January 23, at Banstead Methodist Church, Surrey, England, of Captain Robert Bell and Lieut. (Nursing Sister) Helen Gibson, R.C.A.M.C., formerly of Ottawa.

Captain Bell spent some time in Napanee before the war and was engaged in special work at the Gilbert Furniture Shops. During that time he played for the Gibbard basketball team. His home was in Winnipeg where he returned before enlisting and went overseas.

Captain Bell's bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gibson, Laurentian Place, Ottawa. She is a graduate of Ottawa Collegiate, Ottawa Normal School, and graduated later in physiotherapy from the University of Toronto.

DEADLINE FOR EMPLOYER'S REPORT WAS FEBRUARY 6TH

M. L. Perry, Manager of the Local Employment and Selective Service Office, has pointed out that last Saturday, February 6th, was the deadline for special reports employers are required to turn in to the National Selective Service Offices. These reports cover a classification of the employees of each company, firm or business as at January 30. Mr. Perry states that employers who have not made reports up to this time, must do so at once. The reports, required under order of Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour, are very necessary for planning of manpower distribution in the next several months.

Mr. Perry added: "Mr. A. MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service, points out that each and every employer except farmers and householders employing domestic help) must make the return, regardless of the number of their employees. The Director also states that some early returns received omit office and executive employees in the returns; all employees should be included. Also, some reports fail to forecast probable working staffs at April 30. These figures, too, must be given." If additional blank forms are needed, they may be obtained at Local Employment and Selective Service Office, 2nd floor, Post Office Building.

HIGHLIGHTS OF P. M. CHURCHILL'S REVIEW OF WAR

We have a plan of action which we are going to carry out during the next nine months. . . There is nothing now to be done but to work out these schemes in detail and put them into operation.

* * *

The dominating aim which we set before ourselves in the conference at Casablanca was to engage the enemy's forces on land, sea and in the air on the largest possible scale and at the earliest possible moment.

* * *

We have to make the enemy burn and bleed . . . in the same way he is being made to burn and bleed along the vast Russian front.

* * *

Our inflexible insistence on unconditional surrender does not mean that we shall inflict cruel treatment of the whole population. But justice must be done and justice must be stern and implacable. No vestige of Nazi or Fascist power, no vestige of the Japanese war plotting machine will be left by us when the work is done, as done it certainly will be.

I assure the House that our duty is not to the utmost in our power for the magnificent and tremendous effort Russia and try to draw the enemy from the Russian front was accepted as the first objective until the problems of U-boat warfare were met.

* * *

It is no part of our policy to get Turkey into trouble. It made no request to Turkey except to get her rearmament well organized.

* * *

Great Britain and the United States were formerly peaceful countries. Ill-armed, unprepared. They are now warrior nations walking in fear of the Lord very heavily armed in an increasingly clear view of their salvation.

In the last six months Anglo-American and important Canadian air forces building of ships exceeded all losses of the United Nations by over 2,000,000 tons. Our joint fleet is 2,250,000 tons bigger today than it was six months ago.

The rate of killing U-boats has steadily improved.

END PASSPORT REQUIREMENTS AT U.S. BORDER

CANADIANS ELIGIBLE FOR 29-DAYS VISA ON NEW CROSSING CARD

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Removal of the need for passports for Canadians and British subjects living in Canada and visiting the United States for periods not exceeding 29 days, was announced Friday by the External Affairs Department. The new method was effective Monday.

The present regulations requiring the use of a passport will remain in effect for Canadians entering the United States for longer periods and for persons other than Canadians and Britons living in Canada.

A new type of identification card for border - crossing identification card which does not require a passport will be issued for Canadians and Britons on short visits.

Announcement of the new plan was made simultaneously in Washington by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Ottawa. A spokesman for External Affairs said there is no change in present foreign exchange regulations which are the principal factor limiting Canadian travel to the United States in wartime.

The non-immigrant border-crossing identification cards will be issued free of charge by United States Consular offices in Canada and will bear an endorsement by the United States immigration officer guaranteeing the readmissibility of the bearer to Canada.

There will be no limit on the number of visits for which the card may be used during a period of one year, provided that no one visits exceeds 29 days.

Visitors' visas and non-immigrant border crossing cards already issued will retain their validity until the date of expiration and, if they are to be renewed so long as the holder possesses a valid passport.

NEW REGULATIONS GAS RATIONING ARE ANNOUNCED

Amount of Gas for All Cars to be Greatly Reduced

Canada's Minister of Munitions, Hon. C. D. Howe, announced in the House of Commons on Thursday, a new basis of gasoline rationing, effective April 1st, by which every automotive vehicle in Canada will be allowed a minimum of 120 gallons of gasoline for the first year. Special allowances will be made for increased rations for proven vocational requirements.

PRINCIPAL PROVISIONS

New provisions of the 1943-44 ration plan include:

1. Gasoline will be strictly rationed to all commercial vehicles, including farm trucks.
2. All non-commercial drivers will be placed in "AA" category—120 gallons a year—and required to use their present basis of gasoline allowance.
3. The differential between allowances for light and heavy passenger cars will be eliminated.
4. All cars and trucks will be required to bear windshield stickers, indicating their category.

Holders of "AA" books will be allowed to use their coupons as they wish, but will not be allowed any additional gasoline when they are exhausted. Mr. Howe said. The present coupons expire March 31.

The form of rationing for commercial vehicles was too complicated to be outlined in a statement, to the House but will be outlined in a newspaper advertisement, to appear shortly, Mr. Howe said.

"I believe that the allowance for all types of commercial vehicles will be reasonably adequate for the purposes of purposes for which the vehicle is intended," he added.

LESS THAN HALF 1942 RATION

As a result of the new regulations gasoline will be cut by more than half the basis of special gasoline categories face a prospect of less than one half the annual supply of gasoline they anticipated when rationing was announced April 1st, 1942.

The original "A" category for drivers in the non - essential class provided 60 units, which on the basis of the initial coupon, value of five gallons, gave them 300 gallons a year, sufficient for about 8,400 miles travel for the average car.

Reduction of the coupon value to three gallons cut the annual supply for these motorists to 180 gallons allowing about 5,040 miles travel.

The "AA" category, introduced last October, and now the basis on which all non-commercial motorists start, provided an allowance of 16 units, equal to 48 gallons or about 864 miles for big passenger cars.

Commercial vehicles now placed under a strict rationing plan, were previously no; restricted as long as their use of gasoline did not appear luxurious.

$29.00 RECEIVED BY BEAVER OFFICE CHINESE RELIEF FUND

Donations Made at this Office are Forwarded to Toronto Headquarters

The aim of the committees formed to raise money for The Chinese War Relief Fund is to raise $200,000 in Canada this year. This amount, in comparison with the objectives set for other funds, seems very modest. But when it is remembered that the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar in China is many times what it is in Canada, the $200,000 Canadian dollars can buy a great deal of relief to refugees and sufferers in China, who have been driven out of their homes by the Japanese.

To appreciate what a gift through the Chinese War Relief Fund will make possible, consider the following:

$100	will provide emergency treatment for 100 air raid victims.
$ 50	will equip a field clinic.
$ 25	will train a wrecker for active service.

Consider, also, what China is doing for us:

China has killed or permanently incapacitated 1,200,000 Japanese soldiers, who otherwise, would have been thrown into the battle against us.

China is carrying 1,000,000 Japanese soldiers on her own fronts. Their release for service elsewhere would affect the position of the United Nations, and conceivably, turn the tide of war.

China offers the United Nations the most accessible bases for the offensive against Japan. She protects Russia's backdoor. Her troops, under General Stilwell, have joined the United Nations in the defence of India.

China is a paramount factor in shortening the war. A long war would mean a ghastly loss of life, a staggering debt burden and a drastic dislocation of our free economy and way of life.

If you care to contribute to the Fund, your contributions may be handed in at The Beaver Office and acknowledgement will be made each week in The Beaver columns. Payment by cheque or money order, make it out to "The Chinese War Relief Fund."

Contributions received to date:

Mrs. H. A. Pepler	$20.00
The Misses Gardier	2.00
Mrs. O. S. Davis	1.00

Seven Ewes Produce Fifteen Lambs

Ernest Kerr, Selby, claims his sheep flock has set somewhat of a record for lamb production for this time of year. Seven ewes have recently given birth to fifteen lambs. Two ewes had triplets, four had twins and one produced a single lamb.

The additions to the flock so early in the season, mean a considerable amount of extra work for Mr. Kerr, because of the cold and the lack of sunlight which is necessary for the survival of lambs.

THE CRYSTAL FAILS

The crystal gazer, Herr Hitler, has undoubtedly been deceived by his crystal. When he looked on it a year ago, he saw himself at the head of an army which would be able to do the impossible, because it was led by the man who got all his directional power from "hunches." The General Staff was too slow. It was bound by tradition. They weighed the odds against them; they tried to arrive at a policy based on evidence. But not so with Hitler, factual evidence did not matter. The cost of a military operation was inconsequential. All that was needed was well trained, well equipped men — and a Hitler.

And it worked, partially. That is to say Hitler, as Commander in Chief of the German forces, spent the men and materials with a prodigality which is almost unbelievable. The end justifies the means. He poured his troops into the conflict in Russia with as little regard for the value of human life as though the men who made up those forces were pawns in a game of chess. So far, the crystal did not deceive him.

But there were some things on which the crystal was silent, or at least on which it did not convey its meaning with unerring accuracy. The "hunch" failed, and the whole German army in Russia is feeling the strain. In the southern end of the line, and in the middle, great sections of Russian territory have been captured, and great cities retaken from the invader. The end is not yet — hundreds of thousands, probably half a million Germans have been destroyed since the fall campaign began, besides other hundreds of thousands who have been taken prisoner. The crystal-gazer did not see that, the intuition was too safe guide, the "hunch" let Hitler down.

Under those circumstances, it is not to be wondered at if the General Staff of the German forces in Russia are in somewhat of a dither. They do not want to see their armies annihilated, and yet they are resentful that Hitler should have led them into the present position. It is rumored that Hitler wants to retire as Chief of Staff. But he has some difficulty in getting a successor. A London dispatch says that Field Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein has taken over, but only on condition that Hitler assumes responsibility for the disaster which has overtaken the German forces. It will be difficult to get confirmation of that, for a while. But we may depend on it that, if the change is made, the days of arriving at a strategy for conduction of war by looking in a crystal are over, so far as the German campaigns are concerned.

But it is too late now. The Germans may retire to a much shorter line. But the loss of so many men and so much munitions, is bound to have a serious effect on the morale of the army. They are not the army they were when they marched into Poland. Then, they were all but unopposed. But methods of group that is as well armed as they, and who have the battle-front for self-preservation, the Germans will not be in a position to deal the knock-out blow they have promised so frequently. Indeed, it is to be expected that the Red Army will give the retreating Germans no respite, no opportunity to reform, but will continue the pressure until the crystal-gazer, the army and the chief of staff, have been thoroughly defeated in the field.

A GOOD SUGGESTION

Speaking in the House of Commons on Thursday, February 11th, Mr.-Mills said this: "There is another recommendation I would like to make, but I do not know whether it can be carried out. I think every farm-hand, every man who has worked in agriculture who is in the armed forces on Canadian soil should, if he so requests, be granted a postponement for next summer, in order to return home to assist with the work on the farm. A man who has always worked on the farm, who has grown up on the farm, is worth considerably more than inexperienced help. I know of some men who have been in the Army for some time. I am thinking of one boy in particular I know, who would like to come out for the summer."

We who live in the rural areas know the difficulties with which farmers are faced because of the shortage of help. Most of our men have joined the forces, others are in the war industries. This leaves the farmer in a said predicament. He is urged to increase production. The shortage of food is acute, and the farms of Canada must be depended on to make up that shortage, and continue to provide supplies of foodstuffs for our Allies. But with the shortage of labor, it becomes a problem to keep production on the same basis as last year, let alone increase it.

There are plenty of farms in this area which are not being worked to capacity, simply because of the shortage of labor. Farming is an exacting business. Farmers start to work early in life and keep at it continuously. Consequently they cannot carry their full share of the work on the farm to anything like the extent which men in other professions can. The result is farmers have to retire from the active responsibility either with their children on the homestead or in the town. But if they are given even a fair break with respect to help, many a farmer who otherwise will be forced to retire, will be able to plan, to organize, and to supervise the production of food. We need men in the forces. The relationship between men in the forces, men in the war industries and men on the farms, is very close, and very delicate. The balance must be carefully maintained. Up to the present time the farmers have not had the consideration they deserve in respect to help. If sideration they deserve in respect to help. If the Government needs food, it must see to it that there will be an adequate supply of labor to produce it.

ONE GOOD PURPOSE

The extremely cold weather of the past few days was not altogether expected nor welcomed. But it has served one purpose. On every hand we hear the remark, "Just imagine the Russians fighting in weather like this." There is some comfort in that, for us. For, after all, we can get fuel, we can keep warm. We have our homes, and we have abundance to eat. But on the Russian front, the soldiers are fighting in weather such as we have had during the past few days. They spend most of their time outdoors, sleeping wherever they can get a place to rest, and are continually subjected to the bombardment of the enemy. The weather can be cruel, it can be deadening, and when it gets down to thirty below it can be almost paralyzing — and yet our Allies, the Russians, are fighting in that weather, and enduring all manner of suffering and losses. For it must not be supposed that all the losses are on the one side.

If the cold spell has done nothing more than to create in us a new sympathy for those who are fighting for us, who are holding the enemy engaged until we are ready to attack him in force, it has perhaps served a useful purpose.

WATCHING THE WIND

The Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, is not going to be caught napping. He is watching the way the wind is blowing and is setting his sails accordingly. The Port Hope Convention of members of the Conservative Party, drew up a series of findings which became the basis for the platforms of the Progressive - Conservative Convention. The findings of forces and affirmations were progressive, realistic and forward-looking. In this they reflected public opinion. The Progressive - Conservative Party was convinced that if it was to have any hope of capturing the public imagination and support, it would have to change its approach to the social and economic problems of the day. This it decided to do. It adopted modern, streamlined affirmations, and elected a leader whose first address in Ontario, showed signs of vigorous progressive leadership.

But the Liberal Party is not unaware of all this. Mr. Mackenzie King knows well enough that a war-time government is usually slated for defeat at the conclusion of hostilities. But Mr. King is an astute politician. He is not going to let the new Progressive-Conservative Party lead the country in new ideas. The best way to prevent that is to adopt some of them. And so we are now to have a Labor Board of three members, who will sit daily, if necessary, and deal with all sorts of labor disputes. The Labor Board will be made up of Mr. Justice McTague, as chairman, Senator Bench and Mr. J. L. Cohen. The most surprising appointment, and that which shows a good deal of discernment on the part of Mr. King, is that of Mr. Cohen. Mr. Cohen has been a labor attorney for years. He has fought all the cases for labor in major labor disputes. He is a keen, alert, champion of the cause of Labor. Perhaps no lawyer in Ontario has been more vigorously denounced by the opponents of the labor unions, than Mr. Cohen. He is charged by some with being a champion of the C. I. O., a foreign importation. He is not, so they argue, a good representative of labor, because the established labor organization, the A.F. of L. was in the field first. The C. I. O. is an interloper. It had no right in this province. Therefore, Mr. Cohen, who defends them, cannot be regarded as truly representative of the Labor Movement.

Now, of course, there are always those who condemn any new thing. Never having shown any real interest in the A.F. of L. they become deeply concerned for their prestige and rights immediately another organization appears, which represents not the aristocracy of Labor as does the A.F. of L. but its rank and file.

But Mr. King has no such feelings. He once wrote a book called "Industry and Humanity," in which he dealt with all these issues in a scientific and sympathetic manner. And now he is putting some of them into effect. Mr. Hanson told Mr. King, in the House, that he had taken twenty-five years to do it. The real reason no doubt is that Mr. King is listening to the wind, he knows what way it is blowing and he is taking advantage of it.

The Progressive-Conservative Party will do an excellent service if it succeeds in prodding Mr. King to adopt even more of the principles it has espoused. In the meantime, the public as a whole benefits.

The new Labor Board is an advanced step in the vexed labor relations problem.

U. S. To Give Up Any Rights In Canada At End of War

By a Staff Correspondent of "The Canadian Press Leased Wire Service"

Ottawa. — Any anxiety which may have been held that defence installations constructed by United States in Canada might lead after the war to some curtailment of the Dominion's sovereignty and authority in Canada's interests has been set at rest by an exchange of notes between the two governments.

These have been "tabled" in the House of Commons by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, who said he could "It is not contemplated that the contribution which the United States may make thereto through the construction of a number of projects installations, etc. on the other soil) to the common defence will give that country any continuing rights in Canada after the conclusion of the war."

Through a special agreement already made by the two countries the great undertaking, the Alaska Highway, will after the war become part of the highway system of Canada. To remove all possible doubt about the other defense works, the Joint Defence Board recommended that a clear cut statement should be approved by both governments. The Prime Minister further explained that "The terms of the exchange of notes will make it clear that the Canada undertake to contribute to the joint defense by constructing installations or facilities in Alaska or elsewhere on United States territory, the same principles would normally apply."

Under the programme of wartime co-operation, the Canadian government has agreed that military units of the United States might be stationed on Canadian territory. Royal Canadian Air Force units are operating from Alaskan bases.

To arrive at some workable formula to ensure that no permanent rights in Canada would arise from these works, it has been agreed that: (1) all immovable assets of the U. S. are to be released to the Crown within one year after the end of the war; (2) all movable assets are to be removed from Canada or offered for sale to the Crown within one year, at mutually appraised prices; (3) if movable assets are not removed or sold to the Crown, within the year, they may be offered for sale on the open market; (4) if they can't be sold they are to be disposed of by the Permanent Joint Defense Board.

No leases of land have been granted by Canada, however, that on Canadian Use 99 year leases on the eastern seabord from Newfoundland to the West Indies given by the British Government; in exchange for fifty destroyers. It has been agreed here that Canada has an agreement with Great Britain and the United States that not damage will be made in U. S. rights in Newfoundland without the government of this country being consulted.

THE BEVERIDGE REPORT

WHO IS AFFECTED ?

The above question may be answered by saying, "Virtually every man, woman and child in Great Britain." So wide is the Plan's scope that none will be deprived of its benefits, although some will not be obliged to contribute. There are some glaring lines, as in the case of persons now retired and who could not be expected to contribute to a new scheme. Special provision is made for these, but every other person, whether gainfully employed or not — including housewives, domestic servants, farmers — will be eligible for benefits.

Sir William Beveridge relates the population from a social security standpoint into classes of working age and two others above and below working age, which are:

1—Employees, that is, persons whose normal occupation is employment under contract service.

2—Others gainfully occupied, including employers, traders and independent workers of all kinds.

3—Housewives, that is, married women of working age.

4—Others of working age not gainfully occupied.

5—Below working age.

6—Retired above working age.

These last two classes are not brought into the insurance scheme, nor will they be required to contribute. Children's allowances, will be paid from the Plan's general revenue while those retired above working age will receive retirement pensions.

Classes two and three introduce a revolutionary change in social security measures, for they are insurance existing schemes anywhere. During the depression of the thirties, insurance was first to be thrown out of work were those not employed by other persons but working for themselves, as small shopkeepers, fishermen, peddlers and in many other occupations. As Sir William says, many of these "are poorer than many of those employed under contract of service and are as much dependent on good health for their earnings. All should have certainty of adequate income when they are too old to work if their other capacities fail."

Perhaps the most important change and one affecting a large class not hitherto protected as of right is that which would confer distinct social status on housewives. In general, as the Report states, includes married women who do not work for remuneration outside their homes in unoccupied persons. The existing unemployment schemes recognize that women as sole dependants of their husbands and the health insurance scheme does not recognize them at all "except at the moment of maternity." These attitudes Sir William finds indefensible, and he re-defines the status of housewives thus:

"In any measure of social policy in which regard is had to facts, the great majority of married women must be regarded as occupied on work which is vital though unpaid, without which their husbands could no do their paid work and without which the nation could not continue."

The new plan treats married women as a special insurance class of occupied persons, with benefits on a par with the rest. If a married woman works, the joint benefit is reduced by one shilling, the husband's contribution is considered as made for both of them. In any case the wife may have worked before marriage and in that event would have contributed to the insurance scheme and be entitled to some benefits.

Agriculture, that is both agricultural workers and owner and tenant farmers, are brought into the general scheme of insurance. The assumption "that agriculture will have a status equal to that of other industries in respect of terms and conditions of service." In this case the subsidies of the Plan would retain the amalgamation of the existing special unemployment insurance scheme for agriculture with the general Plan. Agriculture was excluded from the general scheme of unemployment insurance in 1920 but the benefits were extended to agriculture in 1926 by special legislation.

Sir William Beveridge believes that no one should be exempted from the operations of the plan. At present anyone earning more than £420 a year in non-manual occupations may be exempt from making contributions and, of course, receives no benefit. In the new Beveridge plan the only persons exempt from the payment of contributions would be those earning less than £78 a year and these would participate in the benefits just as if they had contributed.

HITLER SEEKS DELAY IN NORTH AFRICA

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE

British United Press War Analyst

The campaign in North Africa has developed into a war of position, with Hitler laying the groundwork for a long time delay, particularly as the rainy season does not end until March.

Hitler's object in Africa is to put his forces in Sicily, Italy, Yugoslavia and the Balkans against the expected invasion.

Hitler's problem is to protect against an Allied invasion of Europe, point aimed at Europe's soft spot from Southern France to the Balkans. The Allies could strike at Sardinia, Sicily, Central Italy, Yugoslavia or Greece.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, FEBRUARY 21ST, 1943

"JESUS, THE GOOD SHEPHERD"

Lesson Text: John 10: 1-5, 11-16, 27-30

Jesus talks about a shepherd. Even our rural areas we know nothing of shepherds. We have sheep in certain sections of rural Ontario, but they pretty well look after themselves. Now, in the days of Palestine background of the Bible is a condition of life with which we are not familiar. A lot of shade work or background work must always be done when preaching or trying to understand the Bible. A while ago a dairy company had a row which they took to various city schools in order to teach the children about milk. Teachers reported an unusual interest in the demonstration, largely because the milking of a cow was something quite outside the experience of the average city child. We sometimes forget that.

Jesus talked about a shepherd because that was the subject with which everybody was familiar. If He were here now He would use some other illustration. He would not talk about a good shepherd. He would talk about a good farmer, a good doctor, a good teacher, a good storekeeper, a good factory owner, a good fortune teller.

But there are some things about the attitude of the shepherd to the sheep, which are applicable to any type of society, whether that be rural or urban. It is ours to find these essential principles and apply them to our own day.

Jesus is the Good Shepherd and, as such, He does two or three things. In the first place He goes in at the door. He does not go around by the back entrance, some people think about way. He faces us fairly and squarely. There is no uncertainty about Him and those who have been His sheep, His people, know His voice. To be sure there are others who do not know that voice; they have not been trained to it. But the man, or the woman who, by study, by intimate relations with the Master, have come to know Him will sooner mistake the voice of Jesus when He speaks. The sheep know His voice.

In the sheep pen, the sheep a dozen ranches might be brought the night. Each has its own standing guard. But in the morning when the shepherd comes to call his own they, like flowing the sheep follow their own shepherd. A good shepherd does not like that analogy. Jesus calls His sheep by name. How His voice, they follow Him. Perhaps There can be no doubt about the accuracy of that when we are familiar. A little child knows those who know Him, who possess His voice will not desert Him. But it is that which has always been the strength of our Christian faith. Even though the manners may be great, yet there have always been those who have been faithful to the teachers of the Church, no matter where they led.

Jesus compares Himself with the Shepherd at another point. He is the good shepherd will lay down His life for the sheep. A shepherd may be faced danger in his effort to get food and drink for his flock, if necessary, he would die in the effort. Jesus Himself is that shepherd. He did just that. He gave Himself that His people might live. He believed, and with reason, that He could be trusted. Probably this feature of the leadership of Jesus has been emphasized of late. We have come to our religion a soft, sentimental experience. Somehow or other the iron has been taken out of it. It

PATRIOT BANDS PREPARE TO ACT BESIDE ALLIES

BY JOHN A. PARRIS

— London, (B.U.P.) — A co-ordinated offensive is being prepared by Europe's underground armies following the first appeal in several months by the Allied Government for increased resistance.

Patriots in all occupied countries, it was learned, have been warned that the time is fast approaching when they can aid the Allies.

It was understood that secret instructions have been sent to underground leaders in recent weeks to increase sabotage and guerrilla warfare.

The Dutch were urged by radio to build up their resistance tactics now that the Germans were tied down in Russia, while French underground leaders were asked to organize additional guerrilla bands to attack communications. Danish patriots also were requested to hide foodstuffs.

In the Balkans, Yugoslavia and Russia were reported attempting to reach an agreement for combined Gen. Draja Mikhailovich's guerrilla forces with Communist partisans for a joint offensive when the Allies attack Europe.

Reports reaching London from Poland said guerilla bands have increased their activities in recent weeks, several times openly clashing with German soldiers.

Austrian sources reported that a wave of sabotage was sweeping the country and that more than 1,000 guerilla bands were operating there.

Saboteurs in Belgium were said to be carrying out the widest campaign yet in the occupied countries, with patriots daily destroying German communications, power plants and railway yards.

The trend of the increasing resistance was apparent from the growing number of executions throughout Europe. German announcements disclosed that hundreds of persons were executed recently in Poland, Belgium, Holland, Czechoslovakia and other occupied countries for sabotage.

Iraq Means Much To United Nations

BY EDMOND J. NOURI

At the Council of Ministers' Building, in Bagdad, in a closely guarded office containing Oriental splendor with ultra-modernistic Western devices and gaudy paintings and statues of the sovereign. In his bearing there was the dignity of the career diplomat and the alertness of the statesman. His attire was according to the best standards of Madison Avenue custom tailors. He was Nuri As Said, in whose hands is intrusted the destiny of a country known to history as the Garden of Eden, Babylonia, Assyria, Chaldea, Mesopotamia — present-day Iraq.

He had just received the declaration which His Royal Highness Regent Emir Abdul Ilah had signed at the Royal Palace, proclaiming a state of war between the sovereign country of Iraq and the Axis powers. Members of his Cabinet had filed out one by one.

At the same time one should not believe the effects of Nazi propaganda in the Near East in general, and in Iraq in particular. The British issue of the Palestine homeland still rankles in the heart of all Arabs — regardless of the political and military commitments of their governments. And as long as this question remains unsolved, the Axis broadcasters of Berlin Bari and Rome, together with Axis undercover agents throughout the Near East and North Africa will have a powerful emotional weapon against the democracies.

It is in the light of these considerations that the political astuteness and foresight of Iraq's Prime Minister are revealed. His courage also shows his deep understanding of international events. Being a realist, he crystallized his countrymen's willingness to tackle their post-war problems by sacrificing their deep-rooted resentment against British diplomacy in the last war.

It is obvious that Iraq's declaration of war on the Axis has one primary motive behind it — that of securing a seat in the United Nations' peace conferences when the war is won. By occupying a round table seat, the Iraqi government will have an opportunity to present its problems and grievances and demand a hearing of their side of the question. Naturally, Palestine will be one of the main issues in the peace settlement. Another important issue that will rank prominently in the post-war conferences will be the political status of the Arab world and pan-Arab unity.

Aside from the psychological benefits derived from Iraq's participation in the war by the Allied countries, Iraq's position in the middle of the "Eurasian Axis" gives her peculiar importance as a centre of the United Nations' Near Eastern communications. Lying as the country does on the shortest possible overland route between the North Africa front and war and India, she has become a vital military depot for the United Nations in the Near East.

The United Nations' military needs benefit by Iraq's huge oil supplies which, as a belligerent ally, she will put completely at the disposal of the British and American forces in the Middle East. Moreover, Iraq will undertake the task of guarding the refineries and the world's longest pipe line and thus release a great many British troops for active duty on other fronts.

Iraq's oil reserves are by far the greatest source of oil under the sovereignty of Britain, although Iran ranks only eighth among the world producers of oil. At present the oil resources of Iraq are being developed by the British-controlled Iraq Petroleum Company.

Since the outbreak of hostilities in Europe all the Arab countries at one time or another have proclaimed their sympathy with the cause of the democratic nations. In action, however, all of them, including Egypt and Saudi Arabia, have maintained cautious neutrality. Iraq's initiative and courage therefore, assure her leadership in post-war pan-Arab affairs. But Iraq's leadership hinges largely on the attitude it will take on the Jewish question.

Nuri As Said undoubtedly holds today the respect and admiration of the whole Arab world. Like his friend the late King Feisal, father of modern Iraq, he has had to fight against overwhelming odds of domestic feuds and factionalism to keep his country united on the path of progressive regeneration. With his foresight and firmness in dealing with the recalcitrants, who are swayed by an intensified Nazi propaganda and underground movements, he will emerge after victory as the liberator of his country, second only to Feisal.

TAXES PROVIDE 91 PER CENT REVENUE

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Taxes provided 91 per cent. of Canada's total revenue in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1942, public accounts tabled in the Commons by the Finance Minister showed.

Total revenues for the year were $1,498,536,242 compared with total expenditures of $1,885,060,005.

Tax revenue amounted to $1,360,912,836 and ordinary non-tax revenue to $103,911,366. The balance of the revenue was derived from special receipts, capital refunds and miscellaneous sources.

War expenditures totalled $1,339,474,152 while ordinary expenditures were $444,777,695. Capital expenditures amounted to $3,420,446.

Under war expenditures the largest item was for the army $511,109,247, with $376,646,755 expended on the R.C.A.F. and $129,367,622 on the navy. Expenditure for munitions and supplies totalled $252,691,124.

Mr. Ilsley also tabled the auditor general's report for the same period showing gross liability of the Dominion at the end of the last fiscal year to be $6,648,823,424. Deducting assets the net debt was computed at $4,041,241,180.

4,000,000 MEN LOST TO HITLER

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Times said in a recent dispatch from London that at least 4,000,000 German soldiers are estimated to have been killed, captured or permanently crippled so far in this war.

The figures were assembled by an Intelligence section of the United Nations general staff from insurance statistics smuggled out of Germany and on expert estimates in London, the dispatch said.

The still-mounting toll was amassed primarily on the Russian Front, and the figure is equivalent to two-thirds of the present line of the country's army, it was said.

Total Nazi casualties were put at 8,500,000 but this figure included many lightly wounded or temporarily ill who can be fitted for fighting again.

Basing its figures on estimates until June 30, 1942, and then computing German losses at the same rate for the second half of the year, the report suggested that the total breakdown to the first of this year included absolute losses of 3,755,000, comprising 1,750,000 fatalities and 2,005,000 incapacitated or more than 4,000,000, when prisoners and missing are added.

If the figures err, the dispatch reported, it is on the side of conservatism.

It was estimated that Germany now has under arms about 6,000,000 in the Army alone, figured at about 200 divisions, and representing almost 13 per cent of the country's population.

EXPECT MORE SUGAR CANNING SEASON

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board expresses the belief that sufficient sugar will be available to industries in Canada to prepare for the winter of 1943 - 44 a certain part of the crops of fruit as they mature. A survey is about to be launched to ascertain just how much sugar will be available for summer preserving of foods, and it is also announced that the official canning season will open on June 1st.

The method of distributing extra supplies of sugar for such use will be announced in advance of the opening of the season.

LAVAL GIVES HITLER REMAINS OF FLEET, 400,000 WORKERS

London, (B.U.P.) — Pierre Laval has agreed to surrender remnants of the scuttled French fleet and 400,000 "anti-Bolshevik" 400,000 French workers for German war industries, a Free Fighting French spokesman said this week.

These concessions were part of a "give-and-take" accord reached last month when Laval, as chief of the French Government, met with Adolf Hitler and Count Galeazzo Ciano at Berchtesgaden, Hitler's Bavarian retreat.

Laval received concessions strengthening his own power in return for these given to Hitler. He agreed to turn over five destroyers and two torpedo boats from the debacle of Toulon, and to surrender administration of French industry, agriculture and finance to Germany.

SUBSTANCE OF AGREEMENT

Fighting French headquarters received the gist of the four-point agreement reached by Laval, Hitler and Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, in their meeting at Berchtesgaden. The points were:

1. Laval was assured that his would be the last French Government with which Hitler would negotiate. The Fighting French spokesman pointed out that this was a repudiation of Jacques Doriot, Laval's chief political rival.

2. Laval was granted increased administrative powers and direct control of the police in formerly unoccupied France.

3. Hitler abandoned the plan to form an air reich army on a compulsory basis to fight against the United Nations with Axis forces.

4. French - Italian negotiations will be conducted under Hitler's arbitration. It was suggested here that such negotiations would concern Italian demands for Corsica and other French territory after the war and the extent of Italian control over occupied France.

PRICE OF NAZI BACKING

5. Five French destroyers and two subs will be given to Germany.

6. France will send 400,000 workers to Germany.

7. French industry, finance and agriculture will be placed under complete German control.

8. The Departments of Nord and Pas de Calais will not be restored to the French state. The spokesman said they would remain in "the forbidden zone "under German military administration.

9. The old demarcation line between the former occupied and unoccupied zones of France will not be abolished.

10. No definite agreement was reached on the proposal to return the French Government from Vichy to Paris.

The Balcony Bullfrog

A New York Herald - Tribune Editorial

Hitler once appealed to his "intuition"; Mussolini, in the more modest frame of mind befitting his present servile condition, appeals to the "law of gravitation." Amid the fulgurous and bimb-blasted twilight of the gods surrounding the 10th anniversary of the Nazi state few noticed that the Fascist bullfrog was having a 20th anniversary at the same time. But a now strangely still, small voice pipes up from Rome to remind us of the fact.

The Italians, having been thrown out of the whole of their vast African empire by the operations of the British Army, may expect to return there some day by the Kindlier influence of "gravity."

"The 50,000,000 Italians have gravitated and will gravitate toward Africa because they have a sacred right to live."

It is a cold and comfortless thought.

Nobody said anything about the impersonal forces of gravitation on October 3rd, 1935, when the Italian bullfrog advanced to the easy rape of Ethiopia, then the bullfrog of the Fascist era was declaiming that "never in this historical epoch has the Italian people so revealed the force of its spirit and the strength of its character."

It was not gravity which ruled Italy on that sole will . . . one decision" Scoglies were told that "they do not know what is this Fascist Italy of 1935." Well, the world has since been learning just how ephemeral an edifice it was, and it is because the bullfrog forgot about will and decision and strengthed character to fall back on whatever reassurance may be found in the fatalistic operation of allegedly natural "laws."

This tired and hollow manifesto, signalling the 20th anniversary of Fascist zanfistration makes an interesting and suggestive contrast with Hitler's 10th anniversary proclamation. The former is a mouthing of old phrases with self - confidence that they have lost their meaning; Hitler's effort, on the contrary, was a burning, wholly consistent and belated reiteration of faith.

It is a lunatic's faith. But just as the lunatic's world is completely logical within the framework of its fantastic assumptions, so if one accepts the preposterous assumptions of Hitlerism — and millions of Germans have been so thrilled in them by this time that they hardly realize that any other assumptions could exist — the proclamation becomes a wholly self-consistent and impressive statement of the situation.

The Italians are an old and experienced people; like all the rest of us, they can "put on an act" up to a point; but when the act has long ago worn out even their mountebank leader cannot help tardily recognizing the facts.

Nazi Germany is a far more mendacious, Bismarckian affair. Whatever the facts it continues to live in its characteristic world of ideas. Its leader is a paranoiac and until the leadership is smashed and that closed system dissipated up in the rock of actuality it is impossible that Germany as a whole will be freed from their diabolical fantasies.

"What's New in the Movies?"

Not as much, may I reply, as you think. That is the answer settled on after loafing through the Moving Picture World, a trade magazine, issue of June 8, 1912.

Color on the screen, for instance, is supposed to be the newest thing since sound—which wasn't new. More than 30 years ago "Hells of Paradise" was advertised as "hand-colored" and "the most harmonious hit of film beauty ever offered." Another tinted feature was "The Lion's Revenge."

This year twice as many stories will be filmed in Technicolor. But color, like many modern screen ideas, is an improvement, not an innovation.

Short subjects and documentary films are popularly supposed to be a present-day addition to the entertainment field. Are they?

In those far-off film days before store shows grew into cinema cathedrals the public was enjoying "A Motor Trip Through the Garden of Allah," "Scenes of the Italian-Turkish War," "Making Silk Hats," "Through Saskatchewan on the Canadian Northern Railway," "International Auto," "Roping Big Game in the Arctic Regions" and many others.

And how about that famed character, the daredevil camera-man? In 1912 Floyd Humphrey, strapped to his seat and his camera secured by ropes, made air shots of Los Angeles during a 25-minute flight in a hydro-aeroplane as a guest of Glen Martin."

Nor are premiums new—or "Giveaways," as they are known in the film trade. In 1912 theatres were handing out coupons for summer resort lots, one at each performance, 20 being the price of the real estate. A patron who got a ham loyal to the movies everything but a wife by now had he remained loyal to the movies.

In 1912 many film folk were protesting against the term, "the Movies," to describe the screen art. The objection was resented by the public. Last month the head of Warner Brothers' studios asked employees to quit using those words to describe motion pictures. Lack dignity, he claims.

Now and then a quarrel breaks out about the practice of building pictures around stars and selling personality rather than adhering to the Shakespearean credo that "The Play's the Thing."

In 1912, when Broncho Billy Anderson and Nat C. Goodwin were the two film stars, the star system was a common dispute.

Five years later the movies were swamped by stars. Petrova, Pickford, Lonesome Luke, Fairbanks and many others had captured special places in the affection of the public.

Today the star system seems here to stay. But the ranks of the stars are growing thinner because of the call of duty. Films may yet rely on what's-in-it? instead of who's-in-it? The ancient opponents of the star system may win a temporary victory.

NEW Gasoline Rationing Plan Goes into Effect APRIL FIRST

ON MARCH 31 the present gasoline ration licenses and coupons will expire, and no gasoline will be sold except upon the presentation of a 1943-1944 ration book.

In his own interests, every vehicle owner is asked to apply at once for a new gasoline license and ration coupon book for each of his vehicles.

Under the new system, effective April 1, all commercial vehicles will be rationed. All non-commercial vehicles will be granted a basic "AA" gasoline license and ration coupon book, containing 40 coupons for a passenger car, or 16 for a motorcycle. Owners of non-commercial vehicles eligible for a special category, who can prove their need, will be granted an extra vocational allowance, fixed in advance for the year ending March 31, 1944.

The extra allowance for a special category car will be tailored to meet individual needs. In determining this allowance the previous category and mileage of the car will not be considered. Instead the vocational allowance will be based on two factors: (1) The gravity of the oil shortage with which Canada is faced, and (2) the importance of the vehicle to its owner in a country at war.

The extra vocational coupons will be issued in books labelled "Special", and each such book will contain not more than 60 coupons. Only one "Special" book, or portion of such book, will be issued at a time, and hence the case history of each special category applicant will be under constant review.

Under provisions of the rationing order, the Oil Controller will have the right to refuse any application for a special category, or to suspend any ration book for an infraction of the regulations.

Every motor vehicle, other than a motorcycle, must bear on its windshield a sticker indicating its category. After April 1, service station attendants will not be permitted to serve gasoline to a car which does not bear the sticker which corresponds to the ration book submitted at the time of the purchase.

To obtain a gasoline license and ration coupon book, secure an application form at your nearest Post Office. Study the form and follow the instructions contained therein.

When you receive your ration coupon book, guard it carefully. It may not be replaced if, because of your negligence, it is lost or stolen. Do not leave it in your car; keep it on your person at all times.

DORLAND

Dorland, Feb. 13. — A very successful conversational meeting was held in the school room of the United Church on Friday evening. The reports from the various Societies of the church were quite encouraging, all collections being met and a balance on hand. After the business of the evening was concluded, the pupils of S. S. No. 3, under the direction of their teacher, Miss A. Powers, presented an entertaining program. At the close, the ladies served refreshments.

Mr. M. Bennington met with a serious accident while visiting at Stirling. His car skidded on the icy pavement, the rear end striking a standing truck. Fortunately the occupants escaped serious injury, but the car was badly damaged.

Mr. Roy Smith entered Kingston Hospital on Friday to undergo a cancer operation.

The Red Cross euchre parties are proving very popular and bring in a nice sum of money.

The Late Charles Wilson

Mr. Charles Wilson, an aged resident of the town, died at his home on West Street, Tuesday morning of this week, in his 88th year. Mr. Wilson had been in failing health for some weeks, and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Wilson, who was a son of the late James and Mary Wilson, was born in Sheffield Township, near Reidville, and lived there until he moved to Morven some 45 years ago. After farming all his lifetime he moved to Napanee about three years ago, where he had since resided.

While in Napanee he attended St. Andrew's Church until it was disbanded since that time he was a member of Grace United Church.

Besides his wife, formerly Sarah Howie, he leaves one sister, Miss Mary Wilson, Napanee, and one brother, James W. Wilson, who lives near Napanee. He was predeceased by four brothers and one sister.

The funeral is being conducted by Rev. C. D. McLellan of Grace United Church at his late residence, on Thursday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Interment will be made at Cataraqui cemetery.

VITAL INDIA PASSES THE CRISIS

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Looking at the world through the end of a telescope — that is, across the flaming battlefields of Europe and Africa towards the ultimate battlefields of Asia — it seems increasingly clear that India will be needed as a major base — perhaps the major base — for defeat of the Oriental Hun.

That is a fact which we shouldn't allow the smoke of the European conflict to obscure for one moment. India is vital to the Allied cause.

The point is that in order to uproot and drive the Mikado's forces from the continent into the sea it will be necessary to recapture Burma and use that back door to China to equip Chiang Kai-shek's armies. India will be at once the arsenal and strategic jumping-off place for this grand finale.

Thus it is good to receive authoritative assurances such as have been given me that India's security as a base is ensured. They tell me it is being held safe, both as regards internal and external threats, and that when the Allied high command is ready to deal finally with shotgun nationalism.

I have reported previously that military personages here expressed the confident view that the danger of a successful Japanese invasion no longer exists.

Now we have further important information. Qualified quarters assure me the authorities also have the internal situation securely in hand after six months of political disturbances since the breakdown of negotiations over Sir Stafford Cripps' proposals for Dominion status for India.

So far as concerns the military position there is no indication, either, that the Japanese intend to try invasion or that if they did that they would be successful.

India has a right to feel secure in that respect.

As to the political situation, the statement that things are wholly in hand undoubtedly represents a studied view of authorities. Certainly they are the ones to know. I know better than any one else what the exact state of affairs is and their confidence in the future is warranted.

Still, even though things may be well in hand, the question would be rough happier if the political differences were eliminated.

This is a crucial moment when good will and unity of effort are essential and those issues are locked among various parties to the controversy. In that sense India cannot be the same effective military base which it would be were political difficulties solved.

Even when India will be called upon for its supreme war effort in pre-Japanese days something which even the Allied high command cannot predict with certainty. Of course operations are being conducted continually against the Japanese in Burma and neighboring territory but it wouldn't be surprising if a grand offensive were not started until after the Nazis are knocked out.

Our Oriental Allies apparently are becoming reconciled to this viewpoint although disagreeing with parts of it, including defeat of the Axis in Europe the initial objective. Anyway, I find they do understand the main factors governing which designed Hitler as Enemy No. 1, and the Russian, British and American victories in Russia and Libya have made this reasoning much more acceptable in the Orient.

It is becoming apparent in this part of the world that the establishment of Allied control over the Mediterranean will be of incalculable assistance in the final campaign against Japan.

Suppose, for the sake of argument, that an all-out drive against the Mikado does not come until next fall. Will China be able to hold out until then?

I believe so, barring some wholly unexpected development in the meantime.

It should be borne in mind that actually there has been little warfare on a large scale in China for some time. Things have been largely at a standstill.

Even if the Japanese should undertake some new offensive — and there's no present indication of anything big — the Chinese have lots of space to swap for time. Moreover, I'm told that the Chinese are a gallant race and have fully demonstrated they intend to fight the war to complete victory.

• THE U-BOAT PROBLEM HAS NOT BEEN ANSWERED

BY REAR ADM. YATES STIRLING

The United Nations have important obligations on every sea in the world. To maintain an offensive on all these fronts, communications with them are vital. Without such communications the war is lost.

Germany has developed a weapon with which the Reich feels confident. Allied merchant shipping can be reduced to a point where we will be unable to supply our forces scattered all over the world. That weapon is the submarine. It is estimated that Germany has 600 to 700 of these U-boats and is building others at a rate of possibly a submarine a day.

Allied grand strategy developed at Casablanca, the basis of all Allied efforts, cannot be successful if the public plans should fail. A military plan is only a summit of things to be accomplished. In this case the base of the pyramid happens to be ships. If we fail to provide adequate communications, the entire structure of our plan will crash.

It, therefore, is imperative at this time to put first things first, and utilize our best efforts to solve this problem.

For every offensive effort on the part of the enemy there is a right defensive effort on our part to meet it. It is evident that we have not found a satisfactory answer to the submarine. This is not because we are failing to recognize the menace. There are other reasons.

In the abstract, the means to defeat the submarine is to sink more submarines than Germany can build. For this purpose we have adopted the convoy system and are building many vessels capable of fighting U-boats. The system of escorted convoys is a correct answer, but in spite of these wartime depredations the cost of shipping have been increasing.

It is evident that something is wrong in the organization of the effort, the anti-submarine vessels available are not in sufficient numbers or are not being utilized in a way to defeat the increasing U-boat attacks. Of what use will it be to build tanks, artillery and other munitions of war if we are unable to transport them to the battlefronts where they are needed? Of what use will it be to set new shipbuilding records if the vessels are sunk before reaching their destination?

It is evident that the submarine menace today is not just an individual nation's problem. It belongs to the Allied nations. There are grave questions no doubt in each country charged with control of anti-submarine activities, but these should be concentrated into a single united organization.

There should be appointed by the Allies a supreme head of the anti-submarine campaign, a man of the highest calibre, to organize and direct the war against the U-boats. On his staff should be representatives of all Allied maritime nations, with full authority from their Governments to carry out the dispositions outlined by the anti-submarine director. The natural headquarters for such an organization would be England. In this way a responsible, efficient organization would be created who side duty would be the defeat of the submarine.

NEW "OIL" FOR HITLER'S MACHINE

BY GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer

Hitler is carrying on a gigantic, ruthless campaign to mobilize the economic resources of the entire continent, including labor, as part of his preparations for building his fortress to Europe against the anticipated Allied attack in 1943. Daily it becomes more evident that the boast of the globular Goering — that the German air fleet can not be conquered by bungery — applies not to food alone but to all wealth and the means of producing wealth. Hitler will stop at nothing in this campaign; he will prepare all Europe if need be to get what he requires for his war machine.

The Fuehrer's meeting with his puppet in charge of Hungary, Miklas Horthy, announced by Berlin recently, was part of this campaign. Other recent Antonescu was to receive orders to put Rumania on a footing against the spilling of so much Rumanian manpower in the eastern front. Berlin has put Gene Georgi Kettel and Zeitzler at the conference table for the same purpose. Important men there were Doctors Funk and Clodius. Now the latter's job is to supply the wealth that keeps the armies going.

Just what Hitler requires of Rumania was not disclosed. Perhaps more oil or more grain. That retreat in the Caucasus, abandonment of Hitler hopes of 1942 of gathering in the oil of Grozny and Baku, made the grave part problem. The antidote to oil yield from the grain fields of the Danube has become a bigger question mark. The Germans may not even be in possession of those fields by the harvest time comes. Hitler may have demanded that Rumania, already sorely bled for the Russian war, contribute workers for the Reich's labor-hungry industries. Or he may have asked it was connected with his colossal economic mobilization.

Hitler's search for labor is made more desperate by the claims of his army and German manpower. A Stockholm dispatch reports that a military commission is touring Germany to supply perhaps 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 men hitherto rated unfit for military service. Heavy losses in Russia must be replaced, the demands of the second front, and the conquered lands are feeling increasing pressure to supply men, either as soldiers or workers. Rumania, Croatia, Slovakia, Bulgaria, in addition to the Germans in Austria, France, the Low Countries, Denmark, Norway, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Sauckel, it has been said, is working toward the goal of 6,000,000 alien workers in Germany and he is steadily approaching that goal.

This system is liable to strains and faults not found in the economy of free lands; but the Reich has developed better methods for dealing with these of an undeniable effectiveness. It would be folly for the United Nations not to anticipate a greater German war output this year than ever before. U-boats still are being produced faster than we can destroy them; the Nazi aircraft industry continues to give the Allies a real contest in the race for new and better types; testimony from many fronts is that the German forces receive a steady flow of new, powerful, constantly improved weapons. Hitler's war machine no longer enjoys the terrible preponderance

ONTARIO NURSE TELLS OF HOSTEL FIRE

Not all the blood given by Canadian donors to the Red Cross blood service is shipped overseas. Enough of it is kept in reserve to take care of casualties in our own country, for it is not only in the war zone that blood plasma can save lives.

A recent letter, Nursing Sister Adeline Evans, of Wyevale, Ontario, now at the Royal Canadian Naval Hospital, St. John's Newfoundland, tells what a blessing the plasma was to the victims brought in from the tragic K.C.V. hostel fire. "Doctors, nurses, even doctors' wives, in fact everyone who could give blood volunteered," writes Adeline, in her interesting letter, tells how they worked all night, transfusing, cutting off clothes, finding beds for the unfortunate victims, and relieving suffering.

"Some were bad burns, mostly of the hands and face, some were smoke cases, and a few suffered from fractured spines, caused by jumping from upstairs windows, but so far we haven't lost one of the 52 casualties in our hospital."

Blood transfusions were life-saving and Adeline never imagined in much detail the need at one time. "If ever anyone asks me," she continues, "I'll give blood to a blood clinic believe me. I'll do it! We had 20 intravenous plasmas running continually for over a half days."

Nursing Sister Evans is a Wyevale girl well known throughout the district a 1941 graduate of public and high school, a University of Western Ontario, and is the daughter of Mrs. William Evans, No. 7 Highway, Warwick.

"There's only one thing wrong with me blonde, I'm color blind," "You shot must be, mistah!"

In trained manpower and weapons it held over all adversaries in 1940-41 but that is because of the rising might of those adversaries.

The annual meeting of the Addington Agricultural Society was held Tuesday evening with a splendid attendance. Preceding the meeting, a pot luck supper was enjoyed by about sixty members.

In the absence of the president, Horace Clancey, the meeting was held in Belleville. Mr. C. Hanna was vice-president. The financial statement showed that the Fair Board had had a most successful year in 1942, with a balance of $684.25. Encouraging reports were heard from the various committees. Messrs. Lockridge and R. Brown were appointed delegates to the Central Fairs Association Convention to be held in Belleville. Mr. C. Hanna was nominated as delegate to the Ontario Fair Association's convention to be held in Toronto, February 11 and 12.

Mr. C. Buchanan addressed the meeting setting forth many items of interest to the farmers. Mr. R. Long, president of the Lennox Fair Board and Mr. F. H. Henderson, Napanee, also spoke briefly.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The officers appointed were as follows:

President — C. Harna.
1st Vice-President—K. Lockridge.
2nd Vice-President—Fred Eell.
Sec.-Treas. — R. T. Brown.
Wator Drew was raised from Asso.-Director to the Directors' Board.

Another interesting feature took place at this time. Mr. E. Lochead, Newburgh, now an associate director of the society, but once an active worker in the interests of the Addington Fair, was presented with the Agricultural Service Diploma, by Mr. W. Bresuit. Mr. Bresuit recalled days when Mr. Lochead had been an active member and had given willingly of his time for the advancement of the Fair held in Centreville. Mr. Lochead expressed his appreciation to the Society, in a few well chosen words.

Following the business, progressive euchre was played. The winners were, ladies' first, Mrs. P. Byrnes; ladies' second, Mrs. Geo. McGill; gentlemen's first, Mr. W. S. Hawley; gentlemen's second, Mr. H. Milligan.

"God Save the King" brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

s There a Shoe Shortage...YES!

There is and will be a shoe shortage in some types of leather footwear for some time to come. With the Government taking 80% of the production of Men's Goodyear Welt Construction for military use, it is going to make a shortage in men's footwear.

There is also a shortage in women's and children's Goodyear Welt Construction, such as brogues and corrective types of footwear.

We ask our customers and the public NOT to buy unnecessarily the type of footwear as described above. Buying more than you need for the immediate future only tends to make an acute shortage later.

BUY ONLY WHAT YOU NEED FOR PRESENT REQUIREMENTS. BUT BUY WISELY.

For over fifty years we have supplied the people of this community with quality footwear. For a good fit and reliable satisfaction you can depend on ROBLIN'S. More than ever before it pays to buy the best.

Bay Pastoral Charge Reports Good Year

The quarterly meeting of the Official Board of the Bay Pastoral Charge was held at Bethany Church Tuesday evening, when representatives from four of the congregations were in attendance. The Rev. A. C. McCallum presided and conducted a brief devotional exercises. The Recording Steward, Mr. Jas. E. Roberts, son submitted the annual report, which showed a year of steady progress. The Rev. McCallum reported that during the year there had been six baptisms, nineteen marriages and eleven funerals. At this point the audience stood while the names were read and prayer offered. He also stated that special attention was given to the sick and shut-ins.

Four Sunday Schools were operated during the year with marked success. There are two missionary societies and five women's associations on the circuit. The givings to missions and other benevolences were on the increase. Mr. Stratton referred to the staff of workers in each congregation carrying forward the leadership and service and thanked all for their loyalty. The Church, he said, "can only prosper as we give ourselves diligently to our tasks."

Mr. Jas. E. Roberts was re-elected Secretary of the Official Board and Mr. Clare Beckmith to Presbytery as alternative.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Rev. A. C. McCallum for his services, and a unanimous invitation to continue his pastorate for the sixth year.

Upon adjournment the ladies of Bethany served lunch and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

Trinity Mission Circle Valentine Tea

Despite unfavorable weather conditions, the school room of Trinity United Church, was well filled last Wednesday afternoon for the Valentine Tea, sponsored by the members of Trinity Mission Circle, which has become an outstanding annual event.

The spacious school room was nicely decorated for the occasion with hearts, large and small, and the letters "TMC." formed of hearts, on one side of the room.

Upon entering the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Gordon Johnston, President of the Circle; Miss Sarah Shorey, Advisory President, and Mrs. George Switzer President of the W. M. S. and the wraps were taken by Miss Ruth Graham. Treasurer, assisted by Miss Cumi Fellows.

The tea table was very attractive with its lovely lace cloth and centre of red flowers flanked by red tapers and at either end the silver tea services. Several small tables were present in the room, each with a red candle in a silver holder, which added to the decorative effect.

Mrs. Douglas Mayhew, Mrs. Percy Asselstine, Mrs. Harry Mayhew and Mrs. (Dr.) Ross Mayhew poured tea during the afternoon, and the members of the Circle served.

There was a table of home-cooked food, home-made candies and fancy work, under the direction of Mrs. Ward Hodgston and Mrs. Chas. Mc-Donald, which was extremely well patronized.

During the afternoon two piano numbers were given by the Misses Letha Scott and Eleanor Mellow, which added greatly to the entertainment of the guests. Miss Harriet Hannah delighted those present with several solo numbers and Miss Hannah and Mrs. Frank Mills gave a vocal duet.

The Circle wishes to thank all those who helped in any way to make the event a success, and especially Mrs. Wm. Coates, who served in the kitchen and Mrs. Wm. Switzer, Mrs. Hawley Stover, who helped with the cooked food table.

The financial returns were very gratifying.

BELL TELEPHONE CO. 62ND REPORT

The effect of war on the telephone industry is clearly shown in the annual report of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, which was presented at the annual meeting of shareholders in Montreal.

Under the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations, the Bell Company has been required to defer certain expenditures which would otherwise have been made in the ordinary course of business. Accordingly, the amount of telephone plant under construction at the end of the year was $2,806,000, compared with $7,054,000 in 1941. As a result, the increase in telephone plant during 1942 was $14,000,000, compared with $21,641,000 during the previous year.

Service Standard High

In spite of the increasing demands upon the telephone industry, the service standard has been maintained at a high level. Despite the fact that the number of telephones in use increased during the year by 43,000, the average time required to get a long distance connection was 12 seconds faster than in 1941, and 90 per cent of all such connections were completed within the time specified in the telephone company's contract with the Board.

Staff and Material Shortages

The net increase of 1,433 men in the staff during the year is small by comparison with the 2,000 men who left the service. The company has been able to maintain its service only by the most intensive training of new employees and by the employment of substitutes of both sexes. The number of employees at the end of the year amounted to 6,456 — of the total 5,160 were

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

NUTRITION AND YOUR FOOD DOLLAR

Hello Homemakers! While we all want to practise economy in buying food, there is no need to sacrifice either health or the enjoyment of eating. But we should learn how to get the most nutrition value for our food dollar. So do remember the important items are milk, wholegrain cereals, vegetables and fruits in season and protein foods such as eggs, fish, meat and poultry. Rich desserts and puddings and foods are "non-essentials" — and moreover expensive. While tea and coffee are not rationed, it's good to know that tomato bouillon or milk contains more nutrition.

We think you'll be surprised how very little food is wasted now and then mounts up in a month. Waste of your money, too! If the grocer sends an apple with a spot on it, we notice it right away. But if we see a spot on a meat in our homes? Ons good way to prevent spoilage — and get better nutrition — is to make the most of foods while they are still fresh.

For example, everyone has special tricks with left-overs but now we need to be on the lookout for new ideas on how to use up our "bits and pieces" if we are to make full use of our food dollars.

TAKE A TIP :
Food Storage

1 Keep your eggs in the electric refrigerator or some other cold place, taking them out only as needed. Never wash eggs before storing as this destroys the "bloom" that keeps out air and odours. If soiled wipe with damp, dry cloth before putting away.

2 Wash poultry thoroughly inside and out, but never soak in water. Pat dry and store, loosely wrapped in wax paper. Keep chilled. Poultry liver, heart and giblets should not be stored before being cooked. You don't throw them away, do you? And chicken feet make real good broth — scald, skin and simmer in salted water.

3 Raw fish and meat need to be stored in the coldest unit of electric refrigerator or in the coldest place you have. Wipe off; do not wash.

4 Be extra careful of ground raw meat. It spoils rapidly. Keep it wrapped in wax paper." Because it is turns darker, colour is no sign of spoilage—aroma, sliminess or mould determine decayed product.

5 Cooked meats need special attention, too. Be sure to cover them before storing away. Do not chill or chop cooked meat until just before using — cut meat spoils more quickly.

RECIPES :

Bean and Sausage Casserole

One pound pork sausages, two cans baked beans, half-cup of finely grated onion.

Cut sausages into pieces about one inch long and cook until well browned. Combine with baked beans and grated onion. Place in casserole dish and heat thoroughly in electric oven at 350 degrees. Yield: six servings.

Supper Dish

Serve savoury tomatoes on toast. Simmer for ten minutes in electric element, one cupful of sieved canned tomatoes with half-cup water, two teaspoons minced parsley, one whole clove, one allspice berry and one peppercorn; the spices first bruised with a wooden spoon. While mixture is cooking, brown half small onion, chopped, in two tablespoons fat; add one and one-half tablespoons flour, seasoning all salt and pepper and one-quarter teaspoon dry mustard. Stir and cook until mixture comes to boiling point. Strain. Add half-cup grated cheese. When blended, add one quickly beaten egg, stirring rapidly until egg slightly coagulates mixture. Pour over four slices of toast. Serve with a garnish of parsley or celery.

THE QUESTION BOX

Miss B. asks: Menu and quantities of food for Mother and Daughter Banquet.

Answer: Details of menu have been mailed. Suggested Banquet Menu: Egg Noodle and Wiener Loaf, Buttered Potatoes, Boiled Carrots, Crisp Rolls, Apple Pie, Hot Tomato Bouillon or Hot Chocolate Milk.

Mrs. C. asks: "Why are apple pies soggy in the lower crust?"

Pastry requires a high temperature (425-450 deg.) for first ten minutes, then lowered to 350 for thirty minutes. The pastry should be well cooked and chilled quickly when taken from the oven.

ANNE ALLAN invites you to write to her in care of The Napanee Beaver. Send in your questions on cooking problems and watch this column for replies.

NAPANEE W. I.

The monthly meeting of the Napanee Women's Institute was held in the agricultural branch rooms, with a large attendance, and in the absence of the president, Mrs. James Haggerty, her duties were fulfilled by Mrs. E. I. Boyle, first vice-president, who took the business meeting. The meeting opened with the singing of the Ode, the Prayer for Peace and salute to the Flag. The treasurer, Mrs. Katherine Powell, gave an excellent report showing a substantial balance on the right side of the ledger. The quilt has just been completed by the members and tickets will be sold on it to raise funds. It was decided to have a euchre on Friday afternoon, February 26 and the conveners will be Mrs. Frank Hicks and Mrs. James Magee. It was also decided to devote the afternoon on the subject Nutrition at each meeting. Mrs. Alma Alkenbrack reported on the Girls' camp and it was decided to donate seeds for a girls' garden.

The Misses Mary Long, Marguerite Sacks and Jean MacGregor have signified their intentions to have a garden.

Mrs. Fred Richards was convener for the programme which was based on "Home Economics", and the programme opened with community singing which was followed by demonstrations on the "Making of Pancy Sachettes," by Mrs. Aubrey Pringle and Mrs. T. V. Anderson. An interesting paper on Home Economics was given by Mrs. F. Richards, who also conducted a quiz contest, True or False, at the close of the meeting.

The roll call was a Helpful Household Hint. Mrs. Albertine Powell and Mrs. E. I. Boyle voted the appreciation of everyone to Mrs. Fred Richards, for the excellence of the programme.

The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

NAPANEE W. C. T. U.

The January meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in Trinity Church, the president, Mrs. Wartman, in the chair. Mrs. Howitt was in charge of the devotional period and brought a most helpful New Year's message from 2nd Corinthians, 5th chapter, "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature."

In the minutes, read by the secretary, reference was made to the good work done by our Provincial Field Secretary, Miss Duff, during her visit in the counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward. In Napanee and surrounding county seven new L. T. L's were organized. Addresses were given in Napanee Collegiate Institute, also two public schools and in Newburgh High and Public Schools. Miss Duff addressed grand rallies in Belleville where she spoke to hundreds of children in the schools and Sunday School, and also addressed several groups of women. One encouraging feature of the year report, made by the Principals of some schools, for temperance literature to be placed on the tables in the reading rooms.

During the study period Miss L. Gaudry gave an interesting talk on the life of Letitia Yeomans Frances Willard, one of this talented woman's other interests, her intense desire for knowledge, her almost unlimited capacity for hard intellectual toil, her unwavering determination to devote herself to a realization of a high ideal of life, and her intense sympathy with sorrowing and suffering. All of these and much more to do with the marked success of her life work. Letitia Yeomans says that her interest in temperance was first aroused by one of her Public school teachers, but it was when visiting homes in connection with the Sunday school work that she was made to realize more clearly that intemperance was doing its deadly work.

Through this interest she started a Band of Hope, and later a W. C. T. U. in her second locality. From small beginnings she went on till she became a noted temperance speaker and worker, not only in Canada, where she became President and then Dominion President, W. C. T. U., but also in the United States and British.

Following this, Mrs. F. Hooper, our County Superintendent of Peace and International Relations, spoke to the Union, emphasizing the importance of appointing a local superintendent and Mrs. Symington was elected to fill that office.

The Travellers' Aid Department reported having had the opportunity of helping a young stranger girl stranded all night in our town. Friends from the county having failed to meet her, and without money herself, she was able, through the kindly co-operation of a lady in one of our restaurants, to get in touch with our Travellers' Aid. thus finding safe and comfortable entertainment for the night and conveyance to her friends in the morning.

This is just one of the ways in which our Travellers' Aid has proved a friend in need, to lone and inexperienced travellers passing through our town.

FOURTH LINE W. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Fourth Line W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. S. M. Heid, Tuesday, February 2nd, with a good attendance of members considering the exciting day.

The President, Mrs. J. E. Hagerman conducted the devotional period. Prayer was then read an excellent article prepared by Miss Mona Haggerman, entitled "Do not let your neighbour be in the place of your backbone." The roll call was answered by framing a famous man from the Old Testament and telling his outstanding part in the history of the Bible.

It was decided to carry on the group system this year and the conveners chosen were: Mrs. E. J. Wright, group No. 1, and Mrs. H. N. Reid, for group No. 2.

The programme was in charge of Mrs. Wright, and the subject was, "Temperance." A hymn opened this portion of the programme and the scripture was read by Mrs. S. M. Reid. Mrs. H. Hagerman led in prayer, Mrs. C. F. Dimpes gave a paper "Fresh Beginnings and a quiet" was told by Mrs. Wright, "Christ of the Andes." A short paper on "Encouragement" was given by Mrs. W. Close, and a reading "Believe" by Mrs. H. Hagerman. A duet by Mrs. Wright and Mrs. M. Haserman, Mrs. Jas. Robson and Mrs. B. Jackson, then a brief paper and bits of Indian philosophy were given by Mrs. Wright. A hymn and the benediction won by Mrs. Harvey Reid.

At this point Mrs. Jas. Robson was presented with a purse of money from the W. A. as a parting mark of appreciation for the splendid service she has rendered to the church. Mrs. Robson, in a few words, thanked the ladies and Mrs. Robson has moved to Kingston. She will be very much missed.

A social half-hour closed the meeting.

POLICY OUTLINED RE WAR SERVICE FARM WORKERS

The Director of National Selective Service has recently sent out to the chairmen of the thirteen Mobilization Boards across Canada, an explanatory statement in regard to farm workers, as it enters into the work of the Mobilization Boards. The letter was signed by the Director and approved by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour.

The eight-point programme outlined in Mr. MacNamara's communication, aims at securing uniformity of treatment before all the Boards in reference to the deferment from military duties of essential farm workers, while at the same time it is intended to give due weight to agriculture's need of manpower.

The letter and principles set forth for the guidance of the Mobilization Boards are as follows:

"All will agree that uniformity of method in dealing with various problems by each of the Mobilization Boards across Canada is very desirable.

"After conferring with the Manpower Committee of the Cabinet it has been decided that interpretative letters will be sent out from time to time indicating in some detail the policy in respect to the various phases of the National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations.

"This is the first of such letters which will be issued by the Labour Department. As you will observe it is numbered it is hoped that they will be helpful.

"The growing scarcity of agricultural labour makes it increasingly important that essential workers be encouraged in farming.

"In the following the regard to agriculture is briefly outlined:

"(1) An agricultural course, free to training service.

"(2) It is the intentions that every are to be retained employment. An article in a recent issue of a Toronto Daily paper describes a hockey match held somewhere in England between members of a Canadian Army Division and a Royal Canadian Engineer's Battalion, in which two former Napanee boys were players. The players are Walt. Gerow, Jr., and Joe Jocko, both of whom were well known in Napanee sports circles a few years ago, and played with Napanee hockey teams before going overseas.

Both boys played with the Royal Canadian Artillery team. The game resulted in a 5-5 draw. Gerow was one of the scorers.

Flt. Sgt. R. C. Sharpe, Deseronto, Now Pilot Officer

Veteran of many actions in the Battle of Britain over Libya and Egypt, Flight-Sergeant Wireless Air Gunner Robert Cavell Sharpe, Deseronto, has been given his commission with the rank of Pilot Officer. He received it in Canada and is posted at the Mountain View Air Station as an instructor.

The lure of the air force attracted P.O. Sharpe before war was declared and he joined the service early in 1939. He received his training at No. 1 Wireless School, Montreal, and later at Jarvis. He went overseas in December, 1940, being posted to No. 37 Bomber Squadron R.A.F. Transferred to the Egyptian theatre of operations he met several flights with his squadron over the desert and saw plenty of action with the Axis and in Mediterranean skies.

During the Egyptian and Libyan activities he visited Cairo, and Jerusalem as well as other centres of interest in that part of the world. He spent 11 months there.

P.O. Sharpe is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, Deseronto. He was born there and received his education in the Deseronto Public School and later the high school of that town.

Pilot Officer Sharpe is a former member of the 49th Field Battery, Napanee, in which he took training in 1937, 1938 and part of 1939.

SIGN COUPON SHEETS IN RATION BOOKS

As the case with Ration Book No. 1, no sheet of coupons contained in No. 2 book will be valid for the purchase of rationed articles unless it is fully completed in ink with the prefix, serial number and address of the holder, whose name must also appear on the stub.

The regional Ration Administrator, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, therefore urges all those issued with new ration books to make it their immediate business to complete the sheets of coupons which are to be cashed for rationed goods, so that they will not be put to the inconvenience of having to do so when they present their books for the purchase of such goods.

At the same time, those receiving new books are urged to write down and put away in a safe place the serial numbers of the books issued to them. This information will be needed to secure replacement in the event of the book being lost or stolen.

SPRING ASSIZE SUPREME COURT

Mr. Justice McFarlane presided last week at the Spring Assize of the Supreme Court at the Napanee Court House. There were no criminal cases, but several civil cases were disposed of by his Lordship.

A decree nisi was granted in the divorce action brought by Arthur Morgan (overseas) against Mary Buchanan Morgan.

In the notice of motion of Albert George Fraser (overseas) seeking a divorce from Mabel Gertrude Fraser, Napanee, an order was made allowing the action to be taken without the naming of a correspondent, (the correspondent to be named when proof of grounds is obtained).

In the action of Verdley vs. Blackwell, the decision of his Lordship was that unless a statement of claim against Dr. Blackwell, formerly of Deseronto, is delivered in ten days and the costs of the motion are paid, the case will be dismissed.

NAPANEE CITIZENS ASKED TO ENTERTAIN DESERONTO AIRPORT MEN

Camd to be Opened Will be First of its Kind in Canada

At the regular Tuesday luncheon of the Napanee Rotary Club, Flying Officer P. A. Blackshaw, of the Instrument Flying School at Deseronto, was the guest speaker.

Flying Officer Blackshaw gave a very instructive address on the training of air crew under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, in operation in Canada. The main part of his address concerned the new Instrument Flying School, the first of its kind, which will soon be opened at Deseronto. At present there are about 220 men at the camp, but soon this number will be greatly increased and will include men from all parts of Canada. The personnel of the camp will be chiefly Canadian but the senior officers will be men from the Royal Air Force who have had great experience and are highly qualified for their positions.

The speaker stressed the isolated position of the new camp, which is situated only a short distance west of Deseronto, he said the camp has no restaurant, no theatre and provides practically no means of entertainment for the men or the camp. When the day's work is done, and when the men have 48 hours' leave at week ends, they have absolutely nothing to do. Many of them are hundreds of miles away from their homes and transportation facilities to nearby towns are extremely bad. The officer said that Napanee was the nearest town of any size to the camp and that the men would look upon it as their entertainment centre. He made an urgent appeal for organized attempts to entertain the men at the camp and commended the Red Cross Merchants' Association for having started efforts to obtain information, housing accommodation and entertainment for the flyers. He also suggested that committees might be formed in the town to arrange for sports and dances and arrange the churches should make some effort to entertain the men.

The speaker ended by asking for a representative organization which would arrange for entertainment during the week-ends for the personnel of the camp.

Discussion followed the Flying Officer's address and the Club expressed a willingness to co-operate with other town organizations. It was generally agreed that the plan for organization be left with the Retail Merchants' Association.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT TRINITY CHURCH FOR P.O. DONALD REID

A very impressive memorial service was held on Sunday evening last, for Pilot Officer Donald Reid, who was killed in England, on February 13th. The service was held in Trinity Church and was conducted by Rev. C. D. McLellan, minister of Grace United Church, of which P.O. Reid was a member. Rev. G. M. Chidley assisted in the service.

Mr. McLellan in speaking of the late Pilot Officer, referred to his home and school life, all of which was spent in Napanee, and of the high place he held in the hearts of those who knew him. He spoke also of his enlistment and of his transfer to the Operational Branch of the R.C.A.F. after training, ending in his being commissioned as a Pilot Officer, and going overseas last November. Mr. McLellan referred to the young officer's sense of duty and fine sterling character. In a few moving words he expressed the sympathy of the congregation and community to the sorrowing parents, in the loss of their only son.

Rev. G. M. Chidley also spoke briefly on behalf of Trinity congregation and extended sympathy to the stricken parents, grandparents and other relatives.

A large congregation filling Trinity Church was present for the service. The platform was beautifully decorated with cut flowers.

The pupils, relatives and friends occupied seats at the front of the church.

Preceding the service, Miss Letha Scott played several numbers on the organ, which were suitable for the occasion.

The choir, during the service, sang an anthem arrangement of "O God our Help in Ages Past," and the hymns sung were "The Recessional," and "For all the Saints who from their Labor Rest."

A plea on his behalf was made in police court by Bruce Finlay of the Strathcona Paper Co. on the grounds that Eberle was a skilled mechanic and necessary to the operation of the plant.

REPORT WAS GIVEN CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S WORK AT ROTARY

Interesting Review of Several Cases Given by W. K. Huston

Mr. W. K. Huston, chairman of the Rotary Crippled Children's Committee, gave a report of the work done by the committee since September, 1940, at the regular Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Club, this week.

The total number of children who received attention during the period was sixty-six. In every case the attention given will be of permanent benefit to the child in future years and in some cases will prevent the child from becoming a public charge.

Mr. Huston's report cited several outstanding cases where the child concerned would have been a hopeless cripple without the aid of the Rotary Club. Among the cases were: A boy under the care of the Club for eight years, who had absolutely no control of his legs. Now with the help of braces he is able to walk. A girl who would have become blind without attention, which the parents could not afford; a girl who would have had a stiff jaw as a result of an infection, but who broke her jaw, a fall in which she broke her jaw bone in the socket, now a complete cure after proper attention; a girl crippled by infantile paralysis, who is making steady progress; several cases of congenital hip trouble, who have been cured; a boy with club foot, which has been restored to normal.

Mr. Huston said that as a result of the work done for crippled children by the Club in the past years, many of the cases had been entirely cleared up and at present the club will need to do only some other kind of work in addition to the work with crippled children, in order to provide sufficient activity for members.

The financial statement showed the amount raised from 1940 to January 31, 1943, was $6,745.45. The expenditure for crippled children was $4,968.01, purposes, $2,315; balance on hand $1,879.44.

ALLIES SUFFER SETBACK IN TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN AT HANDS OF ROMMEL

Russian Successes Continue Along Whole Front

WEDNESDAY —

The Germans were driven from Kharkov, their most powerful base in South Russia, on Tuesday. The withdrawal from Kharkov was the great defeat of the Nazis so far in the war. Their whole forces in the area east of the Dnieper were endangered by the fall of Kharkov.

After allowing the Nazis to break through their lines to a depth of 20 miles in Tunisia, United States forces rallied and drove Rommel's forces back six miles. . . .

During the evacuation by the Japs of Guadalcanal, losses in naval power were suffered by both Japs and the United States. The U. S. lost one cruiser, a destroyer and 22 planes. But the Japs lost two destroyers, one sunk, and six damaged, two freighters damaged and 61 planes destroyed.

THURSDAY—

The Russians made another spectacular drive on Wednesday and captured a railroad junction 30 miles west of Kharkov, leaving the Nazis only one railway line of escape, Orel, the last stronghold in South Russia, was said to be in line for capture by the Russians. . . .

United States forces in Tunisia met with a serious reverse at the hands of Rommel's seasoned troops. The Nazis made another advance on Wednesday, which gave them a drive forward of 25 miles. Britishers made further north, were said to be in peril as a result of the Nazi advance. Hope of retrieving the situation was still possible since the British Eighth Army was moving swiftly on the Mareth Line. . . .

The Japanese were reported to have landed a large force on China's far southern coast evidently in preparation for extensive operations in the Province of Kwantung."

FRIDAY—

The Red Army was reported to be closing in on Orel from four sides, with the nearest forces being only 30 miles from the city. New advances were also made west of Kharkov. The Russians advanced swiftly from the north and cut the only railway line running west from Rostov.

In four days, the Germans occupied about 4,000 square miles in Central Tunisia after driving Dutch and British forces into the mountains. The British Eighth Army partois were keeping in touch with the Nazis on the approaches to the Mareth Line. . . .

The Japanese launched seven offensives against China, in widely separated areas, apparently in hope of knocking China out of the war as quickly as possible. . . .

SATURDAY—

The Russians recaptured Gheaan and by taking it drove out the Germans from the Kursk-Kharkov railway. In the same area another advance was made to 25 miles west of Kharkov. . . .

In the American defeat in Central Tunisia there were heavy losses, of men and equipment. The battle Allied line was established in the Mountains near the Algerian frontier. . . .

All the new Japanese offensives in Central, Southern and Southwestern China were reported to have been slowed down or thrown into retreat. . . .

Wilhelmshaven, German naval base and chief shipbuilding port, was heavily smashed again on Thursday night for the third time. . . .

MONDAY—

Along the whole 500-mile front from Orel to Krasnodar, the Russians made gains. Kharkov presently is less than 100 miles distant. The Germans and Soviet troops were storming into the Donetz-Dnieper bend. Pultava Province. The Russians recaptured the major rail junctions of Pavlograd and Krasnograd which indicated that Soviet troops had crossed from the Don-Donetz basin and to the Dnieper basin along which the Germans are rushed to stem the Russian advance. . . .

The position of the Allies in Central Tunisia became much more secure during the week end when Rommel drove through the defense lines and captured El Guettar Gap in the Mountains twelve miles from the Tunisian border. The southern end Tunisian battle line British Eighth Army captured Medenine and reached a gap near Mareth between that town and the Mareth Line. . . .

The British hammered the Japs from the air in wide areas of Burma on Saturday. . . .

TUESDAY —

The situation of the Allies in Tunisia was conceded to be serious. Rommel's forces were reported to have almost reached the United States base at Tebessa and were within 30 miles of the vital junction of Thala. Unless Allied forces are to be trapped they need to act quickly to encircle the Axis forces. From reports, it appeared that too few United States soldiers had been left to face Rommel's forces. . . .

Furious fighting continued in Russia, especially in the Orel sector and several advances were made on the whole 500-mile front. . . .

Although the Japs have been reinforced in their drives against China, the Chinese continued to repulse the Jap attacks. . . .

Premier Stalin announced that in the past three months the Russians have killed 700,000 Nazis and taken 500,000 prisoners.

New Ration Books Valid on Saturdays Instead of Mondays

Residents of rural areas and others who are in the habit of doing their weekly shopping on Saturdays will kindly take notice that the dates printed on the reverse of the sugar and tea or coffee coupons are invariably those of a Saturday, whereas the coupons in the other books always fell due on a Monday.

The change has been made in response to the fact that a majority of Canadians are probably accustomed to do their shopping on Saturdays this being particularly true of rural residents who come to town on that day in order to attend public markets and also to do their own purchasing. To many of these, Monday dating of ration coupons proved to be a marked inconvenience. Hence the change which is now going into effect.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Twenty-five years ago Russia was in a state of chaos. The nation had concluded a dishonorable peace. She was fighting on three fronts: her industries, what there were left of them, were in a state of utter collapse. Food was scarce, clothing was scarce and of a poor quality; shoes were a luxury. Agriculture was shot to pieces. The whole social and economic fabric of the nation's life lay in rags and tatters.

Then began an amazing programme embodied in a series of five-year plans. From the bottom up, the leaders — a group of idealists and impractical dreamers — began to build. For the first time in history, the common people took matters in their own hands and set out to build a socialist state. The opposition to their exeriment, on the part of other nations, was almost universal. Never has there been such a campaign of misrepresentation as marked the past two decades of Russia's experiment with Socialism. Politicians, entrenched money interests, newspapers, organs of publicity and opinion, seemed to have conspired together to frighten the whole world with a threat of Bolshevism.

And then came the war. Over night Russia was attacked. Their land was overrun, their towns and cities despoiled; their people ruthlessly attacked. For the first time, the German armies met a nation which was as enthusiastic, and as fanatically zealous for its own cause. The Russians burned everything as they retired—crops, buildings, water power stations, electrical development schemes—everything was laid waste. The Germans found only scorched earth when they pursued the Russians. And all the time, somewhere behind the lines, plans for a counter-attack were being worked out. New factories were coming into production, a thousand miles from the scene of battle. Hundreds of thousands of reserves were being trained. Then they hit, and in their winter campaign they have outwitted the German High Command. They have shown themselves masters of strategy, and unrelenting warriors. Bit by bit they have recovered all the territory which the Germans captured in the 1942 campaign. They are still driving the Germans back, back to a new line of defense If perchance the Hitlerites will get time to establish one.

In the United Nations the change in public opinion has been phenomenal. Great Britain and the United States and Canada have strained every nerve in the effort to keep Russia supplied with munitions of war. The organs of public opinion and of news are vieing with each other in their praise of the Red Army. During the week-end when the 25th anniversary of the U.S.S.R. and practically the whole British Cabinet was on the platform, praising Russia and promising closest co-operation in the post war era.

In all this the thing which has to be remembered and which did not find a very large place in the reported addresses of those who conveyed their greetings to Russia, is that the success of the Russian armies is due fundamentally to their faith in their new way of life. The Russians are sure that they have something to fight for. They have a new order of society, a new deal for every man, woman and child. They will defend that to the death. This prowess in battle this mastery in strategy, this endurance, this skill in the use of arms, is not something which was learned since the war broke out. They were developed in the days of peace.

And yet, they might have had all these, and had the spirit been lacking they would have followed the way of France. But Russia has the spirit, the U.S.S.R. has the will to conquer. That spirit was born, nurtured and matured in the collective farms, in the state-owned factories and in all the cultural and social achievements in which, for the first time in their long, long history, the common people in Russia have had an opportunity to share. In congratulating the Russians on their success in arms as we do, we congratulate them, too, on their achievements in the realm of social progress, which gave them such faith and confidence in themselves, and such a way of life to defend, that they will die rather than have them threatened by any invader.

MISS . . .

"Miss United Nations" is in Toronto. She is being given a three days' run around by all the various things and thats, of which a cosmopolitan city has plenty. We have had a plethora of these ladies, of recent years. A Miss Napanee, a Miss Toronto, a Miss Canada, and now, a Miss United Nations. We sometimes wonder where it will all end. Some day we may have a Miss World and a Mias Universe. Then we will be in diffieulties and may have to look for new fields of competition. In that event we would suggest a contest for a Miss Take, a Miss Chief, a Miss Trust, or a Miss Fit.

MR. KING AND PARTIES

Prime Minister King has been giving some sound advice to the nation on the question of political parties. Mr. King sees in the trend towards multiplying the number of political parties in the country, a distinct danger to the conduct of the nation's business. Mr. King points out that the increase in the number of parties each of which represents some special interest or group, will breed disunity in the nation, and tend to make more difficult a programme of national concern.

There is a great deal of truth in this. Theoretically the two-party system is the best that has been devised. But the tendency, nearly always, is towards an ultra-conservatism on the part of one of these and a conservatism only one degree different on the part of the other. In Canada the Opposition has never been more than an opposition, at least not in recent years. It conceived of its function as opposing the government programme. Seldom has there been a real constructive platform fought for, and pressed for, in rain or shine, by the party in opposition. It was simply a case of one party in and the other trying to get in. Both become cautious and stand pat in their attack on the national problems. There never would have been a C. C. F. had the party in opposition sensed the need of the day and planned its line of action accordingly.

The difficulty arises when the tendency to increase new parties grows around sectional or class interests. Then the situation becomes so bad that government of the nation becomes all but impossible. We were in Germany in 1927. At that time a real effort was being made to have the Democratic form of government operate. But there were then seventeen different parties in the House. There were five general elections in one year. That sort of thing makes a farce of the Democratic method. At any time, a group of disgruntled or self-seeking group leaders may combine to upset the government. It is this development that the Prime Minister fears, though the case he cited was that of France. In France conditions similar to those which existed in the days of the attempted democracy in Germany, prevailed. Naturally it was difficult to get unanimity of opinion, and concerted action.

The solution for the problem is perhaps in sight. The Progressive-Conservative Party has drawn up a forthright plan of action. They sense the signs of the times. They have their programme and their affirmations. If now, they campaign for these, if they never lose sight of them, but day in and day out in the speeches by all the members, emphasize the principles they stand for, they will go a long way towards making unnecessary any more parties. If the disastrous trend to a multiplicity of small parties is to be halted, this is the only way it can be done.

AT IT AGAIN

Hon. M. F. Hepburn has been at it again He seemingly has to have a periodic outburst against the Federal Government, or he cannot live. This time, however, he did not quite get away with it, for one of his own party, Hon. Eric Cross, publicly took the former premier to task for his extravagant attack on the Dominion Government. The phrase which seemed to anger the former minister in Mr. Hepburn's cabinet was that the members of the Dominion Government were without honor and were despoilers. The point which Mr. Hepburn raised was over taxation. He claimed that the Provincial Government would have a deficit and that the deficit was the result of the Ottawa incursion into the Provincial taxation field. The Provincial Treasurer instanced two items in which the losses occurred — the liquor traffic and automobile licenses.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Finance Minister, lost no time in answering Mr. Hepburn's charges. He pointed out that the war has made Dominion financing extremely difficult. The deficit on this year's operations will be $2,000,000,000 while Ontario, last year, had a surplus of $15,000,000. Mr. Ilsley pointed out that Ontario's ordinary revenue had increased by $23,000,000 during the first two years of the war. And the revenue from liquor taxes, Mr. Ilsley said, in Ontario was about $8,000,000 more in 1942 than had been budgeted for.

Mr. Hepburn does not seem to have much cause for complaint. The difficulty so far as the liquor situation is concerned lies in the way the Ontario Government tried to shift its responsibility for control of the sales and distribution of alcoholic beverages. The Provincial Government assumed that it had the right to regulate this traffic. With that Mr. Isley agreed. But the phenomenal increase in the sale of liquor, with all its attendant evils, roused public opinion and the people began to demand some restriction on the trade. But Mr. Conant, in his first speech as Premier of Ontario, said "The question of curtailment in the quantity of liquor or the bonus of sale is a matter over which the Dominion Government may exercise jurisdiction in a war emergency. If, as a war measure, they find it necessary to curtail quantities, as a result of sale, all jurisdictions involved will have to accept it as part of our war programme."

Well, when the Provincial Government took this attitude and threw the responsibility on the Dominion Government, it seems strange indeed, that the Provincial Treasurer should blame the Government for exercising that authority. The decent, and patriotic thing for the Provincial Government to have done under the circumstances would have been to accept gracefully the loss of revenue, particularly in view of the way in which the revenue in the provincial area has grown during the past two years.

After all, we are at war. We are fighting for our lives. It does seem strange that under those circumstances there should be such bickering and sniping at the Dominion Government. Surley Provincial-Dominion co-operation in an all-out effort against the common enemy should override all other considerations.

OTTAWA GIVES DETAILS ON GAS RATIONS

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Details of the new gasoline rationing plan for commercial vehicles were announced by the Munitions Department, last week.

Under the new system, effective April 1st, only such essential commercial vehicles as fire apparatus, public utility trucks and bogging trucks, will be allowed gasoline on the same basis as under the old plan. Bread, milk, coal and other retail delivery trucks will be limited to a ration not exceeding 248 to 748 units per year under present; regulations each unit has a value of three gallons depending on the weight of the empty vehicle. Ambulances, buses, taxis and drive-yourself cars will be granted only enough to drive the mileage authorized from time to time by the transit controller.

Commercial motorcycles will not be permitted in excess of 85 units per year, and all other commercial vehicles, including motor vans, wholesale delivery trucks, and newspaper trucks, will be limited to from 584 and 1,752 units per year, depending on weight of the empty vehicle.

TWO CLASSES

The 230,000 commercial vehicles in Canada will be divided into two classes, transit and services. In the "transit" class will be included taxis, ambulances, buses and drive-yourself cars. The "services" class will cover all other commercial vehicles, sub-divided into four categories: "general commercial", "Limited commercial," "commercial motorcycles," and "other commercial."

When gasoline fationing became effective in Canada, April 1st, 1942, all types of commercial vehicles were entitled to as much gasoline as was needed, subject to an official check on the amount used.

In the "commercial" category were included farm trucks, truck tractors, commercial motorcycles, ambulances, buses, taxicabs, drive-yourself cars, funeral cars, official vehicles of Dominion, provincial, county and municipal governments, and vehicles owned or operated under the Combined (Air) Training programme.

In general the categorization and allowances will be:

Transit class — Applicants must first obtai na permit from the transit controller. In this class will be included ambulances, buses, livery cars, taxis and drive-yourself cars. Each such vehicle or class of vehicle will be allowed only enough gasoline to perform the mileage authorized from time to time by the transit controller.

Services class — From time to time the services administrator of the Prices Board may add other classes to the list of vehicles in the services class, and may determine how much gasoline each vehicle or class of vehicle so added may be allowed.

COMMERCIAL CLASS

General commercial category — Upon proof of necessity, owners of the following types of vehicles in the general commercial category will be allowed gasoline to the extent of their normal requirements, based on previous mileage performance.

Fire trucks and other commercial vehicles of Dominion, provincial, municipal and county governments. Passenger-type vehicles are not included in this section. Extra gasoline consumption can be provided for within a non-commercial category.

Police motorcycles and other motorcycles used exclusively in Dominion, provincial, municipal, county government services. Common carriers operated exclusively for hire by the public, and not as contract carriers. Such common carriers must not operate beyond 25 miles from the limits of the community where they are regularly stationed.

A Munitions Department spokesman said common carriers are transport trucks and the 35-mile stipulation was designed to exclude from this section local truckers, such as those operating entirely within a city. This section covers a trucking service, operating regularly over a scheduled route which takes it more than 25 miles from its point of operation. Moving vans, which operate as contract carriers, are excluded.

QUOTA SET

Limited commercial category — Upon proof of necessity, owners of vehicles in the commercial category will be allowed gasoline up to the following maxima or less:

Weight of Empty vehicle	Units per year
Up to 2,250 lbs.	248
Up to 4,000 lbs.	360
Up to 4,500 lbs.	376
Up to 5,000 lbs.	392
Up to 6,000 lbs.	440
Up to 8,000 lbs.	560
Up to 10,000 lbs.	600
Over 10,000 lbs.	748

Owners of the following types of vehicles will qualify for inclusion with the limited commercial category; because trucks engaged in delivery of goods or services to ultimate consumer; trucks engaged in collection and transportation of salvage materials, hides and wool, excluding those used exclusively in the collection of fats, bones, grease and related products, and the transportation of cans of all kinds; trucks engaged in the transportation of farm produce and live stock from the producers, excluding trucks primarily engaged in the collection and transportation of milk and cream.

Commercial motorcycle category — In the general motorcycle category will be included only those motorcycles used solely for commercial purposes. The annual allowance will be fixed for each individual case, and will not exceed 85 units.

OTHER QUOTAS

Other commercial category — all commercial vehicles, such as moving vans and wholesale delivery trucks, which do not come within any other commercial category, may be included in this holder's category if the requirements for each vehicle must be proved, and each vehicle may receive less, but will not receive more than the following maximas:

Weight of Empty vehicle	Per Year Units
Up to 2,250 lbs.	584
Up to 4,000 lbs.	700
Up to 4,500 lbs.	776
Up to 5,000 lbs.	876
Up to 6,000 lbs.	996
Up to 8,000 lbs.	1,168
Up to 10,000 lbs.	1,400
Over 10,000 lbs.	1,752

Counsel was cross - examining a farmer.

"Now," he said, "don't quibble. Do you understand a simple problem or not?"

"I do," replied the witness.

"Then tell the court this: If fifteen men ploughed a field in five days, how long would it take two men to plough the same field?"

"They couldn't do it."

"Why not?"

"Because the fifteen have already ploughed it."

Special Consideration For Farm Trucks For Gasoline Ration

Ottawa—Gasoline for farm trucks will be rationed, but a farmer who has such a truck will be given no extra allowance for his passenger car according to his general individual needs, the Munitions and Supply Department has announced.

Under a new rationing system, which, becomes effective on April 1, every non-commercial vehicle will be granted a basic category "AA" ration book containing 40 coupons, which will permit each such vehicle, on the basis of 18 miles to the gallon, and the present unit value, a basic 2,160 miles of driving between April 1943, and March 31, 1944.

Those who are eligible and can prove their need of a preferred category will be allotted a fixed number of extra coupons for their vocational needs during the year ending March 31, 1944. These extra coupons will come in books labelled "Special" which will contain a maximum of 40 coupons each. Only one such "Special" book, or portion of a book, will be issued at a time, and hence the case history of each preferred category owner will be under constant review by the Regional Oil Control Office where the extra allowance was obtained.

In the preferred categories as under the old system, will come such automobile owners as police, farmers without trucks, rural undertakers, certain doctors and some others whose needs are essential in a country at war.

The new system, unlike that of last year, will call for strict rationing of all commercial vehicles, including farm trucks, within two classes. The first, "Transit" will cover ambulances, buses, taxis and drive-yourself cars. The second, "Services" will be sub-divided into four categories: "General Commercial," "Limited Commercial," "Commercial Motorcycle," and "Other Commercial."

Under this rationing of commercial vehicles, the owner will have his allowance pared down to bare essential needs, and then if it is necessary to eliminate unnecessary trips, drive slowly, and in every other way conserve gasoline.

Farm trucks, will be classed as "Limited Commercial" and will be allowed no more, and perhaps less, than 124 to 748 units per year, according to the weight of the vehicle when empty and the proved requirements of the owner.

The new plan will make it unnecessary for the preferred category applicant to decide what category he may expect to receive; instead he will fill out either a "Commercial" or a "Special" form, and will be granted whatever allowance may be justified.

To obtain his Category "AA" book the motor vehicle owner will secure an application form from his nearest Post Office. He will submit this form, together with a registration fee of $1 and his 1943 vehicle licence plates, who will issue the "AA" book.

The owner of a passenger vehicle (other than a commercial motorcycle), bus, taxicab, or drive-yourself car) who is eligible by reason of occupation to apply for a preferred category will proceed as follows:

1 From his nearest Post Office he will obtain application forms for both Category "AA" and the preferred category.

2 He will secure his 1943 motor vehicle licence plates.

3 He will obtain his category "AA" ration book from the Licence Plate Issuer.

4 After it is properly completed he will mail his preferred category application form to the regional Oil Control Office, together with his motor vehicle permit. Commercial motorcycles, buses, taxicabs, and drive-yourself cars, as all types of trucks, will be dealt as commercial vehicles.

HIGHER BUTTER RATION HINTED; MEAT ON LIST

CLOTHES AND CANNED GOODS MAY ESCAPE, HOWEVER

Ottawa. — The allotment in respect of rationing was decided in official quarters, in discussing a final decision yet to be reached on the butter situation. The question of, for, but no or the amount rationing; universality with regard to clothing, but no restrictions unless there is a substantial drop in production, canned goods.

What is thought likely are restrictions of meat in Canada, while assurance is given that the United States population will not have as bad, though severe, a meat position as Canada. Increased purchasing power and the condition may be given as the reason assigned for the difference between the United States in their purchases and United Nations. Any such policy will be held to be necessary by her.

GENEROUS RATIONS LIKELY

When the rationing of meat is about— officials say the decision yet — there is expected to expect "generous" allowances of — eggs, ducks, geese or chickens will not be subject to restriction, unless there is a substantial drop in production. On February 1st, the standard ration was 2,000,000 lbs. per week. New Year. This is the most recent figure available. In March, unless the situation keeps up, production will be even more rapidly. In this month the situation will be particularly bad. April the half a pound ration per person per week will go to 8 ounces. There is no shortage in the manufacture of margarine for general reasons — the supply is small demand, the opposition of dairy interests, on the ground that margarine is a substitute for butter. It is expected that vegetable oil will be used on this continent are on a basis with Canada's quota, indeed may the unavailability of machinery for manufacture.

TEXTILE POSITION FAIR

The authorities have been looking into the situation regarding clothing and find that the situation is not bad. Rationing, if imposed, would be for the purpose of the trade generally and that is thought, may lead to curtailment in the variety of styles now on the look. However, unless there is a substantial increase in production the rationing of clothing is not likely. The boot and shoe position is described as "really good."

It is agreed not to do anything about restricting the production of goods as in the United States canned vegetable crop is expected to be normal but canned fruit will be quite so plentiful.

Lesson Text: John 11: 20-29, 32-34, 38-41.
"JESUS RESTORES LAZARUS TO LIFE"

There are some miracles of Jesus which can be explained on psychological grounds; the influence of mind upon mind. But not this miracle. Here we are face to face with the question of Christ's power. There are three ways of approaching it. We may accept the record better perfect. we may deny it, or else we may interpret the account in a spiritual way.

There are those who have no doubts, no questionings ,no misgivings. The record is letter perfect. Jesus raised from physical death a man who had been four days dead and whose body had begun to decompose. To even suggest that the account may have been a parable, or that Lazarus might not really have been dead but suffering some affliction would be to destroy their faith completely. For such faith in Jesus rests absolutely on his wonder working powers.

Then there are those who will have nothing to do with it. There are those who believe that no person, even Jesus Himself, could perform a miracle of such a character. The very fact they cannot accept the record as it stands does not necessarily make Jesus less Divine or prevent them from accepting Him as Saviour and Lord. They base their faith in Christ on other grounds than that of His ability to overrule the forces of nature.

Then there are those who believe that the account of Jesus raising Lazarus from the dead is to be taken as a symbolic or spiritual fashion. They argue that Jesus was speaking of the dead, but that all His appearances were of a spiritual nature. He came and went in a supernatural manner. Likewise the raising of Lazarus is to be taken in such a fashion. Here again, those who accept this view are not deterred by it from a faith in Jesus as Divine, and as Saviour and Lord.

Perhaps it is better so, perhaps it is better that people of different temperaments, different degrees of intellectual and emotional endowment should find in Jesus that which satisfies their own need. If we cannot accept the miracle as physically possible, we might not these belittle the faith of those who believe. If we cannot accept those who think of the raising of Lazarus as a spiritual resurrection, we may find that it contains challenge to the honesty of their convictions, to the integrity of their faith.

The important principle which underlies this whole incident is the permanence of life. Jesus said by Jesus, that life is one that is eternal. It is one of the characteristics of our time that we hear sermons on eternal life, at funerals. And yet it is true that in many ways basic to our whole way of civilization. For if we did not in a like cases we live and die, and pass into everlasting nothingness then there is little to live for just as well, under those circumstances, live for self. For if Jesus was absolutely on this wonder working powers.

Then there are those who will have nothing to do with it. There are those who believe that no person, even Jesus Himself, could perform a miracle of such a character. The very fact they cannot accept the record as it stands does not necessarily make Jesus less Divine or prevent them from accepting Him as Saviour and Lord. They base their faith in Christ on other grounds than that of His ability to overrule the forces of nature.

Then there are those who believe that the account of Jesus raising Lazarus from the dead is to be taken as a symbolic or spiritual fashion. They argue that Jesus was speaking of the dead, but that all His appearances were of a spiritual nature. He came and went in a supernatural manner. Likewise the raising of Lazarus is to be taken in such a fashion. Here again, those who accept this view are not deterred by it from a faith in Jesus as Divine, and as Saviour and Lord.

Perhaps it is better so, perhaps it is better that people of different temperaments, different degrees of intellectual and emotional endowment should find in Jesus that which satisfies their own need. If we cannot accept the miracle as physically

RAISE BETTER CALVES AT LOWER COST

Indisputable tests show that, by feeding calves "Miracle" Calf Meal, and selling the milk they would otherwise need, there is an actual feed saving. The milk brings more than the feed cost. And when calves are fed on "Miracle" Calf Meal they are free of rickets, grow stronger and faster. "Miracle" Calf Meal shortens the time when calves will pay their own way as milkers. And this feed in the dotted bags starts them on the way to higher milk production.

TAMWORTH

W. M. S. Meeting

Tamworth, Feb. 16. — The regular meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Ferguson, with a good attendance. The President, Mrs. S. Haggerty, conducted the meeting. Mrs. O. Clarke and Mrs. S. C. Moss had charge of the study for the month.

Mrs. J. Donevan read a tribute to the late Dr. Kilborn. A very interesting letter from Mr. Williamson, a soldier from our township, now overseas, was read. The society sent him a card at Christmas, and his letter expressed great appreciation of having been remembered.

A resolution to the effect that each member would adopt one of the boys now overseas for the duration, and, in some way, either by writing or sending something, remember him occasionally, was carried.

Mrs. Moss closed the meeting with prayer.

Personals

Miss Dorothy Paul, of Switzerville, visited her sister, Miss Phyllis Paul, recently. Miss Paul is in munition work at Sorel, Que., but has been home recuperating from an appendix operation.

Mrs. Max Miles, of Ottawa, spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Hannah.

Mr. Mike Hopkins visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hopkins, owing to his father's illness.

Miss Nellie Close is in Ottawa visiting her niece, Miss Grace Stinson, of the Civil Service staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brenche visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Courneya, during the past week. Mr. Brenche has recently returned from overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Carscallen and family, of Kingston, spent the week end in the village. Mrs. Carscallen's mother, Mrs. G. H. Richardson, returned to Kingston with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leggett spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. F. Bell.

The weight of snow and ice caused the roof of the storehouse adjoining Mr. F. Bell's store, to collapse. Mr. Bell, who was in the building, and Mr. G. Spratt, who was on the roof at the time, both escaped injury. Very little damage was done to the merchandise after the snow and ice was cleared away.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Brown have returned from Guelph, where they were called owing to the illness of Mrs. Brown's brother.

Miss Lois Campbell, of the Napanee Public School staff, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. S. Sedore.

The severe cold and drifted roads made motoring very difficult during the week. The severity of the winter has depleted the store of fuel of many around the village. Farmers cannot get into their woods because of the deep snow, thus the fuel situation is serious.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Glenn upon the birth of a baby boy on February 16th. Henceforth there will be a double birthday celebration in the Glenn home, as baby arrived on his mother's birthday. This baby has a great grandmother, Mrs. G. H. Richardson, and a great grandfather, i.e., Mr. Joseph Huffman, to bid him welcome.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Jas. Wheeler and Miss J. Doil, who both have had long illnesses, are much improved.

Your RED CROSS CALLS TO YOU

Never has the need been so urgent

YOUR RED CROSS appeals to you for funds to carry on its program of mercy; to continue vital war work performed by no other organization. Never has the need been so urgent.

Helping to keep up the morale of half-a-million fighting men is a gigantic task, and that is only the beginning. The Red Cross makes life more bearable for thousands of prisoners of war. Over 2,000,000 parcels were shipped to them last year—more than this number must go in 1943. Our men in British and Canadian hospitals need Red Cross comforts and heartening visits from the staff of Red Cross "visitors".

Red Cross help to ship wrecked sailors is essential, thoughtfully, immediate. Homeless war orphans—our own kin and those of our allies—sick and starving men and women in many lands—our allies—Russia, Greece and China and other peoples of the millions in Russia, Greece and China and other peoples of the United Nations—need more food, medicine and comforts from the Red Cross.

The need is world-wide; this year the cost will be greater than ever. The work must go on. Obey the dictates of your heart, open wide your purse and be generous. Remember, you are the Red Cross

CANADA IN BRITAIN

BY DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's No. 1 man in London is Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, but around Canada House they know him as "the old man."

Probably, in his quiet way, he's aware of this informal reference to himself and has said nothing. For he knows, as do his staff, that it's an affectionate term to be expected from a group of men and women whom he himself describes as "a big family."

For more than seven years Mr. Massey has served Canada as High Commissioner in Great Britain. During that period he has won the friendship and esteem, not only of his own staff, but of all who have got to know him from the lowest to highest ranks of state and office.

It is said of Mr. Massey that he is on closer terms with more senior Government officials in Britain than any other members of the diplomatic corps, and just one example of his intimate acquaintance with the men with whom he deals will serve to indicate the truth of this statement. When Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, Canadian chief of general staff, was visiting this country, Mr. Massey asked him whom he would like to meet. "Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden," Gen. Stuart suggested. That same evening Gen. Stuart dined with Mr. and Mrs. Eden at Mr. Massey's Hotel.

While few people realize," Mr. Massey said during an interview, "is that the course of diplomatic functions is not all formality. Personal contact plays a far greater part in my work here than formal documents."

Of course," he said, "we follow everything up in writing, but our contacts are between persons and persons."

Official Canadian visitors to this country have often expressed amazement after the informal private luncheon which the High Commissioner tenders them at the distinguished list of guests. For Mr. Massey counts as his personal friends most of Britain's Cabinet Ministers and many of the leaders.

It doesn't take long to discover that the High Commissioner is a Canadian and a diplomat second. His conversation sweeches, broadcasts and writings never overemphasize his abounding desire "to project Canada." Which he himself has coined. There is a ring of pride in his voice as he speaks of "those great ambassadors," the Canadian troops overseas, who he says, have simplified his task of presenting the gospel of Canada in Great Britain.

"I become prouder every day of my country and of being a Canadian," he said, telling of the growing interest which he himself has come much to foster, the people of this nation are taking in the Dominion and its development.

Since the war began, Mr. Massey has put in a full day to himself. "It's a full life, but it's the sort of life I enjoy and want," he said as he sat in front of an open fire in his huge office, puffing a pipeful. There will be time enough for holidays when the war is won."

A smallish man, always immaculately dressed and the essence of a gentleman, Mr. Massey possesses a store of energy which his appearance belies. No member of his staff works longer hours than he and none does a fraction of the amount of "outside work" — so important in the London scene.

His big limousine, painted a dirty khaki since the war, brings him to work at 10 o'clock every morning, six days a week, and it is usually after seven before his day's work is done.

It was typical of Mr. Massey that on New Year's Day when most persons would be content to remain at home he was at his desk until early evening.

In addition to the immense amount of administrative work which falls upon a high commissioner, Mr. Massey has been burdened with wartime problems which, he said, make every day different from the one before.

One of the few routine conferences on his heavy list is a daily meeting with Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee, Dominions Secretary and Deputy Prime Minister, other Dominions and Foreign Office officials and the other High Commissioners at which reports of the previous 24 hours are scanned and discussed.

During extra-office hours, Mr. Massey performs a vast number of duties from which he might well be excused but which he feels are important to his work. He has appointed on more British Broadcasting Corporation programs than any other High Commissioner, has officiated at the handing over of scores of Canadian decorations and other gifts from the Canadian people and addressed gatherings in many parts of the country.

Whenever time permits he visits Canadian Army formations and air force squadrons and his one regret is that he is unable to make more of these informal inspections.

At the outbreak of war the Massey Foundation, which Mr. and Mrs. Massey administer, took over an estate in the country and converted it into a convalescent home for Canadian officers. More than 1,200 officers and women have recuperated there from illnesses and injuries since the war began.

Warring Helsinki In Puzzling Position

BY WARREN IRVIN

Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's description of the Russo-Finnish war of 1939-40 as "perhaps the cleverest and greatest camouflage in world history" has set Finland aflame with indignation. No attempt was made to disguise the fact, Finnish editorial comment was bitter and ironic — audaciously so, considering Finland's position as a member of the Axis.

Through the columns of his newspaper, the Helsingin Sanomat, John Elias Erkko, former Finnish Foreign Minister and, incidentally, a former resident of Brooklyn, bit back sharply at Goering Caustically, the newspaper remarked that the Soviet Union could have been vanquished during the Finnish War much more easily than ten years afterwards. A pointed reference to the German air raid while the Finns charged had been given Russia.

This incident may add to the general confusion following the closing of Finnish consulates in the United States and of American consulates in Finland. the recurrent tales of Finnish plans for a separate peace with Russia and the stories of atrocities committed in Russia by Finnish troops and of Finnish official toasts to a Japanese victory at the showing in Helsinki of official Japanese military films of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

For there still exists considerable confusion as to why Finland went to war on the side of the Axis in the first place, and why, having gone to war, she has not sought a separate peace with Russia.

Finland went to war on the German side because she felt there was no alternative. She was confronted with a choice of going to war as an ally of Germany, a course favored only by certain diplomats and army officers, of joining the Russians or of being overrun by the Nazis. Dr. Joninu Ruoja was unthinkable after the 1939-40 war, and in any case would result in Nazi occupation. the Finns believed. Hitler still regarded them as the only Finns realized only too well from what had happened in Poland.

To have resisted the Nazi pressure would have been out of the question for Finland. Ammunition had been almost exhausted in the war with Russia. Worse yet, the country was short of food, and Germany was the only nation able, and willing, to help.

The army, or the higher officers, at least, was not overawed by Germany. Most of the higher officers had been trained in Germany and many had served in the First War in the famous Finnish Jaeger Battalion of the German Army on the Russian front. Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim was Finland's commander-in-chief until 1917, when he returned to Finland and with German aid elected the Red Army in 1918.

They Sought a Miracle

It was the consciousness of the German training that led the Finnish Army, coupled with anticipation of an eventual German attack against Russia, which made it was only 43 miles from Leningrad, that impelled Finland to go to war against Russia in 1941. Finland to cede them the Karelian Isthmus in the autumn of 1939 and refused to cede the territories demanded by Russia attempted to settle for the country's defense. This was done and refused to yield and the result was war.

The Germans were fooled by Russia's showing in that war, they thought correctly a day to himself. "It's a full life, but it's the sort of life I enjoy and want," he said as he sat in front of an open fire in his huge office, puffing a pipeful. There will be time enough for holidays when the war is won."

During extra-office hours, Mr. Massey performs a vast number of duties from which he might well be excused but which he feels are important to his work. He has appointed on more British Broadcasting Corporation programs than any other High Commissioner, has officiated at the handing over of scores of Canadian decorations and other gifts from the Canadian people and addressed gatherings in many parts of the country.

Whenever time permits he visits Canadian Army formations and air force squadrons and his one regret is that he is unable to make more of these informal inspections.

At the outbreak of war the Massey Foundation, which Mr. and Mrs. Massey administer, took over an estate in the country and converted it into a convalescent home for Canadian officers. More than 1,200 officers and women have recuperated there from illnesses and injuries since the war began.

ELBOW GREASE IS SAVED AND SILVER WILL BENEFIT BY USING NEW METHOD

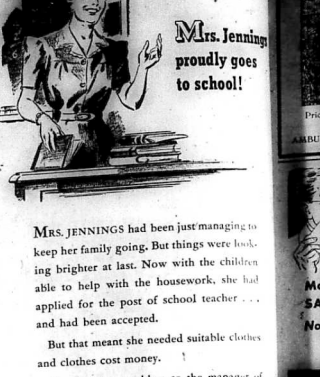
The family silver needs special care now that wartime restrictions are limiting the manufacture of silver plate and high taxes have made the price of sterling soar.

Cleaning silver by the following method is in line with conservation. It saves time and elbow grease and is easy on the silver plating. Laboratory technicians report to Consumer Information Service.

Put enough water to cover the silverware to be cleaned into an old aluminum pot or an enameled pot with strips of aluminum in the bottom. To each quart of water add one to three tablespoons of waterglass. Heat the water to boiling point and place spoons and forks in the solution for a few minutes, until they are bright. A cold waterglass solution will clean the tarnish from the silver but the action will lie very slow. The hotter the solution the quicker the action.

Knives with "stuffed" handles can be cleaned in a similar way with a little care. If left in water long the handles may swell and the handles be loosened. To hasten the action of the waterglass add one half as much washing soda as waterglass to the solution. The water must not be hot and the knives should be removed as soon as look bright.

At this stage the silver is cleaned but not shined. Rubbing and polishing with a soft cloth will reduce that highly-tarnished look so desirable in table silverware. The aluminum pot — if properly used — will not suffer from this treatment as the waterglass in the solution prevents the washing soda from acting on the aluminum.



MRS. JENNINGS had been just managing to keep her family going. But things were looking brighter at last. Now with the children able to help with the housework, she had applied for the post of school teacher . . . and had been accepted.

But that meant she needed suitable clothes and clothes cost money.

She took her problem to the manager of her bank. On the strength of her ability and character, he arranged a loan of $80. And so it was that she was able to take the position and greet her first class proudly. She paid off the loan after six months at a cost in interest of only $2.40.

This is a true story. Only the names has been altered. It is typical of hundreds of human dramas in which the bank manager has been privileged to play a helping role.

War's requirements have increased immensely the work of banks and bank staffs. At the same time more than one-half of our experienced men have enlisted. Bank early. Pay small bills by cash. It helps.

William C. Smith Well-known Resident Died on Sunday

William C. Smith, a member of one of the oldest and best known families of Napanee and for many years connected with the business life of the town, died at his home, East Street, on Sunday after a long illness. Mr. Smith was born in his 85th year, had been in failing health for the past few years and was confined to his bed for seven weeks before his death.

He was the last surviving member of the family of eleven children of the late William Smith, who came to Canada nearly a hundred years ago and founded the jewellery business of Smith & Smith, which is still being conducted by a descendant of William Smith, Mr. Leslie Smith.

When a boy of fourteen, W. C. Smith came to Napanee and entered the jewellery business then being operated by his older brother, the late Mr. Fred Smith, and Mr. Scarlett. Later he entered into partnership with his brother, which became known as Smith Bros., and continued in it until the stock was sold out, nineteen years ago, following the death of Fred Smith and his son, the late Harry E. Smith.

Mr. W. C. Smith was a skilled jewellery mechanic and watchmaker and was considered one of the best engravers in the province. Many examples of his engraving are still in the possession of customers of the business, and can scarcely be duplicated to-day.

Outside of his business, Mr. Smith was well noted for his interest in sports. He was an ardent fisherman and golfer all his life and in his earlier years was a lacrosse player and curler, in both of which sports he excelled. His hobby was painting, for which he had a natural talent. Many examples of his art work are highly valued by his friends, who have acquired them through the wider knowledge of some of Napanee artists connected with them.

Mr. Smith is survived by his wife, formerly Edith Emily Miller, of Napanee; Mrs. Roly Smith at home, and Lieut. Evere J. Smith, now overseas with the 1st Land Anti-Aircraft Regiment, and two grandchildren, Nanette and William Smith, of Belleville.

His funeral was held at its late residence on Tuesday afternoon. The service was conducted by Archdeacon R. J. Dumbrille, rector of St. Mary Magdalene's Church, and in regard will be made at Riverview Cemetery.

RESTAURANTS MAY MAKE CHARGES FOR BEVERAGES

Proprietors of restaurants and other public ca'erers, provided they have complied with certain formalities in regard to filling of their menus and price lists, may now charge an extra five cents for any beverage which normally formed part of the meals served by the restaurants, if no charge of water will still be free.

That is the word which comes from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board which, in order to clarify one of its latest orders, points out that milk, as well as tea and coffee, is among the beverages for which the extra charge may be made or which may be legally excluded from the meals served by the restaurants.

Only in the case of tea and coffee, among the beverages is it, however, permissible for them to make a charge up to ten cents when served a la carte.

This concession has been granted because it has been found that in numerous cases the proprietors of these establishments have had their costs increased above the level of the basic period of 1941 through the higher wages demanded by their labour, not all of it experienced or efficient, through the absence of a willing upon various foods that they buy and through increased losses due to breakages.

SUGAR REGULATIONS FOR CANNING

Although extra sugar is again to be made available for home canning, and quantities for each official canning season extending from June 1 to October 31 next, there is to be no relaxation of the regulation of last year forbidding it to those who desire to make jams, marmalade and pumpkin. When the ration administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board speaks of "fruit" in connection with home canning it emphasizes that what is willing to supply additional sugar it means ripe fruit, fresh fruit" available during the official canning season and it makes an exception only in the case of tomatoes, rhubarb, rumskin will be, however, out until the next season. Any person using them comes from the regular sugar rations.

Incidentally, the allowance of extra sugar for canning is not to exceed one pound for each pound of fruit, and for making jam or jelly, because the former process saves sugar and fruit properly canned is held by nutritionists to retain more of its vitamins.

With a view to encouraging home canning, the Mass factories of Canada are this year making more quart sealers so that sufficient may be available for all reasonable requirements. Metal rings will also be available together with. It is hoped, enough rubber for the rings fitting screw-top and apring-top jars. In addition, the cans will be forthcoming for the use of people who desire to can fruit for their own use while the Oil Controller .it is reported, is endeavouring to make sufficient paraffin wax to cover jams and jellies. Wherever possible, however housewives are urged to make use of whatever canning supplies are already available to them rather than to buy new goods that may not be really needed.

THERE'S HEALTH IN WINTER VEGETABLES !

Hello Homemakers ! The official Nutrition Colour Chart shows vegetables on nearly every plate of food. Why? Because they are health boosters—with vitamins and minerals for body-building and regulation, also with starch for energy. The green and yellow vegetables signal health, highlighting Vitamin A and minerals. So let's prepare our vegetables properly in our kitchens so we can be sure of keeping those important food values intact from market to table. They'll look better and taste better, too.

Here are a few simple do's and dont's in vegetable cookery. Choose vegetables for freshness and brightness of colour, then prepare and cook them right. Much nutrition value lies just under the skin, so keep your parings thin. Don't prepare your vegetables till the last moment for either cooking or your salad. Cook them with the least possible water in a tightly covered saucepan. Be sure to use any left-over liquid to enrich soups, stews, and sauces. Vegetable plate meals call for accompanying dishes containing cheese, milk or eggs and a richer dessert. And remember to serve some vegetables raw, some cooked. Buy in large quantities — for convenience and economy — and find a storage corner where your vegetables will neither freeze nor shrivel from heat.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. D. E. asks: "Should I add soda to dry beans—your recipes call for it but in topic information said soda killed vitamin content?"

Answer: Adding soda to dried beans and lentils prevents gas formation in the stomach. There is minute vitamin content in these vegetables compared to leafy vegetables, but as you know, they are good meat substitutes.

Mrs. A. L. L. asks: "Why does my pastry never flake?"

Answer: Cut in two-thirds of the required fat; sprinkle in ice water and put into mound. Roll out half inch thick; dash on pieces of cold fat; fold in thirds and roll up again about four laps. Chill and roll out for pie plate.

AVOID MONOTONY IN PREPARATION OF VEGETABLES

It's all very well for Canada's Official Food Rules to say we must have two servings of vegetables every day besides potatoes but my family is getting tired of having the same vegetables every day."

It is true that in winter, particularly this winter, the variety of vegetables is more restricted, but the illusion of variety can be obtained by the method of preparation and service is varied.

As food supplies in general become more restricted it will become necessary for housewives to use more and more ingenuity and to try tasty new versions of favorite dishes if menus are to avoid the stamp of monotony, which can make even the best planned and cooked, and most nutritious meals, distasteful after a time.

Here are suggestions of ringing the changes on three of our greatest standbys among the winter vegetables, three that rank high nutritionally — too — potatoes, cabbage and turnips. First of all — here is a brand new recipe for a sauce that can be used to dress up many different vegetables. It makes use of the liquor from cooked vegetables, and requires no butter.

Vegetable Sauce

Two tablespoons flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two cups vegetable liquor, three tablespoons lemon juice, two egg yolks, well beaten.

Mix flour, salt and pepper, with one-quarter cup of the vegetable liquor and stir over hot water till thickened. Pour part of the thickened mixture slowly over the well beaten egg yolks, return to top of double boiler, add lemon juice and stir till thickened about three minutes.

USE CABBAGE FOR VARIETY

Five - Minute Cabbage

Shred fine. Cook five minutes in rapidly boiling salted water. Serve in (1) hot milk, (2) hot tomato sauce, (3) hot cheese sauce.

Creamed Cabbage and Apple

Alternate layers of finely shredded cabbage and sliced apples, seasoned with salt, pepper and a very little sugar. Cover with crumbs, dot with fat and bake at 375 deg. F. until tender, about fifty minutes.

Scalloped Cabbage

Alternate layers of shredded cabbage, thick cream sauce and grated cheese.

Creamed Cabbage

Serve five-minute cabbage in vegetable sauce, (recipe above).

Raw Cabbage

Serve finely shredded as cole slaw or combine with other vegetables in salads.

TURNIPS

Mashed Turnips

(1) Top with grated cheese and reheat till cheese melts.

(2) Mash with potatoes or carrots.

Baked Turnips

Slice raw turnips and place in layers in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and a dash of nutmeg. Add milk to half fill the dish. Top with a generous layer of fat or use crumbs and grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 deg. F. until tender; about one hour.

Stuffed Turnips

Slice turnips one and one-half inches thick and cut into oblongs two inches by three inches. Scoop out centres leaving thick one-quarter inch thick. Cook till tender in boiling salted water. Serve filled with buttered vegetables. Peas and carrots are good.

Creamed Turnips

Add green peas to diced, creamed turnips.

Turnip Salad

Use grated in salads or as turnip sticks.

POTATOES ARE VERSATILE

Baked Potatoes Stuffed au Gratin

Cut a thick slice off the baked potatoes. Scoop potato from skin leaving whole shell. Mash with milk, salt and pepper. Refill shell. Top with grated cheese. Reheat and serve.

Scalloped Potatoes

Use alternate layers of seasoned potato and corn or onions, carrots or cheese.

Creamed Potatoes au Gratin

Add cheese to cream sauce. Add peas, diced carrots, or chopped green pepper (if available).

Mashed Potatoes

Shape mashed potatoes into cakes, coat with crumbs and fry in deep fat (or brush with melted fat, roll in crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Potato and Onion Puff

Cook equal quantities of potato and onion together. Mash, add milk to beat until fluffy, season with salt and pepper. Pile in a greased casserole. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 deg. F. until puffed up. May be topped with grated cheese or paprika. Makes excellent topping on meat pies or vegetable scallops.

Hash Is Economical

Combine cooked potatoes with an equal amount of cooked meat. Season to taste and moisten with gravy or hot water. Heat thoroughly.

V

MAKE USEFUL ARTICLES

In these days of all kinds of shortages there isn't an ambitious claim any odds or ends which can be converted into useful articles.

For Boys

Leather purses that have outlived their usefulness make fine knee patches for boys' breeches.

Turkish towels make dish cloths with a blanket-stitched border; or bath mitts in which scraps of toilet soap can be used up.

Worn tablecloths can be made into individual place mats or tea towels. Old felt hats make children's slippers, or can be turned inside out, the brim cut off, and the rough edges trimmed with bright yarn and topped with a yarn pompom.

LETTERS FROM NICKEY IN THE STORY OF LIFE IN THE C.W.A.C.

"Letters From Nickey" are written by a talented young Canadian who recently joined the C.W.A.C. to do her bit in helping to put a speedy finish to Hitler and his mob. Her letters to her civilian pal "Babs", are delightfully refreshing and entertain the kind of humour that everyone needs in these trying times.

Dear Babs:

Bless your heart, Chum, it was good to hear from you. The past few weeks have been hectic. I have been absorbing army procedure through a sieve; reason with salt and pepper; add a dash of nutmeg and a little top milk. Form into little flat cakes, dip in fine cracker crumbs, deep fry in hot fat.

Cabbage that leaves grama in the pot. Have a small quantity of boiling water on the element turned HIGH; add shredded cabbage and one tablespoon fat, pepper lightly and turn Low. Cook only twenty minutes and salt—then drain.

ODD ENDS
MAKE USEFUL ARTICLES

In these days of all kinds of shortages there isn't an ambitious claim any odds or ends which can be converted into useful articles.

For Boys

Leather purses that have outlived their usefulness make fine knee patches for boys' breeches.

Turkish towels make dish cloths with a blanket-stitched border; or bath mitts in which scraps of toilet soap can be used up.

Worn tablecloths can be made into individual place mats or tea towels. Old felt hats make children's slippers, or can be turned inside out, the brim cut off, and the rough edges trimmed with bright yarn and topped with a yarn pompom.

THE NAPANEE BEAVER

And so it goes — one happy, rollicking day after another. This is the life for me!

Cheerio, Chum, there goes the whistle for meal parade and, as usual, I am starving!

All the best,

POTATOES — IMPORTANT — REQUIRE COOKING-CARE TO PRESERVE VITAMINS

Remember the days when the saver of "bits and pieces" used to be looked on as stingy?

Times have changed; the old-fashioned virtue of economy has come very much to the fore again and waste has become a form of sabotage.

Nowadays, no one consciously wastes food but many people unconsciously waste food values, precious vitamins and minerals, through improper methods of cooking.

Take the case of the potato, for instance. Properly cooked, potatoes can provide valuable amounts of Vitamin C, so let's give them the respectful attention they deserve, says Nutrition Services.

Air, water and heat are the three arch-enemies of Vitamin C. How can these agents be outwitted? The skin of the potato is its armor against the enemy water. Boil or bake potatoes in their jackets and the enemy will be foiled in his attempt to sap ure vitamin C. A pot with a close-fitting lid gives protection against the enemies water and air. The lid keeps air out and steam in, so very little water is needed for cooking. Water dissolves out both Vitamin C and minerals so salt water from vegetables should be saved and used.

How to overcome the third enemy, — heat? Granted, heat is necessary for cooking potatoes, but the cooking should stop just as soon as the potatoes are done and it should be so timed for all vegetables that they will be served as soon as they are cooked.

"Take care of Vitamin C and it will take care of you."

LETTERS FROM NICKEY IN THE STORY OF LIFE IN THE C.W.A.C.

"Letters From Nickey" are written by a talented young Canadian who recently joined the C.W.A.C. to do her bit in helping to put a speedy finish to Hitler and his mob. Her letters to her civilian pal "Babs", are delightfully refreshing and entertain the kind of humour that everyone needs in these trying times.

Dear Babs:

Bless your heart, Chum, it was good to hear from you. The past few weeks have been hectic. I have been absorbing army procedure through a sieve; reason with salt and pepper; add a dash of nutmeg and a little top milk. Form into little flat cakes, dip in fine cracker crumbs, deep fry in hot fat.

Cabbage that leaves grama in the pot. Have a small quantity of boiling water on the element turned HIGH; add shredded cabbage and one tablespoon fat, pepper lightly and turn Low. Cook only twenty minutes and salt—then drain.

Serve left-over vegetables as a medley and add rice or noodles, thickening the water used in cooking the rice with cornstarch. Season left-overs with celery seed, thyme, minced onion or sliced mushrooms.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. D. E. asks: "Should I add soda to dry beans—your recipes call for it but in topic information said soda killed vitamin content?"

Answer: Adding soda to dried beans and lentils prevents gas formation in the stomach. There is minute vitamin content in these vegetables compared to leafy vegetables, but as you know, they are good meat substitutes.

Mrs. A. L. L. asks: "Why does my pastry never flake?"

Answer: Cut in two-thirds of the required fat; sprinkle in ice water and put into mound. Roll out half inch thick; dash on pieces of cold fat; fold in thirds and roll up again about four laps. Chill and roll out for pie plate.

LUNCH BOX VARIETY

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

Variety, we are told, is the spice of life. It also can add greatly to the enjoyment of the worker's mid-day meal. Imagination is a prerequisite for the lunch box planner, for nothing can perk up a jaded appetite like new ideas and innovations introduced into the daily lunch. For example, sandwiches are not, as some people thing, a vital necessity in the lunch box. Indeed they can be eliminated entirely from time to time and other items of food substituted with gratifying effect. Following are some lunch box menus which do not include sandwiches; yet are very appetising, just the same:

Cream of Pea Soup.
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter.
Cabbage and Carrot Salad.
Canned Plums.
Milk.

Fish and Celery Salad.
(Pilchards can take the place of salmon and are economical).
Whole Wheat Bread. Butter.
Coffee or Cocoa.
Cake.
Canned fruit. Leftover Pudding.

Cream Soup.
Devilled Egg and Lettuce Salad with Carrot Strips.
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter.
Apple.

Macaroni with Cheese.
Fruit Cup.
Bread and Butter.
Milk.

Cream of Tomato Soup.
Beef and Celery Salad.
Carrot Strips.
Whole Wheat Muffins and Butter.
Tea and Milk.

Potato and Onion Soup.
Cabbage and Raw Apple Salad.
Bread and Butter.
Cocoa.

In order to make sure that liquids and salads are packed securely, it will be necessary to have always on hand the proper equipment. This consists of:

1. Standard Lunch Box.
2. Thermos bottle—for soups and beverages.
3. Glass Jar with screw top—for pudding and fruit. Clean jam or mayonnaise jars are ideal for this purpose.
4. Paper cups—for salads.
5. Wax paper—for salads and sandwiches.
6. Spoon and fork.

So use your imagination, Mrs. Housewife, and make it a pleasure for the man of the family to open his lunch box when the noonday whistle blows.

PATRIOTIC HOMEMAKING

Every once in a while the careful housewife casts a questioning eye at the newly soiled and spattered by rain and snow, and no longer quite charming, windows. The question in her eye is "how shall I clean them?" First of all, decide what type they are. Ordinary window shades are of three types: (1) Fibre made with water colors; (2) cloth (muslin or percale) made with water colors; (3) cloth (muslin or percale) made with flat oil finish. The reason soil and rain specs are hard to remove from window shades is that the action of the sun through the glass bakes the soiled dirty spots into the finish of the shade. If shades with a water-color finish are cleaned two or three times a year with ordinary wallpaper cleaner, longer life for them will be assured. Those with a flat oil finish should be washed with a soft sponge and extra-soapy, all-pure soap suds. Open the shades on a flat surface, clean a small area at a time, then wipe dry with a clean cloth so the shade does not soak up the dirty water. When the entire shade has been cleaned, wipe again with a clean, dry cloth. Be sure the material is dry before rolling the shade.

Dry potatoes before placing them in the oven and they will bake more quickly. Pierce them with a fork just before they're done so that the steam inside can escape.

When frying fish, put a small piece of crust of bread into the hot fat before cooking the fish. This will prevent the fat from sputtering and will show by its color when the fat is the proper temperature to receive the fish.

Drop a teaspoon of soda in the bean pot after using and fill with boiling water. Let stand in the oven of the range or in a warm plate for about two hours. This will clean it perfectly, making the sides and bottom of the pot smooth and clean once more.

UNITED STATES GUESTS SEE HISTORY

Impressive Palace Setting For Dinner

LADY TWINING, FORMERLY OF NAPANEE, ONE OF THE THREE HOSTESSES

The clear voices of men of the New World led by children of the Chapel Royal, ringing out from the royal staircase of Hampton Court Palace on Boxing Day night, will long echo in the memories both of the men of the United States Army Air Force and British people who were present.

With its beautiful surroundings that have witnessed many historic scenes down the centuries, the Palace was a perfect setting for the Christmas dinner and entertainment given in the Oak Room, by permission of the King, to 120 men and men of the United States Forces, overseas Christmas. The hostesses, Mr G. Philips, Mr. Philips, the Private Secretary to six officers. The hostesses, each of whom has close associations with the States or Canada, were Lady Howard of Penrith, widow of the first Baron Howard of Penrith, who was the British Ambassador to the United States from 1924 to 1930; Lady Twining, who is Canadian-born, and Mrs. Dorothy Slade, who is American by birth.

KINSMEN SCHEME HELP

Assistance was given by the Kinsmen Hospitality Scheme, which made a gift of the dinner, in accordance with their scheme of entertaining British children evacuated to America. A large Christmas tree, with gifts to the men, were also provided by this organization.

For the dinner there was one long table, in the centre of which, on a base red and gold cracker, and several smaller tables all of which were attractively decorated with small Christmas trees, holly and white jasmine under the direction of the Superintendent of the Hampton Court gardens, Mr. W. J. Hepburn. The dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests, was under the supervision of Mr. F. J. Bunn, head chef of the Curative of Palaces.

After referring to Lord Woolton's broadcast to the effect that many people were entering good things Christmas he hoped they would remember the men who entertained them and was a prayer, the Chaplain said grace. Later Lady Howard proposed the health of the President of the United States. Cpl. N. Rath of the U. S. Forces responded with a toast to the King and Mr. Oliver Shore proposed the guests, saying that the two nations ever stood the same sacred love of freedom, the sacrifices of which was felt all over the world today and that there were men present who knew from a unique personal knowledge, knitting them in close friendship.

While the tables were being cleared the men formed themselves on the royal staircase and to the delight children of the Chapel Royal, with their black cloaks over their scarlet cassocks and white surplices, sang carols and other songs. Yule logs burning in the huge fireplaces of the Tudor Palace added to the scene. Then Father Christmas, in the person of Mr. Rambow, who was the manager for the evening, put on the platform, and moved among the children handing out presents.

A COUNTRY EDITOR SEES Ottawa

WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS OF CANADA by JIM GREENBLAT, Editor of the SUN SWIFT CURRENT, SASKATCHEWAN

The author of this series, Jim Greenblat, is the Editor of The Sun, thriving weekly newspaper published in Swift Current, Sask.. He is a native of Winkler, Man., and attended public and high schools in Winnipeg. He moved to Swift Current 33 years ago, and studied law until the outbreak of the First Great War. He then served in the Canadian Army from 1915 to 1919, and was wounded in France. He has been in the weekly newspaper business since 1923, and is a past president of the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

At home he writes a sprightly column, for The Sun, called "Swift Current Through the Looking Glass", in which he has developed the highly readable and inimitable style that he brings to this series from Ottawa.

Before leaving Ottawa, he left one postcript on a brief bit of biography. It read:

"P.S.: Don't like Toronto!"

—Editor's note.

Looking Inside The Engine

Call me lucky or not, but I'm just an ordinary weekly newspaper editor who was invited to come down to Ottawa, and daffy big guidebook throbbing with energy warheart of a nation which is such a staunch and useful partner of the puissant United Nations.

I was asked to write a series of articles for home consumption—that is, for the plain, honest-to-God folk in the towns and on the farms who constitute the readers of Canadian weekly newspapers.

I didn't get any salary for composing them here but they did pay my expenses. I felt somewhat like your own member of Parliament eatin' on the train, having the odd finger-bowl and pretending I was used to it and hoping the bell hops 'ain' me to death. You know, as well as I do, that weekly newspaper editors at home are merely suffered. But with the finish of these articles, like R.B. Bennett in the Garden of Allah, I'll be used to be saw before "they stuck him in the British hall of fame." He had his day and ceased to be.

I came to have a personal unhampered, uncajoled, unpolitized look at the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and its mechanism, and what makes the wheels go 'round. How it affects the daily life, the routine and economies of you and I. I don't owe a cent to anyone in Ottawa from Donald Gordon down, in politics or ration cards, so I feel free to give you my own impressions, unbiased of this tremendously vital thing which is ordering our very lives, trying to keep a mile ahead of inflation and thus prevent the evils or deflation after the war.

Carte Blanche—No Punches Pulled

I wasn't asked to pull punches. That shows I don't look like a politician. I was given carte blanche to look inside the engine, to ask questions, to interview the really big names who handle Canada's great wartime economy, and that in itself was a thrill. And there, my word for it, you'd be impressed like I was. From butter rationing to subsidies for the production of a purse of money was made on behalf of the gathering by Vincent Kennedy. The evening was spent in cards and dancing and lunch was served by the ladies.

Mr. Milligan expressed the thanks of himself and his wife.

The following is the address:

Centreville, Feb. 8th.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Milligan:

We have learned with deep regret that you will soon be leaving this home where Mr. Milligan was born and has always lived, and we have met to-night to spend a few hours with you.

From the time this home was first established by your parents, it has been noted for its hospitality. Rich and poor, friend and wayfarer, received a kindly welcome and afterwards were happier on their way, with spirits warmed and courage strengthened. You, who are now the sole representatives of the Milligan family, have not been forgetful of those traditions.

You, too, have had an open door for friends old and new. You have often entertained the societies of the church, in all of which you, Mrs. Milligan, have been a leader and a helper, as well as in community activities.

But your interests have gone out beyond your own home and church. When there has been sickness or bereavement in a neighbor's home, your kindly help has not been lacking and there can be few, if any families in the community who do not remember some good deed you have done for them, or some favor you have shown.

We shall miss you greatly, but we shall hope that you will come back to visit us often. Please accept this purse as a slight token of the esteem of your old neighbors, and with it our very best wishes for your happiness.

Signed on behalf of the community, Vincent Kennedy, Stanley McKeown, Ronald Brown.

AS A SPRING TONIC

And for building up resistance against colds and flu, we can confidently recommend the famous WAMPOLE'S COD LIVER OIL. $1.00 a bottle at WALLACE'S, Napanee's Leading Drug Store.

Research Economist Phyllis Turner

Then take Mrs. Phyllis G. Turner, administrator for Oils and Fats for Canada and a member of the United Nations Committee on these vital commodities. She's a former chief research economist of the Tariff Board; a strikingly beautiful woman doing a tremendously big job in something you'll be intensely interested to hear about later, if you stick with me long enough in this series.

Then there's Kenneth W. Taylor whom I talked with. Secretary of the Board, a McMaster man, an economist of standing, who certainly knows what it's all about. His type of person (like the others) doesn't have to fiddle with politics. And women readers will surely be interested in what Byrne Hope Sanders told me. She's better known as Editor of Chatelaine and now heads the Consumers branch division with its farflung chain of "watching" local committees. Behind her discerning, intelligent eyes you could visualize her as a young mom in the kitchen slicing around the pie dough.

Information From Source

Are you interested in boarding, eh? You'd be surprised what I learned from Fred A. McGregor, administrator of the Enforcement division. You'd take him for your own church minister. He doesn't look like Himmler and hates anyone who gets tough, but he's sure a firm guy. His division, understandably, has a big job and he's concerned mainly with the fellow who wants to gyp you and I. Then there's Dr. G. E. Britnell, a Saskatchewan university man, economic adviser to the Foods Administration. Way that man's head is always at food, butter, eggs, hogs, cheese, beef and milk as Canada's farms collectively are. He sees the picture more than he sees statistics. More about that later, too.

Imagine rationing millions of people, cards and stuff. That would make your head swim at Montreal, and I'll try to explain later, logically, how L. D. Unwin, a C.P.R. Vice-President and his folks can accomplish it. And what do you think is in the mind of placid administrator H. H. Bloom of Toronto more than he does statistics. More about that later, too.

Then there's Stacey Woods, head of agricultural economics? Yes. There were many others.

I've got a lot of stuff filed away that I'll try to explain later, logically, but it's got to be boiled down — all of it — to make not boring reading that will give you an appreciation and understanding of what's being done by YOUR way of life. Bear with me through the following few weeks and I'll do the best I can to explain why and how they're doing it.

And remember, we, the people, only paid for my ham and eggs while I was away from home. I didn't have to pay anyone on the back. I remain, like you a small town guy or sureso, so stick around and tune in next week.

SELBY MISSION CIRCLE

Selby Mission Band held its January meeting in the Sunday school room on January 7, 1943, with an attendance of twelve. The meeting opened with the call to worship and scripture and a hymn was sung. Francis Robinson gave a reading and Olive Irwin led in prayer. Florence McFarlane took the offering. The minutes were read and approved and the roll call was answered by a Christmas card.

Mrs. Mark Denison conducted the election of officers. The results were as follows: President, Olive Irwin; vice-president, June Telford; secretary, Florence McFarlane; treasurer, Francis Robinson; press secretary, Marion Henderson; temperance secretary, Marie Price; pianist, Muriel Irwin. Installation of officers by Mrs. Denison followed and a story was told. The National Anthem was sung and games were played.

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of Trinity Church met in the school room February 16. The president Mrs. Switzer, opened the meeting with a hymn, after which the Apostle's Creed and the Lord's Prayer were recited in unison. After the usual business period, Mrs. L. Miller gave an interesting report of the meeting of the local Red Cross Board. A hymn was sung, after which the President announced the theme for the months of February, "Providing wholesome Recreation for all." The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. J. E. Robinson from the 12th chapter of Romans, verses 1 to 13. A duet sung by Mrs. P. Mills and Miss Ruth Graham was enjoyed by all. The study book reader, ably taken by Miss Gander, the subject, "The Church, the City and Recreation." She spoke of the three most important things in a child's life, love, work and play. Play should be so guided that the child learns to cooperate with his fellows, learns to give and take. The Church can and should help in this work as much as possible.

It is being recognized more and more, the need for wholesome recreation for the young and adult. Working hours are shorter, people have more spare time. This is partially so in the city. The church should do all in its power to see that sufficient recreation is provided for both adult and child.

Miss Gander gave some interesting facts concerning our own community.

The meeting was closed by singing a hymn and the Mizpah benediction.

Presentation To Mr., Mrs. H. Milligan, By Centreville Friends

About eighty neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Milligan, Centreville, recently, to make a presentation to them before their departure from the neighborhood. An address was read by Mrs. Ronald T. Brown and the presentation of a purse of money was made on behalf of the gathering by Vincent Kennedy. The evening was spent in cards and dancing and lunch was served by the ladies.

Mr. Milligan expressed the thanks of himself and his wife.

The following is the address:

Centreville, Feb. 8th.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Milligan:

We have learned with deep regret that you will soon be leaving this home where Mr. Milligan was born and has always lived, and we have met to-night to spend a few hours with you.

From the time this home was first established by your parents, it has been noted for its hospitality. Rich and poor, friend and wayfarer, received a kindly welcome and afterwards were happier on their way, with spirits warmed and courage strengthened. You, who are now the sole representatives of the Milligan family, have not been forgetful of those traditions.

You, too, have had an open door for friends old and new. You have often entertained the societies of the church, in all of which you, Mrs. Milligan, have been a leader and a helper, as well as in community activities.

But your interests have gone out beyond your own home and church. When there has been sickness or bereavement in a neighbor's home, your kindly help has not been lacking and there can be few, if any families in the community who do not remember some good deed you have done for them, or some favor you have shown.

We shall miss you greatly, but we shall hope that you will come back to visit us often. Please accept this purse as a slight token of the esteem of your old neighbors, and with it our very best wishes for your happiness.

Signed on behalf of the community, Vincent Kennedy, Stanley McKeown, Ronald Brown.

HOME AND SCHOOL MEETING

The Napanee Home and School Association met on the afternoon of February 24th, 1943 at the West Ward School. Mrs. T. Hunt, the president, opened the meeting by reading the Dominion Pledge, adopted by the Home and School, Inc., at the annual convention, in 1942.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and supplied. A letter from Rev. C. D. McLellan was read expressing the thanks of the congregation of Grace United Church for the sympathy extended them by the association. Mrs. F. Knox, the treasurer, gave her report which showed a balance of $77.76. A class demonstration, The Common Cold, was presented by the pupils of Miss E. Robinson.

Dr. D. R. Hall addressed the meeting on "What We Can Do About Pneumonia." He said pneumonia, until very recently was referred to as the Captain of Death. Dr. Hall first explained that pneumonia was an inflammation of the lungs caused by germs. He mentioned the ways in which pneumonia might be prevented. Since the common cold is often a fore-runner, he suggested that these things be done to prevent colds from spreading. Give up at the first siurn of a cold and go to the doctor it. Do not go among crowds of people when suffering from a cold. Avoid contact with others in the home as much as possible. Get plenty of rest and avoid extreme changes in temperature. Avoid all undue fatigue. By checking a cold one may be able to prevent pneumonia. Dr. Hall described the serum treatment and also the sulfa-drug treatment. This, he said, promised a cure in practically every case where complications were present. One of the most important factors in the treatment of the disease was to recognize it in its early stages.

The symptoms might be one or all of the following, sudden chill, stabbing pain in the chest, high fever, cough, rusty coloured sputum.

In closing Dr. Hall emphasized the value of the new sulfa treatment, sometimes called the "miracle drug".

Owing to a recent bereavement in the family, Mrs. D. Douglas, who was to have addressed the meeting on "Consumers' Gas" was unable to be present.

Mr. C. B. Creighton on behalf of the Association, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Collis and Mrs. Lell served refreshments in the Household Science Room.

REVISED ORDER RE PRICES OF ORANGES

Under the terms of a Wartime Prices and Trade Board order regulating selling prices for oranges, a wholesaler is permitted to add to his laid-down cost the markup lawfully used by him during the base period, not to exceed fifteen per cent of his selling price for each size. A retailer's markup is limited to 25 per cent. of the selling price or his maximum markup of the basic period, whichever is lower.

A NEW COLUMN

We believe that a column in "The Beaver" devoted entirely to news about members of the Armed Forces from Napanee and the County of Lennox and Addington would be of interest to the men themselves and to their many friends in the district. If enough items are sent in we will be pleased to devote space in the paper for such news. The success of the column will depend on the interest shown by the public.

Men and women in the Armed Forces value their home-town paper more highly than ever before, because it carries news which might not reach them in any other way.

At present "The Beaver" is being sent to a large number of men and women who are with the Armed Forces Overseas and in Canada. Individuals are not allowed to mail newspapers Overseas, but subscriptions for the papers can be taken out and the newspaper is allowed to send the papers Overseas.

If any readers of "The Beaver" have items about enlisted men and women, which they wish to have printed, they may be sent or brought to the office before Monday morning each week and will appear in the paper.

FORMER NAPANEE BOY NOW WITH AIR FORCE IN NORTH AFRICA

F.O. Carman Sexsmith Son of E. J. Sexsmith

R.A.F. Airdrome,
North Africa.

Carman Sexsmith left London, Ont., to go to London, England, seven years ago, as a doctor, but he is a R.C.A.F. Flying Control Officer on this advanced airdrome, now.

F.O. C. E. Sexsmith 34, of London and Napanee, Ont., is one of the latest members of the Royal Canadian Air Force to arrive in this important theatre of war, after serving on fighter and bomber stations in England.

Although he leaves a pretty wife behind him in England and his parents in Canada, he is looking forward to his new experience. Flying Officer Sexsmith was pleased to find so many of his fellow countrymen and he met travelling from England as one of the two Canadians on the ship.

Carman Sexsmith was born in Napanee and attended school here before moving to London, Ont., with his parents, Mr and Mrs. E. J. Sexsmith. At the time of the move Mr. Sexsmith was M.P. for Lennox and Addington, later being appointed Inspector of Indian Reserves for Western Ontario.

The future Flying Control Officer attended The University of Western Ontario at London, for two years, in the faculty of arts, and then went to the National College of Physicians at Chicago for four years, receiving the degree of Doctor of Physic Therapy and Chiropractic. After a short stay at home, he travelled to Glasgow as assistant to a New Zealand doctor.

Four months later he moved to London, England, and there became assistant to a West End practitioner, remaining for a year. Then he opened de his own practice in London's West End, at the same time opening the Eetrite Health Store, a modern, health food store which closed only when rationing made operation impossible

In December 1940 he returned to Canada and attended the spring semester at Queen's University, then went to Kingston General Hospital, working in the laboratory. But in November, 1941, he left the hospital and joined the R.C.A.F. at Ottawa, being commissioned in the Regional Control Branch. After completing a technical course at Pennfield Ridge, N.S., he went to England and served on several R.A.F. stations there.

In September, 1942, Flying Officer Sexsmith, who is a fellow of the Royal Zoological Society, was married to Miss Lillian Bruce Martin, Glasgow, whom he had met on a visit to Edinburgh.

DEFINITE SLOW DOWN IN RUSSIAN ADVANCE PAST FEW DAYS

Nazis Forced to Retreat in Tunisia

WEDNESDAY —

The Axis drive through the Kasserine Pass in Tunisia was believed to have been stopped. The northern end of the enemy's Army was reported still four miles from Thala, but the southern column headed toward Tebessa was thrown back with considerable loss.

• • •

Continued Russian gains along the whole front were reported by the Red Army. Kiev, the capital of the Ukraine was thought to be a possible recapture by the Russians before the end of the week.

American bombers attacked the Japs heavily early in the week in bases in the Solomons, and the Aleutians.

THURSDAY —

British and United States forces threw Field Marshal Rommel's tank columns into full retreat from the outskirts of Thala on Wednesday. The Axis defeat appeared to be so complete as beginning to look as if the whole affair had been planned by the Allies to lead Rommel on and give him a beating. The arrival of Alexander and his British forces made a complete change in the picture.

The Red Army continued to race westward along a 300-mile front, driving toward Poltava and Konotop.

In the Solomons, the United States Airforce and the Japs were trading blows, with the United States three raids up on the Jap.

FRIDAY —

Rommel's forces were practically expelled from the Kasserine Pass and the Allied armies started a strong offensive in both western and southern Tunisia, under the field command of General Sir Harold Alexander.

In spite of mud and furious German counter-attacks, the Russian Army continued its advance both in the Ukraine and the Donets Basin. In the Caucasus the Reds were closing steadily on Novorossisk.

SATURDAY —

The last of the Axis soldiers were cleared out of the Kasserine Pass on Friday and Rommel was still retreating in disorder.

No spectacular advances were made by the Russians in the past few days, but some progress was made in offensives in South Russia.

Thursday night big British bombers plastered Nuremberg, where U-boat engines and fittings are made. Twenty-four bombers also visited Wilhelmshaven. Nine British and seven United States planes were lost.

• • •

An Australian - United States force on New Guinea, pushed toward Salamana. An 8,000-ton Jap ship was bombed at Rabaul. It was reported that 29 Jap aircraft were destroyed when the Japs raided air bases in Assam, India.

NUTRITON – TOPIC STUDIED AT I.O.D.E. MEETING

Mrs. John Dumont, who graduated from the University of Chicago with an A.B. in Household Economics, gave an address to the members of the I.O.D.E. Chapter of the I. D. E. at the March meeting. The subject was Nutrition, and the speaker gave an interesting summary of the uses of the four principal vitamins:—A, which is found in milk and cream; B1, in eggs, liver, kidney and fruits; B2 in mixed grain and yeast; C in raw fruits and vegetables and canned tomatoes; and D in Cod Liver Oil. The discovery of vitamin D, the speaker declared to be one of the greatest of modern medicine. Summer sunshine provides this necessary vitamin, but winter sunshine has only one-tenth the value of summer sunshine. For the greater part of the year, therefore, we are dependent on food as a source of vitamin D, and one of would take 14 tea spoons of Cod Liver Oil, the value of the latter is very evident.

Few people reach the goal of sufficient vitamins or minerals, and the lack of these retards growth. Iodine, calcium and iron are all necessary. Iodine may be found in iodized salt, iron in vegetables, fruits and eggs, and calcium in milk. We should be careful that jams and candies do not exceed one of one's diet foods with more fruit ive value such as eggs and milk. It is intended to follow up this address with a practical talk on nutrition as applied to the every-day buying and cooking of food. Announcement of this will be made later.

The Regent, Mrs. Dinnie Hall, presided, and announced a gift of five dollars, which was voted to the Preservers of War Fund. Mrs. Hall also gave a report of an address by Mrs. Harcourt, of the Consumer Branch W. P. T. B., which was followed by a report of a women's organization, in town.

After some discussion it was decided that the chapter sponsor, if possible, a unit of the Navy for the armed forces, and Mrs. Dibb, Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Medd were appointed a committee to investigate the matter and report to the next meeting. Salmon will be served on March 18, and fats are urgently needed.

ONTARIO TO RELEASE PUPILS FOR FARM WORK

Toronto (C.P.) — The Ontario Education Department has announced plans for release of school pupils early in April to assist on Ontario farms, the provincial education minister Duncan MacArthur, said in an interview here. He said that 100,000 boys and girls will assist in seeding and other farm duties compared with 30,000 last year.

A minimum $25 wage has been set for boys, while girls working on fruit farms and living in camps will be paid a minimum of 30 cents an hour. All pupils volunteering to work must agree to stay not less than three weeks.

QUINTS THRILLED AT U. S. VISIT

Callander, Ont., (B.U.P.) — The Dionne quintuplets are thrilled by plans for their first visit to the United States.

On May 9, less than three weeks before their ninth birthday on May 26, the Quints will go to Superior, Wis., to participate in launching of five new merchant ships. The ships—each of which will be named for one of the quintuplets—are to be assigned to the British Navy.

The trip will be the first time the black-haired, red - checked Quints have undertaken a journey of such length. They are expected to go by train, by car, by boat, and possibly via Sault Ste. Marie by train, and then to Duluth, Minn., by lake boat. There is a remote possibility that they may fly.

The girls have never seen a ship, and much less sailed on one — and the much less sailed on one — and the prospect of launching five ships and going to the United States has them thrilled and excited.

Plans for the journey have not yet been completed, it is believed the girls will be accompanied by nurses, police and several of their brothers and sisters, in addition to their parents.

This will be the first excitement in months for the famous five. They have been living relatively normal lives at their home in Callander.

Every day they attend a two-room school in the nursery by Mrs. Dionne and sisters. They are in the third grade, and are doing well in their school work, as well as their vocal and piano lessons.

Teacher, Now, Johnny, if you put your hand in one pocket and pulled out 75 cents, then put your other hand in the other pocket and pulled out 25 cents, what would you have?

Johnny: Somebody else's pants.

HOME AND SCHOOL MEETING

The Napanee Home and School Association met on the afternoon of February 26th, 1943 at the West Ward School. Mrs. T. Hunt, the president, opened the meeting by reading the Parent-Teacher Pledge, adopted by the Home and School, Inc., at the annual convention, in 1942.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. A letter from Rev. C. D. McLellan was read expressing the thanks of the congregation of Grace United Church for the sympathy extended them by the association. Mrs. F. Knox, the treasurer, gave her report which showed a balance of $77.76. A class demonstration in Red Cross co-ordinating was presented by the pupils of Miss E. Robinson.

Dr. D. R. Hall addressed the meeting on "What We Can Do About Pneumonia." He said pneumonia, as explained was referred to as the Captain of Death. Dr. Hall first explained that pneumonia was an inflammation of the lungs caused by germs. He mentioned the ways in which pneumonia might be prevented. Since the common cold is often a sore-runner, he suggested that these things be done to prevent colds from spreading. Give up, at the first sign of a cold, and go to bed for treatment. This, he said, promised a cure in practically every case unless complications were present. One of the most important factors in the treatment of the disease was to recognize it in its early stages.

The symptoms might be one or all of the following, sudden chill, stabbing pain in the chest, high fever, cough, rusty coloured sputum.

In closing Dr. Hall emphasized the value of the new sulfa treatments sometimes called the "miracle drugs".

Owing to a recent announcement in the family of Mrs. B. Douglas, who was to have addressed the meeting on "Founders' Day" was unable to be present.

Mr. C. B. Creighton, on behalf of the Association, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Collis and Mrs. Lell served refreshments in the Household Science Room.

A NEW COLUMN

We believe that a column in "The Beaver" devoted entirely to news about members of the Armed Forces from Napanee and the County of Lennox and Addington would be of interest to the men themselves and to their many friends in the district. If enough items are sent in we will be pleased to devote space in the paper for such news. The success of the column will depend on the interest shown by the public.

Men and women in the Armed Forces value their home-town paper more highly than ever before, because it carries news which might not reach them in any other way.

At present "The Beaver" is being sent to a large number of men and women who are with the Armed Forces Overseas and in Canada. Individuals are not allowed to mail newspapers Overseas; but subscriptions for the papers can be taken out and the newspaper is allowed to send the papers Overseas.

If any readers of "The Beaver" have items about enlisted men and women, which they wish to have printed, they may be sent or brought to the office before Monday morning each week and will appear in the paper.

FORMER NAPANEE BOY NOW WITH AIR FORCE IN NORTH AFRICA

F.O. Carman Sexsmith Son of E. J. Sexsmith

R.A.F. Airdrome,
North Africa.

Carman Sexsmith left London, Ont., to go to London, England, seven years ago, as a doctor, but he is a R.C.A.F. Flying Control Officer on this advanced airdrome, now.

F.O. C. E. Sexsmith 34, of London and Napanee, Ont., is one of the latest members of the Royal Canadian Air Force to arrive in this important theatre of war, after serving on fighter and bomber stations in England.

Although he leaves a pretty wife behind him in England and his parents in Canada, he is looking forward to his new experience. Flying Officer Sexsmith was pleased to find so many of his friends from England as one of the two Canadians on the station.

Carman Sexsmith was born in Napanee and attended school here before moving to London, Ont., with his parents, Mr and Mrs. E. J. Sexsmith. At the time of the move Mr. Sexsmith was M.P. for Lennox and Addington, later being appointed Inspector of Indian Reserves for Western Ontario.

The future Flying Control Officer attended the University of Western Ontario at London, for two years, in the faculty of arts, and then went to the National College of Physicians at Chicago for four years, receiving his degree of Doctor of Physic Therapy and Chiropractic. After a short stay at home, he travelled to Glasgow as assistant to a New Zealand doctor.

Four months later he moved to London, England, and there became assistant to a Wess End practitioner, remaining for a year. Then he opened his own practice in London's West End, at the same time opening the Eccrite Health Store, a modern, health food store which closed only when rationing made operation impossible.

In December 1940 he returned to Canada and attended the spring semester at Queen's University, then went to Kingston General Hospital, working in the laboratory. But in November, 1941, he left the hospital and joined the R.C.A.F. at Ottawa, being commissioned in the Regional Control Branch. After completing a technical course at Pennfield Ridge, N.B., he went to England and served on several R.A.F. stations there.

In September, 1942, Flying Officer Sexsmith, who is a fellow of the Royal Zoological Society, was married to Miss Lillian Bruce Martin, Glasgow, whom he had met on a visit to Edinburgh.

NUTRITON – TOPIC STUDIED AT I.O.D.E. MEETING

Mrs. John Dutmant, who graduated from the University of Chicago with an A.B. in Household Economics, gave an address to the members of the I.O.D.E. Chapter of the I. O. D. E. at the March meeting. The subject was Nutrition and the speaker gave an interesting summary of the sources of the four principal vitamins — A, which is found in milk and cream; B1, in eggs, liver, kidney, and fruits; B2, in wheat germ and yeast; C in raw fruits and vegetables and canned tomatoes; and D in Cod Liver Oil. The discovery of vitamin D the speaker declared to be one of the greatest discoveries of modern medicine. Summer sunshine provides this necessary vitamin. Poor winter sunshine has only one-tenth the value of summer sunshine. For the greater part of the year, therefore, we are dependent on food as a source of vitamin D and since it would require 14 ray bulbs to equal the value of one teaspoon of Cod Liver Oil the value of the latter is very evident.

Few people reach the goal of different vitamins or minerals, and the lack of these retards growth, lodine, calcium and iron are all necessary. Iodine may be found in iodized salt, iron in vegetables, and calcium in milk and calcium in milk. We should be careful that jams and candies do not crowd out the foods which would furnish the value such as eggs and milk. It is intended to follow up this address with a practical talk on nutrition as applied to the every-day home and cooking of food. Announcement of this will be made later.

The Regent Mrs. Dianne Hall, presided, and announced a gift of five dollars from the Chapter to the Red Cross. Mrs. Hall also read a report of an address by Mrs. Harcourt, of the Consumer Branch W. P. B., which was received by the chapter officers of women's organizations in town.

After the business it was decided that the chapter sponsor, if possible a dance for men of the armed forces and Mrs. Dibb, Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Medd were appointed a committee to look into the matter and report to the next meeting. Ballroom will be available on March 18, and fats are urgently needed.

QUINTS THRILLED AT U. S. VISIT

Callander, Ont., (B.U.P.) — The Dionne quintuplets are thrilled by plans for their first visit to the United States.

On May 9, less than three weeks before their ninth birthday on May 28, the Quints will go to Superior, Wis., for participation in launching of five merchant ships. The ships—each of which will be named for one of the Quintuplets—are to be assigned to the British Navy.

This will be the first time the black-haired, red - cheeked Quints have undertaken any journey of such length. They are expected to go by train, and to return again, and via Sault Ste. Marie by boat, and then by their destination by lake boat. There is a remote possibility that they may fly.

The girls have never seen a ship, much less sailed on one — and the prospect of launching five ships and going to the United States has them thrilled and excited.

Plans for the journey have not yet been completed. It is believed the girls will be accompanied by nurses, girls will be accompanied by nurses, police and several of their brothers and sisters, in addition to their parents.

This will be the first excitement in months for the famous five. They have been living relatively normal lives at their home in Callander.

Every day they attend a two-room school in town, along with their brothers and sisters. They are in the third grade, and are doing well in their school work, as well as their vocal and piano lessons.

Teacher: Now, Johnny, if you put your hand in one pocket and pulled out 75 cents, what would you have?

Johnny: Somebody else's pants.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek Now in America to Appeal for Help

Clare Booth, in an article titled "That One Woman Can Do" tells life story of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of China's Generalissimo, Chiang, and at the beginning the story calls her the greatest woman. Her greatness, Clare Booth says, defies analysis, but can be delineated. If not explained, in its simple counts.

Madame Chiang is one of the world's best wives. She is one of the world's best mothers, for she has adopted 40,000 war orphans. She is one of the world's best organizers of the early days of her marriage started what came to be known as the "New Life Movement in China." In china she is considered nearest thing to a dean of Arc because decade has produced one of time was chief of China's Air Force. She is the nearest thing to perence Nightingale in this generation for she has worked incessantly to develop a strong and well-equipped Chinese Red Cross. She is in Christian and is considered one of worlds most influential missionaries. It is claimed that Madame Chiang has done more than anyone else to bring the peoples of the East a knowledge of the West and of Christ to bring to the people of the West a knowledge of the East. In the long years of revolution and strife which have overspread her land and for civil unrest, she has tirelessly extended comfort, aid and inspiration to the sick and most helpless of their people; she has implacably sought to bring the treasons, and in all the separate and heartbreaking conditions which have faced her country she has been unflinching, intransigent, honorable and cheerful.

Madame Chiang is at present in London where she is appealing for China's help for China from the people of the Allied Nations.

The opportunity to aid China is now offered Canadians, who are asked to subscribe $250,000 to Chinese Relief Fund.

HOME AND SCHOOL MEETING

The Napanee Home and School Association met on the afternoon of February 24th, 1943 at the West Ward School. Mrs. T. Hunt, the president, opened the meeting by reading the Patriotism Pledge, followed by the Home and School, Inc., at the annual convention, in 1942.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. A letter from Rev. C. D. McLellin was read expressing the thanks of the congregation of Grace United Church for the sympathy extended them by the association. Mrs. F. Knox, the treasurer, gave her report, which showed a balance of $77.76. A class average of The Cunning Child, was presented by the pupils of Miss E. Robinson.

Dr. D. R. Hall addressed the meeting on "What We Can Do About Pneumonia." He said pneumonia, until very recently was referred to as the Captain of Death. Dr. Hall first explained that pneumonia was an inflammation of the lungs caused by germs. He mentioned the ways in which pneumonia might be prevented. Since the common cold is often a fore-runner. he suggested that these things be done to prevent colds from spreading. Give up, at the first sign of a cold and begin to doctor it. Do not go among crowds of people when suffering from a cold. Avoid contact with others in the home as much as possible. Get plenty of rest and avoid extreme changes in temperature. Avoid all undue fatigue. By checking a cold one may be able to prevent pneumonia. Dr. Hall described the serum treatment and also the sulfa-drug treatment. This he said, promised a cure in practically every case unless complications were present. One of the most important factors in the treatment of the disease was to recognize it in its early stages.

The symptoms might be one or all of the following, sudden chill, stabbing pain in the chest, high fever, cough, rusty coloured sputum.

Dr. Hall emphasized the value of the new sulfa treatment, sometimes called the "miracle drug".

Owing to a recent bereavement in the family, Mrs. R. Douglas, who was to have addressed the meeting on "Founders' Day" was unable to be present.

Mr. C. B. Creighton, on behalf of the Association, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Collis and Mrs. Leil served refreshments in the Household Science Room.

REVISED ORDER RE PRICES OF ORANGES

Under the terms of a Wartime Prices and Trade Board order reviving ceiling prices for oranges, a wholesaler is permitted to add to his laid-down cost the markup lawfully used by him during the base period, not to exceed fifteen per cent. of his selling price for each size. A retailer's markup is limited to 25 per cent. of the selling price or his maximum markup of the basic period, whichever is lower.

A NEW COLUMN

We believe that a column in "The Beaver" devoted entirely to news about members of the Armed Forces from Napanee and the County of Lennox and Addington would be of interest to the men themselves and to their many friends in the district. If enough items are sent in we will be pleased to devote space in the paper for such news. The success of the column will depend on the interest shown by the public.

Men and women in the Armed Forces value their home-town paper more highly than ever before, because it carries news which might not reach them in any other way.

At present "The Beaver" is being sent to a large number of men and women who are with the Armed Forces Overseas and in Canada. Individuals are not allowed to mail newspapers Overseas, but subscriptions for the papers can be taken out and the newspaper is allowed to mail the papers Overseas.

If any readers of "The Beaver" have items about enlisted men and women, which they wish to have printed, they may be sent or brought to the office before Monday morning each week and will appear in the paper.

R.A.F. Airdrome,
North Africa.

Carman Sexsmith left London, Ont. to go to London, England, seven years ago, as a doctor, but he is a R.C.A.F. Flying Control Officer on this advanced a.irdrome, now.

F.O. C. E. Sexsmith 34, of London and Napanee, Ont., is one of the latest members of the Royal Canadian Air Force to arrive in this important theatre of war, after serving on fighter and bomber stations in England.

Although he leaves a pretty wife behind him in London and his parents in Canada, he is looking forward to his new experience. Flying Officer Sexsmith was pleased to find so many of his fellow countrymen here, after travelling from England on one of the two Canadians on the ship.

The future Flying Control Officer attended the University of Western Ontario at London, for two years, in the faculty of arts, and then went to the National College of Physicians at Chicago for four years, receiving his degree of Doctor of Physic, Therapy and Chiropractic. After a short stay at home, he travelled to Glasgow as assistant to a New Zealand doctor.

Four months later he moved to London, England, and there became assistant to a West End practitioner, remaining for a year. Then he opened his own practice in London's West End, at the same time opening the Retrite Health Store, a modern, health food store which closed only when rationing made operation impossible.

In December 1940 he returned to Canada and attended the spring semester at Queen's University, then going to Kingston General Hospital, serving in the laboratory. But in November, 1941, he left the hospital and joined the R.C.A.F. at Ottawa, being commissioned in the Regiment Control Branch. After completing a technical course at Pennfield Ridge, N.S., he went to England and served on several R.A.F. stations there.

In September, 1942, Flying Officer Sexsmith, who is a fellow of the Royal Zoological Society, was married to Miss Lillian Bruce Martin, Glasgow, whom he had met on a visit to Edinburgh.

NUTRITON – TOPIC STUDIED AT I.O.D.E. MEETING

Mrs. John Dumont, who graduated from the University of Chicago with an A.B. in Household Economics, gave an address to the members of the I. O. D. E. Chapter of the I. O. D. E. at the Mac-Aulay Home. The subject was Nutrition and the speaker gave an interesting summary of the sources of the four principal vitamins —

A which is found in milk and cream; B1 in eggs, liver, kidney, and fruits; B2 in wheat germ and yeast; C in raw fruits and vegetables and canned tomatoes; and D in Cod Liver Oil. The discovery of vitamin D, the speaker declared to be one of the romances of modern medicine. Summer sunshine provides this necessary vitamin, but winter sunshine has only one-fourth the value of summer sunshine. For the greater part of the year, therefore, we are dependent on food as a source of vitamin D and since it would take 14 raw yolks to equal the value of one teaspoon of Cod Liver Oil, the value of the latter is very evident.

Few people reach the goal of sufficient vitamins or minerals, and the lack of these results in growth. Iodine, calcium and iron are all necessary. Iodine may be found in iodized salt, iron in vegetables, fruits and eggs, and calcium in milk. We should be careful that jams and candies do not crowd out of our meal foods with little or no value such as eggs and milk. It is intended to follow up this address with a practical talk on nutrition as applied to the every-day buying and cooking of food, at a meeting of this kind will be made later.

The Regent, Mrs. Dianne Hall, presided, and announced a gift of five dollars. This was voted to the Prisoners of War Fund. Mrs. Hall also gave a report of an address by Mrs. Harbour of the Chemical Branch of W. P. T. B. which was delivered to junior officers and workers organized in town.

After some discussion it was decided that a chapter sponsor, if possible a canteen for men of the armed forces, and Mrs. Dibb, Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Medd were appointed a committee to look into the matter and report to the next meeting.

Salvage will be collected on March 16, and fats are urgently needed.

On May 9, less than three weeks before their ninth birthday on May 28, the Quints will go to Superior, Wis., to participate in the launching of five merchant ships. The ships—each of which will be named for one of the Quintuplets—are to be assigned to the British Navy.

This will be the first time the black-haired, blue-eyed Quints have undertaken a journey of such length. They are looking on find in the South Sea. Marie by train, and then to their destination by ship. There is a remote possibility that they may fly.

The girls have never seen a ship, much less sailed on one — and the prospect of launching the ships and going to the United States has them thrilled and excited.

Plans for the journey have not yet been completed. It is believed the girls will be accompanied by nurses, police and several of their brothers and sisters, in addition to their parents.

This will be the first excitement in months for the famous five. They have been living relatively normal lives at their home in Callander.

Every day they attend a two-room school in the nursery, along with their brothers and sisters. They are in the third grade, and are doing well in their school work, as well as their vocal and piano lessons.

Teacher Now, Johnny, if you put your hand in one pocket and pulled out 75 cents, then in the other pocket and pulled out 25 cents, what would you have? Johnny: Somebody else's pants.

NEWS FROM HOME

Better than a best-seller in any barracks is the weekly newspaper from home, crammed with the story of friends and neighbors. BELOW, three of a kind, all gunners and all from a huddle over the latest copy of their favorite reading. From left to right, they're Russell Capeless, Bill Dulley, and William Bain.

THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross Society is making a nation-wide canvass for funds to enable it to continue its humanitarian work. The amount needed is $10,000,000. This will be secured if everybody gives generously. The work of the Red Cross is so well known that it hardly needs comment. Suffice it to note that its thousands of workers give their time and their substance, week after week, month after month, to provide those tender, needed and kindly ministries, which a government engrossed in the prosecution of a war cannot possibly do.

The Red Cross exists to minister to human need, to be of help to the soldier, in the hospital, the prisoners of war, the sailors and the airmen who are in constant danger, and whose need is incalculable. Up until the present time, their activities have increased with the intensity of the struggle. They have sent clothing to the victims of bombing raids in Great Britain, food and other necessities to the men who are behind barbed wire in enemy countries, supplies of all sorts to hospitals. There is no human need as a result of war they have not set themselves to meet.

As the war progresses and as the spring campaign opens, we in Canada will have to pay a price in suffering and anguish not yet even imagined. There can be no escaping it. And as human suffering increases, the demand for the help which the Red Cross can give, will increase proportionately. The Red Cross must be prepared for the serious days ahead. They should not have to be concerned over money. Nor will they be if, from every city, town, village and rural area, men and women give generously. There is plenty of money in the country. War workers, as well as farmers and men in business, are sharing in this wartime prosperity. He is a traitor to the cause for which we struggle, who hopes to make money out of the sacrifices of others. One way to void that, is to give generously to all good works.

FREE ENTERPRISE

There has been during the past few weeks such a resurgence of emphasis on free enterprise that we cannot very well escape the conclusion that it is part of a fairly well organized plan to prevent the orderly transfer of our economic controls from private to public agencies. Heads of motor organizations, bank managers, spokesmen for manufacturers and business generally, have come to the front in recent weeks to defend the system under which we have been living, and which has so lamentably failed us. Added support to this conclusion is derived from the editorials in leading papers. A few months ago, when the Battle of Britain was at its height, when the question was, not the survival of a certain economic system but whether Britain would survive at all, there was an ominous silence from all those voices which, now that the United Nations are becoming stronger day by day, are increasingly vocal.

Powerful influences are being brought to bear on public opinion in the hope that when the war is over, the softening up process will have paved the way for an onslaught on the bastions of more social control. Free enterprise has been a great boon to humanity. Under it much has been done to raise the standard of living. It has many notable achievements to its credit. But free enterprise as we have known it in the past, has been "Free Enterprise" for the few. What free enterprise did, those thousands of boys have learned — those boys who used to plod their weary way up and down these highways, sleeping in the Town Hall, looking for a hand-out, and haunted continually by the spectre of unemployment, frustration and insecurity.

The system now designated by the new name "Free Enterprise" has not stood the test of a highly organized, highly developed, efficient mechanical civilization. Twice within the life time of most of us, we have had to face the colossal tragedy of war, and the years between were years of feverish, scrambling for excitement and pleasure, alternating with a period of unparalleled poverty, unemployment and financial depression. Those who were the victims of that system had little "free enterprise." They had often enough no place on which to lay their heads.

It would be untrue to state that we, Anglo-Saxons, like regimentation, and controls. There are controls today which irk us, but which we submit to because of war conditions. We are a liberty-loving people. We want to have our freedom. We do not look forward with much relish to a regimented society after the war, and yet we have had a regimented society in the past. It has been regimented by the economic leaders, by those who held the economic power and money power in their own lands. As between an economy planned in favor of self-interest by the few and a planned economy in the interests of the many by the government, we have no difficulty in making a choice.

The fact that there is troubling of the waters, is a clear indication that the struggle for economic control is going to be a difficult and long drawn-out affair. Men do not give up power until they have to do so, and we can look forward, not without some apprehension, to the post-war world, when much that we are fighting for on the international battlefields, may have to be contended for on the home front.

HOPING FOR THE BEST

We were present, awhile ago, at the A. F. of L. Convention, when Labor Leaders from all over America and Canada, as well as Fraternal Delegates from Great Britain were assembled to discuss the problems of Labor. We were there the day that Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor in the Provincial Government, made his address. He told the thousand delegates that it was the intention of the Government to bring down a Bill at the forthcoming Session, which would provide, by law, for collective bargaining. He invited any who were interested, to go to his office and make whatever suggestions they wished. All such suggestions, he said, would be carefully considered. This announcement thrilled the great audience, which broke out into repeated cheers at the news.

All went merrily for a time. Then came the opening of Parliament, and all the splendid promises were broken, without a qualm of conscience. The Bill which, it was assumed had been drawn, was not presented, but, instead, the Government suggested a parliamentary committee to deal with Labor-Employer relations. Rightly, the Leader of the Progressive-Conservative Party refused to have anything to do with it, and refused to name any members to the committee. The result was that a committee made up from the Liberal Members of Parliament alone, was appointed. It is now meeting.

Just what will come out of this committee it is hard to say, but we are hardly optimistic enough to hope that a Bill will emerge which will give to Labor the collective bargaining rights which Mr. Heenan and Mr. Hepburn promised. Why the change in attitude, we do not know, though we might hazard a guess that pressure was brought to bear on the Party from powerful interests groups. It will be interesting to see what emerges from the magician's hat.

THE U - BOAT

Lord Winster, writing in "The Manchester Guardian" for January 15th, has this to say about the U-boat menace: "Hitler appears to have grasped the position at sea more clearly than that on land. His main difficulties, at present, spring from failure to assimilate the warnings of the last war against becoming engaged on two fronts. On the other hand, he has from the first, perceived that the High Seas Fleet which the Kaiser and Tirpitz built up never constituted any serious menace to this country (Britain), whereas the U-boat nearly brought us to defeat in 1917. He now sees in the U-boat, his one hope of retrieving victory. Short of victory, if he can interrupt the Allied overseas operations, he might achieve a stalemate, which would enable him to retain some of his European gains. All this depends on his ability to destroy Allied shipping. His fate hangs upon the U-boat as, in fact, does ours. We cannot possibly achieve victory unless we can keep the seas open for our shipping."

Lord Winster then goes on to show that Germany has achieved mass production of submarines and somehow or other has solved the problem of getting trained crews. He suggested that the way to beat the menace is by aircraft and convoys. In a recent statement of the Admiralty, it was pointed out that the danger to shipping, it was pointed out that the U-boats are now more prevalent in mid-Atlantic than nearer shore. The reason for this, probably, is that air patrols from shore bases have proved an effective defence against the U-boat. Consequently, they now hunt in packs, out of reach of shore-based planes.

The United Nations are not unaware of the danger to which Lord Winster calls attention. The terrific and continuous blasting of U-boat bases off the coast of France and in Germany is evidence of that. These raids are designed to prevent the assembling of the submarines, and their safe anchorage. This is one way in which the menace is being met. Then, too, while no statistics are given out, it must be assumed that the Fleet Air Arm is an effective weapon to hunt the submarine packs in mid-ocean.

Mr. Churchill, in his recent address, said that the Allied Nations have more shipping now than they had last year, and with the production of new boats rapidly reaching maximum output, it may be assumed that the new ships will outnumber the sinkings. But that is not enough. Every ship sunk means a cargo lost. Precious supplies do not reach their destination.

There have been many improvements in the means used to locate the submarines by surface boats and by aeroplanes. These will be perfected, no doubt. One difficulty is that every device which enables the U-boat to be found, also enables it to locate its pursuer. The struggle is always between defense and offense. There seems no royal road to the conquest of the submarine menace. Eternal vigilance by every means at our disposal and the increasing development of new carriers, will, in the end, provide the solution. In the meantime, there is little doubt but, as Lord Winster points out, the U-boat is the greatest threat with which the Allied Nations are faced.

"HOME TOWN" DAY
In The Services As Weekly Papers Arrive

"Home Town" day at army training camps across Canada is Friday — when the bulk of weekly papers is passed out at noon mess parades to eager soldiers in uniform. A quick glance over the front page and then at the local columns affords a foretaste of pleasure to be had that evening. Then it will remain the unvarying object of interest for an hour or two on bunk, in barracks or in a canteen, until some more auxiliary Service but

It is said that the weary editor, short of sleep because of his struggle to keep community happenings as presented as of old in spite of labor shortages, should have some inside means of looking over the shoulder of just one of his Army readers. His fatigue would melt somewhat in the happy revelation of the full warmth of appreciation toward his endeavor which service men agree is a top-ranker among vital morale building agencies.

It also would be nice to have these Mrs. Jones who dropped her washing to answer the telephone when the village newspaper that her youngest boy, Johnny, had been installed in the rank of corporal in his new field of duty abroad. She would see how mention of his name and military advancement at still further inspired the thrill — to be — hero of his widely separated comrades in arms.

Favorite week-end congregating spots in cities are reading rooms of Y.M.C.A. Legion, Knights of Columbus, or Salvation Army establishments where weekly papers from everyone's home town are found. In them every word dispels shadows of loneliness, and forms an intimate and friendly link stretching back from the new phase of duty to things so close to the heart. And prompt presence in them of these things so frequently do much to keep fellows on wholesome paths during idle moments in strange environments.

Regular appearance of home-town sheets comes as the greatest boon to the fellows whose folks and friends have been a bit on the move, less aide or writing.

Or, perhaps, the last letter from home neglected to mention that Aunt Jenny was able to pull through the pneumonia attack early this winter. But someone had been kind enough to remind the editor, and he didn't forget.

"She isn't a real aunt of mine," you see, but rather one of those souls who make themselves an aunt to everyone. This is explained to the newly-found pal in the adjoining bunk.

"You should see the swell socks she sends to our boys overseas. It's surely nice to know she's back on her feet again."

It kind of makes you realize all the things we have to fight for when you think about these ladies are doing," the other added by way of agreement. "Our paper just mentioned today about a woman near Brockville before in finally fell. She's doing so much Red Cross and sending Bundles for Britain work now, you wonder how she would find time for anything else."

"Take a look at this while I stoke up the stove," invited a third lad on the upper bunk as he extended the week's copy of what he considered Ontario's brightest journal. "We've got a town-sheet of our own, a minister in our church at home who really stirs up a guy's ambition," he explained. "Each week our paper prints something like this about his sermon the Sunday before: 'Rev. Blank's subject at church back home for a few minutes reading is:'

"This is my nine - year - old lad here," still another announced proudly, "writing to a name at the top of a school report list. "Last week he had his name on the front page for being first in a Saturday morning salvage drive," he boasted. "And here's what our local column is the name of a next-door youngster whose dad just reached England last month. I'll stick this clipping in a letter I'm sending him today. Here are some letters started from pre-removed centres now have gifts of former days in training at the town whose newspaper they just have received for the first time. Thus, capable training camp communities of editors in neighborhood weeklies may have their items scanned at increasing distances by eyes seeking a familiar name.

Lively discussion groups, which thrive on the luxury of the scores of new friends which army life brings to hand, add fuel for new thought in weekly columns.

Reference in an editorial to the noble work being done by a club of northern ten-year-old lads helping with chores of mothers whose own sons are in active service quickly became a topic of general conversation. It precipitated a two-hour talk around a hot stove in which ideas were exchanged about what could be done to develop more wholesome citizenship.

Reports of municipal discussions and of how home utilities are maintained in the face of restricted budgets and help shortages are following closely.

References to transportation problems and conservation methods and of ingenious ideas to conserve materials desperately needed in production. If we munitions also become the themes of interesting business conferences. Difficulties in obtaining fuel, one of the unpleasantsides of home life which many personal letters omit, make many a soldier a bit more careful in easing the consumption of coal in banking up the bus stove for the night.

So the weekly editor, who never forgets, is one of the most faithful correspondents from back home — and ever-active links between soldiers of freedom in the field and on the home front.

INSTRUCTIONS ISSUED FOR SUGAR FOR CANNING

Many housewives have been puzzled as to how to go about filling in the application for sugar for canning purposes, under the new ration book. The form requires, (in addition to the individual's name and address (1) the number of quarts of canned fruit put up while under 2) the number of pounds of sugar required; (3) the number of quarts of jam and jelly; (3) the number of pounds of sugar required; (4) the number of persons in the household.

To facilitate the filling in of this form, which requires careful computation, a canning guide with directions "how to figure the right amount of sugar you will need" has been issued by the Ration Administrator Wartime Prices and Trade Board in co-operation with the sugar, food conservation and transport Branch, W.P.T.B., and the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture.

Directions follow:

1 Count the sealers and jars you have.

2 Decide how many sealers you will use for canned fruit, and how many for jam and jelly.

3 Figure on how many quarts your fruit jar sealers hold, and how many quarts your jams and jelly jars hold.

4 Write the number of quarts of canned fruit and number of quarts of jam and jelly on your "Application for Canning Sugar."

5 Multiply the number of quarts of canned fruit by half-pound of sugar and write your answer on a piece of paper. Based on the Board's allowance of half-pound of sugar for each pound of fruit.

6 Multiply the number of quarts of jam and jelly by one and one-half pounds or sugar and write the answer on the piece of paper. Based on the Board's allowance of three-quarters pounds of sugar to each pound of fruit.

7 Add the answers together and you have the total number of pounds of sugar you will need. Write this number on your "Application for Canning Sugar."

8 Finish your application form by writing in the spaces provided, your name and address and the number of persons you will be feeding in your household.

9 Copy the serial numbers from the front of their ration books on to their applications and pin them to the completed application forms. Do not write anything else but the serial number on the family's application.

10 Put all the applications in an envelope and send to your nearest local ration board not later than April 15th.

For those whose home canning last year was not sufficient to meet their needs the situation as to sealers and rings is expected as follows:

Glass manufacturers are making more quart sealers this year to take care of replenishments and some extra home canning.

Rings for sealers will be available so that you will be able to replace old ones or have some in reserve if necessary. There should be enough rubber rings for screw top and spring top jars.

The cans will be available for those who used them to can fruits for their own use.

The Oil Controller is endeavoring to make provision for wax for covering jams and jellies.

KHARKOV— A GREAT VICTORY

The Red Army's recapture of Kharkov represents a great moral as well as material victory because this Ukrainian metropolis was the last big city which the Russians tried, and failed, to take in their winter and spring offensive one year ago.

Kharkov, Russia's fourth largest city and the hub of the economic life of the fabulous Ukraine, had been in Nazi hands since October 25, 1941, when it fell in the big German offensive that carried to the gates of Moscow.

The announcement by the German high command that Kharkov had fallen at the height of the Nazi's lightning campaign through Russia launched a jubilant celebration throughout Germany. Kharkov, at the eastern edge of the Ukraine—one of the wealthiest industrial and agricultural regions in the world—meant that the German armies had overrun Russia's "breadbasket" and now held the region which contained 60 per cent of Russia's blast furnaces, and produced 63 per cent of her iron, 42 per cent of her steel and 72 per cent of her aluminum.

So the Germans rejoiced and the Russians continued to fight on the defensive.

Two months later, in Jan., 1942, the Russian winter offensive was rolling back toward Kharkov and military observers predicted that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko — one of his armies again would hold the "Russian Pittsburgh," probably in a months time.

After four months of intermittent but bloody fighting in the approaches to the city, Timoshenko opened an all-out offensive to take it on May 12, 1942. Heavy artillery, bombers and Stormovik planes as parachutists were used in a three-way onslaught.

The Russians announced in a communique on May 31, 1942, that the Germans had lost 90,000 troops killed or captured in nineteen days of fighting before the city and that the Russians had lost 5,000 killed and 20,000 missing.

But Kharkov was not won last year. Pressure by the Germans on Timoshenko's left flank south of Kharkov in the Izyum-Barvenkovo sector necessitated withdrawal of troops from the Kharkov front. The Nazis eventually made Kharkov one of the four springboards for their 1942 summer offensive.

The other strongpoints in the 1942 line were Orel and Kursk north of Kharkov, and Rostov-on-Don south of it. Kharkov's capture leaves only Orel in German hands and puts the Nazis very well beyond its farthest 1942 advance along 250 miles of the Central southeastern front.

Kharkov provincial capital for 300,000 Ukrainians until the years when the administrative machine was moved to Kiev, had a population of almost 900,000 before the war. In a "fever of construction" industries started, it grew to a city of 420,000 people in 1926.

In addition to being the economic centre of the Ukraine, Kharkov occupies a strategic position, as it is a main railroads and highways between Moscow, 400 miles north, and the Crimea and rich Caucasus oil fields to the south. Six major and several minor railroads radiate from Kharkov and in normal times are served by six airlines.

The city is flanked on the east and west by the rich Kriviog Rog district, west of the Dnieper, a German hands and on the southeast by extensive coal fields in the Donetz basin.

Because of this favorable location Kharkov was crowded with industries before the war. It had many aviation equipment plants and motor or factories. The former was converted to manufacture of tanking planes and the latter to the production of Other factories turned out machines, electrical fixtures, chemicals, bicycles, clothing, woods and prepared food. Kharkov supplied other farm centres as well as tractors for the fertile Donetz basin region.

The city also served as headquarters for the Russian state railroads and the southern machinery and metallurgical trusts. Its university, resumed in 1923, grew to be the largest agricultural and mechanical expositions in Southern Russia. Courses are of its educational institutions and libraries and museums are regarded as a century

"BIBLE TEACHINGS AGAINST DRUNKENNESS"

In discussing the liquor question a while ago with a friend, he said: "But liquor is mentioned many times in the Bible," to which the reply was: "Yes, but never with approval." There are other evils mentioned in the Bible, stealing and murder, for example. But they are always condemned. The fact that they are mentioned cannot be used as an argument in favor of the use of alcohol for beverage purposes.

There are three passages in today's lesson which reflect the Biblical attitude towards liquor. The first of these might, with little alteration, describe the way in which unbridled lust gets the better of men bent on invasion. The Amalekites had stolen large quantities of property from Ziklag. It is not our intention to condone such actions. The story is one of unadorned historic narrative. It merely records what these Amalekites took all they had seized because they got intoxicated when celebrating the victory. The point is not so much that they gained by their prowess in war, but that they lost what they had gained by their drunkenness.

The second section is from Isaiah, the great prophet of Judah. More than once Isaiah goes to bat with those who were giving themselves to licentious and loose conduct. He railed against the priests and the prophets generally for, on them rested a heavier responsibility. Here he is dealing with the people of Samaria. They were about to be attacked by the Assyrians. NTe prophet sees the diseased people as incapable of withstanding a long seige. As a matter of fact the seige lasted three years, and while it was not subjected to the heavy artillery and the dive bombers which challenged the city's resistance, it suffered incredible hardships before it finally fell.

The prophet was quite sure of the inherent weakness of the people due to their loose living, their haughty way of life, and their drinking habits. To condemn in no uncertain language the priests and the prophets who had succumbed to the drink habit which he said made them err in vision and stumble in judgment. There can be no doubt but that he was on safe ground. It will be remembered that both Luther and Wesley, in later days, have something to say about similar conditions in their own day. Fortunately, there is almost a general opposition to the liquor habit on the part of the Christian churches, and the teaching of strong drink, in a rarity there is no safeguard against alcoholism once it permit themselves to come under influence of strong drink.

In the third passage, Paul, drinking with a long list of evils, fornication, uncleanliness, idolatry, sorcery, strife, jealousies, factions, divisions, parties. He has a list of those baser qualities of all attitude towards liquor. The first of these might, with little alteration, describe the way in which unbridled lust gets the better of men bent on invasion. The Amalekites had stolen large quantities of property from Ziklay. It. is not our intention to condone such actions. The story is one of unadorned historic narrative. Women's Part In British Transport

BY OSWALD DUTCH

English women have performed wonders in this war. They took their place beside their male comrades in the front line during the air-raids; they form part of anti-aircraft gun crews and "man" — if one may use the expression — the barrage balloons. They direct the huge searchlights and manipulate the delicate instruments for the detection of approaching enemy aircraft (radiolocation) and they assist the war services in a thousand other ways. All this is well known, but it may surprise some to hear that one task now performed by women is the lifting of locomotives weighing 50 tons and that this is now the daily work of some women in England.

Women were employed in the various transport services with great success in the last war. This time women have from the first taken over the full work of men called to the colors. Now 600,000 men and women are at present employed in the British transport services. Before the war this number included about 20,000 women, most of them employed as clerks or cleaners or in canteens. At the end of 1942 more than 160,000 women were working on the railways, the inland waterways and airlines — that is one-third of the total number of employees.

In addition 230,000 to 300,000 women drive lorries or tractors in Home Army, or work in garages and repair shops and perform numerous other duties in the transport services.

There was one task in the railway repair shops and goods yards that had never before been entrusted to women. But women now all in cranes and lift with one turn of the hand whole truck-loads locomotives weighing 50 tons, heavy machine parts, and great iron constructions. The work demands not only care in operating the crane but steady nerves and a sure hand.

Women bus and train conductors became a common sight in the last war. Now, in Scotland, Yorkshire and parts of Southern England many of the bus drivers are women. They perform platform duties on main lines and underground stations and it is common enough on London stations to see comparatively fragile-looking, yet strong, women taking large cases and heavy bags from men passengers and acting as porters, carrying them to the luggage halls or to taxis.

An entirely new branch of work has been opened to women on the inland waterways. England is covered by an extensive network of canals where goods are transported by barrels of barges. Before the war one often saw the bargeman's wife sitting on the deck with her children or working in the kitchen. Now barges have been taken over entirely by women. The children can be sent to special homes and women not only navigate the barges, work the locks and repair the boats, but sometimes even load and unload the cargoes. Two girls began on their own initiative to carry grain regularly from the Severn to Worcester in a barge, and their example was quickly followed by others.

The significance of these specialized occupations must not be exaggerated. The most valuable and important work performed by British women is not the various spectacular tasks and outstanding deeds of heroism, but the regular performance of small, modest tasks of maintenance, cleaning and repair of the means of transport. Almost everywhere in England women are working side by side with men. At first they were a small minority; about one woman to ten men. As the war continues the percentage of women in the British transport services grows. There are some regular shops and transport stations where ninety women work with ten men, and the day may not be far distant when many departments will be taken over entirely by women.

During the air raids all these women have stood their ground as well as their men comrades. It is a matter of course for them. But it cannot be considered a matter of course that all these hundreds of thousands of women have everywhere proved their worth or that even in the strenuous monotony of routine work they have shown themselves equal in ability to their male comrades.

MARSHAL ROMMEL IN PROFILE

In 1917, at Caporetto, a German lieutenant at the head of a small scouting group of a dozen men set up against a heavily manned Italian mountain stronghold. He charged and bluffed his opponent into surrender. There was no casualties. This combination of pluck and luck somehow caught the imagination of the German command. The young subaltern got the Pour-le-Merite, Imperial Germany's equivalent to the V.C. His name was Rommel.

One day in 1923 a semi-military troop of armed youths broke into the North Bavarian town of Koburg, beat up the people in the streets overwhelmed the local police and for a few hours took control of the town—long enough for their leader, a Munich beer-cellar orator called Hitler, to watch them march past and hold one of his blood-thirsty harangues. After this they dispersed, never to be caught. The storm-troopers had made their first appearance. Their commander, a front-officer wearing the Pour-le-Merite was one Sturmführer Rommel.

Taken together, these two episodes, which laid the foundation of his later career, give us the measure of the man; pluck, luck resource, toughness, self-confidence, recklessness and an unmistakable streak of brutality.

He has many of the qualities which make the popular soldier and at the same time he is something of an adventurer — and something of a thug. He is a Nazi in the most favourable guise. Still a Nazi.

The German Propaganda Ministry has additionally avoided giving any of the German field-marshals and generals a "build up" such as was given to von Hindenburg or von Mackensen in the last war.

All military successes are attributed to the unique military genius of the Führer. There is one exception to this rule. Rommel. He—and he alone among the military leaders—has, until lately, been written up whenever possible.

There is a reason for this. Politically speaking, Rommel does not belong to The Generals. He is rather a sort of Nazi Fifth Column in their midst.

He has never seen that Holy Grail of the German Army — the General Staff. From inside. He is a ranker. He has no "von" before his name, no Prussian and aristocratic background. He has not been through the Hitler School of military tactics operated by the quasi-scientific mass-monastic tradition of Moltke, Schlieffen and Seeckt.

Military opinion in Germany does not regard him as one of all a great commander. His career has been made by a talent for propaganda and by his genius for personal leadership. Rommel was not of the picture until 1922 to 1938. Even his career with the Storm Troopers had been inconspicuous enough to keep him out of the danger zone in the bloodbath of June 30, 1934. He rejoined the Army only after the great rearmament drive had begun and prospered moderately. By 1938 he was a colonel.

But when Hitler made his triumphal entry into Sudetenland after Munich, he suddenly remembered the young man who had, sixteen years earlier, led him into Koburg, and put the cheeky Colonel Rommel in command of his personal headquarters.

Higher strategy and organization did not interest him so much — for him the brilliance and the glory of conquering non-stop rides! The business of organizing supplies was left to Major-General Cruewell, whom the German General Staff, called "Rommel's Brain." Cruewell later went with Rommel to Africa as his chief of staff. Today he is a British prisoner.

Had Rommel's brain thereby left him? At least his luck had — this Hitler, to watch them march past and hold one of his blood-thirsty harangues. After this they dispersed, never to be caught. The storm-troopers had made their first appearance. Their commander, a front-officer wearing the Pour-le-Merite was one Sturmführer Rommel.

CAN FINLAND BREAK FROM THE AXIS FOLD?

BY GLENN BABB

The efforts to get Finland out of the war seriously are nothing new. The United States Government late Summer Wallace in effect advised Finland to withdraw from the anti-Soviet coalition and sue for peace. A recent ex-premier of the American delegation to Helsinki, and it is no secret in Washington that the Finnish Government would like to get out of the war. Finland's President Ryti is the only important member of the Axis who has never visited Berlin. Finland's foreign minister, Rolf Witting, is the only important member of the Axis who has never visited Berlin. Finland's foreign minister, Rolf Witting, is the only important member of the Axis who has never visited Berlin.

Finland's hopes for such a peace rest largely on the prospect of the post-war world. Finland's leaders are convinced that Germany will be defeated, but they believe that Russia will be so weakened that she will be unable to dominate Europe. Finland's leaders hope that the United States will be strong enough to prevent Russia from dominating Europe, but they are not sure that the United States will be strong enough to do so. Finland's leaders are also convinced that Great Britain will be too weak to prevent Russia from dominating Europe.

Latest variation of the gag about the cadger and the cup of coffee: one man stops another on the street and asks him for 5c to buy a cup of coffee. "Why," said the man asked, "a cup of coffee still costs only a dime." "Sure," answered the panhandler, "but I've got to go to Brazil to get it!" . . . Latest Hollywood gadgetry: Empty swimming pools because of a chlorine shortage. . . . Alfred Hitchcock's next film, "Lifeboat," will be his first in Technicolor . . . William S. Orson Wells and Linda Darnell created quite a sensation riding around Hollywood in a horse-and-buggy.

Soon March will be coming in like a lion, and bringing with it the annual awards of the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences to actors, writers, technicians and so on. Each award is symbolized by a gold statuette, known as The Oscar, a humble beloved forever by all who win it and sought after avidly each year. Like many tokens of success, The Oscar brings happiness or security.

Hollywood folk, particularly writers, are regarded as an improvident lot. The rewards are much greater in the Cinema City but they seem to go faster.

Some years ago a young movie hopeful, Charles Mackay, came down to his last quarter. He took a day's work on a road gang to earn enough money for that night's sleep in a cheap boarding-house. Sweaty, tired and discouraged, he returned to his room. In the hopes of finding a cleaner shirt than his own he looked through a closet reserved for the belongings of "guests" who had decamped without paying rent. He found a threadbare sweater. Wrapped up in it was—

An Academy Award gold statuette!

Mackay looked up a writer he knew, Arthur Caesar, who won The Oscar in 1934. Together they went to the Academy Records. The records showed that the abandoned gold statuette been awarded to Pierre Collings in 1936 for writing "Louis Pasteur." Collings had served to bring honor to himself, Paul Muni and Warner Brothers.

Yet Pierre Collings had died in poverty and his precious lay tossed in a closet corner. When illness overtook him and paired his earning capacity, he hadn't enough left of the thousands of dollars Hollywood had paid him to obtain medical attention and comfortable surroundings.

Probably ashamed, he had kept his needs to himself.

BARBED WIRE and enemy guards "do not a prison make" for Canadian soldiers captured by the enemy. Their thoughts, winging across the sea, meet Red Cross parcels on their way to them. Last year, the enemy said "pass" to 2,000,000 such parcels. They were packed with 22,000,000 pounds of food and comforts welcomed by men to whom the barest necessities have become luxuries.

But, most of all, to each prisoner every Red Cross parcel is a message from home—a definite assurance that he is not forgotten, a reminder that no captured Canadian soldier is ever marked "off strength" by the Red Cross.

Thirty percent of the money you gave to the Red Cross last year was used to provide parcels for prisoners of war. The money you give now will help to keep up and increase this flow of good cheer and hope to these lonely men.

How To Make Clothes Last Longer

Moving into the field of conservation which it proposes to cultivate to the limit during the current year and as long as there are difficulties at civilian supply, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is out with a series of hints to regard to the care of clothing, which if considers consumers will want to make last as long as possible under existing conditions.

Here they are:

1. Hang up suits or dresses. Use a hanger to keep the shape and prevent wrinkles.
2. Ventilate clothes closets. Let air circulate freely through your clothes. Brush your clothes after a few days of wear.
3. Save repairing bills and preserve the cloth. It slightly wrinkled, hang from the rod of the shower curtain, while hot water is running in the tub. The steam removes minor wrinkles quickly.
4. Use wide-shoulder hangers. Give the proper "poise" to a dress. A padding of tissue paper on an ordinary hanger is sufficient. Or roll up a magazine to give "roundness" to the supporting shoulders.
5. Hang skirts straight and belts separately.
6. Remember "a stitch in time saves nine" and a button well-sewn lasts longer than one hanging by a thread.
7. Mend tears and snags right away. It saves time and money in the long run.
8. Reinforce buttons or fasteners that seem to be pulled.
9. Wool dresses and suits pick up dust quickly. Brush carefully after street wear.
10. Cover shoulder and top of dress or suit with a paper cape to keep off dust. It saves cleaning and your clothes are always ready for wear.
11. Prevent cloth rot from perspiration by the use of underarm shields.

Until The Allies Carry The War To German Soil

BY SCOTT YOUNG

A Swedish journalist who spent a twenty-months period, ending in June as a newspaper correspondent in Berlin has reached London with the most comprehensive report of the German internal situation made available to the public since the outbreak of war between the United States and Germany.

He is Erik Lindquist, correspondent of the Swedish labor newspaper Social-Demokraten, and he travelled throughout a press conference with Empire newsmen that there is no hope of an internal collapse in Germany until Allied armies open a second front in Europe and carry the war to German soil.

He spoke through an interpreter, but his extreme emphasis of that point was evident even before his words were translated.

"The Germans have a slogan: 'The Fortress of Europe'," he said, "and that means just what it says. They consider Germany the kernel of this fortress, the other European countries the outer fortifications. Even with defeats of the German armies of the East, the war is far from German. Bombing helps bring it home to them, but with all the bombing, the cutting of food rations and the Russian and African defeats, the German people still feel secure in their fortress.

"The Allies will have to open a second front in western or southwestern Europe and smash through these outer fortifications to the kernel of the fortress before there will be any question of the German people as a whole losing faith in Hitler's regime.

He told how the German people have accepted propaganda streaking Hitler's infallibility.

"Last year when the Russian campaign was costing tens of thousands of lives, the Germans still did not blame Hitler," he said. "On the home front he remained at fault, and cheered when he dismissed them. I have no doubt, knowing the mentality of the Germans, that they take the same attitude in these last Russian defeats."

He told of the evil German philosophy which prevented newspaper stories of bombings on German cities from allowed Russian and Allied bodies to be about the streets of Kiev for everyone to see — as a means to sustain saboteurs.

He said there was no evidence the Hitler love of Nazi intention but it generally was assumed that Goering knew of the plot. He said Goering's power was great and that he was unquestionably that. Hess could have taken an aircraft and got out of the country. The affair was interpreted after the beginning of the Russian campaign as a murderer's references and in the liberal parody of a popular song, "we are going to Scotland for Peace," the next two lines run, "but if one goes there he is declared mad."

Goebbels Looks to S.S.

He said that during the last two years Goebbels has been steadily consolidating by Himmler and Goebbels, his leaned more and more towards the S.S. as anything to make up a modern army except the S.S. and Goering's friendship to assure his S.S. of air support in suppressed interior revolts could not eventually may arise.

Lindquist was with a group of foreign correspondents taken to the Russian front late in October, 1941, after Dietrich, the press chief, had declared "the Russian armies are destroyed, in pieces and never be considered a threat."

Lindquist thinks Dietrich believed what he said, "which indicates that even the press chief was extremely poorly informed of actual conditions," but said that the trip has exactly the opposite effect to what was meant. Dietrich wanted to prove to the correspondents that the Russians were destroyed.

Instead, many of the correspondents were more thorough in the ture of the Russian retreat, how every acre of lost ground had been made costly for the conquerors by destruction.

"The German treatment of civilians in the occupied areas varied," he said. "The Jews who had not been evacuated by the Russians were shot by the Germans immediate-ly-guns. The Russians were better treated although they got no food if they did not consent to work for the Germans. But I saw Russian civilians pass Germans on the streets of Kiev and look right through them as if acknowledge their conquerors."

Secret Night Slaughter

"There were bodies in the streets every morning — people who had been shot by the Germans during the night. No secret was made of these killings, no attempt made to hide them from the correspondents.

Back in Germany, there was little evidence of an underground movement except for Allied and German statements occasionally that a certain number of "enemies of the state" had been executed. He said the only organized underground movement was conducted by Communists, with whom German social democrats had united for this purpose.

Food rations in Germany were small, but well organized so that persons engaged in war work and heavy industry got more than others. He said there was no comparison between the food rations in Germany and in Britain, with Britain's far the best.

BOY SCOUTS VARIETY SHOW IS GREAT SUCCESS

CAPACITY AUDIENCE VIEWS INITIAL PRESENTATION OF LOCAL TROOP

Evidence of the increasing activities of the No. 1 Napanee Troop of the Boy Scouts Association was seen in the successful show which the Troop presented last Thursday, the 22nd of February, in the N.C.V.I. auditorium during National Boy Scout Week.

A capacity audience enjoyed the two hour show which was presented by the Troop under the guidance of Scoutmaster Werk Poole. Every member of the troop of more than fifty boys took part and the entire programme was put on by them with the exception of the musical numbers, which were excellently presented by the N.C.V.I. Orchestra which, however, counts in its members several of the Scouts.

Both from the interest shown in the project by the citizens and from the money raised to further Troop activities, the evening was a success. Over $60.00 was raised, half of which will be sent to the Chin-Up" Fund of the Boy Scouts Association, to assist Blitzed Scout Troops in Great Britain.

The address of welcome to the audience was delivered by Assistant Scoutmaster Glen Holmes and then the Scouts started off on a program covering both the serious and humorous. On the serious side were displays of Tenderfoot and Second Class Scout Tests. Bob Hall, Bill Howitt, Harold Babcock and Allan Elliott demonstrated the Tenderfoot Tests of Scout Laws and Promises. Union Jack, Boast Staff and Knots. Bill Hunter, Jim Kinkley, Gerald Creighton, Don Hogarth and Jack Boyle demonstrated the Second Class Tests on First Aid, Signalling, Compass uses and Fire lighting.

In lighter vein were three short skits, "Hot News," "Worst Alibi" and "Krazy Kamp." The first of these depicted an editor's office and was arranged by David McLellan, assisted by Gary Smith, W. Allenbrack, Bob Madden, Don Smith and Don Tate. Worst did, showing what not to do in a crisis was presented by Bill Elliott and he was helped by Bob Hall, D. Moore, Fred Dibb, John Daly, Mike Fisher, Murray Hogarth, Bill Rolfey. Krasy Kamp demonstrated a catastrophe in setting up camp and was arranged by Bill Tompkins with Jack Boyle, Bob Welby and Jack Thompson.

The most colorful part of the programme was perhaps the actual investiture of three Scouts by Scoutmaster Werk Poole. The three boys were Billy Vine, Cole Smith and Bob Bowen. This was done with great ceremony with the patrol leaders lighting their respective patrol flags and with other Scouts holding the Union Jack and Troop Flag. The new Scouts were accepted into the Troop after repeating the Scout Promise and were presented with their Scout Badges by the Scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmaster.

Other items during the first part of the programme were a humorous duet by a campfire on the stage, the Scouts being led by Don Elliott on a vocal number, and a solo excellently given by Scout Jack Blakely.

The final part of the evening was a play in which all of the Patrol Leaders took part. The play was entitled "Murder" and was directed by Mrs. C. D. McLellan. The cast included in the play were Bill Tompkins, Dave McLellan, Murray Wilson, Gordon McLellan and Bob Welby. The play was well presented and showed the work put into it by Mrs. McLellan and the boys.

The programmes and tickets were printed by the boys with assistance from Miss Jean Lancaster of the N.C.V.I. staff. A number of posters were also done by the Scouts and displayed in town.

WAR IMPROVES BRITISH FOOD

Britain is receiving in time of war a food ration that is in fact better than when peace comes.

This education is one of the most important contributions Lord Woolton and the Ministry of Food have made to the war effort and the reputation of the Minister it will have a permanent effect.

The small white - haired peer who has held office two and one-third years, and earned the affection and praise of "the entire country, is justly proud of the educational campaign which has been one of the features of his programme.

"All knowledge affects conduct," he says, explaining why he believes that the knowledge of food values that the people of Britain have received during the war is likely to be a permanent asset.

He cited the case of children to whom proper foods are available to enable them to grow to manhood and womanhood, free from the ailments of undernourishment.

Before the war, he says, well-to-do parents knew what foods to give their children, but this knowledge was not common among working class parents. Since the war, and its consequent food control, all families have been on more or less the same diet and the Ministry has made available to parents not only the food but the knowledge necessary to bring up healthy children.

"And this knowledge," he says, "is not something which will be forgotten."

In the future, he predicts, children will be more scientifically fed than in the past, and he expressed the hope that the limited pre-war programme of feeding children at school only if they were undernourished has been replaced for all time by the modern idea that all children at school need hot noonday meals.

British restaurants and factory canteens are another war development Lord Woolton expects to remain. They have brought "luxury" meals within the working man's means and their benefits are such that they must continue after the war.

FOOD PROBLEMS IN GREAT BRITAIN

BY WALTER R. LEGGE

Another in a series of articles written by W. R. Legge and C. V. Charters, who represented the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in a recent tour overseas.

Canadians everywhere seem to be tremendously interested in everything about Britain, and they are right behind Bomb Damage, and Food.

After eating meals for six weeks in training camps, hotels and the private homes of friends or relatives, editors began to have a good idea of conditions there.

Probably the outstanding feature of the meals is the total absence of any white bread or rolls. At first one inclined to think that the dark bread is excellent, but after a few weeks of seeing no else, there is a yearning for some good white bread. Perhaps after a longer period one would become so accustomed to it that it would be preferred.

Meat items are entirely absent, such as citrus fruits, — oranges, grapefruit and lemons — and fresh fruit, cream and some other items. Fresh eggs are very scarce and they are reserved for sick people, young children. Fresh milk is also difficult to obtain. There is, however, a fair supply of powdered eggs and powdered milk.

Most foods are rationed, and others are sold on the point system. The weekly ration for one person when we were there was: butter 2 ounces, tea 2 ounces, sugar 8 ounces, bacon 4 ounces, cheese 4 ounces, jam 16 ounces, meat 23 cents worth and canned goods 24 points.

The prices are fixed by the government which also controls the distribution of supplies. This is the reason why consumers may register with one storekeeper and may rationed goods there only. The storekeeper then receives only sufficient stocks to look after the requirements of the people who are registered with him. This is an important part of the whole method of keeping everyone supplied.

THE MINISTER OF FOOD

The man who is responsible for the smooth working of this system and the supplying of sufficient food to Lord Woolton, the Minister of Food and everyone over there seems convinced that he has done a marvelous job. In fact what he has done is one of the big accomplishments of the war, for he has taken the worry of sufficient food away from the people. They need have that all they have to do is to go to the store where they are registered and present their coupons and the FOOD WILL BE THERE.

Perhaps the worst of the blitz Lord Woolton's department never failed to feed the people.

The editor attended a conference with the Minister of Food on the 1941 crop, and was greatly impressed with his ability and sincerity. He told of his visits to the provinces for their assistance in feeding Britain, and expressed his appreciation of the co-operation which Canadians had imposed upon themselves in order to help Britain.

Imports of food from Canada are up over four times per year. The people of food boys all the food imported into Britain, and over-see the Canadian Food Mission.

The Ministry endeavours to maintain a standard of nutrition for all. Food scientists are at work on all the time trying to provide a proper diet, calories and vitamins through substitutes. The needs of children and the sick are specially provided for. Lord Woolton said, "It is the children who will have to pay up the mess; and they must grow up strong."

The best way to maintain morale, Lord Woolton believes, is to keep the people well fed, and in this he has succeeded in a wonderful way.

CANTEENS AND RESTAURANTS

Part of his plan to keep the people well fed was the establishment of canteens in all large factories for the supplying of food to smaller factories, and the British Restaurants, sometimes called Woolton's Restaurants, to provide meals where canteens are not practical. The number of these restaurants nearly doubled in 1942 and the meals served to amount to a staggering figure.

Later the Canadian editors were taken to some of these restaurants for a meal, and had soup, meat and vegetables, pudding and tea for a shilling and fourpence. Most of the big ones were crowded, and one had to wait for a table.

The canteen which we visited was a marvel of cleanliness and efficiency, and could serve 1200 meals in twelve minutes.

CHANGING THE PUBLIC DIET

Lord Woolton believes that he is permanently changing the public diet. He says he is convinced that it is good for them to eat, and will continue to eat more vegetables and fruit, even after plenty of all kinds of foodstuffs will be available. They are also learning to prepare and cook in better ways. The result of all this is that the health of the people is better than it ever has been before.

As our conference drew to a close, Lord Woolton's secretary asked him what was going to happen after the war. After a few moments of thought, Lord Woolton replied, "Well, I am going to have a nice, thick, steak."

THE POINTS SYSTEM

Selling food on points was designed primarily to control the distribution and supply of foods which are not rationed. Certain foods which are raised or lowered as the available supply goes up or down. The number of points necessary to purchase that food is increased, and the demand falls off.

If some new food is available, but is not proving popular enough, the number of points is reduced. In this way the use of a certain brand of pressed ham was increased until it now is quite popular over there.

The people look on this point business as a game which appeals to their gambling instinct. They like to guess what item will have the points increased, and buy it; and it is often happens that the points are decreased instead, the people say, "Woolton has done us again, now we'll get something else."

Between the rationing and the points the queues which might have been a problem have been eliminated. The only queues which we saw all the time we were in England were at theatres and bus stops.

They tell a good story about the queues. At one time if a shopper saw a queue she would join up, with the idea that there must be something good for sale. One day a queue formed in front of a butcher and stretched around the corner. A woman saw this long queue and joined up at the end of it. After a few minutes she asked the man in front of her, "What have they got today?" The Tails of Hoffman," he replied. "How do you cook them?" she enquired.

THE QUEEN'S MESSENGERS

Lord Woolton praised the women who are known as the "Queen's Messengers," an organization of women volunteers who go into blitzed areas and help in the emergency feeding. Our beloved Queen is the head of the organization. Wherever there is a raid which causes damage, a mobile canteen with some of the Queen's Messengers is sent immediately to feed the people. These messengers with their food and cheer are proof that someone is looking after them.

Shipping is the greatest concern of Lord Woolton, and so every effort is made to provide food that does not have to be brought in by ships. For instance the most concentrated food or to use the most concentrated food or the most valuable in value.

That is why powdered eggs are so valuable, for it is said that 80 tons of dried eggs are equal in food value to 2,100 tons of feedstuff for hens.

The margarine is now so reinforced with vitamins that its nutritive value is equal to that of butter, and it is very difficult to tell from butter. At one hotel we suspected the margarine served that it was margarine instead of butter, and on enquiry found we were right. We probably often were served margarine without knowing it.

Hotel meals are limited to three courses and the price ceiling is five shillings, but in some cases service charges are allowed. At our London hotel the price of the dinner was five shillings, but the service charge was seven shillings and sixpence, and a charge for the coffee was two shillings and sixpence, bringing the cost of the meal up to fifteen shillings. However, these service charges are also under regulation.

I think Britain's diet has changed, and many items of food are difficult or impossible to obtain, British people have sufficient wholesome food, thanks to Lord Woolton. It is no wonder that everybody admires the job he is doing.

"BATTLE OF THE SUPPLY LINES"

BY JOE ALEX. MORRIS

United Press Foreign Editor

The war is about to enter a new phase, the United Press foreign editor reports in the following dispatch. The information contained in it represents the best opinion in London, supplemented by United Press correspondents in the various battle zones.

London— A gigantic "battle of the supply lines" impends in the European and African theatres of war, and the Axis is preparing to throw more than 500 submarines into it in an effort to choke off munitions and food for Allied armies.

It will not be as dramatic a battle as the clash of tank against tank and the conflict of bomber against fighter in the air, but it will have the great bearing on the length of the war. The best opinion is that a good part of 1943 will be devoted to the "battle of the supply lines" and that it will be a military miracle if it enables the Allies to knock out the Axis this year.

Broadly speaking, these are the objectives of the rival forces:

ALLIES To close a steel ring around the Axis forces of Europe and at the same time protect the vital network of communication lines which carry the bulk weight of American, British and Russian strength against Germany.

AXIS To delay, and, if possible, prevent the closing of the Allied ring and to win time to build submarines and airplanes to be used in attacks on United States supply lines, particularly the flow of materials from America. They plan, according to reliable authorities, includes offensive action by the Japanese whenever and wherever the results appear promising. The Germans and Italians were said to have about 500 submarines into that campaign.

Some well - informed persons believe the Axis eventually will commit itself to a major offensive against the Allies will exhaust themselves to the point where they will settle for a compromise peace. Others would include, in the minds of the German leaders, the possibility that they that he may stop to get in a lucky punch that would suddenly turn the war in their favor.

Hardly anyone familiar with the situation believes that Hitler will risk Bad weather which has hampered Allied air and mechanized activity has given him respite and a chance to strengthen his Tunisian forces. He

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN S. FRALICK

In the week of her 99th birthday there passed peacefully away on Tuesday morning, February 23rd, 1943, the well-prepared soul of the late Catharine Mary Bell at her home in Morven, after an illness of three weeks. She was the widow of the late John S. Fralick, who predeceased her 19 years ago.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Wm. E. Bell and Mary Ann Sewarth. She was the last remaining member of a family of nine. Having lived her entire life in this community, she was a very interesting person with whom to converse, her memory of the old days was very vivid.

The deceased was the personification of the highest ideals of womanhood, and was admired by many who knew her for her self-sacrificing devotion to her family and her church. No neighbor in need of help was ever turned away from her door. Always happiest when doing something for others, her duties will be hard to fill.

The funeral was held at the home of her son, and was in charge of a family friend, the Rev. R. W. Brick and the interment made by Mr. Street was her personal request.

She leaves to mourn her passing her son, George, and his wife; one grandson, Harold, and three nieces-in-law, Mrs. M. Bell, Toronto; Mrs. W. C. Bell, Detroit, and Mrs. S. P. Hirst, Long Island, New York. The pallbearers were her nearest neighbors: M. Shetler, H. Shetler, H. Stone, E. Clarke, W. Haycraft, and E. V. Denyes.

J. T. Yates and a dinner set was presented to them and a silfold to Mr. Yates. The following is the address:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Pringle and Mr. Yates, — We your neighbors and friends have met with you this evening on the eve of your departure to your new home to express in a small measure our sincere appreciation of all you have meant to us in the years you have lived among us, your helpfulness in the time of sickness, your attendance at the House of God as well as your good neighborliness, at all times. We are sorry you are leaving us but we while miss you we will not forget you. We feel assured your prayers and interests will still be ours, and the cause of righteousness will continue to be the chief interest of your life.

May God's blessing rest mightily upon you in the remaining years of your life. Hoping you will visit our neighborhood in the future as often as it is possible.

We now ask you to accept this token of kind remembrance from your neighbors and friends.

WANTED

365,000,000 dozen eggs ..... one million dozen a day!

That's what we Canadian poultry raisers have been asked to turn out this year to help win the war and write the peace.

W. A. Brown, head of the Dominion Poultry Services, says that we might "get by" with 345,000,000 dozen — but asks for 365,000,000 if it is humanly possible. Even the lower figure is 65,000,000 dozen above last year.

Canada needs those eggs the war 1943. Part of the increase has to come from present laying flocks but another part will have to come from pullets intended for the season.

If birds hatched this month are to come to deliver the substantial number of eggs that's wanted, they'll have to be kept warm, clean, shaded from the sun and given right.

We honestly believe that this is the profitable as well as the patriotic thing to do this year. Start good chicks early in March and you can handily supply eggs and as early as next fall. Make sure you get them from a hatchery that is interested in the future of poultry keeping as well as the present. Ours is one of them.

Remember, it is exceptionally heavy for certain breeds. If possible give us a second and third choice on breeds, sexes and date wanted. Early started chicks available—first come first served.

The Vicar was taking one of the young men of his parish to task.

"William," he said gravely, "I hear that you have been raising false hopes in several maiden hearts. Rumor says that you're engaged to one girl in this village, another in Little Mudford, and a third in Ditchley. How can you do such a thing."

With an uneasy grin, William replied: "Well, sir, I've got a bicycle."

WHAT WILL SPRING MEAN IN THE UKRAINE?

Mud, slush and sleet—enemies of any army, and a few weeks distant in southern Russia.

Last year many southern roads upon which both armies were relying became quagmires in mid-February.

This makes operations extremely difficult for both parties, but there is every indication that the weather isn't going to lessen the Red Army's enthusiasm for the offensive.

Deep mud is a great hindrance to tanks. But in the Don basin and the Ukraine there are numerous hard-surfaced highways and the Russians also hold most of the railways. It is customary in Russia for roads to run not far from railways, but where the Soviets possessing the rails they also have the roads.

The mud may slow operations this year but it's a safe guess that some thing big will be going on just the same, somewhere along the vast Russian front.

It should also be pointed out that, as the roads get worse with the thaw, fighting weather usually gets better.

This has been a comparatively mild winter almost everywhere. A Pravda dispatch says January weather was in both capricious in the Don Basin this year, but did not go beyond that.

The Red Army carried out its present offensives under trying conditions. Snow hampered troops and the shifting of troops, bringing up big guns and gasoline and ammunition was made at night. To make matters worse, snow fell in many places.

Dispatches from time to time have said repeatedly that bad weather did not halt operations. Russian soldiers this winter waded through deep snow and fought in sub-zero and violent winds. With so many victories behind them and the offensive raging, it is likely they'll make the greatest effort of the war against mud and slush of spring.

The Soviets have been adept at repairing railways for their own use between Stalingrad and Rostov, as saw first hand cases of how railway workers march in behind the Red Army and tackle the rails, regauging them from the German size.

The Russians already have a railway in operation all the way from Stalingrad to Tikhoretskaya. They also have but a few miles to get in order on the Stalingrad-Likhaya railway from Voronezh southward to Millerovo and perhaps beyond. They should be able now to move freight on this railway.

It is hard to say what condition the Rostov-Baku railway is in because the Germans did terrific damage to this line, but it will not be needed particularly in carrying out the Ukrainian offensive. Nothing has been reported about the condition of the railway bridges and the areas recently recaptured in the regions of Kharsk, Orel, Kharkov and Lonovara.

The Ukraine enjoys a continental climate with a winter four months long; November through February. The coldest month is January, with the coldest sector the northeast, where operations now are in progress.

Spring begins early in March in the sea area of the Ukraine, where great forests cover a large portion of the country. Numerous rivers, creeks, and ravines cut across the rich lands. In the rainy weather of spring this is going to be a hampering factor, for, next to deep mud, thick forests are the worst enemies of tanks.

There is, however, much sandy land in large sectors of the country, which is no obstacle and in fact eliminates mud.

The coming thaw has some good features, too. The biggest one is the opening of the Volga river, great lifeline of the Soviet Union. Also, with spring the worst enemies of the invader will be the vast guerrilla armies of Russia, which will swell in numbers as the snow melts and the forests become safe for partisans.

PATRIOTIC PANCAKES

Hello Homemakers! Pancakes — good, old — time favourites — will be featured on Shrove Tuesday, March 10, in patriotic fashion. It used to be the style to serve pancakes on this day dotted with "spice" and sprinkled with granulated sugar. Nowadays they are served first of all for their nutritive value. Pancakes made of flour and milk are energy-giving; served with meat, they substitute for the proverbial potato; served with fruit, they glorify the dessert course. Here's a trick worth knowing — a splendid way to hide left-overs. Put pieces of meat, finely diced vegetables or chopped fruit right in the pancake batter.

Murray's The syrup problem is solved. Instead of syrup, try using fruit juice thickened with cornstarch (1 th. per cup of juice). Your second problem — waste of material and time — is solved if you use our tested recipes.

So just stir up the batter and your pancakes will be ready to serve in an amazingly short time—and who doesn't like them!

RECIPES

Patriotic Pancakes

Two and one-half cups of flour, three teaspoons baking powder, half-teaspoon salt, one egg, two cups milk, two tablespoons melted fat.

Sift flour, measure and return to sifter. Add baking powder and salt to flour. Beat egg well, add milk and stir in melted fat. Stir liquid into dry mixture and beat one minute. Drop batter onto sizzling hot griddle by measuring spoonfuls (3 or 4 to a griddle). As soon as one side of cakes appears bubbly, turn. It is better to turn before upper side of cake has a dry look. Bake on the other side. Do not turn cake again. This makes twelve to fourteen cakes.

Pancakes for Two

Halve above recipe in making pancakes for two, using one egg.

Sour Milk or Buttermilk Pancakes

Sour milk or buttermilk may be used in above recipe instead of sweet milk. Then use teaspoon baking soda instead of baking powder, sifting it with the flour.

Apple Griddle Cakes

Stir one-half cup of finely chopped apples into above batter last.

Veal Griddle Cakes

Chop two-thirds cup veal fine. Add to basic pancake batter.

Fruit Juice Sauce

Drain syrup from canned fruit. Heat one cup to boiling and stir in one tablespoon cornstarch mixed to a paste with one-third cup of cold water.

Lemon Sauce

Half-cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, one cup boiling water, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice, few gratings nutmeg.

Mix sugar and cornstarch with one-quarter cup cold water; stir into boiling water. Boil five minutes. Take from electric element; add other ingredients.

TAKE A TIP:

1 In baking pancakes, the griddle must be hot, but a skillet isn't! The cakes are easier to turn on it should be sizzling hot.

2 It is not necessary to grease electric waffle iron unless fruit is added to batter. Always use cold, free fat — melt fat and dip off the top.

3 Sprinkle fat left in pan smokes and gives pancakes a strong flavour.

4 Drop batter from spoon or pitcher three inches in diameter, or one tablespoon to each section of electric waffle iron. Do not make cakes too thick — up pan to spread — spoon may touch pan. Watch cakes to stick.

5 Bake in electric waffle iron until steam stops coming forth. Bake in griddle until bubbles form, and surface is still moist when turning once.

6 Serve pancakes immediately

Make This Summer's Canning Plans Now

SUGAR APPLICATIONS REQUIRED BY APRIL 15

Canadian women, especially those who live on farms and in the smaller towns and villages, have always been justifiably proud of their sealers filled with canned fruits, jams and jellies.

They can look forward to having the same well stocked shelves again this year only it will be necessary to plan ahead because much fruit juice they will "do up", in order that they can get the sugar they will need.

The Government is urging women to can fruit this year rather than allow large quantities of canning fruit to spoil as well as the time conservation of sugar. Three pounds of sugar will make six quarts of canned fruit and will conserve approximately ten pounds of fruit, but it will make only two quarts of jam or jelly, conserving less than half that amount of fruit. Another important point is that more food value is conserved when fruit is canned than when it is made into jam or jelly.

To help women plan next summer's canning now, a Canning Guide has been prepared and is being delivered through the Post Office to every householder. The information contained in this guide is important and should be carefully studied.

This advance planning and the written application for sugar for canning are necessary in order that the Sugar Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board can provide the necessary sugar.

The "Application for Canning Sugar" will be found in the new ration book and the token must be filled in and returned to the nearest local Ration Board before April 15.

Beans Can Form Main Dishes For Substantial Lunch or Supper

"Beans" mean baked beans and nothing more to many people, but these useful members of the vegetable family are versatile too and can be made into a great variety of excellent and economical dishes.

Here are two quite different recipes for bean soup from the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. They are sufficiently substantial to serve as main dishes for supper or lunch and they would certainly be appreciated, piping hot from a thermos, by the man, woman or child who carries a lunch box.

BEAN CHOWDER

One cup dried beans, one and one-half quarts water, one cup diced carrots, one cup canned tomatoes, half-cup shredded green pepper (optional), one onion, chopped fine, two tablespoons salt, two tablespoons uncooked cracked wheat, or one tablespoon flour, two cups milk, few grains pepper.

Wash beans, soak overnight, drain. Add water, cook in a covered pan until beans begin to soften, then add vegetables. Add the cracked wheat or flour and salt, mixed with a little cold water and cook about half an hour longer. Add milk and pepper. Heat to boiling point and serve. Serves 6 to 8.

MEXICAN BEAN SOUP

Half-cup dried beans, six cups water, two tablespoons fat, one clove garlic, three tablespoons chopped celery, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one cup chopped onion, one and a half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one cup tomato pulp, or two fresh tomatoes, two tablespoons grated cheese.

Wash beans, soak overnight, drain. Add water and simmer in a covered soup kettle for about two hours. Add onion, celery, garlic, parsley, celery leaves and a half teaspoon salt. Simmer until vegetables are tender. Melt shortening in a skillet, add flour, chopped onion, paprika and tomato pulp or quartered tomatoes and cook for thirty minutes longer. Add cooked noodles and sprinkle with grated cheese. Six generous servings.

THE STALIN DECLARATION

BY GLENN BABB

Joseph Stalin has just reminded his Allies bluntly that a second front in Europe is as vital to Russia in her hour of victory as it was last year when the Russian armies were in peril. In effect, he said that the war in Africa, whether it goes well or badly, is no proper substitute.

We must expect a period of agitation for a second front as urgent as that of last summer and early fall. It will be emphasized that by July 4th Hitler is permitted to build the western and southern frontiers of his European fortress with comparatively small forces; there will be the danger that he may strike again at Russia; the dread surge of the Russians and cheat them of the complete victory that now seems possible.

"In view of the absence of a second front in Europe the Red Army alone is bearing the whole weight of the war," the Russian leader declared in his order of the day marking the 25th anniversary of the Red Army's birth. Read against the background of the bad news from Tunisia that may arrive any minutes than the speaker intended it to, some may take it as a full indictment of the whole war effort of Russia's Allies, an expression of dissatisfaction with the British American campaign is going.

African Not Second Front

But it should be remembered that Stalin has never shown that he was fully sold on the African adventure. This campaign Churchill outlined the project to him in Moscow last summer. He's been enthusiastic in comment apparently was that it was "militarily correct." Later, a week after

Past the barbed wire of prison camps in Europe and the Far East and into the eager hands of every captured Canadian, the Red Cross delivers a box of food every week—ten pounds of nourishing food from home to supplement stringent rations and cheer lonely men with the knowledge that they are not forgotten. The Canadian Red Cross needs $5,500,000 for this work alone... millions more for many other urgent needs, including:

Life saving blood powder and blood plasma for war casualties —soldiers, sailors, airmen and civilians.

Bedding, clothing and medical supplies for British bomb victims and members of the Canadian forces in every theatre of war.

Money and supplies to aid the Red Cross Societies of Russia, Greece, Norway, China and other Allies in desperate need.

Survivors' bundles—warm clothing to re-equip rescued naval and merchant seamen.

LETTERS FROM NICKEY

THE STORY OF LIFE IN THE C.W.A.C.

Letters From Nickey" are written by a talented young Canadian who recently signed the call to serve her in helping to put a speedy finish to Hitler and his mob. Her letters to her civilian pal "Babs", are delightfully refreshing and contain the kind of humour that everyone needs in these trying times.

Dear Babs:—

To-morrow will be my last day at the dear old Training Centre. You can't need to remind me. I know that there have been times when I called it other, harder names but this was what you might term affectionate abuse, and there never was a time when I would let any other human being say a word "again" it. Just let anyone try a word of criticism and I bristle like a porcupine.

Now that the time has come to plunge into army life and put my training to work, I fully appreciate what a haven this has been. Yes, to use a seventy-five cent word, I feel lugubrious and everywhere I go I see other tearful faces that tell the same story. L-have even heard a muffled sniffle. Well, what if it is, who's the sniffle? Just because I have put on a uniform I do not intend to make myself over into a poor imitation of man... I never felt more feminine in my life and I don't think that was what you might term affectionate abuse, and there never was a time when I would let any other human being say a word "again" it.

An Old "Beaver"

Mrs. John Kimmett, Roblin, brought into The Beaver Office a copy of the Napanee Beaver, dated September 19, 1885, which she found among some old papers recently.

The paper was just four pages in size and wider, or one column wider, than the present Beaver. The type, all hand-set, was much smaller than that now used by The Beaver. About the only advertiser, still in business, was "The Leader and Farmington Fire Insurance Company."

The report of the market was interesting when prices are compared with present day prices. It included potatoes, 40c bush. per lb. 18c.; butter, per cwt. $6.25; eggs, 11c. doz.; beef, per cwt. $6.00.

A very successful social evening was held at the Napanee Town Hall on Monday evening under the auspices of St. Patrick's Church. In spite of very bad weather and the worst road conditions of the winter, there was a splendid attendance, including a number from the R.C.A.F. School at Deseronto.

There were nearly 40 tables of euchre and nine tables of bridge in play. Music was furnished during the evening by Nobby Jones' orchestra.

The euchre prizes were won by Mrs. Preis and F. Solmes; and the bridge prizes by Mrs. James Stewart, Mrs. B. P. Days, Morley Perry and F. A. Correll.

On Monday, Carl McIlwaine, Napanee, pled guilty to the theft of eleven packages of cigarettes from Bob's Lunch Restaurant, where he has been an employee for some time. SEASON'S WORST STORM BLOCKADES ROADS DURING WEEK END

MANY ROADS NOT YET OPEN FOR TRAFFIC

Together with the rest of the Province of Ontario, the Napanee district experienced the worst storm of the winter during the past week-end. As a result of the heavy fall of snow and the terrific wind which blew most of Saturday and practically during Saturday night and Sunday morning, nearly every road in the county was blocked.

Many county residents who were in town on Saturday had to remain in Napanee for the week-end as some of those who attempted to drive to their homes were forced to leave their cars in the snow drifts. Some of the roads leading into the town have been opened for a short distance but all side roads are still blocked. The Tweed to Kingston bus remained in Napanee on Yarker on Monday night, Tuesday morning Highway No. 41 was opened only as far as Roblin. Highway No. 2, both east and west of Napanee, was open for traffic.

Farmers from near Napanee who managed to get into the town on Monday had to drive sleighs through the fields. Drifts of snow were reported to be as high as ten feet in some places.

Road conditions throughout the whole winter have been bad and many farms have been snowed in for weeks at a time, because of the depth of the snow. When the roads were opened only a narrow track was made available, with the result that when last week-end's storm came the snow drifted back and levelled the roads with the high banks on each side.

Train service was about back to normal on Monday, but during Sunday one train was held up at Napanee for several hours and all other trains were delayed accordingly.

U.E.L. CH. FACTORY DESTROYED BY FIRE MONDAY MORNING

A serious loss to the people of the Dorland district was sustained on Monday of this week, when the U. E. L. Butter and Cheese Factory was completely destroyed by fire.

The factory has been operated throughout the winter and cheese has been made every other day for the past few months. Early Monday morning of this week, Mack Remington and his helpers went to the factory preparing to make cheese, but because of the bad condition of the roads no milk drawers were able to reach the factory. The men left the factory and between 10:00 and 11:00 a.m., the fire was discovered. The cause for the outbreak has yet been determined.

Some equipment was removed from the building but the building itself was completely destroyed.

The factory is one of the best known and most prosperous cheese making establishments in the county and in these days when cheese is so badly needed, its burning is a great loss to the country and to the patrons.

A meeting of shareholders has been called by the president, J. Roy Johnston, for Saturday afternoon, to consider the rebuilding of the factory.

THAT INCOME TAX BUSINESS

"The Government forgives half last year's income tax." That sort of a head line sets our heart a flutter until we read down a bit. Then we discover that we have to pay our monthly tax just as we have been paying it and, in addition, half of the income tax we owe on last year's bill. It is some help to know that only one third of the latter amount has to be paid by June and the other two-thirds can stand off until December. All the same, it is a pretty good idea. By the end of this year we will have all our back obligations paid up, and if we should die after that, our estate—if we have one—will not be burdened with an income tax payment. It is all so simple and so generous.

As a matter of fact though, it is a really smart idea, whoever thought it up. To have a deduction made from the pay cheque every month is something like that dry Western cold we hear about—you don't feel it. Nevertheless, we recall once, in November, freezing our ears going from the house to the barn in Saskatchewan. Whether we felt it or not the ears were frozen. The new method of collecting the income tax is something like that. You don't feel it, but you get frost-bitten just the same.

QUEEN'S PARK

Now that former Premier Hepburn is right out of the Cabinet at Queen's Park, and has become a private member, we cannot help but feel a certain lament at his passing. He is one of those unpredictable, colourful public figures that makes good copy. He was always up to something, and nearly always he outwitted the guessers who were busy figuring what his next move would be.. He is quick on the trigger, has intellectual gifts, and a compelling public appeal. The people liked his wisecracks; they liked him, too, because he did things. He did not always do the right thing, but the public overlooked that. He rode to power by denouncing a Conservative regime which had been too long in office, and by his display of interest in the common people. At times, he has raised a volunteer army to put down strikes, has favored labor unions, and has taken steps to break a strike when the unions were seeking to redress wrongs. Consistency was not in his make up.

But that which has marked his policy from the first has been an intense bitter dislike of Prime Minister King. Nothing that the Government at Ottawa did, found favor in Queen's Park while Mr. Hepburn was at the helm.

Mr. Hepburn always made Provincial politics interesting. He may still do so from his seat, as a private member. Just what Mr. Hepburn proposes to do, nobody knows, and least Mr. Hepburn himself. For Mr. Hepburn acts first and thinks afterwards. He will be heard from no doubt. He says he will support Mr. Bracken; we wonder what Mr. Bracken thinks of that. But one of these days, the former Prime Minister of Ontario will bob up again, do the unexpected, and provide the reporters with good copy, and editorial writers with a subject for an editorial.

V

PREMIER CONANT'S FUTURE

Prime Minister Conant has finally broken with the man who placed in his hands the Premiership of Ontario. We can understand Mr. Conant's deep feeling at having to accept the resignation of Provincial Treasurer Hepburn. We must admit that our appreciation of Mr. Conant has increased since he entered Provincial politics. He was practically unknown as a provincial figure when he was made Attorney-General. He has filled the position well, and has worked hard and long. In the most delicate position in which he was placed he has acted courageously, and with determination. Of course, something had to be done. Matters could not be allowed to drift. To keep a united party action, was necessary, and Mr. Conant took it. Whether he is strong enough to give continued vigorous and determined leadership only time will tell. At any rate, it will be a relief now, to know that the bitter antagonism which has marked Dominion - Provincial relations is to be soft-pedalled so far as the new Premier is concerned.

Speaking on Saturday night at the Annual Past-Presidents' Dinner of the Toronto Central Liberal Association, he said: In his view "the Liberal Party had been bedevilled and besmirched by vendettas, feuds and recriminations, long enough." He also said that he hoped that the forthcoming Liberal Convention would honor him with the leadership of the party.

Hon. Harry Nixon, who broke with Premier Hepburn over his naming of Mr. Conant as successor, will be a contender for the leadership, no doubt, and the possibility is that Hon. Arthur Roebuck, M.P., will have his hat in the ring. Just what a convention will do, is anybody's guess. But by his action, in accepting the resignation of Mr. Hepburn, Mr. Conant has very greatly tightened his grip on the high office. Now, however, since the strong hand of the former Prime Minister has been removed, differences and jealousies will assert themselves, and may, very easily, weaken the whole party.

This possibility, and the opportunity it presents, will not, we are sure, be lost on the Progressive Conservative Party, which has not had much to encourage it, of late.

FREE ENTERPRISE

Since the landing of the American forces in Africa, a marked difference may be noted on the economic front both in this country and in The United States. A vigorous propaganda in favor of what is called "Free Enterprise" is being carried on. The purpose of all this is undoubtedly to lay a foundation for the continuance of the economic system under which we have lived for the past three hundred years. There can be no discounting the benefits which have accrued from that system. The standard of living, in many countries, has been materially raised. Our own people live on a level which is immeasurably higher than that reached by three-quarters of the people on this Planet.

But it has also broken down in a crisis. It was not able, without government control, to conduct successfully the crisis of 1929-2935. Unemployment was rife, men walked the streets looking for work, and credit was tight. In the States, the banks had all to be closed for a time; many did not re-open. It is idle to say that this situation was due to government control. Indeed, the very opposite is the truth. From 1920 to 1932, there was a minimum of control over the business of the country. That is not to say that there was no control. Business regulated itself. Everything was controlled purely by business pay, broke down.

Since the war business has come very directly under government control. There are priorities of one sort and another, raw material is distributed where it is needed most. Selective service sees to it that manpower is available for the essential industries. Heavy taxation and excess profits taxes have limited profits, and put a curb on profiteering, which blackened the war effort of the First Great War. Naturally, business does not wish to see that situation perpetuated. It is well enough to call the government in when business cannot weather the storm, but when the storm is over, the government should be dismissed. That, in a crude way, is the reasoning of a lot of things.

But if we mistake not, the trend towards government regulation of a lot of things, will continue after the war, and particularly in the immediate post-war years. When there will be a terrible dislocation of industry and employment, as an American writer, Alfred Lewis Baker, recently wrote: "Clearly, we need more government regulation of free enterprise in the interest of the workers, consumers and the public, not less, as soon as normal conditions are restored after our victory. For, in no other way, can the owners of industry be compelled to raise wages and reduce the hours of toil equally with the increased productivity made possible by new machinery, and thus make new machines a blessing to mankind instead of a dangerous source of unemployment."

He was speaking of the United States. But the business of Canada is so clearly linked with that of our Neighbor to the South, that we may assume what Mr. Baker says will apply equally in this country.

Madam Tomato's Acid Tongue Keeps Vitamin Family In Line

Because tomatoes contain acid which helps preserve Vitamin C, this vegetable retains more of its vitamins than others when canned, says Nutrition Services; though the old enemies—air, heat, water and soda are ever on the alert to get in their destructive work on this precious vitamin.

Tomatoes, fresh or canned, rank next to citrus fruits as our best food source of Vitamin C. Canned tomatoes or tomato juice should be served as often as possible during the winter especially when citrus fruits are not obtainable.

Here are some tips that will help keep the vitamins in the tomatoes where they belong.

Never use soda with tomatoes or any other vegetables—it's death on vitamin C; to prevent tomato soup from curdling remember the jingle "Red is red, white; if you don't you'll be blue." Just another way of saying that the tomato should be added to the milk not the other way around.

Heat tomatoes in a covered pan without stirring.

Don't cook longer than necessary; add to soups and stews at the last minute.

"If only part of a can of tomatoes or juice is used, put the rest into a covered dish; keep it cold and use it soon.

Vitamin C will do much to keep us healthy, but it can't do its job unless we do ours. Our job is to prepare the foods that contain it in a manner that will retain it.

JAPS' AERIAL STRENGTH SEEN AS WEAKENING

BY GLENN BABB

The most encouraging comment on the China situation in weeks comes from Gen. Chennault. The commander of the American Air Forces in China, who has been fighting the Japanese longer than any other American general, says things out there appear more hopeful. The hardened face of this veteran airman, whose record proves his profound knowledge of the enemy and of the means to accomplish his destruction, commands the utmost respect.

Chennault states the sum for the better from the Japanese experience. That dramatic war council and its sequels have produced entirely new premises of greater aid to China. These necessarily were vague in a vast debate as time and place but Chennault's opinion that "things are moving" is assurance that promises and plans are being translated into action as rapidly as possible.

President Roosevelt said after his return from Casablanca that "there are many roads which lead right to Tokio; we shall neglect none of them." Chennault's airmen are operating along the road on which forces of the United States are bent on the enemy capital. It is likely that they will be the first to deliver their punishing blows.

It is not to be expected, however, that the pace of things Pacific war is to open at once. As long as Burma remains in Japanese hands the Allied air China must be limited to what can be flown, over the hump of the Himalayas, probably a difficult air transport route in the world. The Burma campaign holds forth no promise of the early recovery of Burma.

So the improvement of which Gen Chennault is confident probably will be limited to the reinforcement of his own command. This may mean more fighters or more bombers or both.

It may mean the addition of heavy bombers capable of carrying loads from bases in Central China to the industrial centres of southern and western Japan. This would make possible at least a prelude to the important action in the skies over Japan which President Roosevelt predicted last month.

Or first emphasis may be placed on fighter and fighter-bomber types which will deny our superiority over China battlefields to the Japanese and so maintain Chinese morale in the next few critical months against Japan's efforts to knock her out of the war. In the near future the latter type of aid probably will be the more valuable. We are committed to a holding war in the Pacific area until Hitler is destroyed and the front that may be held if disaster is to be averted is that defended by Gen. Chennault, Kai-shek and his sorely-handicapped armies.

Gen. Chennault believes the quality of the Japanese air force is deteriorating. This agrees with other opinions in the south and southwest Pacific which have come out of the fighting theatres. There is much evidence that the Japanese are running into a shortage of well-trained airmen. It is known that Premier Chiang's desperate need for young men schooled in mechanics of flying forced for years a conscription opposition. But Japan's pool of young men schooled in mechanics of flying was only a small fraction of that on which the United States could draw.

Now that the veterans who swept the Oriental skies clear of opposition in the first few months are gone, victims of the heavy toll taken by the Americans and Australians in the Solomons and around New Guinea, replacements of like quality are not available.

TYPICAL GENERALS OF THE SOVIET ARMY

BY WALTER KERR

Typical generals of the Red Army, which has just celebrated its 25th anniversary, is about 45 years old, five feet seven and a half inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. He has a hard, round face that makes him look other than he really is. He is smooth shaven and has thick brown hair, unless he has shaved it off completely.

He is a member of the Communist party and has been for many years. He was born in a village, the son of a peasant or a worker's family. After serving as a private in the Czarist army in the last war or by working on a farm or in a factory, he joined the Red Army when the war was about twenty years old.

After the civil war, he entered military school, being graduated as an officer. He then served with the Red Army, but before entering the Frunze military academy for training as a high commanding officer.

This is only my own idea of the average general in the Red Army, but I have found that most of the generals I have met come pretty close to fitting the description. Most of them, I have learned, in addition to their military experience in the First Great War and the civil war, have served in the Finnish war and an astonishing proportion of them served in the Far East.

It is probably not generally understood outside of the Soviet Union how many generals are members of the Communist party. Every one I have met has been a member and many others have reached high positions in the party organization.

An important body within the party is the Politburo, or political bureau of the central executive committee. One of its fourteen members is Marshal Semyeni K. Timoshenko, a military man. Within the last six months, however, three others of the group have been given the military rank of lieutenant-general. They are Alexander Schtshakov, since October as assistant commissar of defence and now chief of the political department of the army; Nikita Khrushtchev, head of the Ukrainian party committee and now member of the military council of the southern front, and Alexander Schtcherbakov, head of the Leningrad party city committee and a member of the military council of the Leningrad front.

Still in fifth member of the Politburo is Lazar M. Kaganovich, a member of the military council of the trans-Caucasus front, but the newspapers have not said that he has received a military rank.

Another of the fourteen, of course, is Premier Josef V. Stalin, who is commander in chief of the Red Army, but he does not hold a regular military rank.

The central executive committee itself has seventy-one members, including the fourteen members of the Politburo. Four are military men, all marshals They are Semyon M. Budyenny, Semyon Timoshenko, Grigory Kulik and Voroshilov.

Besides Schtcherbakov and Khrushchev, mentioned previously, there is another member of the central committee serving with the rank of lieutenant-general. He is Lev Mekhlis, a member of the military council of the Volkhov front.

Every front and army has a military council, whose membership includes the front or army commander, his chief of staff and a third member, whose title is simply member of the military council. He is a political leader.

There are also 76 calidate members of the central executive committee. Eleven are soldiers.

One is Gregory K. Zhukov, marshal of the Soviet Union and first vice-commissar of defence. Another is Army General Josef R. Apanasenko, commander of the Far Eastern front, and a third is Colonel General A. A. Shchadenko, of the army's political department.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 14TH, 1943

Lesson Text: John 13: 12-20; 14: 1-6

"IN THE UPPER ROOM"

This act of washing the disciples' feet was a symbolic act. It was an object lesson; it was a vivid way which Jesus used to impress on the minds of His disciples a needful message. He might talk about service a great deal, and no doubt some of what he said would sink in. But we may rest assured that those to whom He addressed Himself in this dramatic manner, never forgot what He wanted them to learn.

Having washed the feet of the disciples, Jesus then set Himself to explain what He had done, giving home the purpose He had in mind. "If I, then, the Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, ye ought also to wash one another's feet." In the light of our highly mechanized civilization there has been a tendency of late years, to degrade this word service. "We aim to serve." "Service Stations." — "Service Clubs." These are evidences of such a tendency. Now mind you, it is not all bad by any means, indeed much of it is good—very good, but the danger is that from profit motives the emphasis has been placed on "service." In the case of industrial or commercial organizations, at any rate. The service clubs are undoubtedly a genuine effort to render service without thought of personal gain. We have always, however, to be on guard lest the high Christian ideal of service be lost in either the commercialized aspect of it or in organized service. As Christian people there is no human need that we should not try to meet, there is no help we are capable of rendering we ought not to give. This is all so contrary to the Nazi doctrine of blood and soil, of a superior and an inferior class, that we can understand the Nazi enmity to Christianity and their action in disbanding service clubs. But we, who have a belief in the Christian way of life and in the service idea, ought to guard against the danger of giving lip consent to the idea and neglecting the practice.

The next section of the lesson is the beautiful and profound passage which is so dear to the heart of Christendom. "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God believe also in Me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you that I go to prepare a place for you." Jesus was thinking of the days after the sorrow and strain through which He was to go. Jesus was a human being and His disciples would need to stand up under it all. He sought to deepen their faith in God. Then He would say to them, "Believe in Me," he said. The test of belief was the real temptation which they would be subjected to and wanted to be sure that no matter what happened, they would cling to Him to the end.

"In my Father's house are many mansions." I.e. resting place in God's Kingdom there is a place for each. Jesus was not promising a loafing place in some future state of bliss, but asserting that here and now there is a place for each. He also said that He went to prepare a place for them. what Jesus probably meant was that while present with them they depended on Him, and they must learn to depend on themselves, through their faith in God. Then He would return to them not in some distant century, but in a few days after His death. This is the living courage, strength and assurance which He gave not only to the disciples, but to all mankind.

Thomas was the doubter. He had said that, "Wither I go ye know the way." Thomas said, "We know not whither thou goest; how can we know the way?" In all probability he was in terms of the disciples' profound sentiments. He was thinking of the Christ and the life. In Him is the only interpretation of life which gives satisfaction. Christ's life and death is the way. In the early days of Christianity, the followers of Jesus were called "Those of the Way," and they followed the way of life He had set before them. Likewise Jesus was the Truth. In His life lies the answer to the riddle of the universe and

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This column is sponsored by the Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Questions on price control, ration regulations and other Wartime Prices and Trade Board rulings should be mailed to: Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Victoria Building, Brockville, Ont.

Q. Can a retailer restrict the sale of goods which are not lawfully rationed?

A. There is no law preventing a retailer from restricting sales of his goods, except rationed goods, or compelling him to sell his goods. Scarcities of certain commodities have led to a certain amount of informal rationing by grading to consumers so their own customers will all get a fair share of available supplies.

Q. May a boarding house make any extra charge for tea and coffee served with meals?

A. No. The allowance of an extra charge for tea and coffee with table d'hote meals is only permitted restaurants and various other public caterers who must first have lists of their menus and prices for meals with the nearest regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Q. Was any restriction put on honey and corn syrup providing that they were to be sold only with a doctor's prescription, for babies?

A. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has not issued an official restriction. But many retail stores are voluntarily rationing honey and corn syrup, reserving it for babies, which is all it should be, don't you think?

Q. I live in a small community and get my milk from a dealer who supplies only a few families. Although milk has gone down in price elsewhere, I am charged just as much as ever. Is that right?

A. No, your milkman should have reduced his price by two cents a quart, no matter how few his customers. He can obtain a refund of this money by applying at his chartered bank at the end of each month.

POSTAL RATES ARE OUTLINED

NEW ONE CENT TAX ON FIRST OUNCE ONLY

The new one-cent tax on letters, included in the 1943-1944 budget and effective April 1, applies only to the first ounce and hence constitutes a tax of one cent on each letter regardless of its weight, post office officials said this week.

Some question had arisen as to whether the tax of one cent applied on each ounce. In his budget address Hon. J. L. Ilsley referred to the tax as being "one cent per ounce or fraction thereof," but the budget resolution covering the tax change specifies one cent per letter.

Mail rate on letters, the Post Office Department explained, is payable in units of one ounce. The additional one-cent tax, they said, applies on the first one-ounce unit only.

Thus a one-ounce letter sent mail-to-town will cost four cents to mail instead of three cents previously. A two-ounce letter will cost six cents instead of five.

Per mail picked up and delivered by the same postal office the charge will be three cents for a one-ounce letter instead of two, and four cents for a two-ounce letter instead of three.

The postcard rate of one cent is not changed and neither is the rate on second class, third class or fourth class mail, including newspapers, circulars, samples, and unsealed Christmas card. It has not been decided yet whether the airmail rate will be boosted from six to seven cents.

Exempted from the new one-cent tax are letters mailed from Canada to the forces overseas, which will continue to cost three cents for the first ounce.

GAS RATION RULE EXPLAINED

SPECIAL ALLOWANCE AT DRIVER'S DISCRETION

Motorists who qualify for special gasoline allowances under the revised rationing scheme going into effect April 1 will be able to get gas for pleasure driving as the main who uses only an "AA" ration licence, it has been learned this week.

Questioned on rumors that people who are allowed special supplies higher than "AA" would not be allowed to do any pleasure driving, over and above holidays, one informant said Hon. C. D. Howe, Munitions Minister, had explained the situation in a recent House of Commons statement.

Mr. Howe's statement, it is understood, made it clear that provision must be made for the necessary needs of our economy, the after much consideration it has been decided to enable certain persons to carry on employment necessary to the prosecution of the war by giving them supplementary gasoline rations.

On the basis of this statement, it is said last Friday, certain non-commercial eye examiners, referred to as this category—and not entitled to any "AA" supply of gasoline for his emergency needs. The extra gasoline granted to owners in special categories will be sufficient to take care of what occasional pleasure driving they are authorized to do. The "AA" supply may be used by a special category driver in the same way as if used by the driver who only holds an "AA" ration license.

FARM MACHINERY

Even the person living in a city apartment is indirectly interested in the fact that it takes farm machinery to produce the necessities of life. Administrator H. H. Bloom had some of the answers for me in Toronto. First, let me pass on the information that our tentative allocation for 1943 is 25 per cent. of the 1940 tonnage for farm machinery and 150 per cent. for repairs. That's hard to understand as it sounds when one considers that the Russians found it possible to produce materials in factories six months after they had been blasted to rubble by the Nazis, when taken. That takes ingenuity and improvisation. The Canadian farmer can do that, too.

Why is 1940 taken as the basis? Because that was the last normal year in the implement business, and the period used by the United States also, where we have some dependence for materials. Things were not so serious in this line in 1942, for when the smoke had cleared away a healthy business shows a good initial reality. Between implements and repairs we had a 96 per cent. overall tonnage manufactured or imported.

Why Materials Are Scarce

But there's a different picture for 1943; shelves are bare and no imports to speak of. You on the farm, we in the towns have got to get it into our noodles that materials which go into the farm machinery also go into the machinery for killing Nazis and Japs.

As the administrator explained it, it sounded reasonable. It would have been simple to make an order stopping importation of not more than 25 per cent. gross weight. But there were other considerations. For one thing they curtailed exports drastically. Yes, they have to export a certain amount yet—to New Zealand and Australia, who have some kicks of armament that they are dependent on us in that they also have to produce the food to keep them alive. Just like our own city apartment dweller, they are interested in machinery.

Then the administration made a survey clear across Canada, discussing the situation with deputy ministers of agriculture, experimental farm superintendents, the supply board and others to see what types and varieties were most essential. It was a good approach, isn't it?

In Western Canada, for instance, they found they could do without threshers, more, and wanted combines increased; they could get by with harrows for a year but wanted one-way discs. As a result they were cutting under varieties eliminated in the West from 473 to 73; from that number to 117 in Eastern Canada. Walking ploughs, as an example, will come in only five kinds as compared to 52.

1942 Compared To 1943

And here is another practical application in the survey. They will show manufacture of 75 per cent. of 1940 output of cream separators, with combines down to 31 per cent. But like the Russian simile quoted above, satisfactory substitutes for the West will be on the basis of 15 per cent of 1940 but 30 per cent. for Eastern Canada; the West will get 33⅓ in one-way discs seeders and Eastern Canada 15. Requirements are computed separately for East and West and essentially equalized.

The administration knows there will be a bigger demand for farm machinery this year because generally speaking there was a better income in 1942 and farmers will want increased and better plant facilities. Labor will be scarce so then, what is better than a rationing system?

We studied the British system and that of the United States to guide us if possible," said Mr. Bloom. Out of the cumulative study and research they evolved what they consider the most simple and least expensive way to work out the farm machinery and equipment problem which is nationally important in scope.

Here it is, in a nutshell, just as easy for the city slicker to understand as for the farmer. In the regional boards across Canada, fourteen machinery rationing officers have been appointed. Acting as a consultant in each case without additional remuneration is an agricultural Representative He might be the superintendent of an experimental station or one qualified and delegated by him to assist. As a further assistant to the rationing officer, some prominent farmer of the region is chosen who has the confidence and respect of the others. His judgment is used in dealing with "border line" cases because—as we neglected to mention earlier— the individual farmer can make application to the rationing officer for farm machinery he thinks he essentially requires. The mechanism for appeals is also provided for.

Problems Well Understood

Well, that's the story I got from the boss of farm machinery, boiled down to the space available. They realize the labor shortage presents difficulties. They are sympathetic to the fact that a farmer can't get everything he wants for replacement or new equipment. But they're making a big effort to be fair and equitable to all with the amount at the disposal of the country as a whole. That means harder work, taking care of present equipment to make it last longer.

The farmer likes to grouse just as the soldier does, but they both give whim it's needed. Because there is a serious war going on the farmer will, after little hesitation, do the best he can to make machinery go round to the best advantage. The comparative rationing has been set up because there is a scarcity of materials and the necessities of war production. We've just got to like it and make what we've got last longer.

Do's And Dont's In Home Painting

Paint is a vital factor in the business of conservation and as spring approaches slowly but surely many Napanee painters are getting out their brushes and color charts, and are preparing to go to work.

Here are some of the Do's and Dont's pertaining to the Consumer Information Section:

Don't paint in an open fire. Don't smoke while painting. Don't paint in damp or rainy weather. Don't paint over a wash surface. Don't paint over dirt. Don't leave brushes standing on their bristles.

Do provide adequate ventilation by opening windows at least one window. Do clean the surface beforehand with turpentine and turpentine substitute. Do prime before painting. Do prevent the paint from the deteriorating effect of lime. Do use a protecting strip of cardboard between metal when painting narrow mouldings and do wipe them off frequently. Do clean brushes with turpentine and prepared cleaner after use and keep them wrapped in paper.

CANADA NEEDS 40 MILLION POUNDS OF FATS FOR EXPLOSIVES

Here's a day-to-day War Job for You!

There is a serious shortage of Fats and Bones in Canada and the only way to satisfy this shortage can be overcome is by the housewife saving every spoonful of waste fat at every fat and every bone, cooked or uncooked, in any form. Fats make glycerine which makes explosives—explosives to bomb the Axis positions. Also glue for war industry.

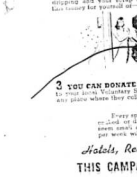
Bones produce fat. Also glue for war industry.

HERE IS WHAT YOU DO

Save every kind of waste dripping. All may be mixed together. Strain through an ordinary metal strainer to clear away any fat from bits of meat, cooked or uncooked. Keep in a refrigerator or a cool place away from heat and bones in a cool place. Keep separate from your dripping. Keep scrap fats and

HERE IS HOW TO DISPOSE OF FATS AND BONES

The Meat Dealers of Canada as a patriotic effort, are co-operating with the Government in this all important war work by establishing their collection facilities. Now you can dispose of your Fats and Bones in any one of the following ways:



1 YOUR MEAT DEALERS will pay you the established price per pound for fat rendering and Meat scrap fat. You can keep last money for yourself or

2 YOU CAN DONATE your Fats and Bones to your local Salvage Committee or any place where they collect them, or

3 YOU CAN TURN THE PROCEEDS over to your local Voluntary Salvage Committee and/or to a registered local War Charity.

4 YOU CAN CONTINUE to place out your fats and bones for collection by your Street Cleaning Department where such a system is in existence.

Every spoonful of dripping, every piece of fat and every bone, cooked, uncooked, or fat, must be saved. It is a day-to-day job. Any contribution may seem small and unimportant, but even one ounce of fat dropping per person per week will produce 20,000,000 pounds of fat each year for explosives.

CANADA GIVES A LEAD

The significance of the Weekly Press and its part in influencing and directing public opinion, not only of this country but also across the Line is emphasized by a widely read American column in his most recent column he refers to the growing part the Press is taking in the war effort, describing it as a major influence in inspiring the thinking and action of the nation."

As an illustration he takes the six points which the Managing Director of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association gave to the delegates at the Saskatoon convention, last summer. They were:

1 To take on the job through its editorials, news stories and photos, of enlisting every reader in the battle to win the war, secure the peace, and build a new world.

2 To build in its readers a fighting spirit that will face all the news — bad or good — without becoming down at the mouth, or falling a prey to easy optimism.

3 To encourage all citizens and groups to stop pasting the buck; to admit their own mistakes and apologize, instead of blaming the other fellow; and to pull their weight for maximum production.

4 To create the kind of team spirit in the staff that sets a pattern for the community, every staff member to have a part in bringing teamwork to local readers and leaders.

5 To play the news according to what will do most for the country, instead of what will most tickle the reader's fancy. Backed by constructive writing, this new play-up of the news will have far more reader interest than the old.

6 To use its space to build on the home front the courage, unselfishness and faith in God we need for total strength; and keep before the public a picture of the new Canada our soldiers are fighting for on the battle front.

These points are worth emphasizing because if press and public work together, they can be the guide towards a new world. Insistence on them by readers as well as editors will ensure the continued freedom of the press. For a sound public opinion led by a responsible press will create not only the will to win but also the moral climate that will make any form of dictatorship impossible.

RED CROSS NEWS

The week of March 15th to 20th will see the canvassers for the membership drive for this year busy making their calls. Weather and road conditions make it doubly hard to get around for these volunteer workers, and with the 3,000 members as their goal for the County, plenty of good hard work will be necessary if they are to meet their quota.

If by any chance they do not reach you, please send your membership fee direct to Campaign Headquarters in Napanee.

The hostesses at the workrooms on Saturday were Mrs. H. Lasher and Mrs. C. Russell.

RED CROSS

I cannot fail them; they are trusting me
To give them what their sacrifice demands
Look! Can't you see them stretching through the miles,
This countless multitude of pleading hands?

Hands which had once played marbles on the street,
Or grasped a pencil in some schoolboys' task,
They need my help; they're fighting over there;
Can any heart deny them what they ask?

They reach to me from vessels on the seas,
Red with the cold, and coated with the brine;
Will someone be unable for his task
Through unconcern or negligence of mine?

From Russia's steppes, from lonely prison camps,
From where the palm trees fan Tunisia's sky
I hear a host of voices calling me:
"I thirst; I hunger. Help me or I die!"

If Christ came down as man, to earth again,
Would I deny Him, or refuse His pleas,
Or fail to bind His wounds? And yet, He told Whate'er ye do, ye do it unto Me!"

SAVE LOSSES on Young Chicks and give them a better start
Many large hatcheries recommend "Miracle" Chick Starter to their customers, because they want as many as possible of the purchases brought safely through the first hard weeks. Both large and small poultry raisers find that "Miracle" Chick Starter keeps the mortality rate low, often not more than 5%. And the chicks grow faster and better, too. That means earlier and larger profits.

POSTAGE RATE HITS NEW HIGH

FOUR CENTS PER LETTER LOWER THAN IN U. K.

Ottawa (C.P.) — Letter postage within Canada is raised to a new high with the imposition, effective April 1, of an additional cent to make four cents for an ordinary letter to town letter, under Finance Minister Ilsley's budget proposals presented in the House of Commons, last week.

While there was never a time in domestic history of four cents, there was an Empire rate of four cents, charged on letters mailed from Canada to other parts of the Empire in 1921. That continued until 1926 when it dropped to three cents and was further reduced to two cents in 1928.

The domestic rate became three cents during the Great War after being two cents before that. It reverted to two cents about 1928 and was restored to three cents during the depression period of the early 1930's, along with the two-cent Empire rate.

Canada's new four-cent letter rate will be higher than the rate in most other countries but lower than the rate in the United Kingdom, which has had the equivalent of a five-cent rate (2½ pences since the start of the present war.

Under the budget proposals the new four-cent rate on out-of-town mail will not apply to letters mailed to the former rate.

Letters mailed for delivery in the same city or town will cost three cents instead of two cents, under the new postage level.

The one-cent rate on postcards, however, is not increased.

Post office officials said the increased tax applies only to first-class mail — that is, sealed letters. Unsealed circulars, newspapers and Christmas cards, generally locked in open envelopes, will not be affected.

An announcement will be made before April 1st as to whether air mail postage will be affected by the new tax. At present the air mail rate is six cents, and officials said no final decision has yet been made whether this rate should be raised to seven cents.

SELBY

Selby, March 8. — Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wilde on the birth of a son.

Miss Betty Babcock, Napanee, and Harold Windover were married at the United Church parsonage Wednesday, and left for a motor trip to Toronto and other western points. Members of the W. M. S. enjoyed a busy day Thursday, when they held a quilting and pot luck dinner in the Sunday school room of the United Church, followed by the program for the March meeting, which was in charge of Mrs. Fred Jackson.

Mrs. Thurston, Bickerdike's Corners, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. W. J. Wilde.

Doris Johnson returned home on Thursday from Kingston, where she spent a few days, last week.

A heavy fall of snow and high wind filled the roads completely, etc. Terms cash 10bnc over the week end.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nagent on the birth of a son.

There was a small attendance at Sunday school on Sunday morning. Owing to the condition of the roads the worship service was withdrawn in the evening.

Events of the week include the cheese meeting Tuesday afternoon; in the factory; prayer service in the Sunday school room Thursday evening; Red Cross meeting Wednesday afternoon, and the annual day of prayer service on Friday afternoon in the Sunday school room, to which all are invited.

FISH — EGGS — CHEESE MOVE UP IN RANK!

Hello Homemakers! Lent is here again — the season when meats part company with the daily vegetables and the alternative proteins move up in rank. This is the time we find fish, eggs, cheese, milk and legumes replacing meats and therefore highlighted on our Nutrichart Menu.

They are easier on your pocketbook, too.

Wartime cookery — with the emphasis on saving both food values and fuel — tells us that these protein foods require constant temperatures and exact cooking periods. Here's a suggestion: to enhance the flavour of eggs and legumes, serve them accompanied by tomato, cabbage or onions. To add zest to fish, cook green vegetables with the fish; to keep down your budget, open your home - canned string beans and tomatoes.

RECIPES

Vegetable and Cheese Casserole

One cup vegetables (cooked or canned), one and one-half cups hot milk, one cup breadcrumbs, quarter-cup melted fat, one and one-half tablespoons onion, one and one-half cups old cheese, few grains pepper, few grains of paprika, three eggs, one and one-half tablespoons of parsley.

Pour hot milk over crumbs and add fat, parsley, onion, grated cheese and seasonings. Add beaten eggs. Put vegetables into greased casserole, pour mixture over them. Bake 45 minutes in electric oven at 350 degrees. Serves 6.

Fish and Chips

Thin slices of potatoes are placed in a sieve and dipped into cold water for five minutes. Shake and drain well. Fry in deep fat heated to 385 deg., or until an inch cube of bread will brown in twenty seconds. Drain on paper, sprinkle with salt and serve hot.

Dip fish — one-quarter inch in thickness. Make batter of two cups flour, one-quarter teaspoon baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt, pepper, one beaten egg, one teaspoon melted fat and enough milk to make a smooth consistency. Dip fish in batter and fry in deep fat until golden brown. This fat cannot be turned in for salvage but may be used again for fish if it is stored covered in a cool place.

Haddock Souffle

Three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, half-teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, few grains cayenne, one cup milk, three eggs separated, one and one-half cups cooked, flaked haddock. Melt butter, blend in flour, salt, pepper and cayenne. Add milk and cook over electric element turned Low; stirring until thick. Add beaten yolks. Bring to boiling point. Add fish. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into greased casserole and bake in moderate electric oven at 350 deg. for one hour.

Vegetable and Fish Casserole

One cup canned peas, one cup cooked and diced carrot, one cup left-over fish (flaked), one tablespoon lemon juice, two cups of white sauce, one tablespoon of minced parsley, seasoning of salt and pepper.

Combine peas, carrots, flaked fish, seasoning and lemon juice; add to white sauce. Cook fifteen minutes on electric element turned low.

TAKE A TIP:

On Preserving Leather Goods

Badly stained leather may be cleaned with Oxalic acid solution (two teaspoons to one cup water) — remember it is poisonous. Do not leather all over. Use shoe paste in place of leather cases, such as utility cases, may be given a thin coat of varnish or shellac.

1 It is advisable to keep patent leather boots or shoes for warm spring or summer days — patent leather cracks easily in cold.

2 Dark leather shoes may be treated with a thin coat of wax.

3 If fine leather articles get "out of shape" while wet, stuff into shape while wet; or wet again and press into shape. Then dry, use thoroughly and let dry at room temperature — do not put near heat.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. R. J. asks: "Can frozen fish be put in pan and cooked immediately?"

Answer: Frozen fish should be thawed out at room temperature, to save electricity, then baked. It not, fat and water splutter more, requiring more time to clean utensil.

Mrs. S. T. asks: "When is fish cooked, and is the nutritive value lost in over-cooking?"

Answer: Fish requires a short cooking period. When fish separates or flakes it is done. Over-cooking drains out nutritive fish oils and also makes it unpalatable.

ANNE ALLAN invites you to write to her, care of The Napanee Beaver Bowl, in your questions on homemaking problems and watch this column for replies.

LETTERS FROM NICKEY

THE STORY OF LIFE IN THE C.W.A.C.

Dear Babs:—

Well, my dear, here I am, a full-fledged Woman in Khaki! at last, posted for duty to an Army station. I feel rather puffed-up about the whole thing but, no doubt, life or you will take that out of me. I hope you dare! I am too happy to be deflated.

I arrived at the station in the train a few morning ago and, oh joy — Margot, Frankie and Peg, old Barton-Smythe cutie with me. It's too good to be true, isn't it? We were afraid of being separated. Besides, I am learning to depend on Barty's hot lemonade — can't live on it, I must watch myself—she's going to talk me into double pneumonia yet.

At the station a truck was waiting and we were able to stow our kit bags in that and walk to the barracks. It seemed a good way of living — not some surplus high spirits, we were feeling so exuberant. It was one of those gorgeous, early, cool mornings with the sun shining, when your fingers fall off before you know you are cold; thirty below or some fantastic low temperature like that. But with our hands nicely encased in those arme issue leather mitts, we were well protected, and we stepped out right smartly.

Everything was pleasant as a May morning, though, as I said, rather cold. A snowball (Margot said it slipped out of her hand) caught me in the back of my neck. You know what that brought on, right? A snowball skirmish. However, when we turned down the street leading to the barracks, we were walking very sedately indeed, in a manner befitting soldiers reporting for duty.

For your information, the barracks street is known as Zero Row and I quite get the connection. Birr-r-r! A location of woolies would be much appreciated. Remember, charity begins at home.

The first sight of the brick walls of the compound and Guard House was a Moment! Inside the walls were several buildings flanking the paved parade square. My first reaction! As I walked across the parade ground to the administration building, my heart turned over. It really did, scientific findings to the contrary.

As soon as I had reported at the orderly room, I found that I had five until meal parade, so I whipped off to have a look at our living quarters and to pick the bed with the most springs As you know, I am very partial to springs and I do like a bed to stand up to me, but I need not have worried. The beds are new hospital cots and the living quarters extremely comfortable. As I write you, I am sitting at a small table in my bedroom which I share with Nora Gardiner, whom I call the 'Early Steller.' She came down several weeks before the rest of us and she has made it great fun. I equivalent to coming over in the Mayflower Mem'ry. Well, I don't care, she is exasperating.

On well, apart from Nora, it's a duck of a bedroom with a spacious cupboard. We are allotted in one of a row of small dark houses and it is maintained housing capacity of ten, which were formerly married quarters for officers. Each room has most attractive, hardwood floors, freshly tinted walls and curtains and all heaps of shiny bathroom fixtures. How I revel in bathroom fixtures and I thought that all I could expect in the Army would be a pump and a tin basin!

But I have not told you about my job yet. As of to-day you are corresponding with the Secretary-to-the-Mess-Secretary at an army administration school. Important? I should hope you would be. I was flattened when I saw the formidable array of accounting books piled on my desk but I have recovered, and now am burshing up with joy to dig out it. I must watch myself—she's going to talk me into double pneumonia yet.

This is a wonderful vantage point for perspective on army life and I am absorbing information at every pore. C.W.A.C. are employed as staff cars drivers, cooks, orderly clerks, stenographers, waitresses, drivers, librarians, etc. There are five wings at the School and officers and N.C.O's from all parts of Canada attend the courses which last for one month. It makes a very interesting cross-section of Canadian military life to see the Pacific Coast rubbing shoulders with the Atlantic Coast and exchanging opinions on every topic imaginable. I like the Western lads — so full of vim and vigor!

Whenever I can snatch a few minutes from my duties, I have been digging into the army handbook, familiarly known as "K.R. Can." I don't intend to be caught asleep at the switch if I get involved in discussion on military procedure. In the meantime, you make a nice guinea pig, when I want to air my knowledge.

It is now 2200 hours army time for 10 p.m., my pet; and the First Post sounded the First Post, so I will bring this rambling account to a close and tuck myself in my little hospital cot.

Heaps of love,
NICKEY.

When the floor is dirty wash with a mild soapy solution.
After the floor has been cleaned, two, thin coats of a good liquid wax should be applied, the first drying before the second coat is applied, and down before the pattern

He drove them back into their homes, and his action had proved to be more of less a boon to women for now when he needs their help they are unprepared and must learn to love their homes. In contrast with the situation in Germany, the women of the United Nations are carrying their weight in the war effort.

At a special meeting of the Napanee Town Council held last Friday evening, a motion was passed granting the request of the No. 1 I. T. S. at Deseronto, the use of the pumper at Camp Eremen, and a truck operator, in case of emergency.

The Council rescinded a motion already on the books prohibiting sending the town's fire equipment outside the town limits and passed a new motion that the fire fighting appliances of the town be not allowed to leave the town limits except on emergency calls to the Deseronto Airport.

LOCAL BOWLING TEAM ROLL HIGH SCORE

During the last few months the local Bowling Academy has been occupying the limelight as far as entertainment is concerned. The four alleys are kept exceptionally busy with the Mercantile League, Gibbard's and the Ladies' League.

Last week the C.D.S. team, under the watchful eye of Joe Tustin, were defeated by the Lucky Six by better than 300 pins on the three strings, 1015 to 1315. Lucky Six's score was: Third string total, 1254.

Claude "Mac" McDonald rolled a 700 and William Markle beat him by a pin. Claude Percy completed the high string for the Lucky Six with a 487.

For the C.D.S. Joe Tustin trundled a 496 with H. Meyer the next high with 396.

This league is drawing to a close with the Lucky Six winning the first section and C.D.S. the second and third section bearing completion. The three section winners play off the finals this week when the winners of the Gibbard Inter-Shop League which Anthony Eden in his present visit to America is seeking to promote.

In closing Senator Wilson commended the work being accomplished by the service clubs and urged that every member of the clubs do everything possible to help bring about an enduring peace.

Another Young Man From Tamworth Killed in Action

Word was received on Monday of this week, by Mr. and Mrs. H. York, Tamworth, that their son, Pilot Officer Lorne York, had been killed in action somewhere in West Africa.

Pilot Officer York, formerly a resident of the Tamworth district, attended the Tamworth Continuation School. After graduating from school he entered the Tamworth branch of the Bank of Commerce. Later he was transferred to the bank in Keswick and enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in May 1941. He had been overseas since November, 1942.

No details surrounding his death have yet been received by his parents.

HERBERT COONS AWARDED D.F.C.

The R. A. F. announced on Monday, the award of the Distinguished Flying Cross to three Canadian officers, one of whom was Flying Officer Herbert Lyndsay Coons, son of Mrs. M. A. Egglett, of Morrisburg and formerly of Napanee, Ont.

Herbert Coons, who is 25 years of age is a member of 96th squadron. His citation read as follows:

"This officer has been continuously engaged in operational duties since early 1941. On two occasions his aircraft has been forced down in the sea. Its exact location, however, was easily discovered by searching ships as a result of accurate signals sent out by Coons.

"When on another sortie the bomb compartment caught fire this officer gallantly assisted in extinguishing the outbreak.

"Three times he has participated in engagements with enemy aircraft and on the last occasion a Focke-Wulf Kurier was probably destroyed. Coons is an extremely cool and efficient navigator whose courage and devotion to duty have been praiseworthy."

CANADIANS ASKED TO CONTINUE DONATING TO CHINESE RELIEF FUND

Contributions Through Beaver Office Total $171.00

In their magnificent struggle against the Japanese the Chinese people have been fighting our battle as well as their own.

Upon China today, more than in any other nation on earth, rests the future destiny of the United Nations. We are insensible to all these things because we do not yet realize that Japan is the greatest menace and most dangerous enemy we face today.

Are these overstatements? Let us examine the facts. When Japan first began, Germany had a population of 70,000,000— the Japanese Empire a population of 5 146,000,000. Germany had been preparing for eight years — Japan for at least a generation. Germany has far less overseas territory of approximately 1,500,000 square miles, Japan an area of 3,450,000 square miles. Germany has been unable to seize for herself, or to cut off from us a decisive amount of essential war materials. Japan has captured most of the world's supply of rubber, tin, and other vital metals, has gained for herself a ample quantities of oil and of all the basic materials needed to outlast her enemies in a war of endurance. The territories Germany has conquered have a population of some 227,000,000; nearly all vigorous, freedom-loving people who hate the Nazis and are ripe for revolt. Japan has conquered territories with a population of 310,000,000, most of whom are docile folk who have little reason to love the white races and whose labor can make their Japanese masters rich. The most powerful nation on the globe.

It is China that has humbled the largest part of Japan's military forces, and day after day is wearing away at the sinews of her strength and resources, China provides adequate bases for an offensive land, sea, and air attack against Japan.

If through exhaustion produced by more than a decade of war, or through lack of supplies, or from a feeling of hopelessness, China could be led as an ally, the whole military picture would be instantly transformed, and the course of human history changed.

Even if we think no higher than our own self-interest, we Canadians simply must give our Chinese allies every possible help.

First, we must give China adequate military and material aid. We must somehow get into China the vast stores of military supplies she needs for waging a successful offensive war, the money essential to support a large financial and economic structure. As citizens and as taxpayers, we must see that in these things, but definite action must be left to the governments of the United Nations.

Yet there is a second thing that every Canadian can do and must do for our Chinese friends if China and the people of Canada are asked to continue through The Chinese War Relief Fund every cent possible to the relief of China. That fund will not only relieve the vast suffering of the Chinese people but also act as a humble tribute to their magnificent courage and endurance, to give them new strength to carry on till final Victory is won.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM HERB BUTCHER

An interesting letter was recently received by Mr. and Mrs. L. Butcher Napanee, from their son, Sergt. Herbert H. Butcher, who is a wireless air gunner attached to the South African Air Force, in which there are Canadians, Australians, Africans and Britishers.

The letter describing action in which Sergt. Butcher had a part said: "We were stranded in the desert, we got out O.K. but we failed to get our aircraft out. They gave us another and we are now at the front again."

Further on the letter continued: "We had rather good luck hunting the other day. We managed to capture a German submarine and forty-one prisoners, I think, which the escort got off it. We dropped depth charges on it and forced it to the surface. Then we machine-gunned the decks to put the crew in the water so they could not do any damage and scuttle the sub. A destroyer was called and picked up the crew and towed the sub to shore."

Describing the weather, Sergeant Butcher said: "There is a terrific storm on this morning and we have all been grounded because we can't see the drome for sand. But then a rest is O.K. because we have been going every minute of day's light for four days. The wind here at this time of year is very cold."

Sergt. Butcher enlisted in Sudbury in April, 1940, with the R.C.A.F. He received his air-gunner's wings at Mountain View in September, 1940 and went overseas in August, 1941. He was stationed in England until June, 1942, then was in Egypt and later in Kenya, Africa. At present he is in North Africa.

He was married before going overseas and his wife and daughter live at Creighton Mine.

CAR, TRANSPORT IN COLLISION ON DUNDAS STREET

A minor motor car accident occurred Thursday morning on Dundas Street, when a transport belonging to James W. Harris and a car owned by Stewart Shetler and driven by his son, Sergt. Lorne Shetler, collided. The collision was head on, but fortunately no serious damage was caused because both vehicles were travelling at a slow speed. The grill over the radiator of the Shetler car was broken when it was crashed by the bumper of the transport.

COURAGEOUS LEADERSHIP

How John Bracken has been saying some very frank things. On Saturday, when addressing the Progressive Conservative Dominion Association, in Ottawa, he said that the first duty of the Opposition was to give every assistance to the Government to help win the war. This is a sane and sensible position to take.

For an Opposition Party always to oppose is to lose the respect of its rank and file. In crucial days, all parties should forget party advantage and seek the national good. The fact that Mr. Bracken has urged such a policy on his followers, will not be lost sight of.

Mr. Bracken's position on other themes was equally frank and reassuring. When it comes to matters of permanent peace, the Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party does not discount the price that will have to be paid for its achievement. "We can," he said, "achieve a world of greater peace instead of a world of even more terrific wars, if we desire it enough to pay the price of international cooperation. The fact that an enduring peace has eluded our generation should not daunt us in our search for the means by which it can be obtained for at least another century." These are frank and challenging words. The Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party recognizes that peace is obtainable if we are willing to pay the price. He does not mention the price. But if world peace is to be obtained it can only be as each partner to the world brotherhood of nations is willing to sink some of its national rights for the sake of the common good.

Mr. Bracken spiked the guns of those who maintain that depressions and booms are as inevitable as the tides. "Unemployment on a wholesale scale," he said, "need never exist again. It can be prevented and cured by employment."

Mr. Bracken laid great stress on free enterprise. He said that "the greatest danger I see threatening the material prosperity of Canada is the danger of discouraging that free enterprise." To be sure we must have free enterprise, so long as anything at all can be considered free. It is possible to have free enterprise even within an economic system strictly controlled. Men may be free within that area. We hope that is what Mr. Bracken means. For we quite expect that when the war ends there will be much regulation of business by government, and business will be free to operate within those regulations. But if Mr. Bracken means that at the close of the war there must be a return to the sort of free enterprise which brought about the economic collapse of the last decade, then we would have to disagree with him.

As the days pass Mr. Bracken will, no doubt, become more clear and explicit on this issue. In the meantime the Progressive Conservative Party shows more signs of life, more vision and more awareness of the modern problems, than for some time.

IN RUSSIA

Though the Russians are continuing their advance towards Smolensk in the central area of the 1400-mile battle line, which stretches from Leningrad in the frozen north, to the warm and sunny Caucasus, yet the retreat in the Kharkov area must be conceded a serious set-back. Apparently the Russians had outreached themselves and were ahead of their supplies. The Germans were reinforced by many new divisions from the West — some put the reinforcements at 375,000 men. For the first time since the capture of Stalingrad, the Russians have been driven back and have sustained a serious loss.

Ordinarily the loss of territory in a war of movement is not so serious. The object in that sort of warfare is to destroy the army of the enemy. The Russians have done a lot to that end. They have annihilated thousands of German troops and destroyed or captured huge quantities of war material. No advance of the Germans will bring back the men who were killed, and it will take time to make up for material lost, which is not so easy for the Germans now that the United Nations are continuing their round-the-clock bombing of German munition centres.

But this particular section of Russia is important. Its importance is two-fold. In the first place it is the source of vital raw materials. In this Donets basin more than half the coal and iron in the Soviet Union, is located. To lose, after having regained it, this area rich in such vital raw materials as coal and iron, is a serious loss.

Not only so, but Kharkov makes a strategic jumping off place for the Germans in a spring offensive, which they will have to make if they are to get needed oil for their war machines. However, so long as the Russian armies are intact, have manoeuvourability and ample supplies, the situation may be rectified in time to prevent the Germans taking full advantage of their successes.

D.F.C. FOR COURAGE, COOLNESS

Napanee people will rejoice with Mr. and Mrs. Eppiett, formerly of this town, in the news that their son, Herbert, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. The "Coons Boys" were favourites with the people here when their father, Mr. Max. Eppiett held the position of Science Master at the Napanee Collegiate.

According to the dispatch, Flying Officer Coons was awarded the D.F.C. for "coolness and efficiency as a navigator" and for "his courage and devotion to duty." He has been serving since September 1941 with a Sunderland squadron flying out of Sierre Leone, in Africa.

NORTH AFRICA

The campaign in North Africa is being political. On the military front the campaign has been waged with precision and vigor. The United Nations knew what they wanted. They made ample preparations for the landing, and succeeded to a very satisfactory degree. The crucial battles are still to be fought in Tunisia, but now that a large strip of shore line is held and important harbors, a steady stream of materials is reaching Africa in preparation for the final test with Rommell.

But it is on the political front that matters have not gone so well. In the first round the United Nations made terms with a Vichy representative, Darlan. President Roosevelt said this was a tentative arrangement and necessary in the prosecution of the plans of The United Nations. But grave apprehension was felt amon gthe people of The United Nations as to the wisdom of such a move. The assassination of Darlan did little to help the situation. General Giraud continued to keep in his council, men of well known Vichy leanings: General Nogues was the Vichy Governor of French Morocco, an ardent rightist: General Bergeret, who fought the British in 1941; Pierre Boisson, who directed the defence of Dakar against the British, in 1940, and General Peyrouton, Governor-General of Algeria, who was formerly Minister of the interior in the Petain Government. — Can the leopard change his spots ? Can these men who have been antidemocratic suddenly support democratic principles and fight for a victory of democracy which is the purpose of the United Nations ? These questions which have perturbed the minds of men and women who are giving their whole-hearted support to the defeat of the Axis.

Up until Sunday little had happened to dissipate this fear. On Sunday General Giraud gave an address which, while not completely satisfactory, yet, is somewhat reassuring. General Giraud said he is not leading the French, but is their servant. He promised to eliminate all Axis influences, other measures or men. He promised that when the war is over, he will submit the question as to the form of government the people want, to an election. The French people will make the decision on this matter. General Giraud made an appeal to General de Gaulle to unite against the common enemy. His repudiation of any post-war political ambitions must have had some weight with the Fighting French. The deGaullists see some glimmer of hope in the North African situation in Giraud's address, though they are not completely satisfied. Much will now depend on the decrees which Giraud issues to implement his promises. If the Vichy members of the Council are ousted, if political prisoners are all freed, if racial discrimination is officially repudiated by decree, then the war on the political front in North Africa will be well on the way to success. It should then attract the full support of de Gaulle and the Fighting French, and make possible a union of all French groups opposing the Axis.

In an ordinary war fought for territory it would not matter so much as to the political leanings of those whom we have chosen to work with in North Africa. But believing that this is a war of ideologies, it is disconcerting to say the least, to set up in a country taken over by the United Nations a governing body of an ideological type of those with whom we wage war. It will be interesting to what what happens Giraud's speech, not only interesting, what follows will be of momentous importance.

WILL HITLER MOVE THROUGH SPAIN

BY WAVERLEY ROOT

Once again reports are coming thick from Europe suggesting that a German invasion of Spain is in the offing. German troops are massing on the Pyrenees frontier, which they have occupied to a depth of sixty miles; and, in North Africa, Spain has just taken over direction of the communications in Tangiers, which, despite Spain's annexation of this international city, had been left under the direction of the French administration.

The trip of Governor-General of Spanish Morocco, Juan Belgbeder, once Franco's Foreign Minister to the United States, has been saluted by another former Spanish Foreign Minister, Alvarez del Vayo, as a Kursusi visit, the idea being that; he is supposed to put Washington in the negotiations carried on in an atmosphere of sweet reasonableness to prevent us from realizing that a blow is about to be struck.

If this is his purpose, the visit would seem to be almost superfluous, for the United States has kept itself consistently lulled about Spain. The speeches of Ambassador Carlton J. H. Hayes have had a curious sound. In democratic ears.

Unfortunately when you consider that many of the ordinary ingredients used in cookies can no longer be sent to prison camps . . . they wouldn't "keep".

In the five packing depots in Canada, in Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Montreal and Winnipeg, 100,000 food parcels a week is the objective this year. To keep our men supplied with these necessities it will take $5,000,000 for British and Canadian prisoners-of-war in Europe and 600,000 for food parcels for Canadian prisoners in the Far East. More than half of the total campaign fund of $10,000,000 will go this year to feed our prisoners. They look to their homeland to keep them alive and cheerful.

When you give your donation to the Canadian Red Cross . . . remember our prisoners in enemy hands. There are more . . . this year! Give what you INTENDED to— and THEN some . . .

WOMEN WORKERS RELIEVE MEN FOR ACTIVE SERVICE

Displaying a fine spirit of enthusiasm toward their work are thousands of girls from all walks of life now in the service of Canada as members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. In Military No. 3 many jobs previously carried out by category A men have been taken over by such women and in turn have been released for fighting service overseas. So great is the need for girls to do this work that the call has gone out for thousands more to offer their services. In the above photograph are: (TOP LEFT) Private Lillian Haight, who comes from Huntsville, Ontario, and is seen at the wheel of an Indian motorcycle. In civil life Private Haight was employed as a waitress. (RIGHT) L. Corpl. M.E. the most recent one received most attention for its least vulnerable part, thus distracting attack from what should have been the real issues.

CAR OWNERS STIRRED

Embattled automobile owners responded furiously to his announcement that Spain was getting more gasoline than the East Coast of the United States, but that this Washington had a perfect answer; it isn't American gas, and it isn't carried on American ships. There is no hint in his basis for criticizing this situation on the theory that if Spain got less gas, the East Coast would get more. It wouldn't.

But there might be reason for criticizing Spain's ability to get gasoline on the theory that the blockade of Europe should not be lifted for the benefit of a country incidentally and strategically tied to the Axis. The refusal to recognize this close connection is the chief criticism which can be leveled at Ambassador Hayes' speech.

UNITED STATES STANDS READY

Mr. Hayes declared that "the United States stands ready to maintain and extend any help it can to Spain, which itself is doing so much with such obvious success to develop a peace economy that will enable it to carry this country safely into a future period of world peace."

This description of Spain as a country with a "peace economy" has already been shattered by Spanish editors who have pointed out the tremendous proportion of the Spanish budget being spent on war—and everyone who has been in Spain since the civil war knows that the country is still an armed camp, unable to return to normality for the simple reason that the fear of the Axis population can only rule 20 per cent of its arms.

Mr. Hayes also expressed his admiration of the "wide discretion of the government which, while fostering works of peace at home, has held aloof from war abroad."

He saw, apparently, no inconsistency between his double impartialism of peaceful intentions to the French government and his simultaneous announcement that America had supplied Spain, in spite of her own shortages, with materials useful for the manufacture of explosives.

Nor, apparently, did it occur to him that it was very hard praise indeed, not to say that it was timidity of a type hardly befitting a world power, for Spain for no greater token of friendship than forebearance from making war against the United States.

PRESSURE IS WEAK

It has been explained in detail before, and it is necessary to repeat now, how impotent are all the means of pressure against Spain compared with Germany's present stranglehold on that country; particularly the presence of her troops on the Spanish frontier. But statesmen who could not realize that the ability of the Germans to occupy all France meant German direction of French policy until the threat was actually implemented can hardly be expected to realize that the same situation exists in regard to Spain.

The fact is, however, that whether Spain enters the war on the side of the Axis rests entirely with Germany. She can force this decision whenever she desires To supply Spain in the meantime is simply to make it the stronger possible Axis ally.

The question is: Has Germany so decided ? On general principles, it would seem that this is unlikely, for the fact that she has the force at present to make a major effort of this sort, her successful move would be intended only to make sure that the Allied forces guarding Spanish Morocco will not be transferred to the Tunisian front. But one cannot help feel that a force attacking the Spanish border are only a feint. Perhaps Germany is shortening her lines in the east, in order to be able to strike in the west. Perhaps she believes she can successfully move through Spain into North Africa, close the entrance to the Mediterranean to our convoys and catch our North African army between Rommel in the east and a force attacking from Spanish Morocco in the west. Perhaps, even, such an attempt might have a temporary success.

In any case, the likelihood that it will be made will not be decreased by sending stores of useful materials to Spain.

LIVING IN AN ANT-HOUSE

Probably you have heard of the huge hills that certain kinds of ants build as houses. Some of these are as high as thirty feet.

A person who has lived in Central Africa declares that it is the custom among some of the tribes there for the natives to drive out the ants and use such mounds as dwelling-places for themselves and their families.

And very good homes they make, too. For the first owners build solidly and well, and not even severe tropical storms can destroy their work—of even do much damage to it.

MARKETS WHICH SUPPLY ANYTHING THAT RUNS, FLIES OR CREEPS

There are a number of animal markets in the United States where you may buy anything that runs, flies, or creeps, from a kangaroo to a whole house of horned-toad rattlesnakes, or a tropical lizard to a 25-foot python. The only requirement is that the buyer must provide a proper house for the animal he purchases, and he must have a considerable amount of ready cash — that is, if he really expects to do any amount of shopping.

New York City is one of the greatest animal marts in the world, and at WALLACE'S DRUG STORE

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 21ST 1943

OUR LORD'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

Lesson Text: John 17: 1-8, 18-26

Here we have an intimate prayer. Indeed it may be called the Lord's own prayer. That which we call The Lord's Prayer was a prayer which others were to use for a guide. This prayer is our Lord's own intimate converse with The Father. In the first eight verses Jesus prays that the work He has done on earth may be vindicated. He knows what He has done; He has taught; He has healed; He has preached. In every way He has sought to reveal God as a Father to the people of His own day and generation. And now, He asks that God will endorse the work. "I have finished the work Thou gavest Me to do. And now O Father, glorify Thou Me." Perhaps, after all His work, Jesus wondered whether or not He had done all that God had laid upon Him to do. He wanted God's endorsement. That was quite natural. It is not always possible to know whether we have done all we ought to have done, Christ, in this, shared our apprehensions.

Of course, it is assumed that Jesus felt the sense of Divine vocation deeply. In that He had left us an example too often observed in the breach rather than in the observance. If there is one thing more than another which we need in the ordering of our daily lives it is the sense of Divine vocation. It is all too true that the economic system under which we have lived all our lives has done much to rob man of that conviction. Men have been thrown out of work. They have impounded the pavement in idleness. They had been forced to believe that no place for them in modern society. Disappointment, frustration, dogged their footsteps. Until the war put a temporary end to the condition. How, under those circumstances, can a man possibly have a sense of Divine vocation ? How can he feel he is called of God to do a certain job and lives; his life for a useful purpose when he cannot invest it at all ? If the new order is to be of vital interest to men it must capture the allegiance of the common man and women. We must somehow have a place for each; a person and a purpose in the service and of vocation.

Jesus had the experience of vocation and He asked God on this occasion to glorify Him.

Jesus prays for His disciples. His prayer was especially for the little band of followers gathered and brought into the Kingdom. Certainly enough He prayed that they might be one. That the unity of believers might be a unity of love and the impulse of love for followers and prayed that they might be done away with and that we might be united in fellowship with God.

We have come some distance in the past few years. In the United States and Canada. In the United Methodist bodies have become one; there are negotiations towards union between Presbyterians and Anglicans, Congregationalists and the Christian Brethren and the Friends. Part of this is evidence of the movement towards the unity of Christendom. And yet there is manifold division. Men who divide on the fundamentals of belief and practice. The prayer of righteousness is not found fighting each other rather than combining against the common enemy. There is little sense in the Church exerting the influence so long as it is divided. And yet it is perpetuated. It is to note the repetition of the prayer. Apparently in the mind of the Christ

Now, he's well again and doing a war job.

"My husband's had a nervous breakdown — just worry. He left his job in the shipyard to go into logging. But his health suffered and the doctor says he's got to take a complete rest. But we haven't any ready money. How can he rest?"

The bank manager listened to her troubles sympathetically. He knew the husband, knew the wife—both sound citizens. The bank advanced the money on personal security . . . on the good character of two honest, hard-working people.

"SUPERSTITIOUS SADIE" THREE-ACT FARCE GIVEN EIGHT TIMES

"Superstitious Sadie" a farce in three acts, prepared and presented by the Stillsville and Conway Young People, has proved to be a very successful undertaking. There are seven women and five men in it. So far they have presented it eight times. Of these one was for the benefit of the Winter Relief, held in Napanee, and one was for the benefit of the Red Cross, at Sandhurst. They have paid all their expenses, bought new scenery for their own hall and have at present a balance of over $100.

To hold your interest and keep you amused there is an abundance of suspicion brought from the hills by "Sadie" and kept alive by "Cory" the darky cook. There is a real live ghost; a main love theme centering round a wiker in straightened circumstances and two minor ones; considerable comedy, a posey and for good measure, a posey neighbor woman. Congratulations and encouragement should be given these young people when the difficulties are considered in preparing a play in a village where characters live within a radius of ten to twelve miles and weather and road conditions have to be considered. Then again, practice could only be on week ends as two members of the cast attend Napanee Collegiate while five of them are public school teachers scattered through Lennox and Frontenac, and are home only for week-ends.

The members of the cast are:—Kenneth Crawford, Robert Dickson, Jean Crawford, Donald Houah, Lois Wright, Duane Cuthill, Margaret McLean, Fraser Noble, Ruth Roblin, Marion Wright, Jean Trumpour and Helen Wright.

The Late Mrs. Sarah Jane Pringle

Tamworth, March 8. — At Three Mile Bay, on February 21st, Mrs. Sarah J. Pringle passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alberta Bates, with whom she had resided for the past 12 years.

Mrs. Pringle had reached the ripe old age of 86. Though in failing health for the past two years, she was confined to bed only one week. Her funeral was held at 2:00 p.m., on Tuesday, February 23rd, from her daughter's home. Rev. Jas. Pawley, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated. Burial will be in Three Mile Bay cemetery.

Mrs. Pringle is survived by one son, Charles, of Watertown, and five daughters, Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Revelle, Tamworth; Mrs. H. Reinie, Sacket's Harbor; Mrs. C. Rose, Flint, Mich.; Mrs. T. G. Hall, Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Nancy McKim, Tamworth. Twenty-two grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren also survive.

Report of the W. A. of Tamworth United Church

The regular meeting of the W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Reynolds. Despite unfavorable weather there was a good attendance. In the absence of the President, Mrs. J. E. Huffman, the Vice President, Mrs. T. Milligan, conducted the meeting.

The roll call was answered by "How to Win Friends". Rev. Mr. Seaton gave a splendid message on "Friendship". He opened his talk by asking "How many friends have you?" The answer depended on one's idea of what constituted a friend. He contrasted Macaulay's idea of friends with Baden-Powell's. The former's circle didn't include more than five, in fact only one whose death would interrupt his eating breakfast; whereas, the latter counted himself one of the world's richest men because of his army of friends. He claimed each Boy Scout as a friend. He also dealt with the friendship between Ruth and her mother-in-law, concluding with the greatest example of all friendship and love, God's love, exemplified through Jesus.

Hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus", and benediction, closed the meeting.

The hostess and her committee served a delicious lunch.

Young People's Union

The subject for the missionary evening at the Y. P. U. was "Youth and Education". This was given by Mrs. Earl Bradshaw who, during four different stories Mrs. Bradshaw sought to prove that home environment moulds youth more than heredity.

Women's Missionary Society

The regular meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. S. Gilmour on March 9th, with a fair attendance of 11. The President, Mrs. J. S. Haggerty, had charge of the meeting. The study was "The Bible in Many Lands", and was given by each member reading an extract showing how the Bible is being asked for by all the nations of the world, in increasing numbers. Our soldiers ask for it and read it. Even in Russia it is being asked for and studied.

Mrs. J. A. Brown and Mrs. J. S. Haggerty were appointed to attend the Presbyterial in Belleville, April 14th.

Each member was given the address of one of our local overseas boys, and will write him in the near future.

Mrs. Seaton closed the meeting with prayer.

DORLAND

Dorland, March 13. — The community has been quite unset by the loss by fire of the U. F. U. E. cheese factory last Monday. The cause of the fire is unknown. But it had gained such headway in the walls before it was discovered the building could not be saved. It was some time before much help arrived, as some of the telephone lines were out of order and all township roads were blocked by snow. The quick thinking and strenuous efforts of those near by saved most of the equipment from the making room, although much of it will require more or less repairs. The fire was first seen in the wall of the curing room, and the dense smoke hindered much being done there. The building, machinery and cheese were all fairly well insured. A meeting of the shareholders was held on Saturday, March 13th, to discuss rebuilding. It is hoped to have a new building ready for use before the heavy flow of milk is on, as it is something of a problem to find accommodation for it.

The recent mild weather has removed the amount of snow in the roads and also softened the ice, so that many are afraid to venture out. It would seem that a different system of managing the road problem is overdue. The provincial and county roads are opened (in fact swept bare most of the time) immediately after every storm, while people residing on township roads labor under great inconvenience. They have to haul their produce or get in supplies, by horses across fields, etc., to the open roads, where they meet trucks, or hire cars, to take them where their business demands their presence. Mail service has been maintained with difficulty and then was quite irregular.

Mr. and Mrs. H. John were in Kingston on Tuesday visiting Mr. John's brother, Mr. A. John, of Denbigh, who is seriously ill.

Mr. W. Rutan has visited his wife and cousin, Miss E. Bruce, who are both patients in Kingston General Hospital.

The last of a series of euchres held during the winter months took place in the Municipal Hall on Shrove Tuesday evening, with a good attendance. The door prize was won by Jack Chalmers and the card winners were Mrs. Sandford Gerhagher, Mr. Carl Mallory and Mr. Fred Gallagher.

Mr. and Mrs. Buist, of Toronto, are down for a few weeks with their daughter, Mrs. Jack Baker.

Mrs. Harold Allison and infant daughter have returned from Napanee and are with relatives in the village. Mrs. Allison's husband, Sgt. Instructor Harold Allison, of Calgary, Alberta, will join her in April to see their deceased wife. She leaves to mourn her loss by fire of the U. E. L. cheese factory last Monday. The cause of the fire is unknown. But it had gained such headway in the walls before it was discovered the building could not be saved. WARNING

CANADA FACES A WOOD-FUEL FAMINE NEXT WINTER

ARE YOU one of the Canadian householders who burned fences, doors, and even flooring to keep warm in this winter's sub-zero weather?

Or perhaps you are one of the lucky ones who just managed to scrape through?

In either case, you will want to be prepared for next winter when greater hardships loom unless you take immediate action.

The shortage already has affected many communities . . . total stocks of dry wood are nearly exhausted . . . in some places the small supply of green wood cut for next winter is being used now to meet the present emergency.

Throughout most of Canada, fuel-wood is obtained not far from where it is consumed. Its production and distribution are the business of local citizens.

The Dominion Government recognizes that the wood-fuel shortage is so serious that even with the full co-operation of everyone in affected communities an adequate supply is not assured. Accordingly, it has been decided to stimulate the output of wood-fuel by assisting those normally engaged in its production and distribution. To this end, the following measures will be adopted:

1 A subsidy of $1.00 per cord will be paid to dealers on all commercial fuel-wood contracted for and cut on or before June 30, 1943, and held to dealers' account on that date.

2 The Coal Controller has been authorized to arrange in his discretion for the payment of such portion of the transportation costs as he considers proper in respect of fuel-wood, particularly in cases where dealers, to procure supplies, find it necessary to contract for fuel-wood at locations outside the area from which they normally derive their supplies. In order to obtain any such reimbursement, dealers must obtain a permit from the Coal Controller before contracting for such supplies.

3 The Coal Controller will repurchase from dealers at dealer's cost all commercial grades of fuel-wood on which a subsidy of $1 per cord has been paid and which are still in dealers' hands as at May 31, 1944.*

4 Assistance will be given in providing priorities for necessary equipment.

5 Farmers now on the farm, and who leave the farm temporarily in response to this appeal to engage in fuel-wood cutting, will be deemed by National Selective Service to be carrying out their regular occupation as farmers and will be given all the rights of deferment of military service which such an occupation now carries. Such temporary absence should not, however, interfere with agricultural production.

Municipal councils, farmers, fuel dealers, individual citizens, service clubs, and all other groups in communities where wood-fuel is burned, are urged to begin at once a rapid survey of their local situation, and to take immediate action to relieve the shortage.

CAMDEN EAST LIBRARY BOARD SETS FINE EXAMPLE

Camden East Public Library has just ended a very successful year. It has co-operated with five public schools — this eight for the present year) in providing interesting educational reading books for the pupils; besides its regular library service to the community.

And possibly the best feature connected with the Library is the "Story-Hour" conducted each week in her own home, by Mrs. Brady, the president of the Library Board. These story-hours are very popular with the boys and girls, so popular in fact, that in order to accommodate the number, Mrs. Brady had to form two groups, taking the smaller children in the afternoon and the older ones in the evening. During these meetings, stories are read and a short talk is given by Mrs. Brady and sometimes a treat or light lunch.

The popularity of these meetings has shown that great things could be done for the children of any community under proper leadership and with the help of interested community-minded citizens. These meetings not only keep children from playing in the streets and give them a feeling of being a little "grown up" their own.

Would it not be grand if this club idea could be carried out on a larger scale? With this in view the Library Board and United Church Hall Board are co-operating in a plan to provide accommodation for the children's library and reading room. From this we hope will come many happy well-spent hours of clean amusement.

The above-mentioned Boards have co-operated further for out-of-door amusement for the children in summer. The Library having been granted the use of the ground adjacent to the library rooms. This ground, the library board and children will clean and make into a small playground which is already being early planned by the children.

A few public-spirited adults, on hearing of the plan, are co-operating by giving time or materials to aid in carrying on the work. To all of whom, the Library Board is very thankful.

Tamworth Soldier Back From Overseas Speaks At School

Cadet Officer Kenneth Stilwell addressed his home in Tamworth last week, after having been overseas for two years.

First Tamworth boy to return from overseas duty, Cadet Stilwell related the Continuation School on Wednesday and gave an interesting talk to the students.

He expressed his pleasure in being back in the school where he spent many happy, studious hours. He spoke of the splendid work of the King and Queen in the Red Cross and munitions factories, the morale of the Eveilla's people being high, notwithstanding the bombing and the blitzing and salvaging, which is well organized.

Of the beauties of England and Scotland he made special mention of the journey by ferry up the Clyde River, when he got his first sight of the historic Ailsa Craig, a rock mist.

Questions by the pupils concerning air raid shelters, commando raids and other matters showed that they were keenly interested in the speaker spoke of the importance of education in the business world. As an example of his officers, Mr. Millar, the Principal, expressed appreciation for the visit and address.

His home coming was an experience in itself, owing to the severe storm of the week end.

Saturday afternoon he arrived in Napanee by his father's car. Then he took up No. 31 Highway for Tamworth. The storm became so intense they remained at a farm house overnight. Monday afternoon they resumed their journey to Tamworth, reaching Selby where they were held up by a freight train, come to a standstill in effect, owing to the heavy snowfall. Fourteen persons sought shelter in the farm house where Cadet Stilwell shared the night.

Cadet Stilwell arrived in Canada March 4th. He is posted at Belleville, where he is taking a three months' officers' course.

He commends the English and the Scotch people highly for their courage and tenacity. When asked how about the Red Cross he said they do a remarkable job. Parcels in comparatively few hours. Britain is United nations are given the same liberal treatment. Each person receives new socks, he hands in his old pair and receives new.

Regarding cookie and cake parcels, need parts most are sent to be re-distributed and some parts stale.

WON OUT

A woman's voice was heard from the steps of a crowded bus: "Can I get in, dear; someone will give you a seat." The next moment two young women entered.

The men in the car read papers sternly. Those who had seats pretended to be asleep. The too-certain women glared in vain. The car went on for half a mile. Then a man alighted.

"There's a seat for one," said the conductor.

"Don't take it dear," said one young woman, "some man will want it."

In the moment of defeat she triumphed.

HOW OLD IS THE EARTH

Most Canadians are familiar with the seemingly endless expanse of rock which spreads across our northland. Geologists refer to it as the Canadian Shield. But few people are aware that the rocks which make up this shield are among the oldest on earth. To know their age is next to knowing the age of the earth.

We have put the question, "How old is the earth?" to Dr. F. B. Moore of the Royal Ontario Museum.

"To determine that a particular rock formation is older or younger than some other rock formation is not difficult but to determine the absolute age of a particular formation is difficult. Many methods whereby we can estimate geological time have been suggested," said Dr. Moore "For example, we can make estimates on the basis of the time required for streams to carry to the sea all the salts found there. We can measure time by the rate that streams cut their canyons, or by the rate at which land areas are reduced through erosion. The application of these methods, in an attempt to arrive at the age of the earth, gives very indefinite results. Radioactivity has been no uniformity of rate in the working of these processes."

"The best method for estimating the age of the earth," continued Dr. Moore, "is based on the atomic disintegration of radio-active substances in rocks. The rate at which such substances break up into several elements such as helium, lead and thorium, is constant and has been determined. Therefore, by very delicate methods, the quantity of these elements, set free by the breaking down of radio-active substances, is determined and the age of the rocks can be fixed."

"Applying this method to rocks of the Canadian Shield, geologists consider that the oldest ones are about two billion years old. Some think that probably a billion years had passed from the earth's outer globe first began to take shape until the oldest rocks were formed. Add one billion to two billion and you have three billion — the estimated age of the earth," concluded Dr. Moore.

"To win a total war we must fight it totally, and we are not fighting it that hard."—Elmer Davis.

FATS FOR SALVAGE— EVERY SPOONFUL NEEDED

Hello Homemakers! Fat provides energy — for guns as well as diets. Yes, the fat that provides energy for growth and activity of the human body also provides energy which fires shells from guns.

Be very sure to use available food fats to their fullest extent—for keeping your family strong and energetic, salvaging every spoonful left over. No amount of fat is too little to save, so urge on the country's need for glycerine. Every pound saved will produce enough glycerine to fire ten rounds from a 50-calibre airplane cannon pointed at the enemy.

Two tablespoons of fat a day is the requirement for each adult — obtained from cream, lard, butter, shortening, pork trimmings or rendered fats. A family of two needs one and three-quarter pounds of fat per week—including butter allowance (which is ample at present) and fat for cooking. Each child under twelve years requires from one-quarter of a pound to nearly a pound, depending on age and size.

Less frying and more broiling means a more thrifty use of fats. Meals will be pleasantly rich and easily digested — the kind the family enjoys. When food needs are taken care of, strain your left-over fats into a wide-mouthed can for salvage.

It only takes 21 tablespoons of fat to make a pound — one tablespoon a day for a 31-day month. When that much is accumulated, take it to your meat dealer — he will pay you for it and turn it over to a rendering plant to be made into tallow. The tallow is sent to soap manufacturers, for it is by the soap-making that the glycerine is extracted from the fat. The glycerine, in its turn, is sent on to the explosive manufacturers — and a shell will blow its way toward the enemy with the help of your fat.

It takes time to make fat into glycerine, so take your tin of fat in today.

TAKE A TIP:
What To Do With Your Fats

1 Save all waste cooking fats. Render pieces of fat meat slowly. Clean out broiler pans and roast pans with a scraper or wooden spoon, into clean, wide-mouthed cans such as coffee tins or lard pails. Strain fats as you pour them to remove all foreign matters.

2 Keep fat containers in electric refrigerator or cool place until you have collected at least one pound. Take your fat to your meat dealer, who is co-operating patriotically in this drive. He will pay four or five cents per pound for your shipping fats. Bones and poultry fat should also be taken to meat dealers.

3 You may donate fats and bones to your local Voluntary Salvage Committee, if one has been organized.

6 Don't take less than one pound of fat to your meat dealer; don't take fats to meat dealers in glass or earthenware containers; don't let fats stand near heat where they will become rancid; don't take fats and bones to meat dealers on Sundays and Saturdays (usually rush days) and don't ask him for egg coupons in exchange.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. D. E. B. asks: "Have you made porridge using whole wheat kernels?"

Answer: Yes, indeed, and like it, too. Do you know that grinding even wheat has a much higher nutritive efficiency than that in white flour — good laxative, too.

Use cleaned whole kernels; sort the grains, wash thoroughly and soak overnight. Add one and a half cups of water to every cup of wheat. In the morning, add four cups of hot water, one teaspoon salt per cup of soaked wheat, and boil gently three-quarters of an hour.

Mrs. C. M. B. suggests: Add diced sweet cucumber pickle to thick sauce for scalloped potatoes and use as a tasty sandwich filling.

ANNE ALLAN invites you to write to her in care of The Napanee Beaver with your questions on homemaking problems and watch this column for replies.

CANADA'S CALL FOR 35 MILLION POUNDS OF WASTE FATS

The lives of the United Nations' soldiers, airmen and sailors mostly depend upon the speedy response to the S. O. S.

Fats and Oils are the raw materials from which glycerine is produced. Glycerine is the basic and indispensable ingredient in the majority of our explosives.

If everyone in Canada saves a little as two ounces of waste fat per week, a total of 35 million pounds of the Glycerine required for the gun powder to maintain Canada's Victory Quota. There is enough explosive hidden in ten pounds of waste fat to fire forty-nine anti-aircraft shells.

In the pass we have received most of our Fats requirements from the Far Eastern sources. Now cut off by the Japs — Canada must look to Africa, from the Phillipines, Palm Oil from Dutch East Indies and Malaya, Tung Oil from China, Perilla Oil from Manchuria and Japan. As in so many other materials problems, this was one of our normal sources of supply of Fats and Oils is vitally important to our War efforts and economy.

Our problem is to replace all of this loss. It is being replaced partly by some imports from our good friends in Central and South America, but the biggest source of all has never been fully tapped. That source is in our own kitchens. Nevertheless to say, this Canada-wide Campaign depends almost entirely on the Home Front — on the continued efforts of everyone in Canada. This is a challenge to every Canadian Housewife, restaurant and hotel owner for it is their job to see that this Fat is saved out of Canada's drying pans and broilers — from the dripping of steaks and chops, beef and pork and lamb roasts, chicken and turkey, ducks and geese must come this fat. Glycerine so urgently needed to make explosives for shells and bombs and depth charges to win the War — and that adds up to deadly importance for Hitler or Co.

Individually, we may look at the small amount we are able to save daily from dripping and from other sources and decide that it hardly seems worthwhile. Let us all remember that if every person in Canada saves as little as two ounces of Waste Fats a week it will be an adequate answer to this National War Effort and appeal. Saving waste fats is one of the simplest War aids asked by our Country, and it is one of the most important ones as well. Home Front, so join the proud ranks of the Kitchen Commandos. Your uniform may be only a plain apron but it can be as gallant as that of the tags and helmet of the Bombardiers in a Flying Fortress.

WASTE FATS AND BONES ARE NEEDED

You now have a definite plan for disposal, namely:

1 Take Fats and Bones to your Meat Dealer who will pay you the established price. OR

2 You can donate your Fats and Bones to your local Voluntary Salvage Committees in any place they collect them. OR

3 You can continue to place out your Fats and Bones for collection by your Street Cleaning Department, where such as system of collection is in existence.

It has been determined that German Residents in the First World War was seriously undermined by the acute shortage of Fats brought about by the British blockade. Proof of this is found in the fact that the methodical Germans started a Fat Salvage program as far back as 1937. They have employed elaborate methods to conserve every pound of Waste Fats and Oils to avoid a repetition of their experience in 1918. To-day in Germany the Salvage of Fats and Oils is Top Priority War-BY COMPULSION!

Unless measures are taken to increase the supply of fats, Canada may be faced with a deficiency of hundreds of pounds of glycerine for explosives.

I am confident that you and your family will extend prompt response to the S. O. S. Tell your friends about this important Canada-wide War Campaign for Waste Fats. You appreciate that this is not a one-man job and that we appeal to you and members of your family and your friends.

PEOPLE RUSTY ON CANNING EASILY PLAN SUGAR NEEDS

"I haven't done any canning for several years. Should I plan to can this year and if so, how will I estimate the amount of sugar I'll need?"

A good many women are in the same position. They feel that they should take part in the Home Canning program but because they have not done any canning for the past few years they are not sure how to go about it.

The following points will help:

1 Plan your weekly purchases of canned fruits? Two tins of canned fruit and fruits are the equivalent of one quart of home canned fruit.

2 The greatest possible use must be made of fresh fruits this year so only count on using canned fruits for six months of the year. If you have been buying two tins of fruit a week you can estimate on 26 quarts of home canned fruit; instead, or a total of 26 quarts in six months.

3 Storage space must now be considered. Improper storage of home canned fruits may lead to spoilage, so don't plan to can more than you have room to store properly.

4 The question of jars must also be considered. Manufacturers are increasing production of their output of quart sealers this year. New metal lug caps will also be available to replace worn ones on jars you may have on hand. The new jars and rings will be on the market in time for the opening of the canning season.

5 When you have decided on the amount of canning you will do, based on these points, fill in your Victory Garden Coupons on the basis of half-pound of sugar for each quart of fruit.

LETTERS FROM NICKEY
THE STORY OF LIFE IN THE C.W.A.C.

Dear Bobs:—

This Woman's Army is a full-time job — not that I would be anywhere else for all the rice in China, or should I say, all the Nylon stockings in America? (Though a member of the Canadian Armed Forces, I still covet silk stockings.) Silly, is it not, considering that I am not likely to be in a position to wear them for a long time to come? That's the privilege of the Officer, Cherish and Nurse. It's the genus buck private. However, I still think it would be nice to have a drawer bulging with silk stockings. It's the miser in me coming to the fore, I suppose, that makes a man with no car, covet rubber tires. Looking back, I don't think that so much could have happened in two short months. Four new recruits to seasoned (well—practically) volunteers.

I think, Babs, that the most solemn moment of my life was standing up and taking the Army oath. I took the Bible from the hand of the O.C., and repeated after her, a pledge of allegiance — a pledge that I am resolved will not grow rusty with time. I should be easy to play up, play up and play the game with those ringing words in my ear. I found melodramatic? I get carried away by my enthusiasm. I know, but I started the drama time and again, by the way — the many suffer for the few. Ours is a fine organization, doing a work that is trying out to be done. But from time to time, some flighty little think joins up, without realizing her responsibilities, and by her conduct scores a black mark against the Corps. The blemishes always stick out like sore thumbs, for there are wagging tongues, but much of the fine and unremunerative sacrifice made by the women in khaki go unheralded. There I go again—beating the drum!

You probably will be amazed to hear of one of the main topics of conversation in our quarters these days. It may be a military secret but I'll let you in on it. Sshh—clothes! Leopards don't change their spots, and the Army girls still look askance when something nicely wrapped in silver foil trips past. A kind civilian who understands Feminine psychology sends us "Vogue" and we would laugh to see the girls hovering over such fabulous new creation. We pore over khaki uniforms but its fun to see how the other half lives—and dresses. By the way, I am relieved to find that the C. W. A.C. caps are not hard to wear. I was afraid that they might call for Grecian features. Of course, with your regular little nose, you would not understand.

As a natural by-product of such a deep interest in wearing apparel, Romance has broken out in our midst like a rash and all the girls are starry-eyed. To be sure, they treasure a united front and say that the steak is better company than any man. Almost every night, Army-owned films breezily on my bed and complaints all her dimples showing that she and I are engaged to "Wild Bill" the whole damn Army. The way she puts it is, "Cherry, you're terrible and I wouldn't dare go to—est drinks."

Mavis, her friend, a light redhead, usually drops in for a round of crackers and cheese before going to bed and invariably about the curly-headed S-gt-Sergeant who looks like Elliot Gordon and who she says, has the disposition of a Knight of the Grail. Even Marion-Smith has developed a charming capacity for ice-cream sodas which she consumes in a dreamy daze. I am enchanted youth with teen-thinned places in my arteries to be filled with scientific "My dear, he's a veritable encyclopedia of information," Frankie marvels of him, and said "I'll take vanilla," so Harry stalked with offended dignity out of the room.

How is your wonderful Dave? I have a grudge against him. If his blue uniform had not matched his eyes so nicely, you'd be here beside me marching shoulder to shoulder. You don't even pick the right colour. Nothing shot that bolt. I'll write in soon.

Write soon. I am always looking for your letters.

Ever, NICKEY.

ERINSVILLE

Erinsville, March 12. — The snow and wind storm of Sunday was the wildest experienced in many years. The blizzard — like proportions which it reached filled the highways and byways to such an extent as to make them utterly impassable. It was with great difficulty and hard work that a band of men and teams were able to get the doctor for a very sick person. The road a week ago was in fine mud and on the mild weather of the last day or two is doing much to reduce the snow on the highway, which was ploughed, is almost bare of snow.

Farmers have been handicapped by deep snow in getting up their supply of wood for the coming year. Although the storm was a severe one, it has been a serious disappointment to the many who were looking forward to the arrival of spring.

Making maple sugar and syrup will soon be the order of the day, and some say sap is running.

It is said, on good authority, that the ice on Beaver Lake is 2 inches thick. A record depth.

Mrs. Frank Bass, a farmer of the Clair River district, has retired, to live in the village. He still resides in his farm.

Mrs. Rosie McGrath is very seriously ill, and much anxiety is felt for her recovery, as she is an aged woman.

RATIONING

We who think in terms of fifty chickens and four cows can hardly conceive the magnitude of the task in planning and distributing the millions of Number 2 Ration Books, which you may or may not yet have when you read this. This rationing is something which affects about 12 million people 24 hours in every day," quietly said L. B. Unwin, Canada's rationing chief, in his Montreal office.

Just a little background of Mr. Unwin will serve to show why it looks to me that these wartime jobs are being efficiently handled. It sounds a little Horatio Alger. At 51, Mr. Unwin is vice-president in charge of finance for the Canadian Pacific, and president of their growing Airlines. He came out from Kent, England, at sixteen and in 27 years, hired at seventy per, He was a railway clerk at Chapleau, in 1908. He won the Military Cross for bravery in the first Great War, starting out as a buck private, ending as a Major. He now serves, without cost to this country, Tall, unobtrusive, bi-lingual, astronomical figures, his jobs he takes in stride.

Local Boards in National Set-up

You wondered why your Local Ration Board was set up, with its four-a-time inactivity. Now you probably know. It was all part of a nation-wide scheme to do the rationing job with the least disturbance and at a minimum of cost to the taxpayer. There were wheels revolving within wheels, policies to be determined before Mr. Unwin's crew got going. Then there had to be directives to those who would do the actual work in cities and towns from Sydney, N.S., to Victoria, B.C.

Just imagine the confusion — not to even think of your own feelings, if you had come in from the farm on a blustery day and some inefficient if patriotic volunteer worker cut your card all to hell. But all that had been taken care of while you sat out the winter around the Chief's office. The Distributing Chief appointed by your local Ration Board had clear-cut instructions on every jiy phase of the operation, and so did the other volunteer workers who are doing, or did, something which is their contribution to the war effort. Just think of it, all these folks working without remuneration! That's the kind of thing you get when it means a big saving to the taxpayer too.

Mr. Unwin told of the different sets of conditions which had to be provided for the distribution for urban and rural centres. That was worked out beforehand, with every detail the local distributing chief became the local conditions better than he knew local conditions himself, as the federal men from Ottawa or Montreal.

The Story Behind Ration Books

Do you know that the King's Printer started delivering ration books to the administration between January 20th and 30th at the rate of a million a day, for the distribution, throughout Canada, set for February 19 to March 1st. You know yourself what was in each book. They were in cartons of 1,500 books each, handled in 30's. There had to be proper cost. I was told, for additional sheets in regard to quantities, of course, for underground and coal miners and diabetics. Just imagine the detail involved and still in this age of Montreal offices with its clatter of typewriters and ringing of 'phones there was radiating all over Canada, with decision and clarity of purpose but an absence of any bedlam, a distribution of ration cards so vast as to stultify the imagination unless one was on the scene.

As you know the No. 2 book was not mailed out, but you folks had to "come and get it." Some of us had hate to put ourselves out and just the administration realized that. They realized also that Canadians do not have to be Gestapoed into anything and are amenable to reason. And why shouldn't they be with it? If we want to play rummy in the Old Bldck's real estate office, the governments doesn't make John's premises to your doorstep. So, Mr. Unwin's outfit wasn't big a bit disturbed about Canadian consumers' reaction to this decision.

Distribution Is Complete

They had to be sure that every town of 500 people had at least one distributing centre. That cities of 100,000 or more had offices located strategically to accommodate busy people so avoid bottle-necks, even going so far as to issue instructions that doors in the places decided on were conveniently located to avoid congestion. We wouldn't think of things like that out our way. Do you know I was even shown how instructions were sent out on how the tables were to be arranged to handle people quickly.

The administration, for instance, had to figure out such things as how to handle returns from stores on return of cards from those out of No. 1, which were handed in before you got a new one; and the green sheets for tea and coffe which were picked out from children's books. Each and every book, card or sheet has to be accounted for to avoid letting any unscrupulous persons get their hands on them.

Volunteer Workers Dollar Savers

Mr. Unwin told of the vast number of volunteer workers necessary to put the job over. Reports coming to his office analyzed and bird's-eye viewed for his benefit, show that Canada's responded and saved the nation millions of dollars which can be converted to tanks, planes, guns and other instruments of war. "The success of the whole project will depend," he said, "upon the resourcefulness and on the hard work which everyone contributes. They rely on that here in this Montreal headquarters of consumer rationing.

As an outsider looking in, I felt which has been under way since the outbreak of war was maintained during 1942 in the provinces of the Maritime Provinces. although numbers are very much smaller than in the Prairie Provinces, a sharp increase in hog production is indicated.

The relationship of hog prices to feed prices remains relatively favourable to the hog producer, and it may be expected that, subject to the limitations of labour and housing, hog production will continue to expand in 1943.

The morning after the dance at the local club two of the members were comparing notes.

"Why?" asked the other.

Q. I used to pay five cents for a glass of milk at a lunch counter and now I am charged ten cents. Is that right?

A. No. The caterer may charge up to ten cents for tea or coffee service, particularly, but milk must remain the same price as previously. If your caterer refuses to return to his old price for milk served a la carte, report the circumstances to the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Q. My cousin in the country has offered to give me dairy butter if I need it. Am I allowed to accept it?

A. Most emphatically no. The rationing regulations permit butter being acquired only by purchase and then only when the proper number of valid ration coupons have been surrendered.

Q. I am thinking of taking over a retail business. What steps should I take to secure the permission which I believe is now necessary?

A. You should make application for a permit to the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, giving all pertinent particulars. Offices in this region are situated at Brockville, Belleville, Cornwall, Kingston, Pembroke and Renfrew

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They burn and toss—lie awake for several hours. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headaches, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Doan's Kidney Pills—used all a century the favorite remedy. 183

Extend Restrictions on Slaughter Hogs

Under a new Order of the Bacon Board, issued on February 27th with the concurrence of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and which became effective on and after March 1, 1943, the number of hogs that may be slaughtered in certain designated areas in Canada, by those holding temporary permits under Administrator's Order No. A-490 of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will be subject to further restrictions.

This action has been taken for the purpose of securing the necessary quantities of bacon and other pork products for export to the United Kingdom.

Persons already licensed to slaughter hogs under previous orders of the Bacon Board will continue to operate without any change in their present status, which is a restriction of fifty per cent. of the weekly average of 1940 for distribution or sale in the domestic market.

All persons in certain prescribed areas holding slaughter permits from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board but not formerly licensed under the Bacon Board will now come under restriction and on and after March 1st, 1943, the number of hogs slaughtered for sale or further processing in the domestic market, shall not exceed 75 per cent. of the average weekly number slaughtered by and for him in 1941.

The areas in which the new Bacon Board Order applies are outlined in the basis of zones prescribed in Order 194 of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. They are bounded and may be described as follows:—

All those holding slaughter permits from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board who are located in what is generally referred to as Old Ontario. All those holding such permits located in or slaughtering for sale in any town or city with a population of over 5,000; in the Province of Quebec; in the Province of Manitoba, and in the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The Order does not apply in any part of what is generally known as New or Northern Ontario or any part of Greater Vancouver, the City British Columbia excepting the city of Vancouver and the area within what is known as Greater Vancouver.

Farmers slaughtering hogs for consumption on their own farms only, do not require slaughter permits and are not subject to the provisions of this new Order.

Hog Production Attains Record

The number of hogs on Canadian farms reached an all - time record on December 1st, 1942 There were on that date 7,750,600 hogs on farms. On that number 3,298,900 were under six months of age, and 2,451,700 over six months old. The number on farms as at December 1st, 1941, was 6,527,300 and on December 1, 1938, 2,500,000.

The expansion in the hog industry

The number of hogs on farms as at December 1st, 1942 was 2,750,600 or 16 per cent. more than the number on farms as at December 1st, 1941, but 10 per cent. less than the number on farms as at December 1st, 1939.

The number on farms as at December 1st, 1941, was 2,451,700 and on December 1, 1938, 1,500,000.

The expansion in the hog industry which has been under way since the outbreak of war was maintained during 1942 in the provinces of the Maritime Provinces, although numbers are very much smaller than in the Prairie Provinces, a sharp increase in hog production is indicated.

The relationship of hog prices to feed prices remains relatively favourable to the hog producer, and it may be expected that, subject to the limitations of labour and housing, hog production will continue to expand in 1943.

Q. I am a nurse on private duty and at one of the houses where I have been lately I was requested that I should bring my ration book with me to help the family obtain the needed goods. Should I do that?

A. If you are eating regularly in another house for any length of time, it seems only reasonable that you should assist by providing the household with the means of obtaining rations for you. Otherwise, you are in a position to get double rations and the household may run short. Even if you are eating meals elsewhere for only a day or two it will help if you take your rations with you. All the nice people do that nowadays.

Q. I am thinking of making a collection of ration books as wartime souvenirs. Is that permissible?

A. As the Ration Administration asks consumers to destroy their ration books when their contents no longer possess value for the purchase of rationed goods, such a collection would not be allowed. You must remember that your ration book is the property of the government of Canada.

Q. Why can't I get corn syrup in the quantities in which it used to be available?

A. Although more corn syrup has been manufactured, more of it has been consumed. Hence it has been in short supply. It is hoped that a recent order limiting its industrial use will make larger stocks available for consumers. In the meantime, sales are often restricted by retailers for the feeding of the use of people on special diets. You wouldn't deny them corn syrup, would you?

VICTORY

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

Three nutritious meals a day are needed by every worker for maximum health. This is particularly true of war workers who must maintain their health at a high standard to prevent absenteeism, accidents and attain better production. Accepting full responsibility for our personal health and that of our families necessitates planning and providing three good meals a day. Those who live away from home can accept the same responsibility through careful selection of meals and allowing adequate time in which to eat.

Breakfast is usually the worst meal of the day. Many workers dash off to work after bolting a slice of toast and a cup of tea. Imagine toiling at heavy manual labor all morning with practically nothing for breakfast! A good meal to be enjoyed and used to best advantage by the worker must provide foods selected for their nutritive value, be well-cooked and served in attractive, pleasant surroundings in a cheerful atmosphere. Management owes it to workers to provide such facilities for their meals in the plant.

What the worker will select for his noon meal or take in his well-filled lunch box will depend upon what he has for his other two meals. A total day's food supply should contain the following foods: (1) A pint of milk, that is, two glasses of milk, and you can count cheese or buttermilk as part of that. (2) A serving of meat, poultry or sea foods. (3) One egg. (4) An orange, or tomato, or a serving of grapefruit, orange juice, tomato juice or raw cabbage. (5) One or more servings of leafy green or yellow vegetables, such as spinach, kale, cress, carrots, etc. (6) Two or more servings of potatoes, other vegetables or fruits. (7) A serving of whole cereal foods such as rolled oats, cracked wheat, etc. Bread made of the whole wheat variety. (8) Fats such as butter, with added vitamin A, and such other foods as you may want to satisfy the appetite, including of course, a sufficient amount of water to drink.

MAKE SURE OF YOUR THREE SQUARES A DAY AND YOU WILL DO A MUCH BETTER JOB.

In the Garden

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

This year more than ever before, gardens are vital. Not only are they needed for providing essential foods but in growing vegetables and flowers, one will find a useful and pleasant recreation open to almost every citizen of the Dominion. Any recreation that will provide a healthy tonic for jaded war nerves. In the spring one turns naturally to gardening. Digging in the soil, sowing seeds and watching plants develop, provides a therapeutic relief from the worries of our modern life and will be particularly appreciated in this eventful year, when tension was never greater and when many of our normal recreations may be no longer possible.

OUR SEED SUPPLY

Seed supplies are not going to be too plentiful this year, but most carefully and ordered early, authorities are confident that there will be sufficient to go round and even to meet the demands of extra war gardens planned in Canada.

Before the war seeds for Canadian gardens came from almost every part of the world. Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Hungary, England, California and our own British Columbia were famous producers. But for certain specialties it was necessary to go much further afield. Australia, New Zealand, France, Germany and Japan contributed certain lines. In some cases the trade was direct, in others foundation stock only was imported. The trade was largely in the hands of experts. who knew from long experience just what would suit Canada's climate.

Naturally the war has completely upset all this. Instead of importing seeds from Great Britain, that country has been asking Canada and the United States to send her everything possible, especially in the vegetable seed line. Russia, too, is asking for huge supplies. Most of the old regular supplies are out. From Canada and United States sources must come practically all of our garden seed supplies for this spring, and last fall in both Canada and across the Line the weather was unfavorable to seed production.

VEGETABLES WILL BE NEEDED

Authorities are warning that shortages of vegetables are possible this year. Consumption, due to greatly increased employment in the war factories, has been going ahead by leaps and bounds, and the market gardens on the outskirts of the big cities are getting smaller because it is so difficult to get help and machinery.

MOST FOR THE MONEY

Vegetables are easily the biggest yielding crop one can grow. Not only can many lines be grown close together but with some things like radish, spinach, lettuce and carrots, for instance, a second crop can be harvested in a single season.

Small vegetables like lettuce and radish require rows only 15 inches apart. Beets, beans, carrots, peas and spinach need a little more space between, while potatoes, corn and squash or tomatoes must have a couple of feet to thirty inches. Space may be saved with the bushy type if earlier kinds quick-maturing such as lettuce and spinach are planted in between. The tall growing kinds will not need the full room at first, and by the time they do their early crops will be out of the way.

If room is extremely limited, then experts advise confining vegetables to such heavy yielders as beans, lettuce, carrots, beets, onions, celery many meals for a small family. A 30-foot row of any of these will supply many meals for a small family. The expert who appreciates garden freshness will also include peas and corn. These things take up more room, and at least 25 feet of row is needed for a worthwhile crop, but only from the small front plot at the door can really garden right at the door can really fresh corn and peas be obtained.

HOT BEDS

A bed for starting garden seeds early is usually prepared in March. It consists of a bed of fresh horse manure which supplies the heat. About 18 inches deep is needed and three inches of fine soil is placed on it and after the bed has heated up and then cooled down again a matter of a week or four days the seed is sown in rows a few inches apart. The bed is protected by rough boarding along the side and on top, and hoping towards the south and sloping inches above the bed is placed a window sash well bedded in the manure. Here the seeds may be started and placed in sunny windows and placed in sunny win-

LAWN WORK SHOULD BE EARLY

Grass is a cool-weather plant. Any work with lawns should be started as quickly in the spring as possible. This does not mean that the soil should be worked while it is still wet. That sort of thing never helps any kind of gardening. But once the soil is dry enough over the ground one can walk over the ground without getting sloppy mud, then the rake can be brought into play.

In both new lawns or in patching the soil should be raked fine and level. Authorities advise sowing only the highest quality of seed mixtures. As thick as directions specify and, of course, when there is no wind blowing. To get even results it is best to make a double sowing, one across and one lengthwise. Small patches can be protected from the birds by brush.

Both new and old lawns benefit from rolling while the ground is still soft. Grass, like any other plant, needs good soil and an annual application of fertilizer is advisable. This pushes growth so that many weeds are crowded out. Color, too, benefits from fertilizer.

MAIL FROM HOME MOST IMPORTANT TO MEN OVERSEAS

London (RCAP News Service) — Just as much for the folks at home is a routine broken by certain ups and downs, so the day to day program for an airman on active service becomes a round of well established duties, punctuated by moments of high exhilaration and of despondent inertia.

These two states of mind may stem from precisely the same origin — the mail from home.

How small a matter this may appear to some in Canada is evidenced by the few letters which they write to their sons or brothers overseas. The importance in the minds of others is likewise shown by the steady flow of letters, cards, clippings from the editors town newspaper, which turn home town strangers up at base post office overseas and are sent on to the addressees.

The importance of mail to a man who may have 3,000 miles of land between himself and his family is difficult to assess. It is a fact however, which Air Force authorities will support, that a parcle — that much used word which means roughly the state of mind of your men—is immensely bolstered by a regular stream of information from home through the mails.

A few hundred words of family news and local gossip on a sheet of paper may not look very important to the person who is typing and close to the things of which he writes. But to the chap who is far from home in some lonely outpost — or in the biggest bombing station in the land — it means that he can think for a moment about the things he left behind, and about the things he will, some day return to.

It means taht he has not been forgotten, that somewhere people are thinking of him, that someone misses him, is praying for his safety, wishing him good luck.

That is what it means to him, whether he's an air mechanic or an AC2, and whether he admits it or not. It means somebody has remembered — remembered he would like to know whether the kid brother made the second base spot on the sandlot team. Remembered he was anxious about his brown cocker spaniel, who had caught her foot in a gopher trap. Remembered to tell him not to go down to the fooming river and watch the salmon run, leaping up the falls. Remembered how he liked to be the first in the spring to notice that the days were getting longer. That he likes to think of those things is a fact that comes home from a mess when he comes home from a raid over Germany, or when he is trudging through the day with his clippers, or at his paint brush, or his cooking pots or his parachutes.

He thinks about them and all they stand for because they are his way of life. They represent what he has left behind and what he wants to have again.

There is only one way he can know about them. That's when the kid sister, or the folks or the girl friend write and tell him.

Whether he is from Halifax or Hazelton, Coleman or Chanonhini, it makes no odds. If the mail box comes bulging into the orderly room and there is nothing in it for him, he is the loneliest guy in the world.

A dozen lines from any member of the family would have done the trick, or an airgraph from the lass he used to work with down the store, but he gets nothing and he wonders if anybody ever thinks about him at all.

Some other fellow gets a fistfull of letters, a carton of cigarettes, another gets a parcel with chocolate and chewing gum, maybe some socks and a tin of pork and beans — but

Canadian Blood Saves Lives In Many Parts Of The World

Many Canadians are proud of the fact that they have British blood in their veins. Today the picture has been reversed and thousands of Canadians can be even prouder of the fact that their strong Canadian blood is coursing through the veins of "blitz" victims in Britain. Countless civilians, maimed and mutilated in Goering's "hit-and-run" raids over Britain's so-called military objectives, have been brought back to life through the use of blood serum from Canada, distributed through the Canadian Red Cross.

The armed forces of the United Nations, too, have made great use of Canadian blood serum and supplements have been made to Egypt, Libya, Iraq, Cyprus, China, the Faroe Islands and Russia. Malta, famous island of the Middle East war zone, recently received a six-months' supply of Canadian dried blood serum as part of an important convoy of war material.

Many Canadian soldiers, wounded at Dieppe, owe their lives to Canadian volunteer blood donors. Royal Air Force hospitals make good use of Canadian blood in treating flying accident cases, while Navy medical units recently received a substantial supply. The lives of 46 between twenty and thirty persons burned in the St. John's, Newfoundland, hostel fire were saved by the prompt arrival of blood serum arranged by the Canadian Red Cross.

One of the great medical discoveries of this war has been the method of processing whole blood into dried serum, by a freezing and dehydrating process which converts the blood plasma into a powdered serum which can be stored indefinitely on ships, in hospitals or at the scene of battle.

The development of dried serum has simplified transfusion. Mixed with sterilized water, this powdered blood plasma can be transferred into the vein of an injured person, regardless of blood type. The blood of five donors is needed for one average transfusion.

Early in 1941, the Dominion Government asked the Canadian Red Cross to undertake the organization of blood donor clinics across Canada. The objective at that time was 2,000 donations weekly. Average weekly donation for 1942 was 3,482 or a total of 181,691 donations from 23 clinics, some of which had only been in operation a few weeks before the end of the year. Six new clinics have been opened recently and in addition, two mobile blood donor units are in operation, visiting cities not previously touched.

Record week so far this year showed 6,328 blood donations and the ultimate objective for 1943 is 12,000 donations each week.

Britain is now building up a reserve store of dried blood serum in preparation for the opening of a European battlefield. In order that Canada might carry its share, a considerable portion of the proceeds of the present Canadian Red Cross Campaign to raise two million dollars will be devoted to further blood donor service.

Canadian Red Cross Questions and Answers

Q. What is the Canadian Red Cross Enquiry Bureau?

A. This is a service of the Canadian Red Cross, operated in Ottawa, whereby enquiries regarding men and women in the Canadian Forces can be handled. Present work of the Bureau falls into three main divisions: (1) Dealing with enquiries made at the request of Canadians, by cable or air mail, as to the health and welfare of prisoners of war, or of sick, wounded and missing men of the fighting forces overseas, and of civilian internees abroad. (2) Receiving and transmitting through the proper authorities, personal cable messages from Canadians addressed to their relatives in enemy or enemy-occupied countries. (3) Assisting in sorting and filling the "acknowledgment cards" sent back from Germany and each card, personally signed by the prisoner and giving a clue as to his home address, is forwarded to his next-of-kin and a duplicate filed in place. All this work is carried out by volunteer workers.

Q. What are "Capture Cards"?

A. Under the terms of the Prisoner of War Convention, the "detaining power" undertakes to provide each prisoner, within seven days of his capture, with the means of communication. These cards are forwarded to the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva, and from these cards, lists of prisoners are compiled and sent forward to the Government of the country to which the prisoners belong. These lists are not the "official" lists of prisoners which are prepared and sent forward later by the "detaining power."

Q. What do "Capture Cards" mean to Canadians taken prisoner?

A. Under a new system inaugurated by the Canadian Red Cross at the time of Dieppe, "capture parcels" containing toilet articles, clothing, etc., sufficient to last the prisoner until his first next-of-kin parcel arrives, are made up from these capture cards and forwarded to him immediately his capture is made known. Several hundred of these capture parcels were sent by the Canadian Red Cross to Canadians captured at Dieppe.

Q. In casualty lists, what does "missing" mean?

A. It means that when the roll is called after a battle or an operational flight or a shipwreck, some men fail to answer their names. It may only mean that the man has been delayed by some minor accident; it may mean that he is hiding or it may mean that he is wounded and hoping to get back safely; in the case of a sailor it may mean that he was picked up by another vessel and has no chance of communicating his safety. The information the Red Cross keeps a record of these missing men and uses its worldwide organization to search for them. The Canadian Red Cross visitors, who go through the wards of hospitals to visit sick or wounded Canadians will enquire from these men about their comrades or shipmates in case they can give some evidence of their fate for the information of the families of the missing men.

Q. Is there any charge for the use of the Canadian Red Cross Enquiry Service?

A. The service is given free of charge to relatives or friends of men in any of Canada's fighting services or of relatives of Canadians in enemy internment camps.

437,203 JOIN ACTIVE ARMY

Ottawa, (C.P.) — Enlistments in the Canadian Active Army at January 31, 1943, totalled 437,203, the Defence Department said in a report to Commons for G. K. Fraser (Prog. Con., Peterborough West).

Men called up and enrolled for training under the National Resources Mobilization Act at that date numbered 114,641 and 21,446 called up for compulsory service had volunteered for active service with the Army, Navy or Air Force.

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN IN L. & A. COUNTY CONTINUES TO MARCH 31

Road Conditions in Rural Areas Unfavorable for Canvas

Splendid public support has been given the Red Cross Membership Campaign. Reports from the Napanee Campaign Committees indicate that so far more than 3,000 persons in the town have become members of the Red Cross for 1943. The Campaign got off to an excellent start with the Gibbard Furniture Shops and its employees joining up 100 per cent. There have also been over 1,000 citizens in the various villages canvassed but during the balance of this month there will be need for canvassers in each rural public school section who will endeavour to have every member of every family join the Red Cross for 1943.

The membership fee is $1.00 or more per person and this year it is expected that the resources of the Red Cross will be taxed to the limit to provide the many services which our fighting forces will require. Every person who joins the Red Cross is helping to supply this need.

the transitional period between war and peace is a program of reconstruction — federal, provincial and municipal public works, or of the three in co-operation; reforestation; development of mineral and other resources, amplification of agricultural production, and, generally, things to provide and stimulate employment.

The social security plan is not designed to relieve people of work, but to relieve those who lose the opportunity of working. That any full scheme of the kind will be on the statute books this year, or next year, is much doubted.

Kingston Juveniles Lead Police Merry Chase

Leading Provincial Police a merry chase along No. 2 Highway, Napanee, two boys and seven juveniles, two boys and two girls, were finally captured in a stolen car near Deseronto.

The boys, who are being held on a charge of stealing a car, allegedly took the automobile of Walter Johnston, Foster Avenue, and with their two companions made their getaway.

Questioning revealed that the two girls had run away from their homes four days ago and had been wandering about the country-side with their boy companions. When caught the quartet had committed seven bottles of ale from a case in the Johnson car, police said.

RED CROSS NEWS

Not until the war is over will the world hear the full story of the work done among the United Nations prisoners of war by Red Cross. While prisoners are issued rations, it is felt their diet must be supplemented. Until the end of 1942 two million food parcels had been packed by the Canadian Red Cross.

The parcels contain sufficient calories to sustain the prisoner for seven days—milk powder, cocoa, meat, fish, cheese, butter, fruit, biscuits, jam, tea, salt and pepper are among the chief items contained in P.O.W. packages. Five million dollars from the current Red Cross campaign is ear-marked for this work. $25.00 will purchase and deliver one P.O.W. parcel to Geneva.

AIRCRAFTSMAN HOWARD C. GILBERT DIED SUDDENLY

The death of Aircraftsman Howard Clifford Gilbert, which occurred at St. Thomas R.C.A.F. Training School, on Friday of last week, aroused the sympathy of the whole community for his parents, Corporal Clarence G. Gilbert, R.C.A.F., Belleville, Octava, and Mrs. Gilbert and his sisters and other relatives.

During the morning on Friday, Mrs. Gilbert received a telegram stating that her son was seriously ill with scarlet fever and bronchial pneumonia. About two hours later another telegram was received announcing his death. No previous word had been sent that the young man was ill and his sudden, unexpected death was a great shock to his family.

He had been at St. Thomas for just one week previous to his death. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. last August and spent four months at Technical School at Ottawa before going to Lachine, Que., for his basic training as an aero engine mechanic. From Lachine he went to St. Thomas on Friday, March 12th.

Howard Clifford Gilbert was the only son of Corporal and Mrs. Gilbert and would have been twenty years of age on April 26. He was born in Ernestown and Township and lived in Napanee about sixteen years. He attended Napanee Public Schools and the Napanee Collegiate. After leaving school he was employed at The Gibbard Furniture Shops for a short time and previous to his enlistment had been working at Graham's Garage for a year.

For some time before he was old enough to enlist he had been keen to join the R.C.A.F. and since his enlistment had been very enthusiastic about the Air Force and expressed the wish to stay in the service rather than go home. He was a quiet young man but had a very attractive personality and was well liked by his schoolmates, teachers and his employers. He had been a regular attendant of Grace United Church Sunday school all his life.

His body was brought to Napanee on Saturday evening and was taken to his parents' home on Clarke Street, where it remained until the funeral, which was held at Trinity United Church on Monday afternoon. SAVE COVER PAGES OLD RATION BOOKS

In view of the fact that the prefix and number on Ration Book No. 1 constitutes identification of the individual consumer for rationing purposes for the duration of the war, the Ration Administration suggests that when this book is destroyed, the cover bearing the prefix and number should be retained by the consumer and put in a safe place where it may be referred to in the event of lost or any future ration books. The prefix and number on Ration Book No. 1 are printed in bold face type and underscored. Symbols on No. 2 book are merely written in ink which may easily be blotted out or smeared so that it would become illegible.

CHINESE RESISTANCE VITAL TO CANADA IN FIGHT AGAINST AXIS

Beaver Fund for Chinese Relief Now Totals $200.00

Against seemingly hopeless odds China is continuing to resist. In the trenches where men are fighting, and in the homes and in the fields where millions are starving; in the numbing winds, in the high-hitch mud of flooded wastelands, in the bombed cities and pestilence - ridden areas of the interiors; in the tents and the caves and the houses, in the bomb shelters and mountain paths; in the river boats and bamboo shacks, the mighty heart of China beats bravely for liberty.

This is the nation and these are the people who march with Canada on the soul-testing road of war.

They're people like us, remember. They make bad slaves but superb soldiers; like Canadians, they do a lot of laughing and a lot of singing; they won't stand for under any man's boots; they believe in individuality and the dignity of man. It's a big country and they're a big people. They're generous to a fault and they are tolerant of the mistakes and meanness and cupidity of smaller people. They are slow to anger and quick to forgive.

But don't tamper with their freedom! Don't tamper with their liberty! For these they fight — at this point they fight furiously and hard and down to the last gasp!

• • •

There is only one antidote to hunger—that is food.

There is only one remedy for the homeless — a roof over their heads.

There is an antidote to pain, whether the dull pain of disease or the shocking pain of wounds. The antidote is medicine.

It is within our power to give these urgent necessities to the Chinese needy. "They can do everything we can provide—except give up one. Courage.

"They don't ask for courage. They have that in fantastic quantities. Enough to spend with a lavish hand; enough even to give away. Enough for all of us to draw strength from.

POSTAGE RATES UP APRIL 1ST

Ottawa, (C.P.)—Important changes in Canadian postage stamp issues are being made by the Post Office Department, it was announced here. Volume effective April 1st, postal officials said it has been decided that air mail rates will be raised from six to seven cents. Exactly how it was not known whether air mail letters would would carry a seven cent as well as regular mail would carry the extra two cents imposed in the recent budget.

Hon. J. L. Ilsley's budget.

Under an international agreement the mail stamp—now three cents in Canada and four cents when the eight cent additional tax is applied—must be red. To meet this requirement a new four cent stamp in red is being prepared and is expected to be available about April 15.

Color for the three-cent stamp in the new issue, which will be in use for the present, has not been decided. The 13-cent stamp, used for regular mail special delivery, will be red with changes will also be made in both the air mail stamps, which will be made seven cents, mail, which will be made seven cents, and the 16-cent air mail special delivery which will be a 17-cent stamp.

Tours Arranged For Canadian Troops in United Kingdom

Ottawa, (C.P.) — The British Ministry of Information has arranged tours for Canadian troops in the United Kingdom to enable them to see something of the war effort. It was announced last week by the British High Commissioner's office at Ottawa. Tours, it is stated, are free for officers and one for other ranks, each week.

Those who have been arranged for Canadian service women. The tours, the announcement said, give participants an opportunity to see the war factories, which are turning out ever war supplies per capita than any other phases of Britain's defensive and offensive work.

Those who participate in the tours greatly appreciate them, more so because it is not particularly easy to see what is going on in Britain without official assistance. For obvious reasons, the announcement added, all possible measures are taken to conceal war industries and prevent prying eyes from seeing what is going on.

"The nation must draw in its belt, in a very real sense to meet the demands of war." — Leon Henderson.

There was a very small market in Napanee, on Saturday, due probably to the bad roads throughout the district.

Eggs were slightly lower than the week before, selling at 28c, 32c and 35c per dozen. Pork by the quarter was 21c and 23c per lb. Little pigs were $7.00 each.

DRINKING OURSELVES RICH

Ontario this year shows a surplus of nearly $21,000,000. Of this amount $15,750,000 are the Liquor Control profits. The liquor bill was stated as approximately $86,000,000. In as much as this includes the wholesale price charged for beer, it is safe to estimate conservatively that the people of Ontario, last year, spent $100,000,000 for intoxicating beverages.

It is not necessary to labor the point, as to the effect on the morale of the community which has resulted from this vast expenditure. The writer travels a good deal, and the situation prevailing in the beverage rooms in this fair province of ours, is a disgrace. Nobody can estimate the lowering of our moral standards, and the disastrous effect of these conditions on our young men and young women. The cumulative effect on our whole social fabric is impossible to appraise. But we can depend on it that we are laying up for ourselves a problem that will not be solved in our lifetime, unless serious efforts are made at once.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has taken steps to have the sale of liquor curtailed somewhat. He is to be complimented for so brave a step, and pronounced a stand. But no sooner had the proposals been operative than a vigorous agitation was opened against him and his restrictions. The Brewers, whose product was the last to be rationed, were the first to protest. And it is suspected that their brand is to be seen in the protests from various groups which have reached Ottawa in recent weeks.

There is no doubt but that so long as the production of beverage alcohol is in the hands of private firms, the situation will not be improved. The remedy seems to be to take the profit out of beverages. It should be the patriotic thing to serve other drinks. Then the government which now sells the liquor should, as well manufacture it. The profits from all of this should be used as propaganda to discourage its use.

This latter suggestion may seem like a fantastic one and yet, it is done in Russia. There, liquor is made and sold by the government, but the profits are used to discourage people from drinking. That is another of the unusual things done in the nation which has borne so great a share of the battle effort during the past winter. But it works, and the people are the better for it.

So long as the profit motive is operative in the manufacture and distribution of liquor it will bedevil politics and business, and in an ever increasing way destroy our whole social life.

ON THE MARCH

General Montgomery's Eighth Army, believed by many experts to be the finest force in the world, is on the march. Before this gets into the hands of our readers, he will have given a good account of himself. When the history of this American campaign comes to be written it will go down as one of the most remarkable of all time. It was at 10:20 p.m. on October 28th, 1942, that Montgomery struck at Rommel's Afrika Korps, when the Germans were within eighty miles of Alexandria. After a terrific bombardment, Rommel's troops broke and fled on November 3rd. Since then they have retreated over thirteen hundred miles, and now all that is left to him is a strip of about 300 miles of coast line, and Rommel is hemmed in between the Eighth Army on the east and the American Army on the west. The Afrika Korps has extricated itself from many a difficult position, but now, there is no avenue of retreat; the space for manoeuvering becomes more and more restricted—the squeeze play has been planned to last detail.

There is no hope for escape for Rommel by the sea. We can depend on it the Air Force and the Navy will see to that. At best it would appear that all Rommel can hope for is to fight a delaying action, so as to give Germany time to continue building defences in Italy and Southern France.

It would be well, however, not to count too much on an easy victory. The battles in Tunisia will be hard fought, and there will be heavy losses, but Montgomery is a hard-driving general and will not let up on his pressure on Rommel until the issue is settled.

Once the North Africa shore is cleared of the enemy and the danger in the Mediterranean reduced, the United Nations will be free to make their attack on what Prime Minister Churchill calls "the soft underbelly of Europe."

V

IN RUSSIA

There is no use trying to belittle the recent German gains in the Donets Basin. Looked at from any angle the German counter-offensive has been a victory for the Nazis of considerable magnitude. The German armies on the Russian front are now where they were at the beginning of the 1942 offensive. There are several factors, however, which must be taken into account when trying to appraise the situation. One is that, on the Smolensk Front the Russians are pushing ahead. They did not fall into an error of weakening the drive in that area in order to bolster the troops in the southern sector. Had they done so, the Germans would have, in all probability, stabilized the line in the south and started an offensive in the Smolensk area. That the Russians have not withdrawn men from one sector to reinforce another hard-pressed part of the line, indicates that they do not think that the situation is too serious. What happens in the Smolensk area will bear watching. It may just be that if the Russian armies are successful there, the Germans will be deprived of the vital rail centres which are necessary for another spring offensive.

THE FUTURE

Prime Minister Churchill made a speech on Sunday which peers into the future and shows what he and his cabinet see in the day that is to be. It is rather remarkable that he should have become the prophet of a new and better world. Those who had thought of this leader as a military man, as a Tory diehard, must have had a surprise when they listened to him outlining a new four-year plan to become operative on the defeat of Hitler. He favored national compulsory insurance for all persons. Speaking of unemployment, he said: "Unemployables, rich or poor, will have to be toned-up. We cannot afford to have idle people. Idlers at the top make idlers at the bottom. No one must stand aside in his work-ing prime to pursue a life of selfish pleasure. There are wasters in all classes. Happily they are only a small minority in every class, but anyhow, we cannot have a band of drones in our midst, whether they come from the ancient aristocracy or modern plutocracy or the ordinary type of pub-crawler."

Language like that reveals how far we have come in our thinking. We remember the terrible consternation with which Lloyd George's mild reforms were greeted a generation ago. And here is the great leader of Great Britain demanding that there shall be no idlers in the world that is to be. It is a heartening, reassuring note in the political life of England.

Side by side, with this, Mr. Churchill placed an emphasis on national health. Those who have known the England of the past, with its slums and its underprivileged and its undernourished, will rejoice that the Prime Minister calls for better health plans and more scientific and universal social welfare.

Education was not neglected by the Prime Minister. He looked forward to a Britain so great that leaders would be chosen from all schools and from men wearing all sorts of school ties.

On the eve of what we have been led to believe will be an invasion against the enemy, this great speech has special significance. For, in addition to giving the men and women in the forces, assurance that what they are fighting for is a definite new and better way of life, it will put heart into the conquered peoples. Indeed, its effect will not be lost on Germany herself. Much has been made in Germany of the decadence of Great Britain and the weakness of Democracy. On the military front, Germany has learned that the British are not so decadent as they believed. And now, German people will learn that the Democracies are capable of erecting a new order, not on the basis of force, but on the will of the people expressed through a parliamentary leader. The psychological effect of this address cannot be overestimated.

RUSSIA'S DEBT TO ENGLAND

From The Chicago Tribune

Great Britain saved Russia in the twelve months between the fall of France in June, 1940, and the Nazi attack on the Soviets in June, 1941. The critical battle, when all the events are reviewed in their relation to one another, was not in Russia but in 1942-43. It was over London in 1940. The Soviet Union cannot fully repay the British people for the sacrifices so far made or to be made. Except for British dispatches in detail Russia now would be reduced to dominion over improverished waste desired by no one. That's important to remember, if it had been forgotten.

A confusion seems to have cast events into disarray. They have been thrown into historical reverse. The war drama has been presented with its acts in the wrong sequence. The Russians are winning battles for the common cause only because for the common cause only because the British would not cave in and make a peace with Hitler. That refusal was not an accident of the will although it was not, in the intention. The salvation of the Soviets follows from the natural consequence of the British refusal to make peace. In the time that remains to hate Stalin as intensely as they hates Hitler and Mussolini, the Soviet dictatorship had done its part to give the Nazis a complete victory. It has failed entirely in doing so Russia would have been dismembered.

Stalin is now fighting for a second front. For a year it kept war out of his territory. It fought with his winter army and treacherous ally. Stalin had the advantage of the British loss of ships surrounding his foe. It saved him. If there should be any doubt, let it be obvious to everyone.

If Britain had fallen shortly after the fall of France, the fleet might have withdrawn and the entire empire of the empire would have continued the fight. The conditions of the struggle would have been horrible, but America would have entered sooner and the issue would have been continued. Germany would have gained little from the British Isles. Its island would have been smitten by the ultimate disaster. Fortunately for Hitler, when Goering tried to end the war by air attack he failed and the R.A.F. tagged so many of his planes that he lost his nerve. British courage under punishment stopped him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of
The Napanee Beaver

Sir:— Show me Hitler to be actually dead for. That is the natural inquiry in the minds of many people who have questions the sincerity of his death.

Lord Tweedsmuir believed in the Continuity of Personality and continuing says, "That no man knows his ancestry. Every bloop of ice ancestors may lie dormant for centuries, until the appointed time arrives." There is the story of the Vikings son, who was lost in a raid and ended audaciously reaching the throne of England in the make-up of Abraham Lincoln.

Thus the case if you will of Judas Iscariot, the world's greatest traitor, is it not possible that the spirit of Judas is now in the make-up of Adolf Hitler. Lord Rosebery in his book on Napoleon, trying to account for the meteoric rise and swings finally to defeat in Napoleon's career, advanced the theory that Napoleon and his ancestors were descendants of the purely human viewpoint. He evidently considered the mode of reasoning sounding to be that Providence saw fit, for necessary ends, to use him as a scourge of Europe; and until his work was done, he was allowed to go to his Providential limit, and then was swiftly withdrawn.

In my judgment, Hitler too, will be used as suddenly reach the end of his rope.

HITLER BANKING HEAVILY ON U-BOATS

BY LOUIS F. KEEMLE

British United Press War Analyst

The anti-submarine campaign being drafted by Canadian, British and American experts in Washington is directed at coping with the only weapon still available to Hitler with which he can hope to win the war or cause a stalemate.

The supply problem is one of the biggest confronting the Allies because of the great distances which have to be covered by sea to reach Europe, Africa and Russia through dangerous waters. If the supply system breaks down, victory in Africa or a successful invasion of Europe would be impossible.

Hitler evidently is banking heavily on his spring and summer all-out submarine campaign, which appar-ently already has started. German propaganda is boasting of results for the first month.

The entire German fleet is reported to have assembled at Trondheim in northern Norway. Allied quarters expect it to put to sea in an effort to cut off the vital supply line to Russia, and perhaps into the Atlantic to wage an all-out submarine campaign. When he was appointed commander-in-chief of the German Navy, Grand Admiral Doenitz, a "submarine man," said the entire fleet would be devoted to the U-boat campaign.

Hitler now is on the defensive on the Allied ring tightening around him. He is fighting for time, in the hope that if the allied assault can be held off until next autumn, his submarines will have so weakened Allied supply lines that invasion of Europe will be more hazardous than it is now. Prime Minister Churchill recognizes the danger when he told Commons that overcoming the submarine menace was first place in all Hitler-Allied war plans.

Hitler's desperate need for delay is shown by the men and material he has squandered to reinforce Marshal Rommel in Africa. He knows he must lose there eventually. The big Allied offensive in Russia apparently is about to start, however, and ensuing weeks should put the issue beyond doubt.

It is not impossible that in an effort to forestall an Allied invasion Hitler will attempt a major diversion in Europe. From the point of view of mass bombing of Britain, the use of poison gas and perhaps even of bacteriological warfare on the English coast at heavy sacrifice.

PRELUDE TO A RAID ON GERMANY

BY HENRY McLEMORE

The target for tomorrow had come down from the United States Army Air Force command. The boys knew where they were going, what route they were taking, what they could expect in the way of flak. Seven eight hours before they were to be off with the dawn in Flying Fortresses were lounging in the room. Among them was Captain Billy Southworth, tall, good-looking son of Billy Southworth, who won the pennant for victory over the Yankees in the last World Series. The radio was playing and they were playing something by a composer who apparently had been frustrated in love at least a dozen times.

"Turn that thing off and get some German music," a pink - cheeked pilot from California said. Someone gave the disk a twist and from Germany came a band recording of "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree." Then there flew in a young pilot from Massachusetts said.

It made your feel homesick. Here were boys only a few hours from taking off in the hope of dropping their bombs on Germany, and were listening to music from that country and the heavy, unintelligible words would be wiped out by their explosives.

For two hours I sat and watched the reaction of the boys who were going into action. Not a muscle showed which they would gamble their lives. There wasn't a pale face in the room. One didn't know what he was up against. Not one of them had ever come home from a mission without missing death by the proverbial whisker and all of them had been on eight or more operations over enemy territory. They all reacted differently.

Southworth laid out his battle dress — uniform which isn't exactly in regulation but which is awfully smart. I cut him before I left. "Listen, Bill, they get me," Billy said, "they are going to get a well-dressed American. If they shoot me down and I have to bail out, they are going to look at an American who is all dressed up and ready for any party. If I have to spend the night in Berlin, I want them to know that the Southworths are fancy people."

"You're crazy, Billy," said Colbourn Jones Birmingham, "if they get me, they aren't going to get anything they can salvage. I am going to wear the worst stuff I have, including a pair of socks that haven't been washed since I left Birmingham."

I wonder if we will see Cousin Otto on the way? Said the pilot from Brooklyn. The pilots all speculated on this and agreed that Cousin Otto have nicknamed him, dives through their formation at 350 miles per hour and takes his chances on scoring with his guns or getting knocked off. All of them want to get Cousin Otto. It would be a feather in their cap but they speak of him with scorn. Cousin Otto, they say, is a disgrace. They know he is a heck of a flyer and they have for him that feeling that exists between men who look at death in the skies.

As we left Captain Southworth's room we could hear the ships being loaded. There was the whine of tiny portable generators which Ordnance men use to provide them with light as they hoist the bombs into the bay. Around midnight the pilots started rousing their men to wander out onto the field. They wanted to see what their ships were carrying. I walked out with Southworth and watched his ship, the "Bad Cheque," so named because it always keeps bouncing back, get her bellyful of bombs. As the last smub-nosed bomb was fastened and the boys closed, Billy said goodnight to the crewman in charge with, "We will hit something for you, Mac. That's all we ask. Cheque, sweet dreams."

TOUGH FIGHTING LIES AHEAD IN NORTH AFRICA

BY DeWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Marshal Rommel's ill-fated assault on General Montgomery's 8th Army in front of the Axis fortified Mareth Line represents an effort on the part of the Nazi "fox of the desert" to upset his arch enemy's preparations for another offensive.

It is significant that Gen. Montgomery's skill and strength did stay with him. That is more than luck. Rommel is one of the master generals of the day, but for the past six months he's been giving his best to the Cromwellian-faced Briton who has expressed the view he met long ago in the Libyan desert that his adversary is a great soldier.

This fresh Axis reversal emphasizes the great difficulties of the German defensive problem in the last narrow strip of Northern Africa remaining to Hitler.

Montgomery, having routed Rommel at El Alamein in Egypt and driven the German pell-mell along the winding coastal road clear to Tripoli, is threatening aggressively from the south. British, American and French forces are pushing in from the west.

The Axis front will be smashed in one corner. The Allies have suffered reverses, but nothing of a major nature. We might have hoped for better luck, and at the same time been warranted in expecting some worse.

When I left Africa, military men didn't expect the Tunisian show to be long drawn out. However, they had no doubt that the Axis would have plenty of trouble, and that there would be tough fighting.

It should be overlooked that the Axis is holding prepared positions with some 250,000 troops. The Allies positions have been thoroughly organized for defence. The British Eighth, from which Rommel is sitting, is particularly powerful.

Then, too, while the United Nations forces are handicapped by extended lines of communication, Tunisia is the land nearest Sicily. Men and supplies have been moving across this narrow stretch of sea to von Arnim and Rommel. By the same token the airforces of Sicily are so close that German aircraft can operate readily from the bases of the Allies.

All that sounds pretty formidable, and it is. It's doubly so because of the fact the attacking party must have this initial disadvantage. We other must make allowance for that nor expect miracles.

However, the Allies are ending with having perhaps twice as troops as the Axis. Moreover, our supplies have to be brought over long distances, but they are more than the enemy. And he is close to Sicily, the British and Allied armies are in touch with Axis transports. In other we are piling up reserves and striking power against millions.

Marshal Rommel and Gen. Arnim are, of course, persons of those rather unusual operations for their business is to hunt as they can in order to time to pull himself together continent. They don't expect Tunisia, but knew that sooner later they will be driven Mediterranean.

We haven't heard a peep Arnim lately. Rommel seems been doing a workmanlike job whole. There are indications could have saved an army Rhllation of a 1,500-mile prize victorious force.

By the way, Rommel is Nazi general I have mentioned of in this war in terms of and even admiration. He is a fighters. He has the reputation fighting front in Africa being a good sport.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 28TH, 1943

THE APPEARANCES AFTER THE RESURRECTION

Lesson Text: John 20, 19-21

There are many views of the Resurrection. Indeed, no subject in Christianity has been more debated, and no subject has been more misunderstood. There are those who maintain a bodily reappearance. Equally sincere believe in a purely spiritual resurrection. We have no means of arriving at historical certainty. And anyway, whether we hold to the one or the other makes little difference so long as we have fast the faith in a risen resurrected Lord.

For Christians, a belief in the resurrection is an affirmation of faith. No amount of arguing can prove that Jesus lives. We can only argue the point, indeed his experience that he would see and that you all faith gave him knowledge of which nothing could rob him. When the man born blind was cured by Jesus the church authorities asked him how it happened. I don't know, he said in effect. All I know is that once I was blind, now I see. Even though the man could not tell just how his sight had been restored, yet he knew that he would see and that was all that mattered. There is a knowledge which comes from faith which is as real as that which comes from logic and reason. The value of the resurrection does not depend upon an explanation of how it happened, but that Christ rose and that He lives, not only last week, last month, but now, this very minute.

What difference does it whether we believe in the resurrection or not? Well, it makes all the difference in the world. Paul believed the whole life of the first generation of Christians came, in very truth, to take place of the spirit of God, guiding and strengthening their lives, and making them live in the heart and soul. Inspiration and guidance from the mind of God, ancient tongues and old tyrannies fell away, and again religion toppled from its throne. Then the Church developed. From then on, the spirit of the conquering Christ living heart setting other hearts fire. The Spirit of Christ is the very branch of life with the evil.

It would be impossible to have any organization, any institution, any philosophy to resist the power and spirit of the Risen Christ, in spirit-filled men. Given disciples in any church, and nothing would withstand the power of God.

Whenever in the long history the church a new creative power. The been released, the world, it has always been the result of a faithful one or more men who have become aware of themselves and of the Risen Life. Such was the case of Paul, and all the rest; there was a man or a group through whom the spirit, freed from the bondage of fear, began counting not the cost, but the compulsion of love. The church will be in power, its influence will be felt, its message will forge in the consciences of men, its members become the boldest of the saints, and go out conquering and to

STRATHCONA

Strathcona, March 22 — It is beginning to look as though spring might be somewhere around the corner, and it will be very welcome when it does arrive.

Mr. Ed. Rock has returned from the Kingston General Hospital, and is considerably improved in health.

Miss Evelyn Ballance underwent an operation for appendicitis last week in Kingston General Hospital, and her many friends will be glad to know that she is progressing favorably.

Mr. Bruce Finlay was in Montreal for a couple of days recently.

Mrs. Bruce Finlay entertained on Tuesday of last week in honor of the birthday of her sister, Mrs. Ward Wartman, of Napanee. Among the guests were Mrs. Ira Wartman and Mrs. Harry Moore, of Napanee, and Mrs. George Finlay, Strathcona.

The sleet storm on Tuesday did considerable damage to the trees, although the supply of Hydro power to the village was uninterrupted.

While Mr. Henry Toner was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Cecil Close, Moscow, last week, he had the misfortune to slip on the ice and fracture a number of ribs. Mr. Toner is now at his home and resting as comfortably as can be expected.

Mrs. David Mowers, who has been a patient in the General Hospital for a couple of months, has returned to her home.

A social gathering and shower was held in the Library Hall on Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hanes, whose marriage took place recently in Picton. Owing to unfavorable weather and the icy condition of the roads, many who had planned to be present were kept at home. Various games were played during the earlier part of the evening, after which all joined hands in community singing of old familiar numbers. A short program of musical numbers was then given, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hanes were called to the platform and presented with a beautiful lounge chair, an occasional chair, a small table, and several miscellaneous gifts. Mrs. Harold Hoare read the address, which was as follows:

Strathcona, Ont.
March 19th, 1943

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hanes.

Dear Friends —

It is indeed a pleasure for us, your friends and neighbors, to gather here tonight and spend a social hour with you. We come to offer congratulations, and to wish you much happiness along the pathway of life, which you have chosen to walk together.

We welcome you, Mrs. Hanes, to our midst, and we are confident that we will find you to be a valuable asset to our community. We sincerely hope that you may find in us the qualities of hospitality and friendship which will make you feel glad to be living and working together with us.

You, Stanley, have been in Strathcona for a good many years, and we have found in you all that could be desired in a neighbor and friend. Especially in times of sickness and bereavement you have always been among the first to lend a helping hand, and we want you to know that we do appreciate these acts of kindness. After all, life is what we make it, and lost in that day whose low departing sun sees not to man some little kindness done. We believe this has been your motto.

But we are not here tonight to dwell on things of the past alone. We are here to get acquainted, and to wish you, as man and wife, many very happy years in the future.

We are asking you to accept these gifts as a symbol of our friendship and good wishes, and we hope that as you journey along together you may have the blessing of God on all your undertakings.

Your Community Friends.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hanes made fitting reply, thanking their friends for the gifts and kind thoughts expressed in the address. All joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." Refreshments were served at the close.

HERE IS YOUR SECRET WEAPON

GLYCERINE

Save Fats and Bones

AND HELP SMASH THE AXIS!

The next time you are frying or roasting something, just imagine the satisfaction it would give you to pour that hot fat right down the back of Adolph, Tojo or Benito.

You can even do better than that. Fats make glycerine, and glycerine makes high explosives to sink their submarines, destroy their aeroplanes and tanks. Bones produce fat, also glue for war industry.

Every spoonful of dripping, every ounce of scrap fat, and every bone, cooked, uncooked or dry, must be saved.

Strain all drippings through an ordinary strainer into a clean wide-mouthed can. When you have collected a pound or more of fat drippings take it to your meat dealer who will pay you the established price for the dripping and the scrap fat. Or you can dispose of them through any Municipal or Salvage Committee collection system IN EFFECT in your community.

You can be a munition maker right in your own kitchen. So—every day, this easy way, keep working for Victory by saving every drop of fat dripping, every piece of scrap fat, and every bone.

THE BOMBING OF MUNICH

Those who bombed York and Canterbury did not reveal, naturally enough, in their indignation over the bombing of Munich, the real cause for their chagrin.
Munich, which is of course the focal point on which the Bavarian transportation system converges, is also one of the principle bottlenecks through which transport between the heavy industries of the Ruhr and the Balkans, and the rest of Germany and southwest Germany and Italy have to pass.
The importance of such a target, at a time when military supplies in large quantities are going through Italy on their way to Rommel's forces in Tunisia, does not need emphasis.
Apart from its value as a transportation target, it has some well-developed industries which are worthy of attack. In the armaments industry itself there are the tank and aero-engine plants of Bayerische Motorenwerke, and in the immediate neighborhood of Munich there are a Messerschmitt plant, a Junkers Flugzeug und Motorenwerke plant at Allach making Diesel and aero-engines, while also at Allach is the important plant of Locomotive Fabrik Krauss Kaffel which, in addition to locomotives, produces tank engines. In the industries fields ancillary to armament production, the important plant of Carl Hurth for making gears and gear boxes, as well as machine tools, is situated right in Munich, and another important machine tool plant is that of Ernst Grobb.
Among other industrial plants of importance in Munich are that of Suddeutsche Bremsen (pneumatic brakes for railway carriages, clutches, etc.), the Bayerische Leichtmetallwerke, and the foundry of Forstermann und Sieke, makers of aluminum products.

PRICES SET FOR MAPLE PRODUCTS

Ottawa. — A Wartime Prices and Trade Board order establishing maximum prices at which processors, wholesalers and retailers may sell maple syrup, maple sugar and maple butter fixes dollars-and-cents ceilings only for processors, allowing wholesalers to add transportation costs and a specified maximum mark-up. Thus the ceiling price for a gallon of Canada Light in a screw-top metal container is $2.00 for a processor. A wholesaler may add to such price the actual cost of transportation from shipping point to his place of business and an amount equal to eight per cent. of his selling price. In the case of a retailer, a markup not exceeding 15 per cent. of selling price may be added to the processor's ceiling price or the actual price paid by a wholesaler and the actual cost of transportation.
Prices and markups vary according to grade of the product and kind of container. The grades listed are those set forth in the regulations under the Maple Sugar Industry Act, 1939.
The maximum price at which a processor may sell Canada Light maple syrup in glass containers in case of 24 containers of 16-ounce capacity; $5.87 per case of 12 containers of 32-ounce capacity, and $16.06 per case of six containers of one imperial gallon capacity.
The maximum prices, according to grade, for maple syrup in screw-top metal containers of one or five Imperial gallons is as follows, Canada Fancy, $2.75 per gallon; Canada Light, $2.60; Canada Medium, $2.45; Canada Dark, $2.30; ungraded, $2.00.
On sales of syrup in bulk, the maximum price is 25 cents per gallon less than those listed in the preceding paragraph.
For Canada Medium grade maple sugar, the maximum price is $4.20 per case of 24 blocks, cubicle of one pound weight, and $4.80 per dozen packages of one pound capacity (pulverized). For ungraded sugar the ceiling is 27c per pound for blocks cubicle weighing not more than ten pounds and 24c per pound of such product loose packed in bags and known as "farmer's run."
The price of maple butter in metal containers is not to exceed $3.40 per gallon containers of 12-ounce capacity.
All the foregoing prices are on delivery to common carrier nearest to the seller's place of business, but are to include any brokerage, commission or other charges paid by a processor to a broker or commission agent on such sale.

WHOLESALE PRICES
The section prescribing wholesalers' prices sets forth that the maximum f.o.b. shipping point, for maple syrup, sugar or butter as listed in the regulations for processors is to be the basis for computing the maximum price at which such maple product may be sold to the wholesaler by a processor, the actual cost of transportation from processor's shipping point, and not an amount equal to eight per cent. of wholesaler's selling price on any maple syrup packed in screw-top metal containers, or ten per cent. of selling price on maple syrup in glass containers, or 12 per cent. of selling price on maple sugar or maple butter.
In respect of both wholesalers and retailers it is provided that should the maximum price fixed in the order result in a markup exceeding that customarily obtained in the basic period or the last period in which the maple product was sold, then such maximum price is to be reduced by the amount by which such actual markup exceeds that customarily obtained.
The Food Administrator, it is further set forth, will prescribe or approve prices for any maple syrup packed in containers of a size or kind not specified in the order, or any graded maple sugar other than Canada Medium, graded maple sugar other than in half-pound blocks or one-pound packages (pulverized) or any maple butter packed in containers other than metal or other than of 12-ounce capacity.
It is prohibited to sell maple syrup by grade unless the container shows legibly stamped or printed thereon whether it is Canada Fancy, Canada Light, Canada Medium or Canada Dark.
Maple syrup is defined as containing not more than 35 per cent. of water, maple butter 15 per cent.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This column is sponsored by the Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Questions on price control, ration regulations and other Wartime Prices and Trade Board rulings should be mailed to: Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Victoria Building, Brockville, Ont.

Q. I still have two coupon cards and one tea or coffee coupon in my old ration book. Have they any value?
A. Yes, indeed, but they must be cashed before March 31 when all coupons in Ration Book No. 1 will lose their validity.

Q. With some hired help, I have cut and delivered 15 cords of hard wood to three rural schools in this district. I would like to know if I can demand a $1 per cord subsidy on this wood and, if so, where would I apply for it?
A. Jurisdiction over the payment of fuelwood subsidies rests with the Coal Controller, Department of Munitions and Supply Ottawa, to whom your enquiry is being forwarded.

Q. I am thinking of renting two of my rooms in order to relieve the housing shortage. Is there any special course for me to pursue?
A. You are to be commended for reaching such a decision. Every additional room helps in some congested area. Provided the rooms are furnished and equipped with bedding and linen, they do not have to have their rents "fixed" when rented for the first time except in Halifax, Sydney and Trenton, Ont. But be sure that the rates are not above those charged for similar rooms in the same locality on October 11th, 1941.

Q. I am expecting a cousin to visit me from Watertown, N.Y. Can she get rations while she is here?
A. Yes, the rationing authorities permit civilians visiting Canada from other countries to secure temporary rations when their visit extends beyond five days.

Q. My grocer has been charging me more for a certain kind of biscuit than he used to charge. Can he do this?
A. Not unless he has received authorization from this Board to increase the selling price of these biscuits. Ask him about it. If he cannot produce such authorization report the circumstances to the nearest office of the Board.

Q. Is there any way for me to get extra stamps for canning pumpkin this year?
A. Unfortunately, no. For rationing purposes, pumpkin, along with tomatoes and marrow, is considered a vegetable. Hence no extra sugar is allowed for canning it.

GIFTS FOR CHINA MOUNTING IN UNTED STATES

New York. — Madam Chiang Kai-shek, wife of China's generalissimo, has received more than $310,000 in checks and cash gifts for Chinese relief, since her arrival in this country last November, it was announced recently at her headquarters in New York. The bulk of the gifts have poured in within the past month as a result of radio addresses and public appearances in Washington, New York and Boston, following her visit to the White House, on February 18th.
Largest of the gifts was $100,000 from the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, received through David Dubinsky, president of the union. Accompanying this gift was the request that it be used for the establishment of a nursery and orphanage near Chungking for Chinese war orphans. A building capable of housing from 500 to 1000 children could be erected with this amount of American money, it was estimated.
Secret service men attached to Madame Chiang's party have requested that no details of her forthcoming cross-country trip be printed in advance. A huge mass meeting comparable to the one held in Madison Square Garden, March 2, was held on Monday evening at the Chicago stadium. Madam Chiang's address was broadcast over the Blue Network from 11:15 to 11:45 p.m., eastern war time.

UNIFYING THREE FIGHTING ARMS

The strategic and tactical similarity between modern land and air warfare has clashes between land, air, and at sea presents a strong argument for unification of all three arms under a single head.

The closer co-ordination and more efficient utilization of available weapons which such unification would accomplish become increasingly apparent as the war progresses.

When men first began to fight on the seas, they logically applied the same strategic and tactical principles which they had discovered to be most effective for land fighting — such as concentration of superior lines, the attack from the flank, and the like.

The largest warships, called line of battle ships, were at once the backbone and front-line striking force of the fleet. Smaller and less heavily armed ships were used for scouting and carrying purposes, but during major clashes they were held in the rear until the opposing battle lines were engaged.

In modern times, as a result of the development of such weapons as aircraft, mines, and torpedoes, the role of battle ships — the dreadnaughts — are held back and become the last to engage the enemy. Aircraft carriers, destroyers and submarines are the first to enter the battle.

However, except for this reversal of procedure, the tactics used in sea battle still are essentially the same as in ancient times.

The similarity of these tactics to land warfare has been demonstrated strikingly on the flat North African desert and the Russia where opposing armies, lacking natural protection on level terrains, must deploy their strength in much the same manner as opposing fleets.

The great tanks, heavily armored, carrying powerful guns, have become the dreadnaughts of land warfare, providing the initial striking punch in the same manner as did the line of battle ships in ancient times. Then come automotive artillery, corresponding to the old mobile guns which can be shunted quickly from one zone to another as the need arises.

Mining has become equally important both on land and at sea, forcing opposing forces to send light sapping and sweeping units in advance of their heavy weapons.

Aircraft is employed similarly, both on land and sea, as a canopy of protection for tanks, tracks, or the dreadnaughts of land warfare, providing the initial striking punch in the same manner as did the line of battle ships in ancient times. Then come automotive artillery, corresponding to the old mobile guns which can be shunted quickly from one zone to another as the need arises.

Then come automotive artillery, corresponding to the old mobile guns which can be shunted quickly from one zone to another as the need arises.

Heavy bombers of battleships and big tanks must be escorted. Fighter planes are used to drive off enemy attacks in the same manner that destroyers are used to shield line of battle ships from submarine attacks.

There are indications that tanks, which already have grown from 10 or 20 tons to as large as 80 tons, will follow the battleship pattern and continue to grow, perhaps into hundreds of tons, with six-inch guns, or even bigger.

Thus, though there are vast differences in speed, range and striking-power, it becomes apparent that tactical use of all will tend to be similar if war is becoming increasingly similar. Logically, if would seem that the patterns of the forces which apply them must merge into one.

MICA FOR MUNITIONS

Before the war, Canada worried very little about production of mica. A little was mined in this country, but India, Madagascar and Ceylon supplied most of Canada's needs. Then the source of supply was cut off, and we looked to our own rocks for this urgent war material.

Justin Purdy stumbled on a large crystal of mica in the bush near the village of Eau Claire, Ontario, late in 1941. He and some friends staked it and more. They received the phenomenal sum of $13,000 for the crystal which came from one foot hole. This discovery inaugurated a veritable "mica rush" with the staking of dozens of claims surrounding Purdy's property. The Inspiration Mining and Development Company later consolidated several different interests to form the Purdy Mica Mines Limited.

White mica, muscovite, occurs in the rock in "books" varying in size from less than one inch to over six feet across. This find has been invaluable to Canada and the United States. Muscovite, an excellent electrical and heat insulator, is in great demand now for use in the manufacture of radio parts and in the manufacture of airplane spark plugs. Great quantities of the best kind are needed.

Mattawa a French-Canadian town about forty miles east of North Bay, is the grading and shipping centre for the Eau Claire deposits. Canada's chief source of strategic mica. The Royal Ontario Museum has been unable to secure during a sheet from one of the very large "books" in the district. It is perhaps the largest sheet of mica on display in any museum.

REMARKABLE FAITHFULNESS OF AN ENGLISH DOG

The faithfulness of a dog is remarkable. In many cases, no bounds and accepting no rules. When a blind man of more than eighty years of age was taken into hospital in England, recently, for a serious and urgent operation, his little terrier dog came with him, and refused to leave his master's bedside. He remained as near as he was faithfully and after many vain attempts to coax him away the surgeon decided that the dog should go with his beloved master into the operating theatre.

While the operation was, over the dog came back into the ward and climbed on the bed to watch over the man. This, of course, is in keeping with all hospital rules, and so the Royal Welfare League was "celebrated" and eventually the faithful terrier was taken to a Home for Dogs and for until his master should call him.

The Late Mrs. William W. Baird

Following an illness of several months, the death occurred on her home in North Fredericksburgh, on Thursday, March 18th, of Mrs. William W. Baird, a well-known resident of the Anderson district.

Mrs. Baird had lived all her life in North Fredericksburgh Township. She was a daughter of the late Jacob H. Miller and Nancy Huffman and was born about 66 years ago at the Pines, about three miles from Napanee, on the River Road. Since her marriage she had lived in the Anderson district and for many years was an active worker in Anderson United Church.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Samuel at home and Lawrence at Morven, and two granddaughters, Frances and Doris. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs. D. P. Mellow, Gretna; Mrs. Newton Parks, Napanee, and Mrs. Stannett McNeily, Hay Bay, and Mrs. Stannett McNeily, Toronto.

Her funeral, which was conducted at her late home on Saturday afternoon, by Rev. A. C. McCallum, was attended by a large number of friends and relatives. Following the service her body was placed in Fredericksburgh Cemetery until the time of burial at a later date.

Pallbearers were Messrs. A. Allan C. Bolsbaur, Howard Card, Spencer Griffith, Percy Parks, Amos Hunsley and Fred Chambers.

BELLROCK

Bellrock, March 19 — From the oldest inhabitant is force to admit that for intensity of real and direct interest in the farmer's welfare it is not surpassed any "old-fashioned" winter we have had. Many of the roads there have been blocked for days, no mail was delivered for nearly a week. On Friday, March 5th, 20 bags of mail arrived and now welcome it was to see and hear the mail bags being thrown off the truck on Sunday, March 14th.

The C. W. I. supper held last month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wood, and a good time was enjoyed by all.
